Pleasure Faire Is 'Wrong Thing For Lucas Valley

It's A Commercial Masquerade And Incompatible, Council Claims

The Renaissance Pleasure Faire — described as a commercial venture masquerading as a nonprofit cultural event — was branded the "wrong thing" for upper Lucas Valley last night.

Las Gallinas Valley Council members, by resolution, declared it would be "incompatible with the total environment" and would be "detrimental in its impact on the community."

They viewed it as a commercial encroachment into a residential valley that would violate the master plan, be a burden on residents, and bring massive traffic and parking problems that would disrupt the community.

The protests were highlighted with comments that the proposed fair and Renaissance Center on the Grady Ranch would take 1,000 acres off the tax rolls, that fair traffic could block police and fire emergency runs and create air and noise pollution.

The "annual invasion" of fair visitors "will not serve the best interests of thousands of families who reside in Las Gallinas Valley," but would only "serve to profit those who operate the Renaissance Center," the resolution said.

About 20 persons were present, representing home owner groups and governmental agencies in the Las Gallinas Valley, and the majority voted for the resolution which will be forwarded to member organizations for action.

Representatives voting for the resolution were from the Lucas Valley Home Owners Association, Santa Venetja County Service Area No. 6, Terra Linda Community Services District, Gallinas Village Improvement Association, Gallinas Village Community Services District and Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District.

Frank Solomon Jr., representing the Marinwood Community Services District and Las Gallinas Valley Community Services District, abstained, pending instruction from these boards.

Abset were San Rafael Meadows Flood Control Zone, Los Ranchitos, Rafael Meadows Improvement Association and San Rafael Park Civic Association.

The main thrust of the protest was that the Grady Ranch just isn't the place to have the proposed center and fair.

Council President Richard L. Less said it would be "the wrong thing in the wrong place" and would be "improper use of the land."

Martin Kaufman, president of Lucas Valley Home Owners Association, reported on a community meeting Monday night with Phyllis Patterson, head of the fair and Renaissance Center Foundation. The immediate response of residents was "negative," he said.

Mrs. Patterson and her husband, Ron gave inadequate and vague answers on major questions that were raised including zoning and proposed uses, he said.

Kaufman said he was opposed not only to the traffic but "zoning 1,000 acres commercially." The approach by the Pattersons has been "let us have the zoning and permits and we'll take care of the prob-

Marin Fair To Open Tomorrow

The gates to the 26th annual Marin County Fair will open tomorrow with the most sophisticated — and most wide-ranging — variety of attractions in the history of the fair.

For Marin fairgoers, it will be a new experience, right down to the ground, the first to be held at the new Civic Center fairgrounds after many years at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross. Even the time of year may prove a novelty, offering the more crisp airs of autumn in place of the hot Fourth of July weekends on which the fair was formerly held.

There will be the garden displays, art and photographic competition, and community organizations' booths that have been a tradition of Marin's unique annual fair. The four-day 1971 model also will leap into space with a set of live-action National Aeronautics and Space Administration exhibits, offer Marin's first film festival, ballets, have a larger carnival area than ever before, and feature an actual circus for the first time.

Tomorrow through Monday, the fair will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. each day.

The five-acre site between the Veterans Memorial Building and the Civic Center lagoon was transformed in less than two months from a place where neighborhood youngsters rode their horses daily, to a fairgrounds.

Two tents will house the main traditional attractions. The juried art and photography exhibits in the larger tent will be surrounded by lush tropical garden displays installed by commercial nurserymen. The other tent with row upon row of tables decorated with formal, white tablecloths, will be for the flower arrangements and fruit and vegetable entries that Marin's gardeners proudly began bringing to the fair this afternoon.

Outdoor booths ranked in concentric arcs link the two tents. They will feature the commercial exhibits, clubs' educational displays and food and drink concessions.

Surrounding the booth area will be other commercial garden displays. Sixteen volunteer organizations ranging from the Ross Valley Players to church and youth groups and the Marin Symphony Guild will hawk sandwiches, beverages, Christmas cards and novelties, assist in the parking lot and sell fair

Tiburon Moves To Condemn Cove Land

Rebuffed at the negotiating table, the City of Tiburon last night prepared to condemn land slated for development on Strawberry Cove.

The council asked its legal staff to prepare an ordinance authorizing filing of a condemnation suit against the landowner, Leonard B. Fleischman of Belvedere, for the disputed 6.7-acre parcel.

Asst. City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert said the council will consider the ordinance on first reading at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at city hall. The meeting will not be held Monday because of Columbus Day.

The council took the action after Fleischman Tuesday rejected a city offer to buy the land for $125,000. Fleischman said he wanted either $250,000 or title to a parcel in Southern Marin where he could build 72 apartments or 20 homes.

Development of the parcel has been snarled for more than two years, due chiefly to efforts of conservationists, who want the cove to remain open and undeveloped.

A plan for 72 apartments was to be considered today by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, which earlier this year turned down a plan for 96 apartments.

The 72-unit proposal has been approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Richard L. Breiner, assistant city attorney of Tiburon, said Section 5302 of the State Public Resources Code permits cities to condemn land outside their boundaries for park purposes.

The city is expected to proceed with the suit regardless of the outcome of the Oct. 19 annexation election.

Meyer In Survival Showdown

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Marin County Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer today fought for what he called "the political survival" of Marin County, in an appearance before the Senate Reapportionment Committee.

He lashed at the plan unveiled by the Senate Democratic majority yesterday to split Marin ultimately among three senators. Meyer declared the move would "jeopardize the political welfare of many of its people," and urged "an equal chance to the people of Marin County."

Meyer stressed that for the first time in 19 years, Marin switched to the Democratic column in voter registration last week. "Looking at the Senate reapportionment proposal today, we see that this youngest and therefore somewhat precious Democratic county is not given a political chance to survive," Meyer charged.

He explained that the proposal would put 90,000 Marin citizens into the revised Fourth Senatorial District stretching to Tehama County, making the Marin voters a 20 per cent minority of the district. "The remaining 116,000 Marin County citizens become a 10 per cent minority in a vast and combined district (with two at-large senate seats) to the south, including San Francisco, San Mateo and portions of the East Bay," he said.

"Please think of the consequences" of relegating politically active Marin to minority status in the different districts, Meyer pleaded.

The elections officer warned the Senate committee that the proposed redistricting would split "20 Marin County local governing districts: three cities, three supervisorial districts, four elementary, two high school and one college district, five sanitary districts, a water district and a fire district."

The redistricting also would divide "a community of interest" of Marin's citizens, he warned, throwing them in with other areas whose citizens have widely differing interests.

Meyer urged the Reapportionment Committee to avoid putting "any senatorial boundary line" through Marin, to as-

RETORTS FAST TO REAPPORTIONMENT

Marin County supervisors today reacted with dismay and horror at the proposed reapportionment of state senatorial districts that would parcel Marin out among four senators at the outset and three ultimately.

"What I want to say isn't printable," growled Supervisor Chairman Louis H. Baar. "I think it's a shame that they play games up there in Sacramento. They're looking out for their own personal interests with no regard for the people of the state. I don't think that type of people should be retained in Sacramento."

"I have to agree with Senator (Peter H.) Behr that it's a classic example of gerrymandering," said Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.,vice chairman of the board of supervisors. "It dilutes any effective representation that Marin would have in Sacramento. I don't question the integrity of Senator (George) Moscone and Senator (Milton) Marks, but they are not associated with voters in Marin in the sense that they have not been in close working relationship with local agencies."

The proposed reapportionment would lump a part of Marin with the San Francisco districts of Senators Moscone and Marks, and the rest in a huge district, running north to Redding.

"The concept that Marin has the same interest as Redding is beyond comprehension really," said Arrigoni.

"This would disenfranchise us as I see it," observerd John F. McInnis. "It appears to me that the new pattern of representation will end up with no effective representation for Marin whatsoever."

Because Marin would be a minority portion of a larger district, it would be difficult to get one senator, let alone all four, to take a real interest in Marin problems and effectively represent the county's interest in Sacramento said McInnis.

Michael Wornum described the proposal as "a terrible abortion."

Wornum said his Southern Marin supervisorial district would be split among the three senators. "How can we have three senators responsible for Southern Marin? It would be a legislative nightmare."

"I think it is unfortunate to split Marin in such a way as to include a relatively urban area with an almost purely agricultural area," said Arnold M. Baptiste. "Marin has far closer ties with the bay region than with Redding for example."

Widow Vigorously Opposed Exhumation

By C. P. McCARTHY

The widow of Judge Harold J. Haley vigorously, but unsuccessfully, opposed a move to have the judge's body exhumed, it was revealed today.

Her opposition was contained in an affidavit filed during a closed court conference conference Sept. 22 when Judge Richard E. Arnason approved the exhumation sought by attorneys for Ruchell Magee. (For story on Magee's codefendant Angela Davis, see page 23)

The transcript also contained sharp criticism by the prosecution in the case of the public money being spent by Magee's defense team.

Gertrude Haley said in her affidavit that she had "no intention of seeking any special privilege for herself or family by preying on the sympathy of the court by making any detailed recitation of what the last year has been like since the shocking news was first received on Aug. 7, 1970.

"But it must be plainly evident that this is not a death where time heals the wounds suffered by the family of the deceased because there has surely not been a day since the horrible event occurred that vivid accounts have not been publicized over every means of public communication.

"The remains of my dear husband lie in peaceful repose in his last and final resting place," she said.

"To disturb his body over a

Wholesale Prices Decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices declined 0.4 per cent in September, the first full month under President Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the decline, adjusted for seasonal factors, was the first drop in wholesale prices in 10 months.

The decline appeared to be a plus for President Nixon's economic policies. An even more sensitive report bearing heavily on his program is due Friday—the September employment-unemployment report.

Nixon's program is designed both to stop inflation and to lower the rate of unemployment, which has hovered at the 6 per cent level for almost a year.

The good news on the wholesale price front came less than 10 hours before President Nixon addresses the nation on the "Phase II" economic controls to follow the wage-price freeze, which ends Nov. 13.

Underscoring the extent of the drop in wholesale prices was the first decline in the key industrial commodities price index in nearly 3 1-2 years —0.1 per cent.

Prices for farm products and processed foods and feeds fell 1.7 per cent, while consumer finished goods went down 0.9 per cent.

Wholesale price fluctuations are usually reflected in consumer prices in a matter of days or weeks. The September report on retail prices — commonly known as the cost of

Smog Board Holds Secret Meetings

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials held two unannounced, behind-closed-doors meetings yesterday, then refused to disclose the purpose of the secret sessions.

Yesterday was the regular monthly meeting of Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors, and the full board session traditionally begins at 10 a.m. — as indicated on notices sent to the public.

But when the Independent-Journal reporter arrived an hour early, a majority of the 18-member board was secreting itself in the district's small committee room behind the board room.

Board chairman Robert W. Hoyer, a Clayton city councilman, was advised that the state's anti-secret meeting law, — the Ralph M. Brown Act — required public notice when public officials meet. His response: "I didn't come in for a lecture."

The district's public information officer, Edward W. McHugh, said not even he had received notice of the special meeting.

The district's attorney, Matthew S. Walker, said the secret session was "news to me."

The district's secretary, Mabel Harder, said that she had been specifically instructed by the district's air pollution control officer, D. J. Callaghan, not to notify the public about the 9 a.m. session, and to send out public notice only for the regular 10 a.m. meeting.

Callaghan said that he had so instructed Mrs. Harder "because there is no need for notices under the Brown Act." He said the meeting would be closed to the public, that it was a meeting of the personnel committee, and that it dealt with "a personnel matter."

The Brown Act, which requires 24-hour written notice of any special meetings, allows closed meetings only to hire or fire or hear charges against an officer or employee.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

A New 'Our Gang'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new novel by Philip Roth about a U.S. president called Trick E. Dixon — a thinly disguised reference to Richard M. Nixon — will be published Nov. 2 by Random House, it was announced Wednesday.

The new book by Roth, 38, author of the best-seller, "Portnoy's Complaint," is called "Our Gang, Starring Tricky and His Friends."

According to the publishing firm, the central character of the book promises the complete withdrawal of Vietnamese from Vietnam in 1972, invades Denmark because of its "pro-pornography" stand, meets with advisers dressed in football uniforms in an underground locker room at the White House, condones the poison gasing of demonstrating Boy Scouts and institutes a program under which sentencing for crimes is immediate.

Chances Damaged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Russell Long, D-La., says the discovery of illegal aliens working in a food packing plant owned by U.S. Treasurer-designate Romana Banuelos has damaged her chances for confirmation.

Long is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which will hold hearings on Mrs. Banuelos' appointment.

Immigration agents raided Romana's Food Products Co. Tuesday and arrested 36 Mexicans for entering the United States illegally. They were returned to Mexico.

Agents said there were at least 100 illegal aliens working on another shift who were missed in the raid. It was the sixth raid on Mrs. Banuelos' plant in three years.

Nixon Would Rule World: Welch

BELMONT, Mass. (UPI) — Robert Welch, founder and leader of the John Birch Society, said in a newsletter that President Nixon is trying to use the presidency of the United States as a stepping stone to become the ruler of the world.

Welch

Welch, in a pamphlet mailed with the October bulletin of the John Birch Society, said Nixon could only achieve such a position with the approval and support of the Communist movement. "The record seems to me to indicate quite clearly that, since at least 1960, Richard Nixon has had the all-pervading ambition and the unshakable determination to use the presidency of the United States as a stepping stone from which to become the first ruler of the world," Welch said.

"This belief includes the further opinion that Nixon knows any such position can only be achieved with the approval and support of the Communist movement and of the insiders who control it. Also, I believe he realizes, expects and intends that this role . . . will and must rapidly evolve into an absolute Communist-style dictatorship . . ."

The statement was stronger than one Welch made in 1958 calling President Eisenhower an unwitting dupe of the Communist party.

Ireland Violence

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British troops fired across the Republic of Ireland border today to silence automatic weapon fire directed at them, an army spokesman said.

He said the army had asked the British embassy in Dublin to lodge an official complaint with Prime Minister Jack Lynch's government.

The incident, which a government source said would surely increase political friction between Dublin and Belfast, came as Northern Irish Premier Brian Faulkner was flying to London for more talks with British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

Thief's Conscience

HASSELT, Belgium (UPI) — Mario Roymans, 21, was so deeply disturbed by reports of suffering in East Pakistan that he stole a priceless 17th century masterpiece and demanded a $4 million ransom be paid for the relief of Bengali refugees.

He was overheard telephoning a ransom demand to a newspaper. He fled on a motorcycle but police later traced him to his hiding place.

The modern-day Robin Hood was caught Wednesday hiding in a cowshed. The painting, "The Love Letter" by Dutch master Johannes Vermeer, was recovered from under the mattress of Roymans' hotelroom bed.

Experts today faced months of difficult work to restore the masterpiece, clumsily cut from its frame Sept. 24 as it hung in the Brussels Fine Arts Palace.

Police Fired Upon

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI) — Police said a sniper's bullet shattered the spotlight on a police patrol car early today in a black district where five policemen were wounded by sniper fire earlier in the week.

The men in the patrol car were not hurt and joined 10 other police vehicles which rushed to the area in an unsuccessful search for the sniper, police said.

The incident broke two nights of quiet in the port city that has been plagued with violence since a high school football game erupted into racial fighting Friday night.

Israel Replies

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah says "Egypt must abandon its inflexible attitude" if progress if to be made in peace negotiations on the Middle East.

Reacting to Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad's policy speech in the U.N. General Assembly Wednesday, in which Riad blamed the current impasse in Israel and its staunch suport from the United States, Tekoah said:

"The statement by Mr. Riad makes it clear the Egypt's position remains as intransigent as ever."

Child Road Toll

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Every day a child under 14 years old is killed outright on Belgian roads, according to official statistics.

New Beef Labeling System

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Safeway, the nation's second largest grocery chain, said today it will label ground beef according to relative fat content rather than the cut from which the meat came.

The switch, a sharp break with industry tradition, was in accord with a recent report by Consumers Union which said housewives get little or no quality, nutritional or taste advantage from buying ground chuck, round or sirloin despite their higher price.

A Safeway spokesman explained that grinding virtually eliminates taste and tenderness differences among beef cuts. he said labeling by cut also tended to be misleading, partly because stores may sometimes mix trimmings from other cuts with ground chuck, round or sirloin.

In addition, the Safeway spokesman said, "many consumers believe that when you buy ground sirloin you're buying a ground sirloin steak. You're not."

He said that while the ground meat is sirloin, it comes from "the tail and other trimmings off the beef loin." Ground round, the spokesman said, comes from "trimmings and the heel near the leg bone" — part of the beef's round but not that used for round steak.

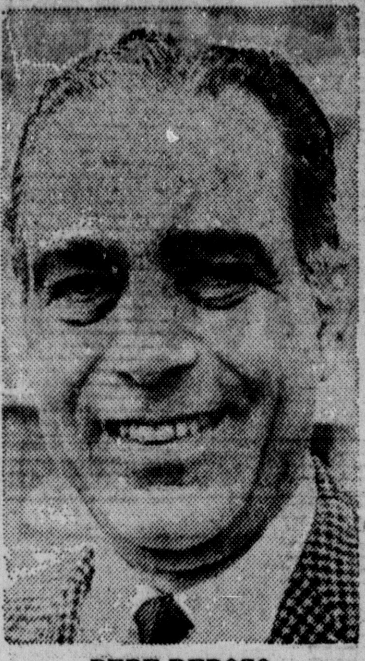
Safeway said its new system will label ground beef "regular" (25 to 28 per cent fat, 59 to 69 cents a pound): "lean" (22 to 25 per cent fat, 89 cents); "extra lean" (18 to 22 per cent fat, 99 cents); and "super lean" (15 to 18 per cent fat, $1.29). Safeway said the prices and fat ranges were approximate and might vary slightly from city to city.

George A. Pollak, head of Consumers Union's food department, praised the new system as "much more honest."

Pollak directed Consumers Union's ground beef study, the results of which were published in the August issue of "Consumer Reports". The report said taste testers couldn't tell the difference between hamburgers made from various cuts, that fat content sometimes was higher in round or sirloin than cheaper cuts, and that cheap ground beef was the best nutritional buy.

According to Consumers Union, Americans eat 11.3 billion pounds of ground beef yearly, 55 pounds per capita.

Safeway has 2,300 stores in 27 states and the District of Columbia, and reported 1970 sales of $4.8 billion. The firm ranks second to A&P among the nation's grocery chains.



BEBE REBOZO
Land Purchase

Denial Of Rebozo Deal Favoritism

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — A newspaper Wednesday quoted a National Park Service (NPS) adviser as saying he was told to handle a close friend of President Nixon's with "kid gloves" in buying land from him for a national monument. The adviser later denied he made such a statement.

A.E.N. Westcott, an attorney-adviser for the NPS, was quoted by the Long Island newspaper Newsday as saying that a 1969 deal to buy land from Bebe Rebozo for the Biscayne National Monument made him nervous because the NPS expected "the possibility of extremely delicate situations" since it was dealing with a close friend of the President.

But in an interview with Miami radio station WWOK Wedneeday night, Westcott said no extra considerations were given to Rebozo.

Rebozo, former Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and two other men owned Adams Key, which the NPS bought for $550,000 to include in the island chain national monument south of Miami, Newsday said. It said in its copyrighted story, the first of a series on the business dealings of Rebozo and Smathers entitled "The Making of a Millionaire," that Westcott said he first offered $500,000 for the land, but changed the offer to $550,000 after a "quick agreement." That was the sum for which the owners had been trying to sell the island for seven years, Newsday said. It was $5,000 above the appraised value.

The newspaper quoted Westcott as saying that Army Corps of Engineers officials gave him to understand that Rebozo should be "treated with kid gloves" because "We were supposed to be dealing with someone who was an intimate of people in high places."

Dock Strikers Return By Order

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Using the Taft-Hartley Act for the first time in his administration, President Nixon Wednesday night forced 15,000 West Coast longshoreman to end temporarily their 98-day strike.

Officials said it would take "a couple of days" to get dock operations back to normal.

U.S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams issued the temporary restraining order in San Francisco. Williams' order did not affect the Atlantic and Gulf Coast dockworkers strike. The White House said Nixon is hopeful federal mediators can negotiate a settlement to that week-old walkout.

Williams set a hearing for Friday on a permanent injunction which would impose the full 80-day Taft-Hartley cooling off period. "There is very persuasive evidence in that the national health and safety is threatened by continuance of the strike," Williams said.

One affidavit, filed by California Gov. Ronald Reagan, said more than $10 million a day was being lost to the state's business and labor because of the dispute.

The West Coast strike—which began July 1—equalled record for the longest dock strike in American history. It tied up 208 ships in 24 pacific coast ports.

It was the first time East and West Coast dockworkers were on strike at the same time.

The Nixon injunction also included grain elevator workers in Illinois, but did not affect 80,000 striking coal miners who have been off the job for a week.

In Chicago, Federal judge Frank J. McGarr issued a temporary restraining order forcing 225 Chicago area grain elevator workers back on their jobs for 10 days.

The grain strike — which began Sept. 1 — has crippled grain elevators in Illinois and northern Indiana. A hearing was set for Oct. 15 to determine if the full 80-day cooling-off period is necessary.

Coal negotiators in Washington met Wednesday, but reported no progress. Another session was set for today.

The White House said Nixon was sending a high-level mediator—believed to be Assistant Labor Secretary W. L. Usery—to New York to provide assistance in the dock strike.

Heavy Raids Carried Out On Hanoi Camps

SAIGON (UPI) — American B52s, fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships carried out heavy raids today against North Vietnamese positions along the Cambodian border but Communist artillery kept up a steady barrage against allied bases on both sides of the frontier.

In Saigon, 70 Buddhist students demonstrated today against the reelection of President Nguyen Van Thieu in last Sunday's one-candidate balloting. They were quickly dispersed by police.

The B52s flew four raids or twice the number in the same area on Wednesday and U.S. and Vietnamese fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships also hit NVA positions in the area, 80 miles northwest of Saigon.

The air attacks failed to halt North Vietnamese gunners who rained 91 rockets and mortar rounds on 10 allied bases on both sides of the border, compared to nearly 200 shells fired against a dozen allied bases the previous day.

U.S. Fire Base Pace was hit by 15 rounds of 82mm mortar from sunrise Tuesday to dawn Wednesday and another eight rounds in the 24 hours ending at dawn today. But no casualties were reported.

As the bombardments continued, the U.S. command reported that 21 Americans were killed in the war last week, down eight from the previous week. It brought to 45,564 the total Americans killed in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961. The wounded total jumped to 117, up 70 from the previous week and was attributed to the heavy roll of American GIs in the fighting along the Cambodian border in the vicinity of Tay Ninh and in support of the South Vietnamese forces around the Cambodian town of Krek just across the border.

The shellings of allied bases killed two South Vietnamese soldiers and wounded four others, military spokesmen said.

In ground action in the area two companies of ARVN paratroopers killed three North Vietnamese in an encounter Wednesday between Tay Ninh and the Cambodian border, the South Vietnamese command said. The Saigon command reported its troops killed 57 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m.

Sonoma Coalition Meets Next Week On Aqueduct

The Sonoma County Coalition, an organization formed to investigate the planned Sonoma-Marin aqueduct, will hold an informational meeting Wednesday, Oct. 13, at 8 p.m. at the cafeteria at Santa Rosa Junior College.

The newly formed coalition includes the League of Women Voters, American Association of University Women, Madrone Audubon Society, Sierra Club, Californians Organized to Acquire access to State Tidelands, Sonoma County Organization for a Planned Environment and other educational and environmental groups.

Coalition chairman Iva Warner said a panel including Sonoma County officials and coalition members will discuss several aspects of the project, including the environmental effects of the dam and the manner in which project plans were approved.

The impact of the new water system on taxes and water rates will be studied along with what population changes the aqueduct might bring to Sonoma and Marin counties.

Annual Horse Show Is Sunday

The San Geronimo Valley Horsemen's Association will hold its third annual horse show Sunday at the horsemen's grounds near the golf course off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The show will include maiden, novice and open for participants aged 17 and under, and hunter, jumper, pleasure and equitation for those 18 and over.

Maureen Casteel of Concord will judge the events and trophies and ribbons will be awarded to the winners.

Association Chairman Marian Atkins said the show has qualified for the California Horsemen's Association and the Offutts High Point Saddle Contest. She added spectators will be admitted free and refreshments will be served beginning at 6 a.m.

Siroky Dies At 69

VIENNA (UPI) — Viliam Siroky, former Czechoslovak prime minister and once one of his nation's most powerful Communists, died in Prague Wednesday. He was 69.

North Water Board Eyes New Service

The North Marin County Water District has authorized study of the feasibility of providing water and sewer service to the first phase development of Tomales Bay Farm, north of Marshall.

The cost, estimated at $3,400, will be paid by the property owner, Herbert H. Angress, reported Dist. Mgr. Eugene S. Churchill.

Directors Tuesday night approved the study covering service to a proposed meeting center, restaurant, pier and 60 lodging units, Churchill said.

Directors also approved installation of a $6,500 system to serve customers at higher elevations at June and H Lanes, where there has been low pressure.

The board adjourned until 8 p.m. Oct. 19 at the Bear Valley administration headquarters, Point Reyes National Seashore, to discuss the possibility of providing water to the Olema area.

Children's Films Will Be Presented

Experimental children's films will be shown at 10 a.m. and 1 and 3 p.m. Saturday at Brown's Hall, Mill Valley.

The show, entitled "Our Really Good Films for Kids," will be put on by two youths, Howard Ramer and Donald Limuti.

Marijuana Possession Charge Is Reduced

I-J Special Report

PACIFICA—A Marin County social worker, arrested Sept. 10 in Pacifica and originally charged with felonious possession of marijuana, has been fined $125 on a reduced misdemeanor charge of being in a place where narcotics were being used.

Elaine Goldman, 36, of 9 Hazel Court, San Rafael, pleaded guilty to the lesser charge Tuesday in San Mateo County Municipal Court, according to the court clerk.

Senate Upholds Nixon's Government Pay Freeze

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate today upheld President Nixon's order to freeze wages for four million government workers until July 1. Key senators promised to fight for a partial pay increase.

The Senate rejected a resolution which would have nullified Nixon's order postponing a 5.5 per cent raise for government employes due Jan. 1.

The House rejected a similar resolution Monday, 207 to 174.

But several senators, including Chairman Gale McGee, D-Wyo., of the Senate Civil Service Committee and the committee's ranking Republican, Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, promised to press for legislation giving federal workers a raise comparable to the average of the increases permitted private industry under Phase II of Nixon's program.

On Wednesday, the Senate adopted an amendment to the military procurement bill which would provide federal workers with this partial increase. But the amendment was not expected to get through the House.

Nixon postponed the pay increase to save the government $1.3 billion.

That saving was to offset a portion of the government's loss resulting from the three-year, $15.4 billion tax cut Nixon proposed to stimulate the economy. The tax cut was approved by the House Wednesday.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott bitterly fought against Wednesday's pay proposal and warned that he would hold responsible "day by day" those who voted for it and thus damaged Nixon's anti-inflationary program.

But when the role was called, 18 Republicans, ignoring Scott's warning, joined 42 Democrats in voting for the proposal. Four Southern Democrats and 23 Republicans opposed it.

The proposal, sponsored by Sens. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., in whose home state live 110,000 federal workers, and Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, was attached as an amendment to the Senate's $21 billion military procurement bill.

That bill, which passed 82-4, now goes to the House-Senate conference committee, which must iron out differences between the House and Senate measures.

The Mathias-Moss amendment, limiting the size of the federal pay raise, is not expected to survive in the conference if the Senate today fails to veto Nixon's action.

U.S. Urges Humane POWs Treatment

PARIS (UPI)—The United States urged North Vietnam and the Viet Cong today to give humane treatment to captured Americans. But it ignored a standing Communist effort to free the POWs in return for the setting of a firm deadline for withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

"Surely you can provide without harm to yourselves information concerning those of our men you know to be dead," Ambassador William J. Porter, the chief American negotiator, said at the 131st session of the deadlocked Paris Vietnam talks.

He cited last Monday's unanimous resolution of the House of Representatives urging North Vietnam to abide by the 1956 Geneva Convention on the humane treatment of prisoners of war.

The North Vietnamese representative, Nguyen Minh Vy, sitting in for delegation leader Xuan Thuy, responded to the American plea by repeating the Communists' latest seven-point peace program.

One of the points offers to release American prisoners as U.S. troops are withdrawn, once the United States names a deadline for withdrawal. The United States has reacted so far by asking the other side for clarifications which, it says, it has not got.

Four days after South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu won a claimed 94 per cent of the votes in a single candidate election, both sides traded accusations that the other was responsible for violence on election day.

Porter charged the Viet Cong "selected the city of Saigon and other cities as targets, and a number of civilians died as a result."

Dinh Ba Thi, standing in for chief Viet Cong negotiator, Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, said it was the United States and Saigon which caused the violence by suppressing anti-Thieu voters.

"Under the direction of the United States the Saigon government mobilized its entire military and administrative apparatus to repress the voters. At Saigon, Hue and Da Nang, the army and police opened fire on the populace without scruple," Thi said.

Viet Cong officials said Madame Binh has returned to "Vietnam" united States joined with the Thieu administration to rig the elections.

"The election has shattered the signboards of democracy and self determination that the Nixon administration has put up to justify its colonialist policy," Vy said.

Youth Booked In Probe Of Stolen Property

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday for investigation of concealing property stolen from a San Rafael auto body shop June 6.

San Rafael police said Robert Wesley Rosson of 136 Auburn Street was identified as one of three men who allegedly sold loot from S and S Auto Body, 180 Geary Place. Stolen were $4,500 in tools and a foreign-made van.

Police said the second man was being held in San Francisco on a stolen vehicle charge, while the third still was sought.

Rosson, for whom no bail was set, was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Approval On Prefabricated Duplexes Design

The Corte Madera Board of Design last night approved the design of three prefabricated duplexes proposed for the property at the southeast junction of Paradise and El Camino drives.

According to board secretary Elizabeth Long, approval came on a 2 to 1 vote with C. William Thomas dissenting. Design of the buildings will now go to the town's planning commission for final approval.

The quarter acre of property, which is a long narrow strip of land, is under study by the town staff as a possible park site.

The town council, at its last meeting, appropriated $600 for appraisal of the parcel, along with a second parcel nearby, before entering negotiations with landowners.

Libel Charged At McCloskey

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) —Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr.'s statements that U.S. bombs have wiped out Laotian villages and citizens "libel this nation," according to Rep. Jack F. Kemp, R-N.Y.

Appearing here to launch a campaign against McCloskey's candidacy for the presidency, Kemp said the U.S. has never taken greater pains "to assure that civilian casualties in a bloody war are kept to a minimum."

The statements "libel this nation, its military tradition and the effort to aid a tiny, belabored country in a far corner of the world," said Kemp, former quarterback for the Buffalo Bills football team.

Firemen Trapped 42 Stories Up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A power failure trapped 10 firemen in an elevator at the 42nd story of a building in which they had just completed extinguishing a blaze.

It took a half an hour before other firemen could climb stairs and free them from the elevator at 44 Montgomery St.

Damage from the fire was estimated at $10,000.

living index — probably will not be out for about two more weeks.

The BLS said most of the commodities measured in the wholesale price index were covered by the price freeze, and nearly all prices used in the September index were those in effect after the freeze began Aug. 15.

BLS officials said raw agricultural products, which are not covered by the freeze, accounted for a large share of the decrease, but they offered no explanation other than that agricultural products normally show large fluctuations. Another category not covered by the freeze—imported commodities —remained about steady.

The BLS said the September decline was the first since a 0.1 per cent drop last November and the largest decrease after seasonal adjustment since October, 1966.

Before seasonal adjustment, the drop last month was 0.3 per cent, largest since August of last year.

The 0.4 per cent decline in September compared with an average monthly increase of the same amount during the previous six months.

The BLS said higher rebates for 1971 model cars and trucks were chiefly responsible for the 0.1 per cent drop in the industrial commodities index, which had been rising 0.5 per cent per month for six months.

Lower prices also were listed for lumber and wood products, tires and tubes, crude natural rubber, some nonferrous metals, cotton and wool products and leather.

But prices were up for electric power and natural gas, metals and metal products, men's and boy's clothing and cattle hides.

Among farm products, prices for fruits and vegetables dropped 10.6 per cent, livestock was down 1.8 per cent, eggs fell 2.1 per cent and grains decreased 4.1 per cent. But live poultry prices went up 2 per cent.

sure "political survival. You, if you were sitting in our shoes, would want to be given such a chance," the Marinite said.

The Senate reapportionment proposal by the majority Democrats would carve away half the Marin County voters now represented by Fourth District Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, to give them to the two at-large seats in the Ninth and Tenth districts. In turn, Behr's present district which includes Solano and Napa counties, would be expanded to take in the farming and timber counties of Shasta, Tehama, Glenn, Sutter and Tehama plus a sliver of Sonoma County.

Much of Behr's proposed district now is served by Sen. Fred W. Marler, R-Redding. The reapportionment would shift Marler's Second District to a part of Los Angeles County predominantly occupied by Mexican-American residents. Behr and Marler ultimately would face each other in an election to see which would serve.

Warning On Pine Beetles

Novato Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps today warned owners of Monterey pine trees to be on the lookout for red turpentine beetles.

The beetles had infested a tree along Novato Boulevard which diedrecently, he said.

City crews are checking other trees along the boulevard and on other public property in Novato, and spraying where necessary, Temps said.

The signs of red turpentine beetles are borings in the bark between ground level and from six to eight feet above ground level, with reddish colored sap and sawdust building up around the holes.

Tree owners consult nurserymen for instruction about how to combat the beetles and sprays to use, he advised.

Aqueduct Debate Scheduled Tonight

Arguments for and against passage of Measure B — which authorizes Marin Municipal Water District participation in the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct project — will be presented at today's meeting of Marin's City-County Planning Council at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Joan Seminario of the committee against the measure said an announcement in yesterday's Independent-Journal erred in reporting the arguments would not be offered. Eugene A. Miller, water district director, will speak for the measure, and Thomas H. Thorner, chairman of Marin Alternative, will oppose it, she said.

COURT

year later would seem to me to require a situation of momentous judicial emergency and so urgent and important that the wheels of justice would grind to a halt unless the exhumation were ordered."

She said she didn't think that situation existed and she questioned the expense of a new autopsy.

"The taxpayers of Marin County should certainly not be saddled with such a staggering expense."

"I wish it to be recorded," she wrote, "That I and my children object to any exhumation of Judge Haley's body and this objection is made without qualification of any kind."

Mrs. Haley was represented by Attorney John G. Buresh at the Sept. 22 session held in Arnason's chambers.

The transcript of the session was filed yesterday and its release to the public authorized today by Judge Arnason.

Magee's attorney, Ernest L. Graves, had asked during the session that the transcript not be made public, saying he didn't think the contents of Mrs. Haley's affidavit are "desirable for public release."

In the transcript, Graves terms Mrs. Haley's remarks "irrelevant, immaterial and argumentative," as well as "perjorative and inflammatory."

Magee is charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy along with Angela Davis in connection with the Aug. 7, 1970, shoot-out at the Hall of Justice in which Judge Haley, two San Quentin inmates and 17-year-old Jonathan Jackson were killed.

Through the new autopsy, Graves seeks to show that the judge was dead before the firing of a shotgun Magee is accused of shooting.

Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson last week approved less than half the money Graves requested for travel and services of three doctors — one from Vienna, Austria — and a medical photographer for the new autopsy.

Wilson refused to authorize county funds for air travel, but approved a total of $2,350 for the services of the doctors and photographer.

Graves answered Mrs. Haley's questioning of the cost of the new autopsy by saying she should perhaps take up her quarrel with the United States Constitution or Supreme Court which have provided that Magee be provided counsel.

The question of costs, however, was picked up by Asst. State Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris Jr., who said that unless defense costs are checked the Magee case may be the most expensive defense in judicial history.

Harris said Marin judges, who have removed themselves from the case because of their association with Judge Haley, are not able to take a "cold, hard look" at bills being submitted by Graves.

The Marin judges "say they can't hear matters relating to this case, any contested matters, and yet they persist in handling these housekeeping chores."

Harris said that Judge Wilson, who has been reviewing Graves's bills, is in an "incredibly embarrassing predicament" and he suggested that Judge Arnason, or the Marin County counsel or somebody else supervise defense costs.

Magee's defense has now cost $15,000, Harris said. At the rate the case is proceeding, "I wouldn't be surprised to see those attorneys fees get up in the area of a couple hundred thousand dollars."

Harris said "the fact that (Magee) needs an attorney does not mean that this case should end up costing a quarter of a million dollars."

Somebody has to take responsibility for the costs or "this case is not only going to be a monument in terms of delay, but in terms of extravagance of defense expense that is, to my knowledge, unparalleled."

Graves attacked Harris's remarks as "irrelevant, intrusive, bumptious and presumptious" and none of Harris's business.

He turned the coin around and questioned the costs to the state and county for prosecution of the case.

Troop Cut Call

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) —The leadership of Britain's opposition Labor Party called today for substantial East-West troop cuts in Europe within the next 12 months and early convening of a European security conference.

nel committee, Pleasanton City Councilman Bernard T. Gerton, when asked which of the three reasons warranted the closed-door session, said, "Who knows?"

The meeting lasted 57 minutes, and Gerton said afterward that there would be no report made by the committee to the full board "because we're not through yet."

The second unannounced session of the committee came after the board adjourned its regular meeting shortly after noon. Newsmen again found the committee secreted in the committee room, and were told it was closed to the public.

Told by Walker that an unannounced closed meeting would not violate the Brown Act if less than a quorum of the full board were present, three directors not on the nine-member committee left the early morning session. Seven attended the early afternoon session.

The closed sessions were attended by the committee's vice-chairman, Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

(Walker's interpretation of the Brown Act apparently misconstrued an exemption from its provisions applying only to advisory committees composed of citizens.)

The Brown Act also became an issue in the regular meeting as plans were announced for a tour Oct. 15 of East Bay oil refineries. The tour will be preceded by an hour-long orientation at the Holiday Inn in Concord at 10:45 a.m., but the industrial hosts of the orientation had not invited the public to either.

Directors of the district said the public will be welcome at the orientation, but the tour would be limited to directors and the press.

The hosts, the Bay Area League of Industrial Associations, advised the board that tour facilities were too limited to accommodate the public along with district officials and press. A spokesman for the league said that the Brown Act never had been an issue when district directors went on league tours in past years.

Hoyer told her that "it certainly is not in my power to invite anyone."

Yesterday was the first time in memory that notices of a committee meeting had not been mailed in advance to the public.

(Callaghan, confronting complaining newsmen after the board meeting, assured them that it would not happen again, and that notices would be sent even for meetings to be closed to the public.)

Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors also:

VIOLATION — Received report that a violation notice was issued by a district inspector Sept. 23 against the Co-Op in Corte Madera.

AIRPLANE — Agreed to test the effectiveness of aerial surveillance of polluters, using offers of free airplane time instead of an extensive test relying on rental of aircraft.

JETS — Urged the federal government to impose the toughest possible limits on smoke emissions from jet aircraft.

TEST — Voted to convert four district vehicles to liquid petroleum gas in a year-long test of the fuel's ability to cut emission of contaminants, although state estimates indicate it cannot attain 1975 limits. Conversion will cost about $400 apiece.

DIRTY — Received staff report that Tuesday's visibly dirty air was "nowhere near" the level calling for a smog alert.

OBITUARIES

Charles S. Giannini Dies At 68

Charles S. Giannini, vice president of Construction Workers Union Local 29 of San Rafael, died yesterday at a local hospital after a brief illness. He was 68.

Giannini was born in San Francisco and had lived in California all his life. He had resided in Marin for 44 years and had worked as a foreman for his union for 35 years.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian E., of Mill Valley; two sons, Victor and Donald Athais, and a daughter, Miriam Jandura, all of Mill Valley; and five grandchildren.

Mass of the Resurrection will be at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church, Mill Valley, with burial at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley.

MRS. PARENTE

Private funeral for Theresa Parente, mother of Mrs. Kathryn Franchi of Terra Linda, was held today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. Entombment was in Holy Cross Mausoleum, Colma.

Mrs. Parente died Wednesday at a local convalescent hospital following a long illness. She was 88.

Born in Pittsburg, Contra Costa County, Mrs. Parente moved with her family to San Francisco as a small child. She lived there until 1951 when she moved to Marin to make her home with her daughter.

Her husband, Joseph, died in 1950.

She was a member of St. Isabella's Church, Terra Linda.

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by three sons, Gaeton Parente of San Francisco, Joseph Parente of Sonoma and Louis Parente of Los Altos, 10 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The family prefers contributions to St. Isabella's Church or a favorite charity.

MRS. KAZI-GIREY

Rose Kazi-Girey, 60, of 116 Highland Lane, Mill Valley, died yesterday following a fall at her home.

The Marin County Coroner's Office said Mrs. Kazi-Girey was talking to a friend on the telephone at about 2:30 p.m. when she fell and hit her head. She was rushed to Marin General Hospital and pronounced dead on arrival.

A native of Fort Worth, Tex., Mrs. Kazi-Girey had been a resident of Marin for three years. Prior to that she had lived in Redwood City for about 25 years. She had been a resident of California since 1934.

She is survived by a daughter, Jeanine Van Planck, also of 116 Highland Lane, Mill Valley; another daughter, Rose M. Trombley, of Redwood City; two sons, Alim, of Eugene, Ore., and Alexander, of Redwood City; her mother, Eugenia Carver, and a brother, John Woods, both of Stratford, Tex.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley.

DOMENICO FERRARESE

Recitation of the Rosary for Domenico Ferrarese of San Rafael, retired machinist of 20 years, will be tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Ferrarese died yesterday after an illness in a local hospital. He was 84.

He was born in Cavasso, Italy. He had lived in Marin for 37 years, most recently at 1875 Second Street.

Ferrarese was a machinist for 20 years, last with the H. C. Little Burner Co. of San Francisco.

He was a member of San Rafael Aerie No. 256, Fraternal Order of Eagles; Marvelous Marin Lodge; Order Sons of Italy in America and Club Italia of Marin County.

He is survived by his wife, Kathleen Ferrarese; a son, Peter J. Ferrarese, manager of Crocker-Citizens Bank in Novato and a former Novato Fire commissioner; a brother, Anthony Ferrarese of San Francisco; a sister, Emma Ferrarese of Italy; and three grandchildren.

Burial will be private.

lem," he said. "I think some of them may be insoluble."

Lucas Valley started out as agricultural land, then became residential and the Marin County plan is for lower density residential with upper Lucas Valley "pretty much green space," he said.

"Now, suddenly, there is a request to make it commercial," Kaufman said.

Calvin B. Colt of the Lucas Valley Home Owners Association, said: "We're being asked to buy a pig in a poke, with no details forthcoming. We've got to oppose it."

James L. McNulty, president of the Gallinas Village Improvement Association, said the fair has been "sold" as a cultural asset to Marin, but is a "commercial enterprise."

"We have to start stripping away this image of nonprofit," said Ronald H. Mainoff of the Lucas Valley Home Owners Association.

Less told of the potential traffic tieups that would hamper police, fire and emergency vehicles and said: "I have a mental picture of a mess no one can tolerate."

Solomon commented that there are many Marin residents who enjoy the fair and would support it, and members replied the issue wasn't whether anyone enjoyed the fair."

Marinoff said it wasn't the fair itself, but the traffic, "whether the Olympic Games or the Renaissance Faire."

No one has proposed a circus for the Grady Ranch, but they are proposing the "Renaissance Faire with a cloak of respectability . . . but the results are the same." Marinoff said.

Phoned Bomb Threat Leads To Pot Arrest

A telephoned bomb threat to the Petaluma City Hall yesterday led to the arrest of an Orange County man on suspicion of possession of marijuana and possession of stolen property.

Officers were routinely checking the building after the bomb threat at 2:45 p.m. when they reported seeing a suspicious man carrying a suitcase. No bomb device was found in the suitcase, but officers said they did find a two-pound brick of marijuana, a half-pound of loose marijuana and a revolver reported stolen from a home in Long Beach.

Booked into Sonoma County Jail was Jack Milton Milucky, 30, of Sunset Beach. He was scheduled for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Pizza's Popularity

NEW YORK (UPI)—The origin of pizza really is Italian. In Rome, in the days before the thermometer, a thin layer of bread was placed in the baking ovens to determine the correct heat. When these were cooked, they were removed and given to the poor people who then added tomato sauce and cheese for flavor.

Dennis Marnell Is Said Hospitalized

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — White Panther Dennis Marnell, of Corte Madera, has been hospitalized in San Francisco, it was disclosed today.

Doctors at the San Francisco Veterans Hospital said Marnell was undergoing evaluation and treatment of war wounds suffered in Vietnam and also "possible medical complications."

Marnell was to have gone on trial at Fort Worth, Tex., yesterday on charges of assault with intent to murder a police undercover agent and illegal possession of a pistol.

He is free on $4,500 bond.

When he failed to appear his case was passed until Monday, but Chief Prosecutor John Brady said he received a telegram from Dr. Jeffrey Anderson of the San Francisco VA hospital saying Marnell was admitted Wednesday.

Brady said he would have Marnell's trial date reset as soon as he learns when Marnell will be available.

Anderson, a staff physician on the hospital's ambulatory health care services, told UPI Marnell suffered extensive gunshot and shrapnel wounds in Vietnam in 1965 and still has shrapnel fragments throughout his body.

"The evaluation is to see whether it will be possible to take some more of the shrapnel out, and also to check into possible medical complications," the physician said.

He said Marnell also had been losing weight and suffering night sweats, and there was a possibility he had contracted tuberculosis.

After the evaluation, Marnell will be discharged if it is determined no treatment is feasible, Anderson said.

Ruling Due On Magee Challenge

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Tulare County judge has been named to rule on Ruchell Magee's attempt to have his original armed robbery conviction reversed, the State Judicial Council announced yesterday.

Superior Court Judge Leonard M. Ginsburg was chosen after Magee filed a challenge against Contra Costa County Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason, who is hearing pretrial motions in Magee's and Angela Davis's cases.

Magee faces murder, kidnap and conspiracy charges stemming from the Aug. 1970 shootout at the Civic Center. He has claimed the charges will not hold up because he was illegally sent to prison from Los Angeles County.

It is not known yet whether Judge Ginsburg will hold evidentiary hearings on Magee's attempt to get his conviction reversed. No court date has yet been set in this matter.

Annexation Opponents Reject City Meeting

Opponents of Tiburon's Annexation attempts on the Strawberry Peninsula last night turned down a city offer to discuss one of the issues facing voters in the Oct. 19 annexation election.

Trudy De La Fontaine, co-chairman of the antiannexation committee, said about 20 committee members voted unanimously not to meet with city representatives to discuss the effect the proposed merger would have on planning in Strawberry, Bel Aire, Eagle Rock and Bayview Heights.

"The committee felt it would be biased and misleading to voters to discuss only planning, omitting such important issues as taxes, police protection and other city services," said Mrs. De La Fontaine.

The city had proposed the meeting for next Thursday.

Mrs. De La Fontaine said persons interested in joining the committee or contributing to its expenses should notify her, Lois Bohn of Bel Aire or Pat Jeremiah of Strawberry.

The committee has issued a bumper sticker showing two strawberries and bearing the legend, Let Us Be — Vote No On Annexation.

Sewage Plant Expansion Approved In San Rafael

The San Rafael Sanitation District board yesterday gave its blessing to a sewage treatment plant expansion which will make it possible for 1,000 dwellings to be built on the west side of the Peacock Gap golf course.

Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, said that the sewerage facilities also must be approved by the Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control Board.

He said that developers of the building project will pay for expansion of the Marin Bay-Peacock Treatment Plant as well as a new pumping station. He estimated the project will cost at least $250,000.

In other action yesterday, the board accepted a low bid of $111,108 from McGuire and Hester for a force main and gravity line on Francisco Boulevard as part of a sewer reconstruction project.

The board also approved sewer connections for the McNear Beach Park.

Police Retrieve Stolen Rifles

OAKLAND (UPI)—Five AR15 automatic rifles and two machine guns, believed stolen from an Army post in Georgia, were found by police Wednesday in a hotel room.

The room had been rented Tuesday by a blonde woman who disappeared after giving a fictitious address when she registered, police said.

An intensified search for weapons from Ft. Benning started last week when four automatic rifles and four boxes of dynamite from the post were found in an Oakland park.

Police said they had reports that guns were being sold on city streets here.

Youth Asks Synanon Director As Guardian

Testimony in a legal battle between a 15-year-old boy who wants to live at the Synanon community in Marshall and his mother, who wants him to live in Beverly Hills with her, began yesterday at the Marin Hall of Justice.

Court Commissioner E. Logan Nininger heard testimony in behalf of a motion by 15-year-old Thomas P. Sturges to have Dorothy G. Salant, a Synanon director, named his legal guardian.

The hearing resumed today with testimony in behalf of Anne M. Sturges, who is fighting the guardianship appointment and has filed her own petition in superior court saying the boy is being "forcibly and wrongfully" restrained at Synanon.

Thomas, however, testified yesterday that he was not in any way restrained from leaving the Marshall Community.

He said he sought appointment of Mrs. Salant as his guardian "because I live in one place and the guardian I now have (his mother) lives in another."

If anything ever happened to him, he said, he would want his guardian nearby.

He said he hasn't wanted to talk to his mother since the legal proceedings began last month, because he didn't want her to influence him to leave Synanon.

Until the court matter is settled, he said, he wants to say no more than "hello, how are you, goobye" to his mother.

The husky, blond son of movie writer and director Preston Sturges, said he knew his mother had given all her assets and property to Synanon when she joined the community last year, but he made a scoffing expression and said he didn't want to talk about it when her attorney, Walter Colby of Sherman Oaks, suggested that the reason he didn't want to return to his mother might be that she is "impoverished."

Mrs. Sturges, who lived at the Marshall settlement for about 18 months before leaving this summer, has already filed suit in Los Angeles in connection with her donation of a Los Angeles home to Synanon. Synanon directors sold the home for $40,000 and she is now seeking that money, charging the home was actually worth $90,000.

In brief testimony yesterday, she said she didn't want Thomas living at Synanon, that she wanted him home with her and another son, adding that "I can care for Thomas as well as any other mother."

A thin, blonde woman, dressed in a fashionable midi-length coat, Mrs. Sturges said she didn't know Mrs. Salant well and could not object to her personally as the boy's potential guardian.

Mrs. Salant, a wealthy Radcliffe graduate and educational consultant at Synanon, testified that if she were named guardian Mrs. Sturges could visit with Thomas "any time she chose."

She said she has been legal guardian to her three sons and has administered their estates — estimated at about $20,000 per child — since the death of her husband in 1966.

She explained the course of study Thomas is pursuing at the Synanon High School and said that if she were named guardian, he would live — as he does now — in a cabin on Synanon's ranch with other youngsters his age.

Mrs. Salant, who said she has given more than half a million dollars to Synanon, said she was "interested in Thomas because he indicated an interest in Synanon and a desire to stay in Synanon."

Following the end of testimony in the case, expected to come today, Nininger will prepare a report and recommendation for Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson, who will settle it.

Panel Picked To Interview

The Marin Aviation Commission has selected a screening committee to interview consultants for a $15,000 master plan study of Gnoss Field, the county airport north of Novato.

Named to the committee Tuesday were chairman Herbert M. Hanson and commissioners William W. Schwarzer and Melville Dickson. Others who will join the committee are Ray W. Foreaker, county director of public works; a member of the county planning staff, a representative from the city of Novato, and airport manager Francis E. Torr.

The study will determine ultimate design and facilities at the county airport. Federal funds will pay for two-thirds of the study's cost.

Weekend Films To Be Discontinued

The Board of the Sausalito Arts Association has agreed to discontinue a weekend cinema which has been held at the Sausalito Art Center for the past several months, Shelagh Considine, center director reported.

Mrs. Considine said the Havana Tampa Cintopicon will close Nov. 1 because of a lack of attendance.

Hub School District To Maintain Present Staff

The San Anselmo School District board has voted to retain the present teaching staff and district programs.

Trustees voted 4-1, Mary Helen Olive dissenting, to keep 86 teaching positions and several district programs it had been asked to consider eliminating because of a tight budget, according to Valerie Rogers, secretary.

In other action, the board asked Supt. William Kenneth Lowry to draft a letter of agreement between the district and the Sleepy Hollow Horsemen's Association which wants to use a portion of Hidden Valley School for horse training and showing events.

Lawrence Husband, chairman of the San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Commission, complained to the board that the Sleepy Hollow Tennis Club did not include San Anselmo children in its junior tennis tournament to be held Oct. 16 and 17 at Hidden Valley School.

The board informed the tennis club that an event on school property should be open to other children in the district and it encouraged the club to include as many San Anselmo children in the tournament as possible, Mrs. Rogers said.

Husband said he had contacted the tennis club before going to the board and members of the club said that plans including only Sleepy Hollow children had already been completed for the tournament, according to the secretary.

Scouts Plant Trees

MANILA (UPI) — About 600,000 Scouts and Scouters armed with seedlings, cuttings and saplings participated in the celebration of Arbor Day by planting trees in the Philippines' denuded watersheds. Their goal is 5 million trees, 2 million more than the number planted in 1970.

College Bond Is Meeting Motive

Marin Community College District trustees will move their meeting place to Novato on Oct. 20, for the first time.

The session will begin at 8 p.m. in the lecture room of Novato High School. It will include a presentation of Indian Valley Colleges plans by Dale A. Fleming, district planning director.

Board trustees candidly stated that one reason for the shift to Novato was to drum up area support for the district's $16.7 million bond issue on the county's Nov. 2 election ballot. Much of the Novato area campus's timetable rests on success or failure of the bond proposal.

Trustees voiced some worries about backlash over the meeting venture, but unanimously approved the resolution necessary to legalize the session outside the Kentfield campus.

Trustee Charles R. Best said it was the first time in the district's 47-year history that a regular board session would be held away from the Kentfield campus. Special meetings designated as workshop sessions, at which no action was voted, have taken place in the Novato area and in West Marin, according to John A. Grasham, district superintendent--president.

Trustee Francis Compton urged that Marin citizens attend college board meetings wherever they are held, to discuss matters of interest to them.

Board President Donald K. Felt pointed out that not a single citizen other than his own wife, Mrs. Compton's husband, a reporter and several college teachers and students were in last night's audience.

Drake Widening Plan Delay Over Sketch

After wrestling for more than an hour with county plans to widen Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at the College Avenue intersection, Marin Community College District trustees last night asked County Public Works Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. to come back with "at least a sketch" tieing the project to overall plans for the Drake thoroughfare.

Board President Donald K. Felt voiced fears that proposals for two left-turn lanes from Drake onto College Avenue would result in a torrent of traffic that would "create a physical education ghetto" on the east side of College, opposite the main Kentfield campus.

Foreaker agreed to prepare more plans in time for the college board's next meeting. He warned that unless the widening job can go to bid before Jan. 1, the county may lose some state and federal funds for the $1.5 million project.

Trustees objected to the widening nibbling into the campus sidewalks and trees bordering on Drake, the alignment of traffic islands, and the lack of an overall picture of the course of future widening through Kentfield and Ross to San Anselmo.

Trustee Francis Compton objected to "great, straight crackerboxes" in the traffic island design; other trustees questioned the necessity and expense of demolishing the students' bus shelter for the widening.

Marin Community College Board Also:

FUNDS — Allocated the district's federal funds for the handicapped to the Marin County Workshop, other federal funds totaling $16,078 to the cooperative work experience program, and approved a maximum of $22,607 for the Marin County adult self-improvement program.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION — Approved preliminary plans for additional outdoor physical education areas, after Dale A. Fleming, director of planning reported that care of the grounds would cost $10,000 to $11,000 the first year.

RESIGNED — Accepted the resignation of Wayne Tolliver, groundsman.

HIRINGS — Again retained Dr. Edward W. Cook as college physician for athletic events, for a total cost of $3,600; named Keith Dwyer as cooperative work experience coordinator at a salary of $11,989 for the remainder of the year; hired Johnette Jensen as typist clerk II at $553 per month; Esther Lenley as typist clerk II at $442 a month; Michele Thunes as secretary I, $518 a month; Ingrid Lortz, secretary I, $581; Eugenie Yaryan, typist clerk II, $553; Rhonda Williams, parking control officer, $581; Helen Hermann, library clerk I, $316.80 a month; Mary Sindelar, financial aids clerk, $640 a month.

TRIBUTE — Adopted a memorial resolution eulogizing the late James E. Raynes, faculty senate officer and business department head at the Kentfield campus before his death Sept. 15.

VETERANS — Received word that the Indian Valley Colleges has been approved for GI Bill training of veterans.

WORKSHOP — Set a special meeting for 8 p.m. Oct. 27 in the Kentfield campus board room, for a workshop on the district's 10-year capital improvement program. Felt warned that the board might need another workshop session to review building priorities if the district's $16.7 bond issue fails at the polls Nov. 2.

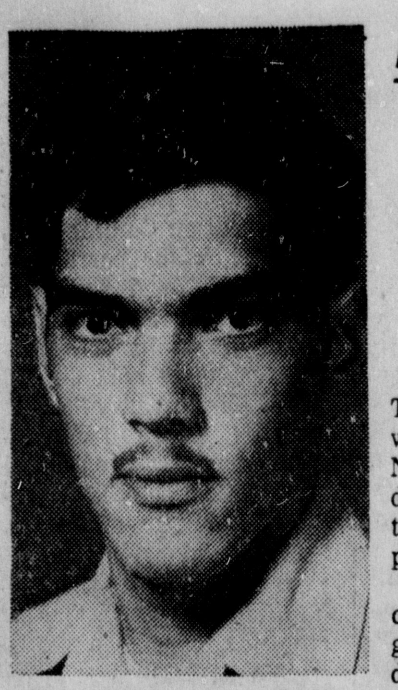
NORTH CAMPUS — Postponed action to the Oct. 20 meeting on naming the individual inner colleges of the Indian Valley campus. Recommended names are Novato, Ignacio and Pacheco colleges.

VOTE — Heard a report from associated students spokesman Greg Fearon that a total of 726 under-21 voters had registered on the campus to become eligible to vote in the Nov. 2 bond election.



TOP NCO — Sgt. Jose L. Mendoza, an air traffic controller in the Radar Approach Control facility, recently was named noncommissioned officer of the quarter in the 1902 Communications Squadron at Hamilton Air Fore Base.

Lie-Detect Test Claim By Newhall

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Scott Newhall, former newspaper and magazine editor who is running for mayor, declared Wednesday that a polygraph test had proved he was telling the truth when he said he had been offered a major city position to drop out of the race.

Newhall made his declaration at a news conference.

David Nelson, a publicist named by Newhall as the intermediary who offered the job, has denied that contention. Nelson has said he was speaking only for himself when he tried to talk Newhall out of running. He noted they had been friends for a quarter century.

25 Crewmen Rescued Off Sinking Freighter

MANILA (UPI)—U.S. Air Force helicopters today rescued 25 Chinese crewmen of a Panamanian freighter sinking off the Philippine coast in the South China Sea.

The crewmen were airlifted to Manila after a one-hour and 20-minute flight from the disaster scene, 270 miles west of here. The captain of the 1,690-ton ship, caught in Typhoon Elaine earlier this week, told newsmen all his men were accounted for.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Trial Of Catonsville Nine' Has No Contemporary Equal

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — "The Trial of the Catonsville Nine," which opened last night at the New Committee Theater, is documentary theater of such towering proportions it has no present-day equal.

The play is a recorded account by Father Daniel Berrigan, S.J., of the burning of draft files in the Baltimore suburb on May 17, 1968, the subsequent trial and conviction which resulted in the sentencing of himself , his brother, Father Philip Berrigan, and seven others to federal prison terms.

Their cases are anti-Vietnam war history, with the story still continuing.

However, what Father Daniel has attempted to tell, vividly presented by producer Rudi Golyn and director Lee Sankowich, are the case histories of the nine during the five-day United States District Court trial in Baltimore.

"TRIAL OF THE CATONSVILLE NINE" — By Daniel Berrigan, S. J. Produced by Rudi Golyn and directed by Lee D. Sankowich. The cast (in order of appearance): Ray Reinhardt, Father Daniel Berrigan; Jack Schmidt, judge; Phillip Pruneau, defense; Joyce O'Neal, witness; John Cochran, prosecutor; Joe Clarke, David Darst; Shirley Slater, Mary Moylan; Dudley Knight, Thomas Melville; Roberta Callahan, Marjorie Melville; Richard Poe, John Hogan; Johnny G., George Mische; Michael Cavanaugh, Tom Lewis; Thomas McNallan, Father Philip Berrigan; Michael Collins, Sally Douglass and Roger Hardy, bailiffs.

Reduced to a spellbinding 90-minute one-act production, viewpoints of each of the accused are introduced in the courtroom. It is done in cinematic fashion with fade-outs and spotlight changes. The dramatic effect is overpowering. There is simply not a minute of wasted time.

Ray Reinhardt as Father Daniel gives one of the most compelling performances in my Bay Area theatrical memory. It is honestly etched and gives a deep insight into the author's humble convictions.

Likewise, Thomas McNallan as Father Phil ip has waxed his portrait in similar fashion. While the Berrigan brothers' words may intone revolution to many, it is a cause steeped within their religious training and conscience.

Reinhardt and McNallan do not carry the documentary drama alone. The play's strength is in the uniformity of the rest of the cast composed of Bay Area veterans. Notable are Richard Poe as John Hogan; Johnny G. as George Mische; Joe Clarke as David Darst; Shirley Slater as Mary Moylan, and Roberta Callahan as Marjorie Melville — all members of the Catonville Nine; Phillip Pruneau as the defense attorney, and Jack Schmidt as the judge.

The set design executed by Jackson DeGovia lends ideally to the action with its thrust stage and the judicial bench towering at one side. The mahogany hues give an authentic courtroom touch. There is even a jury box at the foot of the stage (filled with playgoers) to which the cast can direct its remarks.

"Catonsville" should not only appeal to those with strong anti-Vietnam war feelings, but to a broader segment of soceity because of the complexity of the moral issues involved.

It is to be hoped that this play can be judged on its high-theatrical quality. The major question: Is it too soon to rekindle such burning issues? In this reviewer's opinion it is not and "Catonsville" deserves the attention of all serious Bay Area theatrical patrons.

WIND-SWEPT BLAZE — Firemen, backing their equipment into the driveway, saved this evacuated home in Summerland, Calif. But a raging, ranging brush fire continued to burn today, eating up nearly 3,000 acres and burning out of control in several directions. (UPI Telephoto)

Testimony On Fee To Alioto

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) —An attorney for the city of Seattle has testified if he had been told Joseph Alioto would share fees "my duty would have been to recommend against" hiring Alioto as an antitrust attorney.

The statement was made by Gordon Crandall, assistant corporation counsel for the city of Seattle and first witness in the trial of a $2.3 million civil lawsuit against Alioto, now mayor of San Francisco.

He testified Wednesday that he had recommended that Seattle accept a proposal that Alioto be retained to represent the state of Washington and a group of publicly owned utilities in antitrust suits against manufacturers of electrical equipment. Alioto was hired and the state and utilities are seeking, in the suit being tried here, to have the legal fees they paid Alioto refunded.

They claim they were not told Alioto would share the fees with John J. O'Connell, then attorney general of Washington, and George K. Faler, an assistant attorney general.

O'Connell and Faler are codefendants in the suit.

Crandall, who returns to the stand today, testified about a number of meetings, memos and letters relating to early work on the antitrust suits and to the retaining of Alioto to represent the Washington utilities. Seattle was among the antitrust plaintiffs and is among the plaintiffs in the current suit.

Among the meetings Crandall discussed was a session July 16, 1962, in the Seattle office of the attorney general. Crandall said Alioto, O'Connell and Faler were there along with representatives of several utilities.

"Mr. O'Connell introduced Mr. Alioto and recommended that we look favorably on the proposal" to retain him, Crandall said.

Crandall said he made such a recommendation to his superiors in the Seattle city legal office.

After a 45-minute argument between attorneys with the jury present, Crandall was permitted to answer a question from plaintiffs' attorney Thomas Huber about his actions if he had been told then that Alioto planned to share his legal fees.

"I feel my duty would have been to recommend against hiring Mr. Alioto," Crandall replied.

Foothill Brush Fire Rages In Southland

SUMMERLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A wind-whipped brush fire raged out of control today in the foothills east of Santa Barbara, leveling several expensive homes and forcing hundreds of residents to flee.

The blaze broke out late Wednesday afternoon and had chewed up nearly 3,000 acres of brushland, destroying seven $40,000 to $100,000 homes and damaging many others in the Hidden Hills Lane tract in the hills above Montecito, seven miles east of Santa Barbara.

Some 600 firefighters were on the lines at daybreak, with 400 other city, county and U.S. Forest Service firemen called in from as far away as Los Angeles, 55 miles away.

There was a break in the weather during the night, slowing the pace of the flames, but termperatures today were in the 90s with humidity at eight to 12 per cent and winds were gusting up to 15 miles per hour.

Fire officials reported several injuries, mostly burns, to firemen.

Most of the destroyed acreage was in Los Padres National Forest, site of a series of brush fires in recent days which authorities have attributed to arsonists. The cause of the Summerland blaze was under investigation.

To the east in Ventura County, a blaze near the farming community of Fillmore was contained Wednesday after charring 2,120 acres. Investigators said the Fillmore fire was one of seven intentionally set in the same area since Saturday. Fire-starting devices with time fuses were found in the area, detectives said.

Prince Marries Biscuit Heiress

TEHRAN (UPI) — Crown Prince Victor Emmanuel of Savoy, son of the last king of Italy, today married Marina Doria, 36, the Swiss biscuit heiress and former world water ski champion. They had been engaged for 11 years.

The prince, 34, and Miss Doria said "I do" in the Roman Catholic chapel of Tehran's Andisheh School, which is run by Italian priests. Victor Emmanuel, who works in Switzerland as a bank official and helicopter salesman, chose Tehran as the site of their wedding because he is a friend of the Shah of Iran.

Former King Umberto II, who has lived in exile in Portugal since Italy voted out the monarchy in 1946, did not attend and indicated he did not approve of his son's wedding to a commoner.

Mansfield Failed In Visit Attempt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says he tried twice to visit Mainland China between 1969 and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger's secret visit last summer.

Mansfield said Wednesday the Chinese turned down his first request and did not respond to the second made last March, only four months before Kissinger's visit.

Mansfield said President Nixon had encouraged him both times to make the trip, if possible.

Enrollment Hikes Will Be Studied

The Old Adobe School District board will hear a report on enrollment increases expected before January and alternatives available to cope with more students at its meeting at 7:45 p.m. at the Petaluma Schools Administration Building, Fifth and B streets.

The meeting location, normally the library at La Tercera School, was changed because the library has been converted into a classroom. Estimates on the number of new homes that will be occupied before the end of the year will be presented.

Inmates' Personal Files Ordered Returned By Judge

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday ordered San Quentin authorities to return personal legal files and documents to six inmates charged in connection with the violence at the prison Aug. 21.

The order was one of several issued yesterday by Judge E. Warren McGuire in connection with the case.

The files and documents and other personal property had been taken from the inmates following the violence in which three guards and three inmates were killed.

Judge McGuire exempted from his order any materials being held by the district attorney's office as evidence in the case.

His orders yesterday were in response to a series of requests made by the inmates — Hugo A. Pinell, John Larry Spain, Louis N. Talamantes, Fleeta Drumgo, David Johnson and Willie Tate — during a court session Tuesday.

He ordered that attorneys of record be allowed to confer with the inmates, subject to "reasonable restrictions" relating to prison security. Any of the six who do not have attorneys of record shall be provided forms to designate attorneys with whom they would like to confer and prison officials were ordered to mail the forms to the attorneys.

Prison officials were directed to return Tate's eyeglasses if they are not being held as evidence, to examine Pinell to see if he needs medical or dental treatment and provide it if needed and to allow Pinell access to a telephone for him to contact an attorney.

McGuire specifically authorized consultation between attorney Leonard W. Holt and Tate; attorney Ralph Bencengey and Pinell; attorney Douglas Vaughn with Talamantes and attorney Richard Silver with Drumgo.

Those attorneys were in court Tuesday and said they had either represented the named inmates in other cases or had been contacted in their behalf in connection with the pending case.

The six are to return to McGuire's court for further arraignment Oct. 15.

Lobbyists Must Wear Red Card

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)— Under a new law, any registered lobbyist to the New Jersey Legislature must wear a bright-red identification card containing his picture and his registration number.

The lobbyists, according to a law which took effect Aug. 2, must wear their registration cards at all times while they are in the State House.

Lobbyists who spend less than 20 hours at seeking to influence legislation, appear only once in the State House, or only interest themselves in one piece of legislation in each two year legislative session, need not register.

Attorneys Will Lecture On 'Equal Justice'

Three San Francisco attorneys will lecture on "Is Equal Justice Possible in Our Court System Today" at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo in a series of lectures beginning next week.

First to speak at the free lectures will be Willis D. Hanawalt of the Pillsbury, Madison and Sutro law firm who will speak at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

At 8 p.m., Oct. 20, Charles R. Garry, attorney for the Black Panthers, representing the law firm of Garry, Dreyfus, McTernan and Brotsky, will be the lecturer.

Closing the series at 8 p.m. Oct. 27, will be Chief Criminal Deputy Arlo Smith of the state attorney general's office in San Francisco.

Former Marin Judge Alvin Goldstein will moderate the question and answer sessions following each lecture.

Jury Finds Marin City Man Guilty Of Felony Battery Case

A Marin City man was found guilty yesterday of felony battery on a sheriff's deputy and three misdemeanor charges stemming from a ruckus at a Marin City restaurant July 23.

A superior court jury of three men and nine women deliberated about three hours before finding Frederick Washington, 25, guilty of the charges.

He was found innocent of an additional felony charge of resisting deputies and a misdemeanor charge of battery.

In addition to kicking a deputy, the jury found him guilty of battery on a Marin City woman, exhibiting a deadly weapon and disturbing the peace.

Judge Thomas F. Keating set sentencing for Nov. 18.

The charges against Washington began piling up July 23 after a report to sheriff's deputies that he had struck three women at Smitty's restaurant on Drake Avenue.

Deputies found Washington at a nearby pool hall, but when they attempted to arrest him, a crowd of about 50 persons gathered and Washington escaped.

He was seen again a short time later in the 200 block of Drake Avenue, but again a crowd gathered when deputies approached.

Deputies said Washington resisted and was aided by members of the crowd who threw rocks and bottles and shouted obscenities.

Deputy Thomas McMains was struck on the head with a bottle during the scuffle and was treated for a cut scalp at Marin General Hospital.

(Two Marin City brothers arrested during the scuffle pleaded guilty in August to resisting arrest and were sentenced to Marin County Jail.)

Washington was finally subdued with chemical mace, but he pulled out a knife on the way to jail. At the Hall of Justice, the knife was knocked from his hands, but he continued to struggle with deputies, kicking deputy Joseph Curley as deputies took him out of the elevator on the jail floor of the building.

Mae E. Lewis, 39, the woman Washington was found guilty of striking at Smitty's, had told deputies that he hit and kicked her and knocked her to the floor.

Correct Birth Date

A son was born in San Francisco to the wife of Joseph Ascierto of San Rafael on Sept. 21, not on Sept. 20 as reported in Monday's Independent-Journal.

Ecology Course Is Being Planned

A course designed to train students for ecology related jobs is planned by the College of Marin's adult education department.

The course, scheduled to begin Oct. 26, also will give students information on how to find jobs in environmental fields.

Additional information may be obtained by phoning the college's adult education department.

Poet Gary Snyder To Present Reading

Poet Gary Snyder will read his poems at the Sonoma State College Field House at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Poems will be drawn from his books, "Myths and Texts," "Riprap" and "Regarding Wave." They deal with the wilderness of the Sierra Nevada and the Pacific Northwest and with Zen Buddism. The event is sponsored by the Rhymers Club.

SPACE DRIVER'S SEAT — Workers today assembled a ramp so visitors to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration exhibit at the Marin County Fair can peer inside the full-scale command module. programs to raise funds for their cause.

Eight other volunteer groups will man informational booths to tell the fairgoers about their programs; three other groups will help the fair staff as cashiers, bus boys and theater hostesses.

Twenty-eight commercial exhibitors have reserved booths to show the public their jewelry, crafts, waterbeds, encyclopedias, and other wares.

Refreshment stand customers will be able to sit at tables around a circular outdoor stage where square and folk dancing and other entertainment will hold forth.

The massive new auditorium will be a major asset to the fair, holding both the NASA exhibit and the film festival and ballet events.

Inside the spacious exhibit hall is a dazzling series of space age exhibits — many inviting the spectator to try his skill at flying a lunar lander model, handle a miniature helicopter, or see how supersonic shock waves are created.

Sitting in mute, unmoving glory in the center of the hall will be a moon rock brought back by Apollo 11. Astronaut Vance DeVoe Brand will be on hand to talk about the national space program.

In the theater section of the auditorium, the Marin Film Competition will display the winners, with showings at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. tomorrow for four of the five different programs put together for the festival.

Cinema buffs will have to visit the fair on two days to see the entire cycle of five programs presenting a total of 29 films ranging from two minutes to 33 minutes each, submitted by student and independent movie-makers.

At 8 p.m. each day, the new auditorium's stage will be taken over by dancers and orchestras. The Oakland Ballet Company will perform tomorrow, the Sacramento Civic Ballet Saturday, the Marin Civic Ballet on Sunday and the Theater Flamenco of San Francisco on Monday.

The Happytime Circus, under its own big top, will present three performances daily. Other attractions for the youngsters will be clown performances and a Punch and Judy show on the outdoor stage, plus all the various carnival rides and pedal-boat rides on the lagoon.

The Commander Cody Rock Band, the famed sour-note Guckenheimer Sauerkraut Band, and the Terra Linda and San Rafael high school bands also will perform during the fair.

The color slide competition entries for the fair will be given continuous showings each day in the north foyer of the new auditorium, with free admission.

Admission to the fairgrounds will be one dollar per person, with children under 6 years old admitted free. There will be additional admission charges for the film festival and the ballet performances.

Parking will be available both on the auditorium grounds and at the armory parking lot on the east side of the Civic Center grounds; free shuttle buses will take fairgoers to and from the grounds. There will be only one public gate for entrance to the fairgrounds itself, Mrs. McCoy stressed, at the southerly side of the auditorium.

The entertainment schedule for the opening day will include:

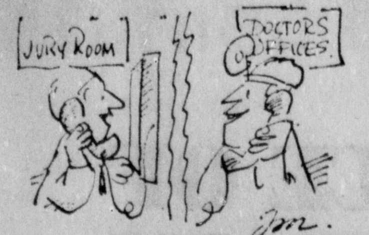
LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Trial By Jury Fundamental



Trial by jury is one of the most fundamental elements of our system of justice. To guarantee fairness, the jury must be impartial. Selection procedures provide for questioning of prospective jurors to check impartiality. Jurors are sworn to act impartially and to decide the case on the basis of the evidence produced in court and the law as instructed by the judge.

It is an error for jurors to look up evidence on their own during the trial, to discuss the case with others, or to disregard the law instructed by the judge. An expression of prejudgment before all the evidence is submitted is also an error. For any substantial or material deviation from these requirements the judge will declare a mistrial.

Occasionally these errors are discovered after the case has been tried and the verdict entered. An attorney may discover errors by talking to jurors after the case is closed. He may then have grounds for a new trial or an appeal.

In a recent case a former patient sued a community hospital for negligent treatment. The jury voted nine to three in favor of the hospital. After the trial several jurors talked to the plaintiff's attorney. He learned that one juror had called his own doctor and got his opinion about the plaintiff's claimed injury, then told his fellow jurors of the opinion.

Another juror mentioned the plaintiff's race and said that where he came from members of that race were not even allowed in court. Still another juror said that a judgment against the community hospital would result in increased rates. When this was disclosed, the appellate court ordered a new trial.

Each juror must decide the case for himself, not by majority vote or by chance. The jury must deliberate to reach a verdict, but the verdict must express the opinion of each juror. Intimidation or coercion of jurors results in a mistrial.

The right to a fair and impartial jury extends to grand juries, which have power to indict, or charge a person with a crime. Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

Property Rezoning Hearing On Nov. 1

The Independent-Journal on Tuesday incorrectly reported that the Corte Madera Town Council had scheduled a public hearing Oct. 18 on rezoning the Vail property on Tamal Vista Boulevard to some other zone than high density residential.

The hearing will actually be held during the council's regular meeting Nov. 1.

Fascist Laws Still On Books In Italy

By A.R. McELWAIN
Toronto Telegram News Service

ROME — A woman talking affectionately to a young man in a parked car was pounced on by police, arrested and charged, in preposterous legal phraseology, with "being in amorous colloquy with a youth." This, under an archaic Italian law, is tantamount to committing an obscene act in a public place.

A man was jailed for 16 months after his lighted cigar burst a red, white and green balloon. Red, white and green are Italy's national colors and he was charged with insulting them.

Anyone who lets off steam about taxes in a bar or other public place runs the risk of imprisonment. So does anyone who joins an international organization, including the Rotary Club, without government permission.

An Italian soldier who found army life degrading (and was honest enough to say) was convicted of slandering the armed forces.

Fascist laws, still operating in Italy 26 years after Mussolini's death, can brand a citizen a "criminal" for offenses that in any other civilized country would be rejected as absurd.

Over the years, parliamentary committees have been set up to revise these outdated penal and civil laws, but nothing very practical ahs resulted. However, last December, Premier Emilio Colombo's coalition government decided to sponsor a bill to overhaul controversial laws in Italy's 1930 penal code, drawn up by Alfredo Rocco, known as "the lawmaker of Fascism." The bill now is up for debate.

The proposed new legislation covers an astonishing variety of repressive measures which, lawyers say, could land most of Italy's 54 million citizens in jail, or under some form of police supervision, if they were enforced.

Reform-minded lawyers and politicians have also pointed out that Fascist measures still operating in a democracy with a Constitution guaranteeing the right of all people to fair and unimpeded justice makes a mockery not only of justice generally, but of many new laws passed since World War II.

One of the worst laws is that which makes it possible for accused persons — hypocritically "deemed to be innocent until proved to be guilty" — to be held in jail for years without trial.

Linked to this is another typically totalitarian law which forbids the granting of bail, pending trial, to any accused person.

Until last year, a Fascist law also barred a defence lawyer from being present at pre-trial interrogations of his client — a privilege restricted to the public prosecutor, who had things his way all along the line.

Italy's highest legal tribunal, the Constitutional Court, finally ruled that excluding defence lawyers in the preliminary stages of a case violated a section of the Italian Constitution guaranteeing persons the universal right to legal defence.

The evil hangover of harsh laws from Blackshirt days was emphasized recently by the cases of two foreigners charged on drug offenses.

One, a 43-year-old American actor, William Berger, spent almost eight months in jail after a small amount of marijuana was found in his house. Once he did get before a court, he was promptly acquitted.

The other was a New Zealand singer, 29-year-old Lynette June Williamson, who was held in jail for seven months on a charge of possessing one-quarter of an ounce of hashish. A Naples court took less than half-an-hour to acquit her, saying there had been no sound reason for indicting her in the first place.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS

By Ken Reichard

Instant Replays

One of the most popular devices used on television sports programs these days is the "instant replay." It enables spectators at home to watch that U.S. Open golfer's swing repeated in slow motion, so it can be analyzed by a professional.

The same technique is employed for other sports, from the World Series to pro football games. We not only get to see the "big play" over again, but we watch the athlete's footwork and championship action at a speed that enables us to see things we would normally miss.

If you have a camera with adjustable speed settings, so that you can slow down from 18 frames per second to 24, 32 or even 64, you can use your camera to the same effect, to "analyze" your golf swing, your halfback son's passing technique, and so on, just as the TV specialists do.

Even if your camera lacks slow motion settings, you can get the same effects with a motion picture projector that permits slow motion ... as well as backing up for those "instant replays"!

Action cries out for a movie camera ... and we have the line of cameras and projectors you want, priced to get "action." Still or movie, let us put you in the picture now!

Here's something extra special ... on October 20, that's a Wednesday, between 6 and 9 in the evening you are invited to a UNICOLOR demonstration. Gerry Pole from UNICOLOR will process pre-exposed color prints in the Unidrum in our store to show you how easy the UNICOLOR system is. Remember, Wednesday evening October 20.

Hospital Proposal Is Aired

A proposal for a new 150-bed hospital for Petaluma has been announced by a private hospital chain.

Leonard Cohen, executive vice president of National Medical Enterprises, reviewed the plans for members of the Petaluma Medical Community at a meeting Tuesday.

Cohen said his corporation has assets of $48 million and is interested in acquiring a minimum of 15 acres on which to build a fullservice, $4.5 million hospital and adjoining medical offices.

Cohen said the firm planned to begin first by buying the aging Petaluma General Hospital. All plans must first, however, receive approval from the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Facilities Planning Council and must have support from the local medical community.

Cohen said his firm currently owns hospitals in Modesto, Lodi, Los Altos, Long Beach, Monterey Park, San Diego, San Bernadino and has a 176-bed hospital under construction in Lakewood.

The Petaluma Hospital District board, which operates Hillcrest Hospital, has said it plans to build a second hospital in Petaluma and has opposed construction of a private hospital, saying a nonprofit organization can provide medical care at lower cost.

Qantas Development Corp. last year announced plans to build a hospital and medical complex in Petaluma, but never carried through.

The health facilities planning council has gone on record as supporting the concept of one major and centralized hospital for Southern Sonoma rather than several smaller facilities on the basis that medical services would be improved and costs lowered.

With A Month To Go, Auto Is Still Intact

ADELAIDE, Australia (UPI)—Greek strongman Leop Samson apparently has bitten off more than he can chew.

In November 1967, Samson, 34, offered to bet $22,400 he could, in four years eat an automobile.

Darwin businessman John Katapodis took the bet.

The car still is in one piece, with only a month left.

"I haven't seen him since we made the bet," Katapodis said today.

"But, if you can find him, tell him I've got my hand out waiting for him."

Kennedy's Crush: 'Nothing To It'

HYANNIS, Mass. (UPI)—Hyannis Port friends of the Kennedy family have given a big yawn to a published report that Robert F. Kennedy Jr., second son of the assassinated Senator, plans to marry a local bartender's 15-year-old daughter.

"It's nothing more than a high school crush," observed an intimate of Kennedy, 17, and Kim Kelly, blonde daughter of Frank Kelly.

Kelly was quoted in the current issue of National Enquirer, a weekly, as saying: "Kim idolizes him (Kennedy). Bobby told me he wants to marry my daughter, but I brushed it aside."

"They're just kids," Mrs. Peg Kelly, the girl's mother, told the Enquirer.

No Schools Stance On Unification

The Dixie School District board and the San Rafael Board of Education at a joint meeting last night decided not to take official stands on the question of unification of the two districts.

The matter is due for a state-required election in June 1972. A similar unification election in 1966 failed.

The San Rafael board currently governs both the San Rafael Elementary School District and the San Rafael High School District. Dixie students go to high school in the San Rafael High School District but have their own elementary system.

Dr. Clifford W. Campbell, Dixie district superintendent, said that last night's meeting was a low-key affair with trustees from both boards refraining from expressing opinions on unification.

The boards decided to distribute fact sheets to the electorate but not to form a joint citizens group because "the matter has been studied to death," Dr. Campbell said.

He said the situation remains much the same as in 1966, with Dixie having a higher tax rate and San Rafael spending more money for each child.

Purse Stolen From Office

A purse containing $25 and other valuables has been stolen from the office at Interior Fashions in Larkspur, police reported today.

Officers said the purse, owned by a store clerk, was found missing Tuesday shortly after two men had departed the store.

Stafford Won't Be Sure Nixon Man

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House arranged to have an Air Force jet pick up Robert T. Stafford and whisk him to Washington from Vermont last month to be sworn in as the newest U.S. senator — and give President Nixon a certain, key vote.

Stafford, Vermont's sole House member for 10 years, delivered the vote as expected the next day in supporting a bill to revive the temporarily dormant military draft.

But that doesn't mean the administration can always count on Stafford for a "sure" vote. Stafford, who will serve in the seat of the late Sen. Winston Prouty until Jan. 7 unless he wins a special election that day for the five years remaining of the Prouty term, is seeking to make clear he is of independent mind.

The White House dispatched a Tri-Star to Montpelier to pick up Stafford on the eve of the crucial draft vote in the Senate —but first, presidential aide Charles Colson asked Stafford for assurance that he would support the draft bill as he had in a previous House vote. Future Stafford votes will not be so sure apparently.

In an interview with UPI, the handsome, 58-year-old former governor underscored his self-styled independence from administration programs: "I make up my own mind and vote as I see best."

An opponent of the Vietnam War, Stafford, when in the House, supported Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's move to establish as national policy a nine-month troop withdrawal deadline when it came before that body.

Last week he again supported the Mansfield amendment, this time voting to tack a six-month withdrawal policy onto the $21 billion military procurement, bill.

Meanwhile, Stafford is eagerly awaiting announcement of Nixon's new withdrawal schedule.

Stafford explains, "If the President gets us out of there by next summer, the Vietnam issue will be evaporated, a deadline of July 1 would be acceptable to me."

The President is expected to make a new announcement on troop withdrawals later in the fall.

On the question of Supreme Court nominees Stafford is not nearly as interested in a Justice with "strict constructionist" views of the Constitution as is Nixon. "The Court needs good able lawyers, first and foremost," said Stafford.

He opposes administration plans for further expansion of the antiballistic missile system. However, he does not believe the defense budget should be cut by more than a couple billion dollars, at most, he said.

Stafford supports the President's wage-price freeze as well as the tax-cut phases of the economic recovery plan.

But he believes the wage-price controls "should be extended and expanded to include interest rates and dividends." Stafford says he has "an open mind" on whether there should be restraints on corporate profits as demanded by organized labor.

Stafford supports the administration's two-China policy in the United Nations as well as Nixon's planned trip to Peking. "We can't ignore the fact that 700 million Chinese exist and that someday they can become a great nuclear power," he said.

Stafford won both the Republican and Democratic nominations to his House seat in 1968 but is cautious about the outlook for the special election Jan. 7, even though at this point he looks like a sure winner. "Politics is a life of surprises," he observed, and said he plans to return home often to campaign.

A yachting enthusiast as well as a licensed pilot, Stafford frequently flies to Vermont and back in a Congressional Flying Club Cherokee.

Tall and lean with streaks of silver in his hair, Stafford's style is deceptively low-key and relaxed, his replies to questions terse and to the point.

When sworn in to the Senate, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott termed Stafford "definitely a known moderate liberal."

"You're whatever the people assessing you say you are," Stafford said later. "I suppose I'm liberal on some issues and conservative on others."

Food For Needy

In celebrating the week-long Jewish holiday, Succoth (Thanksgiving). the Congregation Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, will collect nonperishable foods until Sunday evening at the temple, according to Walter Hotzner, temple secretary. He said the food will be distributed next week to Saint Anthony's Dining Room, a Catholic maintained food center for the poor in San Francisco.

Honor Ellsberg, Says Ex-Senator Gruening

BOSTON (UPI)—Former Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, says Daniel Ellsberg "should be honored" for leaking the Pentagon Papers to the press.

However, Leo Cherne, executive director of the Research Institute of America, likened the MIT senior research associate to the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

Gruening said Tuesday Ellsberg "has exposed the deception, the betrayal of the elected public servants of their responsibility to the American people.

Ellsberg "should be honored for the inestimable valuable service that he has rendered the people of this country," the former Democratic senator said.

Cherne, who is also chairman of the Executive Committee of Freedom House, said Ellsberg, like Sen. McCarthy 20 years ago, felt "he had a uniquely patriotic right to secure information in the interest of the nation and without regard for what that information did either to the government or the individuals involved."

The comments were made on The Advocates, a weekly television program on the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS). The question debated was: "Should the charges against Daniel Ellsberg he dropped?"

"Ellsberg should have the equivalent of a Congressional Medal of Honor," said Gruening, one of only two senators who voted against the Gulf of Tonkin resolution in 1964. "He has exposed how the leading officials, starting with the President and all his surrounding advisors, lied the American people into this war..."

Cherne said, "I think the central question inescapably is: Is application of the law to be selective, arbitrary, subjective, political, or is it to be certain? Now if it's to be selective, make no mistake about it, however much we may agree with the non-application of the law in a particular case, we have either tyranny or anarchy."

John Siegenthaler, editor of the Nashville Tennessean and an aide to the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, argued in support of Gruening.

Marin Women

MARY BACON of Toledo, Ohio, is a jockey and a tough one to boot. At 97 pounds she is considered one of the hardest riding women in the business. Her husband, Johnny, is also a jockey, but unwritten track rules bar them from riding at the same tracks, which Mary says is discriminatory.

SAVVY IN THE SADDLE

Jockey Likes Being Big Fish In The Smaller Track Circles

By GREG GALLO

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mary Bacon, a pint-sized blonde from Toledo, Ohio, was admitted to Deaconess Hospital in Evansville, Ind., at 5:45 p.m. on Aug. 27. She was semiconscious, had a broken left collarbone, contusions of the lung, bruised ribs, a concussion and was bleeding internally.

No, Mary was not run down by a car. She was trampled under the pounding hooves of thoroughbreds at Ellis Park in Owensboro, Ky.

Mary Bacon is a jockey — and a tough one to boot. Thirteen days after the spill, Mrs. Bacon packed her bags —tack and all — and reported for work at nearby Latonia Race Course in Florence, Ky.

"I would have ridden the first day of the meet but they scratched my horse," Mary recalled in an interview with UPI. "My collarbone is still sticking out but the doctor strapped me up with a brace so I can ride."

DESPITE ATTEMPTS by male jockeys to boycott races in which women were scheduled to ride, Diane Crump became the first girl to race against the boys at a major track in February of 1969 at Hialeah, Fla. Later that spring, Miss Crump became the first member of her sex to ride in the prestigious Kentucky Derby.

While there still are male chauvinists in racing who contend that women are too fragile to participate in such a dangerous sport, the girls have begun to make definite inroads in the "Sport of Kings."

At 97 pounds, Mary Bacon is one of the hardest riding women in the business and her record over the past two years bears out her aggressiveness and savvy in the saddle. She won 55 races and was the leading apprentice rider at Finger Lakes in upper New York State in 1969. She rode and won in three times as many races as any female jockey in the nation last year, winning on 63 of her 697 mounts.

WHILE MARY mostly rides at the smaller tracks in the southeast and midwest — she says she'd "rather be a big fish in a small pond than a small fish in a big pond" — Robyn Smith, a onetime Hollywood starlet, is doing well as an apprentice on the most competitive circuit of all — New York's Belmont-Aqueduct-Saratoga wheel.

Last August Miss Smith rode Beaukins, a 6-year-old gelding, to a record time in a seven furlong dash at Saratoga. That didn't impress Mrs. Bacon, however. Mary feels that most woman jockeys are "weaklings" and that includes Miss Smith.

"I wouldn't want to be on the inside of her coming home if she had a horse lugging in," Mary said. "She's got a gimmick. I'm no model or a movie star. I'm a jockey and a good one. I'd like to see Robyn Smith ride seven, eight and nine horses on the smaller tracks."

AT WATERFORD Park in Chester, W. Va., Patricia Barton West has emerged as the top woman rider this season with 112 career victories by mid-September. She recently was joined there by Cheryl White, the first and only Negro woman jockey.

Among other women getting riding assignments are Mary Crump, Irene Osterlund, Sandy Schleiffers, Barbara Brown, Lois Meals and Kathy Kusner.

While there remains some question as to who is the best female jockey riding today, none is more outspoken nor has had a more controversial career than Mary Bacon.

Nothing seems to stop Mrs. Bacon from getting up on a horse —not the accidents she's involved in, not her pregnancies, not even the time she was kidnaped or the time she was threatened with a gun.

"Look, I've broken my back and I road in three races the same day I had my baby," said the 21-year-old who has been married to jockey Johnny Bacon since she was 16. "If you want to ride, you go out there and do it. Go out and win. It's a business. One girl in a million will make it in this business. I want it to be me. Spills aren't going to stop me."

PERHAPS MARY'S most remarkable feat was riding while she was pregnant. Although many people doubt the story, she insists it's true.

"The day my daughter was born I rode at Raceway Park in Toledo," Mary recalled. "I was on this old mare and we were dead last. I just started laughing right in the middle of the race because the mare was pregnant, too, and her people didn't even know. She dropped her foal three days after I had my baby."

Mrs. Bacon has also survived two nightmarish experiences off the track. In 1969 she was abducted near Wilkes Barre, Pa., by a parttime groom who reportedly had a "crush" on her. She was taken at knife point into a wooded area, but managed to break away and outrun her assailant.

Last May at Shively, Ky., a man police identify as her kidnaper broke into a motel room Mrs. Bacon shared with her agent, Judy Wilson. During a struggle he shot Miss Wilson in the hand and the neck before escaping. He was later arrested and is under indictment.

DESPITE ALL this, Mary Bacon is enjoying life as a jockey, although she admits she'd like a chance to ride at the same tracks as her husband.

"We see each other only on weekends, because we're always at different tracks. They say we can't ride at the same meeting. They say a husband and wife are one and the same. That's against the Constitution and it's discriminatory. The owners of these racetracks have their own unwritten laws.

"Johnny and I rode against each other in the bushes in Oklahoma and he taught me a few things. He can ride circles around me. He's the best. But if I get a chance again, well, he'd just be another jock. When I get up on a horse, I forget everything else. All I can think about is winning.

"If I was riding against President Nixon and he was in my way, then shame on him. He's just another boy."

Child Psychotherapist Puts Down Some Parent-Child Myths

By JOAN LISETOR

Can you imagine a 5-year-old saying to himself, "My mommy is tired today, so I think I will be extra quiet?"

Neither can Dr. Haim Ginott, who told an audience last night in the Fine Arts Building Theater at the College of Marin that most mothers go wrong because they think of small children as their friends.

During his years as a child psychotherapist, Dr. Ginott said, when he had a new, young patient, he looked at the child as his enemy.

"DID YOU ever wonder why grandparents and children get along so well?" he asked, "They have a common enemy. Parents."

Children are our enemies because they are dependent on us, he said. Dependency engenders hostility, so if we diminish dependency, hostility will decrease.

To increase autonomy in a small child, the psychologist suggested, give him choices in areas that affect his life.

"Ask a 2-year-old, 'George do you want your eggs hard or very hard?' A 3-year old you ask, 'Do you want a glass of milk or a half a glass of milk?' and for you mothers who worry that your child won't get enough milk, start with a larger glass," he said. "By the time he is four he can make decisions like whether he wants orange or tomato juice. Let him know that you know he is a person with tastes."

WHAT YOU truly can't give a child in reality, you can grant as a wish in fantasy, Dr. Ginott said.

"If a child doesn't want to get up to go to school, say to him, 'Don't you wish it were a holiday?' Go through several holidays and while you are talking he will be waking up and he will realize that he has to go to school without it raising any of his hostilities."

Respond to a child in a way that tells him, "I know you are intelligent," Dr. Ginott suggested.

"Parents think it is their built-in role to criticize," said Dr. Ginott. "We should treat a child the way we treat guests. If a guest in your home forgot her umbrella, would you run after her and yell, 'Everytime you come here you forget something.' 'I am not your slave' or 'Why can't you be like your little sister?'

"No, we say, here is your umbrella, Mrs. Smith."

WHEN THINGS go wrong, say nothing about the person, he said. Instead deal with the situation.

"Define the problem; define the solution," he advised. "If a child spills milk you don't say, 'You're an idiot' or 'You're a klutz' you say, 'You need a sponge.' "

When we have a problem what we need are solutions, he said.

"We must convey to children that we are there to help them with the present, not teach lessons for the future," he said. "Labeling with adjectives is dangerous. In fact, you should say labeling is disabling because a child often lives up to the negative predictions and becomes what he is labeled."

Another thing to remember when dealing with children is that they cannot deal with sarcasm, the psychologist said.

"NEVER MAKE statements that deflate a child's self esteem," he advised.

"Children are like wet cement, what ever falls on them makes an impact," he said.

"Remember also not to argue with a child's experience.

If a child says his knee hurts, and his father says it doesn't this sets up a conflict in the child. He gets two messages. One message is from his knee saying it hurts and the other is from his father saying it doesn't.

"Instead of arguing with a child, acknowledge what he has said. If he says his milk is too cold, don't tell him it couldn't possibly be because it has been out of the refrigerator for so long waiting for him to come into the house to drink it. All he is trying to do is let you know he is drinking his milk.

"It is difficult to convey to a mother not to say something after she has said something. I try to tell them, 'Don't just say something — stand there!

DON'T TRY to explain to a child the plight of a person with whom he is angry, the psychologist advised, or he thinks you are taking the other person's side, and he will transfer his anger to you.

"If a child is afraid, don't tell him there is nothing to be afraid of or you will increase his fear threefold. He will become afraid to be afraid," said Dr. Ginott. "Acknowledge his fear openly and with respect.

"Hasty solutions make a child feel stupid. If he has a problem reflect and define it and ask him for options.

"Learn economical methods of dealing with minor mishaps, and remember that nagging does not motivate a child."

Among the questions Dr. Ginott said he is asked most when he lectures throughout the country is, "What about spanking?"

"Spanking as a lesson demonstrates when we are frustrated we don't look for solutions, we hit. Spanking teaches violence."

DR. GINOTT offered what he called an unorthodox solution to children's fighting.

"Don't be tempted to ask what happened or you become the judge, and don't say I'll get to the bottom of this if it kills me or it probably will.

"Tell the children you want it all in writing — a report, and if they start to tell the story say, 'Oh, that deserves a full paragraph' and 'Don't leave that important part out of the report. It serves two purposes — probably the children will disappear — or you will know who the victim is because he will want to write."

For children who are too young to write, he suggested asking one a question then repeating the answer to the other.

"ONE CHILD will soon say, 'Why don't we talk to each other?' and you say, 'That's a good idea' and walk away." he said.

The warmth in Dr. Ginott's solutions to problems with children makes one wonder if all the parents in the world had his sense of humor, what a happy place it would be for children.

Thousands May Have Active TB

Public health experts estimate that 300,000 Americans may unknowingly have active tuberculosis.

According to Dr. Robert Anderson, managing director of the National TB and Respiratory Disease Association, the eradication of tuberculosis has not taken place because of public indifference to the disease. Mass chest X-ray programs and skin testing are the methods commonly used for uncovering new tuberculosis cases.

Years ago, the person who was diagnosed as having tuberculosis was likely to be shipped off to a sanitarium for complete rest, special diets, and perhaps to have the infected lung collapsed or even removed.

Dr. Anderson reports that modern drug therapy for TB permits patients to return to their usual activities and occupations early in the course of treatment.

Most patients are now admitted to hospitals for short periods to start drug therapy, and are then discharged to outpatient clinics. This method has proved very effective — but only when the patient takes his medicine regularly and returns to the hospital for checkups, according to Dr. Anderson.

Poverty Level Strikes Hardest At Women

Women who head families have a much greater likelihood of living below the poverty level than do men who head families in the U.S.

Figures just released by the U.S. Department of Labor Women's Bureau show that 37 per cent of all poor families are headed by women. Thus, one of three families headed by women lives in poverty, compared with one out of 14 families headed by men.

While there are nearly three times as many poor white families as poor black families, and more white women head poor families than do black women, the black woman family head is more likely to live in poverty. Black women head 56.7 per cent of poor black families, while white women head 29.6 per cent of poor white families.

Drake Senior Will Direct Program

A senior at Sir Francis Drake High School, Kathleen Olson of San Anselmo, has been appointed Marin County March of Dimes Teen Action Program chairman, announced Mrs. Melvin Hammond, chairman of community education.

She will work to get teenagers from throughout Marin to volunteer for special events and to assist in education about birth defects.

Kathleen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Olson of San Anselmo, was a delegate to the Girls State in Squaw Valley the past summer and is a cheer leader at Drake.

Class Will Be On Card-Making

San Rafael artist Joane Newcomb is conducting a class in Christmas card making Oct. 21 at 10 a.m. in the Studio (formerly the Magnolia Tea Room) at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Silk screening will be among the techniques covered in the course.

IRENE LAUFER
To be bride

Engagement Of Couple Is Announced

The engagement of Irene J. Laufer of San Rafael to John Richard Cardoza has been announced by her parents. Irene is the daughter of Mrs. Delores Laufer of San Rafael and Robert Laufer of Santa Venetia.

She is the sister of Mrs. James Derr of Chico, Mrs. Bill Penaluna of Reno, Michael Laufer of Larkspur and Marcia and Andy Laufer of Santa Venetia. Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cooper of Santa Venetia and Mrs. J. J. Laufer of San Rafael are her grandparents. Mrs. Ruby Fuller of Petaluma is her great grandmother.

Irene is a San Rafael High School graduate and is employed by the Pacific Telephone Co. in San Francisco.

John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cardoza of San Rafael. He is the brother of Suzanne and Joseph Cardoza.

John was graduated from San Rafael High School and attended the College of Marin. He is self-employed.

The couple plans to be married next spring.

Orchid Houses Will Be Toured

Rod McLellan's Acres of Orchids in South San Francisco is the destination for residents of the Tamalpais Retirement Residence Oct. 21.

Following a tour of orchid houses, which includes a large variety of orchids, roses and gardenias, they will have a picnic in a nearby park.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

100 Attend Couple's 65th Anniversary

By MOLLY MARIN

One hundred guests attended the dinner party Sunday at Sabella's restaurant in Mill Valley honoring Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Vireno of Daly City and Santa Rosa, who celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary.

Hosts were the couple's children, Esther Vireno of Daly City and Santa Rosa, Mrs. Richard Cheda of Greenbrae, Dr. Lawrence Vireno of San Rafael and Andrew Vireno Jr. of Corte Madera. The couple's granddaughters, Linda, Vicki and Teri Vireno, all attended the party.

The honorees were married Sept. 30, 1906 in San Francisco.

MR. AND MRS. Walter Johnson of Mill Valley will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with a small family reception at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson of Marinwood on Saturday.

THE RICHARD Maddens are being honored at a dinner dance Saturday night at the Villa Taverna in San Francisco to be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. George Frederick Jewett of Ross.

A GROUP of Marin residents will attend the 15th annual League for Service Antiques Show and Sale, which is being held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Episcopal Church of St. Matthew in San Mateo.

Mrs. Theodore Martin of San Rafael, a sponsor of the event, and guests, Mmes. Jefferson J. Graves Jr. of Ross, James Reese of Kentfield and Edwin Thomas and John La Noue of San Rafael, have made reservations for the luncheon on Tuesday, which will be served in the courtyard of the church.

ANN MARIE Smith, infant daughter of the Brian A. Smiths, was christened Sunday at St. Isabella's Catholic Church in San Rafael. The Smiths visited in Marin before returning to Grand Forks, N.D., where Sergeant Smith is stationed with the Air Force.

Attending a reception which followed the ceremony and was hosted by the baby's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sil Petrini, at their home in San Rafael, were her parernal grandparents, Lt. Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Gregg A. Smith of San Rafael; great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Filippetti of San Rafael, Mr. and Mrs. Eugenio Petrini of South San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Smith of Alpine; her great great grandmother, Mrs. Annie Gelardi of Novato; and her aunts and uncle, Debbie Petrini and Craig and Julie Smith, all of San Rafael.

MRS. EUGENE W. Smith of San Rafael, who had her 95th birthday Sept. 27, was honored at two luncheons last week, hosted by members of her family.

Class Series For Expectant Parents

A nine-week series of classes for expectant parents will be held by the Education for Childbirth program beginning tomorrow. Classes will be held weekly from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. by Gunhild H. Brown, registered physical therapist, at her office, 1300 South Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae.

Expectant parents must have written permission of their physician to enroll. The series includes techniques for relaxing, breathing, posture control and post-natal recovery. Husbands are invited to all classes.

THE GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Tell Your Parents Everything? No, Save It For Later Years

DEAR SUE AND HELEN:

My mother expects a complete report every time I go out. She even wants to know what I think and what my friends are doing. These re-runs are boring: after all, I'm not wild. And if I answer her questions about my friends, she might get the wrong impression, as it's easy for her to do.

If I clam up, she's all hurt and suspects the worst.

Should a teen tell her parents everything? — QUIZZED

SUE'S VIEWS

DEAR QUIZZED:

Definitely not, never, no way, no how, and uh-uh!!!

If you told your parents everything, you'd have no personal thoughts and secrets which are your private possessions, and only to be shared (if at all) with a best girl friend.

Mothers who demand minute-by-minute total recall are the worrying type who are happier not knowing you kissed your boy friend 10 times instead of once at the door, and that several of your acquaintances have tried weed. They'd only get uptight and start lecturing, which doesn't solve anything.

Also, parents shouldn't ever expect their kids to "spy" on the younger generation, or turn informer.

Even if you have cool parents, telling them everything now ruins hilarious dinner talk later on. You should hear the escapades my brothers reminisce about at family get-togethers — a dozen years after they can't get grounded for them! — SUE

HELEN'S TURN

DEAR QUIZZED:

A mother shouldn't insist her teenager tell her everything any more than she should "tell all" to her child. Everyone needs his or her private world.

But if the teen sees her mother as an understanding ear, not a flapping mouth, the important things seldom go unaired.

A word to your mother, "Quizzed": The woman who brags that her daughter always tells her everything is either raising a dull robot, or she's fooling herself. — HELEN

DEAR SUE:

I'm writing you 'cause you're a teen-age girl and might know what I'm doing wrong.

I'm an average guy. Not bad looking. I letter in sports and am popular around school. What's my problem? I can't get a girl. I know a lot of girls, but they only want to be "friends." I'm not pushy with them, and they are good pals, but I'd like to have a real girl, not a buddy. What am I doing wrong? — CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED:

A girl can sense when a guy is after her only to say he has a girl friend. So she'll turn you down, not wanting to be a boy's status symbol. And so will the next, and the next. Pretty soon other girls start thinking, "If nobody wants him, neither do I." And the word gets around, "He's a buddy, not a date," without anyone remembering how it started.

Why not stop worrying and wait until you find a girl who really turns you on. Then show her she's the greatest. In other words, make your move for one special girl, not just any. — SUE

Chinese Peasant Fashing Coming Strong On Scene

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Chinese peasant influence, strong on the American fashion scene since President Nixon announced he's going to Peking, has reached fashion's plushest ranks.

It was seen in the Maxmilian fur show in New York Monday, one of the top ones. Maxmilian prices for the new fur season go up to $35,000 for one floor-length suede coat lined in international Russian crown sable.

Tunic-length Chinese coolie coats, dyed in all the Chinese porcelain colors, were shown with wide-legged black satin pants and black satin skull caps. They were done in many kinds of furs. A red broadtail one was priced at $2,750.

There were Mandarin and Kimono silhouettes also. The Chinese influence already has hit the streets. Among avant garde types wearing the "worker's uniform" black jacket and black pants was a photographer at the Maxmilian show.

Tips On Wearing Pants To The Office

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wearing pants to the office? Okay, then, don't get into boyish poses, says Jack Winter, president of the firm that bears his name and manufactures pants for women.

Carpet Tile Boom

NEW YORK (UPI) — Carpet tiles are tremendously popular. More than 70 million of the handy foam rubber backed-tiles were sold last year. Most carpet tiles today are pre-pasted with an adhesive that lets you pick the tile up over and over again. If the adhesive gets coated with dust and loses its grip, you can rejuvenate the tile with an aerosol spray adhesive sold in carpet stores.

Art Curator Will Give Museum Lecture

A lecture on three colorful women in English portraiture will be presented in the Arts of Britain series by the American Institute of Interior Designers Monday at the De Young Museum in San Francisco. Dr. Robert P. Wark, art curator of the Huntington Library and Art Gallery in San Marino, will speak on the three, Penelope, Lady Ligoner; Georgiana, Duchess of Devonshire; and Emma, Lady Hamilton. He will describe them as painted by the English portrait painters Thomas Gainsborough, Sir Joshua Reynolds and George Romney.

Tickets will be available at the door for the 7 p.m. program. Design students will have a special entry rate.

Hillcrest Auxiliary Names New Officers

Now serving as president of the Hillcrest Hospital Auxiliary is Mrs. Arthur W. Mortensen. Marjorie Mortensen, during her four year membership, has served as coffee cart chairman and vice president.

To add the plus value and give aid to Hillcrest Hospital and its patients is the ultimate purpose of our organization, says the president. Membership is open to any woman willing to serve after a brief orientation period.

Activities planned for the coming year include the annual fall luncheon, a holiday boutique in November at the woman's club, a fund raising card party in February and a tea in April to celebrate the auxiliary's 10th anniversary.

Mrs. Mortensen and her husband, an oil company distributor, are the parents of three married sons, Steven, James and Daniel. She is a native of Utah but has lived in California most of her life and is a graduate of Glendale High School.

The new president enjoys sewing, gardening and painting. Beachcombing is another favorite pastime.

Other officers are Mmes. William Schneider, vice president; C. P. Chalker, secretary; Ralph Pelton, treasurer; Rodney Perrigo, Milton Whitt and Elmer Krulevitch, executive board members.

Mrs. Mahoney To Lead Petaluma P-TA Council

Mrs. Herold Mahoney says of her organization, "the council is composed of 24 units and will continue its work for children in the areas of health, welfare and standards."

Connie Mahoney and her husband, a petroleum distributor, are the parents of Colleen, 14 and Kerry, 13. She is a native of England and received the masters degree in education from the University of California at Los Angeles. A Sonoma County resident for 17 years, she is a past president of the Petaluma Woman's Club, neighborhood chairman of the Girl Scouts and president of the Wilmar Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary.

Use Baking Soda

A pinch of baking soda added to the water while cooking beans or other greens has long been thought to make them more tender and maintain good color. While this may be true, baking soda may also destroy important B vitamins, according to General Foods Kitchen nutritionists. Tenderize foods properly by cooking them at a lower temperature for a longer time, they suggest.

How To Save On Laundry Money

Surprisingly, a lot of people waste time and money whenever they do their laundry.

To be a smart consumer in the laundry room, begin by planning your laundry. Even if you have your own washer and dryer, don't use it more than necessary just because it's handy. It's a waste of fuel and water dollars.

Try to wash a full load of clothes each time you use the washer, but, of course, don't overload the machine or your clothes won't get clean. Usually, whatever you wash together can be dried together.

Avoid overloading the dryer and overdrying your clothes. Unless your clothes can move freely, wrinkling will result.

No Oven Stains

How do you prevent pie from bubbling over onto the oven? Just cut a sheet of kitchen foil slightly larger than the pie plate and put it on the second oven rack below the pie plate. Don't put foil directly under the pie plate itself or the bottom crust may not cook thoroughly.

Pair Plans Wedding In December

A Dec. 11 wedding at Bethel Baptist Church in Novato has been set by Diane Louise Dieterle of Novato and Lt. David Franklyn Boyles of Fort Lewis, Wash.

The couple's engagement has been announced by her parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Jack W. Dieterle of Novato. The sister of Richard L. Dieterle of Novato, Diane was graduated from Novato High School and the College of Marin and is a student at Sonoma State College. She is employed with Chevron International in San Francisco.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Boyles of Tacoma, Wash. He attended Terra Linda High School and was graduated from J. M. Wainwright High School in Taiwan and California State Polytechnic College. He is serving with the Army at Fort Lewis.

From An Orchid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vanilla comes from the fruit or bean of a tropical orchid which thrives in the Madagascar area's hot, humid climate. It is a temperamental plant whose blossoms last only a day and must be pollinated by hand if they are to bear fruit. So say the Vanilla Growers of Madagascar, Reunion and the Comores.

Ballet Guild Elects New President

Mrs. Daniel T. O'Brien has been elected president of the Petaluma Ballet Guild. Kathy O'Brien formerly served as secretary.

"To promote and support ballet in the Petaluma area is our purpose," she stated. The guild plans several projects, raising funds and encouraging booking the company for performances. The company will perform "Les Sylphides" in Rohnert Park and for the Petaluma Woman's Club this month.

Kathy O'Brien and her husband are part owners of the three Lions Restaurant in Santa Rosa and the A and W Drive In in Petaluma. Their children are Colleen, 15, Bonnie, 14, Patrick, 12, Timaree, 10, and Jamie, 6.

An 11-year resident of Sonoma County, the new president is a native of Minneapolis, Minn. She is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles and is an active member of the book section of Petaluma Branch, American Association of University Women. Her special interests include skiing and cooking for friends.

Other officers are Mmes. Vincent Marsicano, Vice-president; Bernard Kirsh, treasurer; Alice Trayle, corresponding secretary; Harold Britt and Charles Keith, ways and means, John Magnelli, publicity; and Francis Paula, director.

Family 'Fun Flights' Fund-Raising Event

Family "fun flights" — 20-minute scenic tours of the Bay Area — will be offered as a fund-raising event for the Children's Hospital Medical Center of Oakland for the next three Saturdays.

The 727 jet scenic cruises will depart from Oakland International Airport at 1 p.m. Oct. 9, 2 p.m. Oct. 16, and 2:30 p.m. Oct. 23. Reservations are taken weekdays through the hospital's auxiliary branch office. The auxiliary announced that the event will be set up for birthday groups of children. Light refreshments will be served aloft.

December Wedding Is Planned

Melanie Alice Brusati of San Francisco and Andrew Julian Waite of Auckland, New Zealand, are planning a December wedding.

The future bride is the daughter of Mrs. Muriel Brusati of San Rafael and the sister of Michael Brusati of San Mateo. She was graduated from San Rafael High School and attended College of Marin. Melanie is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Miller of San Rafael. She is employed as a credit officer at the Bank of California in San Francisco.

Andrew is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kerkham of Auckland and the brother of Louise Kerkham and Gregory Waite, both of New Zealand. He is a graduate of the University of Auckland and the University of Auckland Law School.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If You Don't Know The Culprit, At Least Know Where To Look

"If you know that a murder was committed by the center of a basketball team," said Sherlock Holmes, "you don't start to look for midgets." Dr. Watson coughed carefully, and the detective explained himself: "Even if you don't know the precise identity of the culprit, it may be enough if you know just where to look for him." Watson nodded his head wearily and thought of the hand they had just seen played.

SOUTH'S TRICK

South won the first trick with the king of diamonds and found a way to go down without delay. He cashed the king of spades and then led a low spade to dummy's ace. East discarded a diamond, and South could take only his 12 top tricks.

"I could have made it by taking the second spade in my own hand" South confessed. "But then I'd go down if the four spades were at my right. There was no way to know who might have four spades."

NONSENSE

This was, of course, sheer nonsense. Sherlock Holmes pointed out that South should take the king of diamonds and then three top hearts. If hearts broke well, dummy's last heart would provide the 13th trick.

When the bad heart shows up, South should take three clubs and then the ace and jack of diamonds. South discards a heart from dummy on the third diamond and then waits for East's play.

SOUTH AND SPADES

By this time East is known to have started with four hearts and at least three clubs. If East follows to a third round of diamonds, as he would, it is clear that East can have only three spades at most. Since East might have only one spade, South takes the king and then the queen of spades, discovering how to play the spades.

South may not get an exact count on the spades, but he will find out enough to know where to look for the opponent who may have four spades.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON GREB

Guests who were born today, Oct. 7, and became:

1. A U.S. Vice President and Cabinet Officer? He was an Iowa farmer who became Secretary of Agriculture in Franklin D. Roosevelt's "New Deal" and probably would have become President had not Harry S. Truman replaced him as Vice President in 1945: (A) John Nance Garner; (B) Henry A. Wallace; (C) Clinton P. Anderson.

2. A famous American conductor? Say "Happy Birthday" (his 73rd) to the first native born, home-trained American musician to become the leader of a major symphony orchestra, a man who spent 13 years with the Los Angeles Philharmonic and others with great orchestras in Chicago, Seattle, and Cleveland: (A) Alfred Wallenstein; (B) Antol Dorati; (C) Dean Dixon.

3. A heavy-set Hollywood cowboy? Educated at the University of Santa Clara and Arizona State, this gravel-voiced actor has put his familiar voice into radio skits with Jack "Buck" Benny, on television in the "Wild Bill Hickok" series, and in dozens of western movies: (A) Larry Storch; (B) Chill Wills; (C) Andy Devine.

4. A celebrated American educator? This Georgia-born woman opened a school for mountain children in a log cabin and was so successful in bringing education to the backcountry that she devoted her life to it: (A) Oveta Culp Hobby; (B) Martha McChesney Berry; (C) Hannah Adams.

Answers:

1- (Henry A. Wallace); 2- (Alfred Wallenstein); 3- (Andy Devine); 4- (Martha McChesney Berry).

CALIFORNIA LANDSCAPE — Textured clouds and flashing darts of light dramatize this low-horizon landscape in a photograph by Pirkle Jones, who displays photographs of Gate Five residents, and his "Portfolio Two".

Novato Board Selects Panel To Study Teacher Dissatisfactions

The Novato Unified School District board has formed a committee to study teacher dissatisfactions as revealed in a survey last spring.

The opinion survey indicated teachers generally were satisfied with conditions, but the greatest dissatisfaction was over salaries.

Teachers also reported they were concerned about lack of community support for education, and high school teachers indicated a lack of rapport with principals.

Board president Ronald D. Schenck, trustee Liz Mertel and Supt. James G. Bunker were appointed by the board Tuesday night to meet with teachers on the survey findings.

Trustees also took action toward standardization and continuity in learning, which had been given priority in a recent session on district objectives.

The board authorized preparation of guidelines in reading, language arts and mathematics by staff members at a cost of $9,000.

The Novato Unified School District Board also:

TESTS — Received results of tests given during the past school year that showed the mean intelligence quotient of sixth and 12th grade students was slightly above the statewide mean, and that the achievement of ninth through 12th grades was slightly above the state median.

LITTLE LEAGUE — Authorized studying the possibility of using the Olive School site for Little League baseball.

RETARDED — Approved a program for educably mentally retarded pupils, who have intelligence quotients between 72 and 80, at a cost of $12,115, in state funds.

READING PROGRAM — Allocated $7,456 from reserve funds toward a special reading project, which will be matched by federal funds.

GIFT — Accepted a gift of $300 from the San Jose School Parent-Teacher Association.

ART REVIEW

Pirkle Jones' Work Displayed

By ADA GARFINKEL

Situated on the picturesque Promenade in Tiburon, the Tintype Gallery in its fourth month of operation, is a new concept in photography exhibition formats — that is, it's the only gallery in Marin devoted exclusively to showing photography.

The current exhibit is devoted to two main aspects of the work of Mill Valley photographer Pirkle Jones: "Gate Five," which documents and highlights the subculture that exists there (and which will be published as a photo essay early in 1972, with Jac Campbell as principle collaborator), and "Portfolio Two," comprising 12 photographic studies that are special favorites of the artist. The 24 photos in the Gate Five series deal with the feelings and encounters of the inhabitants of a Sausalito outpost. The photos are factual without being judgmental — nor is there an implied voyeurism — whether he focuses on couples engaged in animated horseplay or in lovemaking, or on a group of anxious faces tensed over a spaced-out figure.

This is their life, and they are real, and he invests their human-ness with just as much dignity as in the portraits of some of the other residents of Gate Five — the gray-haired writer, the artist, the poet, the dancer.

Nature and man, and contrasting aspects of nature are what it's all about in the 12 photographs in Portfolio Two on the opposite gallery wall. In these, Jones deals with his elements as would a painter: textures, tonalities, tensions, and contrasts interspersed with sharp, dramatic accents such as the wedge of black horizon which intersects the high foreground of contrasting rock and tree textures in Black Hawk Ranch.

Weather and time also are significant factors. Rain and night create a special drama or mood as, for example, the faceless group of figures huddled under umbrellas, or the striking impact of a threatening sky and crowded architecture as co-equal forces in View of San Francisco.

Another time and wide open spaces are suggested by Cowboy, Arizona, seen through a distance lens and a curtain of light snow.

But Garden Detail, an intemate vignette, is a puzzler. Is it light from within that lights the window and falls so lovingly upon the shrubbery — or is it strong, white moonlight bouncing off the bushes and lighting up the house?

Not to be overlooked are four lacy, early-morning scenes of waterfalls at Yosemite with shadowy traces of figures barely visible, and a stunning portrait of Dorothea Lange taken on location when she and Jones were working on the early photographic and very well known essay "Death of a Valley."

The Jones exhibit will continue through Oct. 31. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 11 p.m., Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and noon to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Variable Soil

PAGO PAGO, American Samoa (UPI)—Soil qualities on the lush islands of American Samoa vary greatly because of the steep mountain terrain and the average 200 inches of rain which drenches the islands annually.

MUSIC, ART, DRAMA

Canadian Ballet Will Open U.C. Fall Season

Federal Funds To San Rafael, Hub Would Create 10 Job Slots

San Rafael and San Anselmo are in line for an $80,000 grant under the federal Emergency Employment Act of 1971 to create jobs for 10 unemployed persons, it was reported yesterday.

The grant is in addition to $252,000 allocated to the county last month for creation of 29 jobs under the same act.

John C. Obenhuber, program coordinator, said that the grants require each city to make permanent positions of at least one-half of the newly created jobs. He said the city managers of both San Rafael and San Anselmo expressed interest in the grants, but final approval from the city councils will not come until contracts are drawn up for signature.

Obenhuber said the new grants to San Rafael and San Anselmo came about because the department of labor designated the two cities as having unemployment rates in excess of 6 per cent. The Department of Labor allocated $48,400 for San Rafael and $31,600 for San Anselmo.

As required by law, Marin County sent to the Manpower Administration this week a tentative application for funds on behalf of the two cities.

"It is expected that six jobs will be created in San Rafael and four jobs in San Anselmo," Obenhuber said.

The proposed jobs will include clerical, semi-skilled, technical and professional.

Funding under the Emergency Employment Act is 90 per cent federal and 10 per cent local.

Garbage Burying Reception Cool

By DAVID DIETZ

A young woman wearing a long, robust pigtail went before the Larkspur City Council last night for permission to continue burying garbage in her backyard — for ecology's sake, of course.

The response was a chilly one.

Amid assurances the practice caused no smell, attracted no rodents and was not objectionable to neighbors, Hallie Rabb of 326 Madrone Avenue asked the council for exemption from city health ordinances to enable what she called "recycling" of "organic garbage."

Not only did the council look dimly on Mrs. Rabb's garden project but it noted it couldn't act because no formal variance request had been submitted. Still, the council said it was open to future consideration of issuing use permits for such a practice, provided stiff fees and regular inspections are included.

Mrs. Rabb's project first came to the attention of city officials in August when her landlady, Joyce C. Chiles of San Francisco, wrote her a letter saying she found the disposal method "completely unacceptable" and threatening to end her lease if it did not cease. A copy of the letter, which also demanded $27.15 in unpaid garbage bills, was sent to city officials.

Councilman Neil Brixon acknowledged Mrs. Rabb might be experienced in garbage composting but worried that "many who know nothing about it will try it."

And Mayor Earl J. Grady had agonizing visions of "a mass of 11,000 people throwing garbage in their backyard . . ."

Mrs. Rabb vowed a fight. "I'll state right here and now that I'm going to continue to do it. You're going to have to press charges against a lot of people in Larkspur who are doing this."

She was told to expect inspections of her backyard by city officials.

"You gentlemen are unaware what happens in the ground," Mrs. Rabb said. "It does not remain refuse, it turns into dirt."

Aside from her backyard project, Mrs. Rabb said she disposed of nonrecyclable materials, such as plastic containers, through regular refuse pickups and took cans and bottles to recycling depots.

"I have no intent of putting anything in the ground that won't recycle," she said.

Molly Willard of Kentfield, a Marin Ecology Center spokesman, said she, too, has been recycling garbage without ill effect. It can be done, she said, "even if you do it as simply as digging a hole and covering it with dirt."

Mrs. Rabb, she added, "represents the new consciousness in dealing with solid wastes."

Larkspur Will Seek End To Fine Crews

The Larkspur City Council said last night it would ask a Marin Municipal Court judge to stop assigning convicted drunken drivers and juvenile offenders who are unable to pay fines to work in city parks.

The council agreed the project had exceeded original guidelines set by Mayor Earl J. O'Grady and Judge Robert A. Smallman and was causing a burden on city forces with little evidence of return.

Councilman Neil Brixon, who noted up to 20 drunken drivers recently had been assigned to the city for up to 30 days, also objected that the practice was depriving the community of fine revenue it should be receiving.

O'Grady said it wasn't the intent of his agreement with Smallman this summer to send drunken drivers, but only juveniles living in the community who could be put to work on weekdays. Since Brixon noted many of the newly assigned offenders were from out of town, even residents of other counties, this meant special weekend duty for city supervisorial personnel, he said.

Although unanimous on ending the assignment of drunken drivers, the council at first could not agree on whether to discontinue taking juveniles as well. But a consensus was reached after Brixon remarked, "We're not in the correctional business."

The Larkspur City Council Also:

PLANNING — Agreed to a $12,500 contract under which the San Francisco firm of Mocine and Williams will help update the city master plan.

DOUGHBOY — Asked the county board of supervisors to reconsider its stand on placement of the Doughboy statue near the Veterans Memorial Building at the Civic Center. The Marin County United Veterans Council wrote the city council to complain that the terrain at the proposed site was unsuitable for veterans' observances.

HOUSING — Said it would meet Nov. 3 with Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority, to discuss city residency requirements.

SETTLEMENT — Said it would accept $3,875 from the Marin County Flood Control District and contractors as settlement for a city sewer line that was punctured in connection with the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project.

FIRE ALARM — Voted to require permits for newly installed fire alarm systems in homes and businesses.

DEANNEX — Postponed until Oct. 20 proposed deannexation from Larkspur into Corte Madera of the John Oglesby property across from the corporation yard. While acknowledging Corte Madera provided essential services to the property, the council, with Brixon dissenting, said it wanted to make sure development plans are compatible with Larkspur zoning in the area.

SEWER — Adopted an ordinance changing sewer connection and street opening fees, effective upon lifting of the federal wage-price freeze.

ENCROACHMENT — Introduced an ordinance setting a new fee for encroachment permits, also subject to freeze guidelines.

BRIDGE — Adopted an ordinance setting a 25-mile-per-hour speed limit and new truck load limits on the Bon Air Bridge, reconstructed because of damage inflicted during work on the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project.

RESIGNS — Accepted with regret the resignation of Phillip J. Abrams as Larkspur's representative on the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council and began a search for a replacement. Abrams is moving to Chicago.

PRISON — Asked Gov. Ronald Reagan to begin a study aimed at moving San Quentin Prison from Marin.

SIGN — Approved a green-and-white color scheme for a revised directional sign to be erected near Highway 101 by developer Niels Schultz Jr.

MEETINGS — Adjourned to an Oct. 14 session with Mill Valley and Corte Madera councils at Mill Valley City Hall on North Ridge planning and said it would meet with the city planning commission Oct. 20.

Veterans' Advisers Sought For Colleges

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., today planned to reintroduce legislation aimed at placing on college campuses special advisers for armed forces veterans. The Senate in June adopted Chiles' original measure as an amendment to the draft extension bill but it was deleted by the House.

Chiles said his bill would provide funds to enable colleges and universities to hire advisers who help veterans plan their studies, get needed financial help and get jobs after they graduate.

HORSEPLAY IS FISHPLAY

Environment Push Called Determined

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Concern over the environment has turned the nation "away from careless indifference and toward concrete remedial action," the administrator of the federal Environmental Protection Agency said yesterday.

William D. Ruckelshaus told the annual conference of the Water Pollution Control Federation that the government's orientation toward pollution has changed in the past two years.

"Not punitive action, surely not criticism for its own sake, but a determined effort to buckle down and restore our heritage of clean, fresh, free-flowing waterways," was how Ruckelhaus described it.

He told pollution experts attending the conference that new laws and additional billions of dollars won't be enough unless the best technology, efficient manpower and management innovations are applied.

Ruckelshaus said a huge expenditure of funds on new water treatment plans will help bring the day—in the distant but foreseeable future—when "children will swim again in streams and rivers that have been forgotten by an entire generation of Americans."

Lt. Col. John H. Cousins of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers told a session on waste water discharge that the corps' permit program for private industry promises to be the government's most effective tool.

Plea Of Guilty To Grand Theft

Craig, originally charged with felony robbery, was arrested Sept. 23 on a warrant charging he knocked down a 14-year-old boy and took his walkie-talkie Sept. 9 in front of the Mill Valley bus depot.

EASY RIDER — Korinne Kothoff of Tiburon negotiates the newly completed Richardson Bay pathway linking the east and west ends of Tiburon. Miss Kothoff said she formerly was forced to walk her bike along the unpaved right-of-way in order to get from her house to downtown Tiburon. Now she zips there in minutes. "I could drive, I suppose," she said, "but I'd rather ride my bike now that the path's in."

The path will be dedicated formally Saturday.

TIBURON CEREMONIES SATURDAY

A Bike Path's Road To Fruition

By GEORGE NEVIN

A simple ceremony Saturday will mark the fulfillment of a years-old dream — safe bicycle path linking both ends of Tiburon.

The dedication at 11 a.m. at Blackie's Pasture, western terminus of the two-mile Richardson Bay pathway, will bring together Tiburon civic leaders and residents responsible for the uphill struggle for the bike path.

As with other county bike trails, however, Marin cyclists haven't waited for the formal opening. They've been using the path daily, and in great numbers, since the 10-foot-wide strip of asphalt was laid by construction workers two weeks ago.

Because of the path, for the first time children attending two of the schools in Reed School District — Del Mar and Reed — as well as St. Hilary's School, won't have to bicycle or walk along the shoulders of busy Tiburon Boulevard.

For the first time, too, Marin's thousands of leisure-time bike enthusiasts won't have to brave auto traffic, fumes and rocks thrown up by passing vehicles in order to ride from one end of Tiburon to the other.

The dream of a path for cyclists, pedestrians and horses along the former Northwestern Pacific railroad right-of-way was born many years ago, but the campaign didn't pick up steam until late 1966, when the railroad ceased service to Tiburon.

Railroad officials at first resisted an effort by the City of Tiburon to purchase the valuable bayfront property, insisting the land was worth about $400,000, far more than the city was prepared to pay.

It was only after Tiburon filed a condemnation suit last year the the railroad finally agreed on a compromise.

Under the arrangement, the city bought 100,000 square feet of the 60-foot-wide right-of-way — about a third of a mile — in the Blackie's Pasture area. In return, Northwestern Pacific donated the remainder of the right-of-way to the city.

The complicated gift-purchase deal enabled the railroad to claim that the entire parcel was worth $1 a square foot and write off the gift portion as a tax loss. Both the city and Northwestern Pacific came out ahead.

Tiburon subsequently collected $50,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for the purchase.

Ironically, it was the lure of a similar grant from HUD to pay for half the cost of paving a pathway that delayed construction of an asphalt bikeway.

Although the city took title of the land in January, paving did not begin until August. In between, the city council hesitated to order the work done at the city's expense for fear a matching federal grant for that purpose would be jeopardized.

Only councilman Branwell D. Fanning consistently urged that the paving be done regardless of the effect on a possible grant. He was overridden by other councilmen, who said chances of federal money were remote if Tiburon did the work itself, thereby demonstrating it was not a needy city.

After repeated delays, a $34,785 contract for paving was awarded in July, and actual construction began — more than six months after the city acquired title.

Thirty-one per cent of the cost of paving was paid by the City of Belvedere on the theory that residents of that city will use it extensively.

The list of persons who worked to make the path a reality is long, but at its head is Bonnie T. Raisin, a Tiburon mother of four.

Mrs. Raisin led a petition drive to encourage Northwestern Pacific to sell the land, attended almost every council hearing on the matter and at one time offered to mobilize a troop of Girl Scouts in a fund-raising drive to help buy the land.

The path is 10 feet wide and has access points at Tiburon Boulevard near Stewart Drive, Avenida Miraflores (Del Mar), Rock Hill Drive, San Rafael Avenue, Lagoon Road and Lyford Drive as well as either end.

In addition, several informal access points — paths beaten through trailside weeds — allow cyclists to reach the path.

Saturday's brief ribbon-cutting ceremony at Blackie's Pasture will be attended by Denis T. Rice and Thomas S. Price, mayors of Tiburon and Belvedere, respectively. Also expected to attend is Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, other Southern Marin political leaders and a representative of Southern Pacific railroad, parent company of Northwestern Pacific.

Music will be provided by the Los Trancos Woods community marching band of Palo Alto. Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commissioner Donald S. Tayer said the band will begin a march from downtown Tiburon at 10:30 a.m. and arrive at the opposite end of the path in time for the 11 a.m. ceremony.

Although the Richardson Bay pathway now dead-ends on both the east and west, ultimate plans are for the trail to connect to a system of such paths enabling cyclists to ride to San Francisco via the Golden Gate Bridge, to Sonoma County and to Point Reyes National Seashore.

Despite Saturday's ceremony, the Richardson Bay pathway is not finished. The city hopes to turn the entire two-mile length into a linear park, with landscaping, small open areas and benches along the way. Federal funds will be sought for this project.

Miss Ellinwood has circulated a 15-point, two-page memo to other councilmen pointing out hazards of the trail as it now exists.

For one thing, she said, the entrance to the path at Rock Hill Drive is dangerous, forcing cyclists to negotiate a narrow, steap shoulder of Tiburon Boulevard in order to reach the access trail.

She also criticized lack of guardrails at three culverts where it is possible for riders to plunge into water-filled gullies, and no barrier prevents cyclists from riding straight into Greenwood Beach Road at the terminus of the pathway in Blackie's Pasture.

Signs asking cyclists to sound their horns when overtaking pedestrians and to ride on the right hand side of the path should be installed as well, and a sheriff's deputy on a bicycle should patrol the path on weekends to discourage violations, she said.

No council action has been taken on her suggestions.

Despite these apparent failings of the path, however, bicycle riders for the first time have a quick way of getting from one end of Tiburon to the other.

As 18-year-old Korinne Kothoff of Tiburon summed it up: "It's great. I used to walk my bike (along the railroad right-of-way) and it took 45 minutes to get to town. Now I can get there much faster and without having to worry about cars, too."

Apartment Units Auction Put Off

Auction of Western Oaks, a 70-unit townhouse development in Novato, scheduled for yesterday has been postponed until 10 a.m. Oct. 15 at the office of Convis, Kennedy and Shaw, attorneys, 35 Mitchell Boulevard, San Rafael.

Western Hosts, developers of the townhouse project, has been adjudged bankrupt and construction has halted.

The townhouses are west of Highway 101 in the Scottsdale area. The exteriors are completed, but interiors are not.

Newsman Death Is Investigated

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Ugandan diplomat has assured Secretary of State William P. Rogers that his government will do all possible to determine the fate of Washington Star correspondent Nicholas W. Stroh, who is missing and presumed dead in the East African nation.

In a 40-minute meeting at the Waldorf Towers Wednesday, Uganda's Foreign Minister Wanume Kibedi told Rogers his country will set up a special tribunal to make a further, exhaustive investigation into Stroh's disappearance earlier this year while on assignment.

Agent Tells FBI Trail To Angela

By MARY LEYDECKER

A Federal Bureau of Investigation agent yesterday retraced a trail of phone calls linking Angela Davis with David Poindexter after she fled California following the Aug. 7, 1970, shootout in Marin.

It was also suggested in court by the prosecutor, Albert W. Harris Jr., that Miss Davis planned at one time to flee to Cuba and went so far as to buy a textbook in elementary Spanish. Other evidence, however, indicated she may have planned flight to Canada.

The trail that led to Miss Davis's arrest on Oct. 13, 1970, in a New York motel where she was staying with Poindexter, wealthy Chicago resident, was detailed by FBI agent Lawrence J. Monroe.

(Monroe was testifying at a pretrial hearing in which Miss Davis's attorneys sought to suppress certain evidence in the case, calling it illegally obtained.)

Monroe said that Miss Davis was first linked to Poindexter by phone calls. He said agents learned through phone company records that a call had been placed three days after the shoot-out to a Chicago apartment from the home of Franklin Alexander in Los Angeles.

(Alexander is a longtime friend of Miss Davis and is currently co-chairman of her defense committee. Her car was found abandoned near his home.)

The Chicago apartment, Monroe said, was rented to a "David Day," who, the agent said, turned out to be Poindexter.

Then on Aug. 14, 1970, Monroe said, a call was made from the Poindexter apartment to a phone booth near Alexander's home.

Harris noted in court that the first call was made before a warrant had been issued for Miss Davis.

After agents linked Miss Davis with Poindexter, they traced the pair to Florida through information gleaned from Poindexter's mother. Although they missed the couple there, on Oct. 9 they searched a Miami apartment in which they had been staying.

In the apartment Monroe said was not only the Spanish book but also a roll of film containing about 50 pictures of Miss Davis taken by Poindexter.

Agents also found "writing" by Miss Davis in which she said she "was not guilty and that she would be forced into exile," Monroe said.

Copies of the pictures, showing several hair styles, were later given to agents in New York, Monroe said. He insisted, however, that it was a check of about 13 motel parking lots and garages that led to the arrest of Miss Davis. In one, agents finally found the Toyota purchased for Poindexter by his mother in Florida.

Monroe also described the circumstances of Miss Davis's arrest in a hallway of the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge in New York City, where she was grabbed by agents and a wig "snatched" from her head.

Miss Davis's attorney, Howard Moore Jr., called the arrest a "lucky guess" and the result of a "dragnet approach" but Monroe insisted he was sure the woman he arrested was Miss Davis.

It was also revealed yesterday in a document filed as evidence in the pretrial hearing that a search of Miss Davis's car, found after the shoot-out abandoned in Los Angeles, turned up a variety of articles.

In addition to a letter from Ruchell Magee, written in July 1970 and forwarded by Miss Davis's attorney, were notes that might have pertained to a planned flight to Canada, a switchblade knife, two rounds of ammunition and some birth control pills.

A sheet of paper was found which bore legible impressions of the words "Canada" and "underground," according to the affidavit.

Although the car, a 1959 Rambler, did not look operational, it was in running condition, according to agents who conducted the search. Alexander had told investigators that the car was left near his house "because the damned thing doesn't run."

Judge Richard E. Arnason, Contra Costa County jurist who is sitting in Marin Superior Court, yesterday recessed the hearing to Oct. 26 on the suppression of evidence motion. It was expected, however, that arguments on whether Miss Davis's case will remain in Marin or be transferred to San Francisco, as she has requested, will begin late next week.

She is due to go to trial Nov. 1 but court observers do not expect the trial to start that soon.

"The trains now run on time" was one of the proudest boasts of Italian fascism.

Bond Plea Slated On Radio

Marin's Community College District officials and citizen volunteers will explain the need for the district's $16.7 million bond issue on two radio programs this week, according to John A. Grasham, superintendent-president of the district.

Citizens' committee co-chairman Grace Mitchell and Trustee Charles R. Best will appear on the Bennett's Boardwalk program on Radio KTIM at 8:35 a.m. tomorrow.

At 8 a.m. Sunday, Grasham will moderate a panel on the University Forum program over station KABL AM/FM. His guests will be Trustees Donald K. Felt, Theodore C. Wellman and Best, Mrs. Mitchell and co-chairman Hadden Roth, and Donald M. Van Dyke, director of the Marin County Taxpayers Association.

Grasham also told the trustees that Channel 7, KGO-TV, would be broadcasting editorials in support of the college bonds two or three times daily tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday.

Waste Recovery Plant Due Soon

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nation's first "total" waste recovery plant will soon be extracting crushed bottle glass from this city's refuse for recycling.

A glass recovery subsystem, developed by the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, is being added to the Franklin, Ohio plant, which is already retrieving paper pulp and ferrous metals from Franklin's daily garbage accumulation and selling these materials to indsutry.

It is expected that the recovered glass will be used in manufacture of new jars and bottles and also for housing and roadpaving.

Gala Deficit Is Set At $9,000; Attendance Off

The grand opening of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building on Sept. 25 drew a paid audience of only 1,476, who dished out a total of $22,140 for the concert and buffet supper.

This was considerably less than the 1,700 or more paid customers anticipated by Executive Director Leon G. Kalimos. On the eve of the opening, Kalimos had estimated that 85 per cent of the 2,000 seats had been sold.

With the addition of 181 courtesy tickets issued free of charge to the press, critics and other invited guests including supervisors from the Bay Area and mayors of Marin, the total attendance came to 1,657.

Kalimos estimated that the total cost of the grand opening would be within the $31,500 estimate he made in September, which would leave a deficit of about $9,000.

Kalimos said he cannot give the exact deficit as yet because all the bills have not been mailed to him. "We'll have all the costs compiled after Oct. 15 when the mid-month bills are mailed," said Kalimos.

Among the known costs for opening night are the following:

Orchestra, music, staging, and guest singer — $12,450; hors d'oeuvres and supper by Thomasser and Associates of San Francisco — bid price of $6,000; cost of champagne to be billed by Thomasser on the basis of the amount consumed.

Kalimos said he had not received the Thomasser bill as of yesterday. Other costs still to be computed are newspaper advertisements, printing of tickets and other publicity material, cost of parking guides, and the official pre-concert reception held at Holiday Inn.

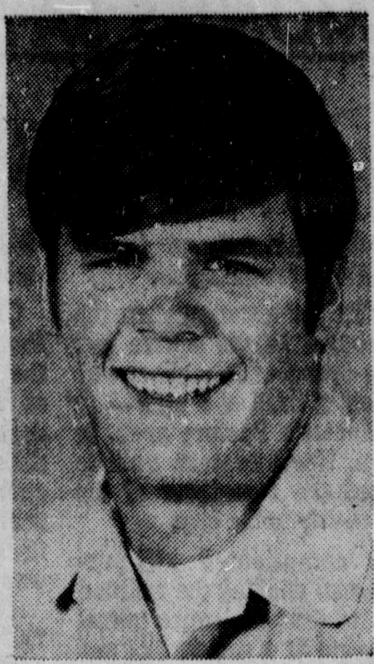
Kalimos said he had difficulty estimating the actual number of tickets sold because some customers were still buying them on the day of the opening, while others who had bought tickets in blocks of six or 10 were returning unused tickets and getting rebates.

Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, who audited the tickets sold and the cash receipts, confirmed that only 1,476 were actually sold.

Tickets on opening night were not collected at the door because they were meant to be souvenirs to be retained by the patrons, said Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator. He said there was little chance that the uncollected tickets were used for entry by non-paying outsiders because each ticket has a seat number.

He said that theoretically, a few could have slipped in after the intermission and sat in the back where several rows of seats were unoccupied, but this was unlikely.

The capacity of the building is 2,088, but only 2,003 were available on opening night because 85 removable seats are in the orchestra pit. On opening night, the orchestra pit was raised to stage level to increase the stage depth.



HONORED — Airman 1/c Gary R. Burns, an air traffic controller, recently was named airman of the quarter, July-Sept) in the 1902 Communications Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Unemployment Bill To Governor

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly has given final legislative approval to a bill extending unemployment benefits to 256,000 persons, including University of California and state college employes.

The bill by Assemblyman Robert Beverly, R-Manhattan Beach, was sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan Wednesday after the Assembly voted 64-0 to accept Senate amendments.

Tom Griffin, chief of the legal section of the Department of Human Resources Development, said the legislation would cost the state $2.5 million annually to cover 106,000 employes of the university state colleges and California state hospitals.

Another 105,000 employes of nonprofit organizations such as hospitals and community chests would also be eligible for unemployment benefits. He said the $11 million annual cost of that provisions would be borne by the employers.

Beverly's bill would bring the state into compliance with current federal law, according to Griffin. It would go into effect at the beginning of the year but no benefits were expected to be paid out until next August.

Gov. Ronald Reagan already has signed legislation providing unemployment benefits to 115,000 other state employes if they lose their jobs.

In a related action Tuesday, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee approved a bill by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, making unemployment benefits available to state college and university employes retroactive to March 1.

The committee also sent to the lower house floor a bill by Assemblyman John F. Dunlap, D-Napa, making county employes eligible for unemployment coverage.

Another measure approved increases from $65 to $75 a week unemployment benefits to state employes. It is authored by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello.

SALARIES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation giving conditional approval to a 7 1-2 per cent salary increase for University of California and state college faculty members has been approved by an Assembly committee.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee Wednesday approved the bill by Sen. Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, on a voice vote and sent it to the floor of the lower House.

Rodda's bill was amended by the committee so that the salary increases would take effect only if "excess" funds were available.

A proposed 10 per cent salary increase for university and college faculty members was vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

PRISON STUDY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A measure calling for a legislative study of the violence plagued California prison system has been unanimously adopted by the Senate.

The resolution by Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, passed the Senate without debate Wednesday and was sent to the Assembly on a 30-0 vote.

The resolution would create a 10-member joint committee of legislators to conduct an "in-depth" investigation into the administration and operation of the prisons.

The committee would report back to the legislature with recommendations for improvement.

Nejedly said the prison situation demands an investigation "quickly, effectively and intelligently." He said the committee should be able to report its preliminary findings by mid-February.

2 Hurt As Car Forced Off Road

Two 20-year-old San Rafael youths suffered minor injuries yesterday at 4 p.m. when their car was forced off Fairfax-Bolinas Road one-half mile east of Shoreline Highway.

James W. Kennedy, 303 Belle Avenue, was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts of the scalp and both arms. James Crovo, 20 Blossom Drive, was treated for multiple bruises.

The California Highway Patrol said Kennedy, the driver, told officers he was westbound on Fairfax-Bolinas Road when he was forced off the right side of the road by a passing car. He could give no description of the other car.

Man, 82, Hurt After Curb-Trip

An 82-year-old San Anselmo man was admitted yesterday to Marin General Hospital for face cuts and a possible concussion sustained when he tripped over a curb in San Anselmo.

The hospital said today Phillip Poda of 46 Woodland Avenue was in satisfactory condition.

San Anselmo police said the man apparently tripped over a curb at the intersection of San Anselmo and Woodland avenues smashing his glasses in the fall. The accident occurred at about noon.

Parkway Proposal Attacked

Residents of Southern Marin declared last night they oppose a national parkway from Golden Gate Bridge to Point Reyes National Parkway.

The National Parkway is proposed in the preliminary countywide plan which is undergoing a series of public hearings. Last night's hearing at Tamalpais High School drew an audience of about 70. Marin County planning commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo presided.

Several speakers criticized the parkway plan as damaging to environment but suggested no alternate route to the seashore except over existing roads.

County planning director Werner Von Gundell said public acquisition would be one method, and open space zoning another.

The next public hearing on the preliminary countywide plan will be held at Novato Community House at 8 p.m. next Wednesday.

Driver Tries To Save Hay, Starts A Fire

In an effort to save a truck loaded with 25 tons of hay which caught on fire yesterday, the driver dumped the burning hay along four-tenths of a mile on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard and started a two-acre grass fire.

Novato firemen reported that Andrew Myles of Santa Rosa spotted a hay fire in the back of his rig at about 3:40 p.m. and tried to save the truck by dumping the hay from the Coca Cola plant to Los Robles mobile home park.

The burning hay ignited grass along the road and scorched about two acres of grass, firemen said.

The hay completely burned at a loss of $825 and damage to the back of the truck was estimated at $1,500, according to fire officials.

Novato Fire Chief Jack Kidder said the fire started either by heat from the exhaust or by carbon particles from the exhaust which was butted up against the hay.

He said firemen used about 15,000 gallons of water in their three hour effort to quench the fire. Kidder added the bales had to be split open to make sure the fire was completely extinguished.

Thieves Chased, But Get Away

Macy's security officers gave chase through downtown San Rafael yesterday after a man and woman shoplifted $360 in pants suits from the department store.

The officers told police the thieves abandoned their loot near Burn's Florists on Fifth Avenue and escaped in separate cars.

The culprits were described as about 25 years of age.

2 New Kentfield Fire Lieutenants

The Kentfield Fire Protection District board last night approved the promotions of two firemen to lieutenant.

According to Chief Kenneth T. Kamp, the two men to fill the new positions are Robert Bettencourt and Ronald Darrington. Both will be paid $958 per month.

Bettencourt, 26, lives at 921 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, and has been with the department about three years.

Darrington, 31, lives at 27 Stetson Avenue, Kentfield, and is a 10-year department veteran.

In other action, the board continued discussion of its fire contracts with public facilities such as Marin General Hospital to its next meeting, Oct. 13.

4 BDRMS. $28,000

It probably is below fair market value — this 4-bedroom home at the ridiculously low price of $28,000. But the owner has bought another place and does not want to wait to get the top dollar for this property. He says: "Pass the savings on to the new buyer." So why not take advantage of this low price. Call for immediate appointment, buy it, and move in at once.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Oldster May Be Hypochondriac Because Illness Is Good Excuse

Older people often become hypochondriacs because unconsciously they know society is quick to forgive any misbehavior attributed to poor health. Illness is a socially acceptable excuse for not being gainfully employed or achieving and maintaining status and prestige. The elderly may believe that they are failing but it is not necessarily true. Most oldsters are healthier than we have been led to believe. Furthermore, when carefully analyzed, many of their complaints are not serious. "I'm short of breath after walking up two flights of stairs" does not necessarily mean that the person has heart disease or emphysema. I've seen younger individuals huff and puff after walking upstairs.

POOR APPETITE is also a favorite complaint. This is usually psychological, due to poorly-fitted dentures. eating alone or lack of interest in preparing tasty meals. "Boy, do I ache when I get up in the morning" may be due to a little rheumatism and is not the harbinger of crippling arthritis.

Statistics show that most senior citizens are not bedridden or in nursing homes or psychiatric institutions. The majority do not tire so quickly that they cannot work. shop, travel or engage in sex. In addition, they are not more susceptible to colds and. if anything, have only 1.3 acute illnesses (per person) per year — half the average for the entire population. Even though some spend twice as many days sick in bed after 65, than before, this amounts to less than 14 days a year.

INFIRMITIES SLOW down the oldster but he is not bothered too much if he is not hurried. Those with high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries or diseases of the brain may suffer from the complications of these conditions. However. the majority are as keen and alert as ever and some have more on the ball than many middle-agers.

Perhaps the time has come to let our elders grow old in their own way. They are doing a good job if it and if let alone, perhaps they will have no need to develop hypochondriasis.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

OVA TIMETABLE

A reader writes: Do 30 menstrual periods have to pass before ovaries are produced?

REPLY

I assume you refer to ova since it is difficult to menstruate without ovaries. The ova are produced by the ovaries midway between the menstrual cycle. There is a good possibility that the adolescent girl menstruates for some time before ova are produced. To my knowledge. there is no set time. such as after the 10th, 20th or 30th period.

SCHIZOID TENDENCIES

Mrs. V.A. writes: My husband is schizo and our young son is showing these tendencies. Is there a blood test that shows schizo properties that normal persons do not have?

REPLY

No. Many tests have been devised but none have been entirely successful. Diagnosis of this mental disorder involves talking to the patient and his family and observing his actions and reactions.

SLOW TALKER

P.S. writes: To the best of our knowledge, our 2½-year-old grandson never has spoken a word. Isn't this unusual?

REPLY

Yes. The child should be examined thoroughly to determine why he is not talking.

NIGHTMARES IN THE AGED

Mrs. O. writes: Are the elderly unusually susceptible to nightmares? My 83-year-old mother seems to be getting worse along this line.

REPLY

Nightmares are commoner in children. But they occur in the aged, particularly those who are apprehensive. Certain medicines, such as sedatives, may cause bad dreams. This could be responsible in your mother's case if she is being treated for anxiety or high blood pressure.

FUNGAL INFECTION

E. W. T. writes: A friend of mine just learned he has actinomycosis of the chest. How did he catch it?

REPLY

This fungal infection usually develops in the mouth, gums, pharynx or larynx and spreads to the lungs. The causative fungi come originally from cattle. The disease responds to penicillin and the tetracyclines. Your friend should get well before too long.

LIVER—NOT ESSENTIAL

N. K. writes: Can a person avoid liver without jeopardizing his health? P.S. It is served once a week and he can't stand the stuff.

REPLY

Yes, and neither can I. Liver is an excellent source of protein and iron but other meats are equally nourishing. It is not an essential food and many years ago, butchers used to give it away for the cat.

MIRROR WRITING

R. E. writes: What causes mirror writing in a child?

REPLY

Some authorities believe that writing from right to left is natural for left-handers. These youngsters must be trained to acquire skill in writing opposite to that which is easiest for them. But when a right-hander goes in for mirror writing, a physician should be consulted because there may be some disturbance in the functioning of the language areas of the brain.

MOTTLED SKIN

J. B. writes: What can you tell me about poikiloderma of the face and neck?

REPLY

In this condition, the skin is pigmented and atrophied in a network of patches on both sides of the face and neck. It is most common in women of menopausal age. Sensitivity to chemicals, cosmetics or rays of the sun may also play a role. Poikiloderma is descriptive of the appearance of the skin rather than a definite disease.

Today's Health Hint — It is better to institutionalize a senile parent than to have him disrupt the home life of his children and grandchildren.

Death Meted Out In Aborted Skyjack

AMMAN (UPI)—The Jordanian government has approved a death sentence imposed on a Palestinian guerrilla convicted by a military court last month of attempting to hijack a Royal Jordanian jetliner, the Middle East News Agency said today.

The man, Hilal Abdel Kader Hassan, 20, was overpowered by a guard minutes after producing a hand-grenade and threatening to detonate it unless the plane flew to Baghdad.

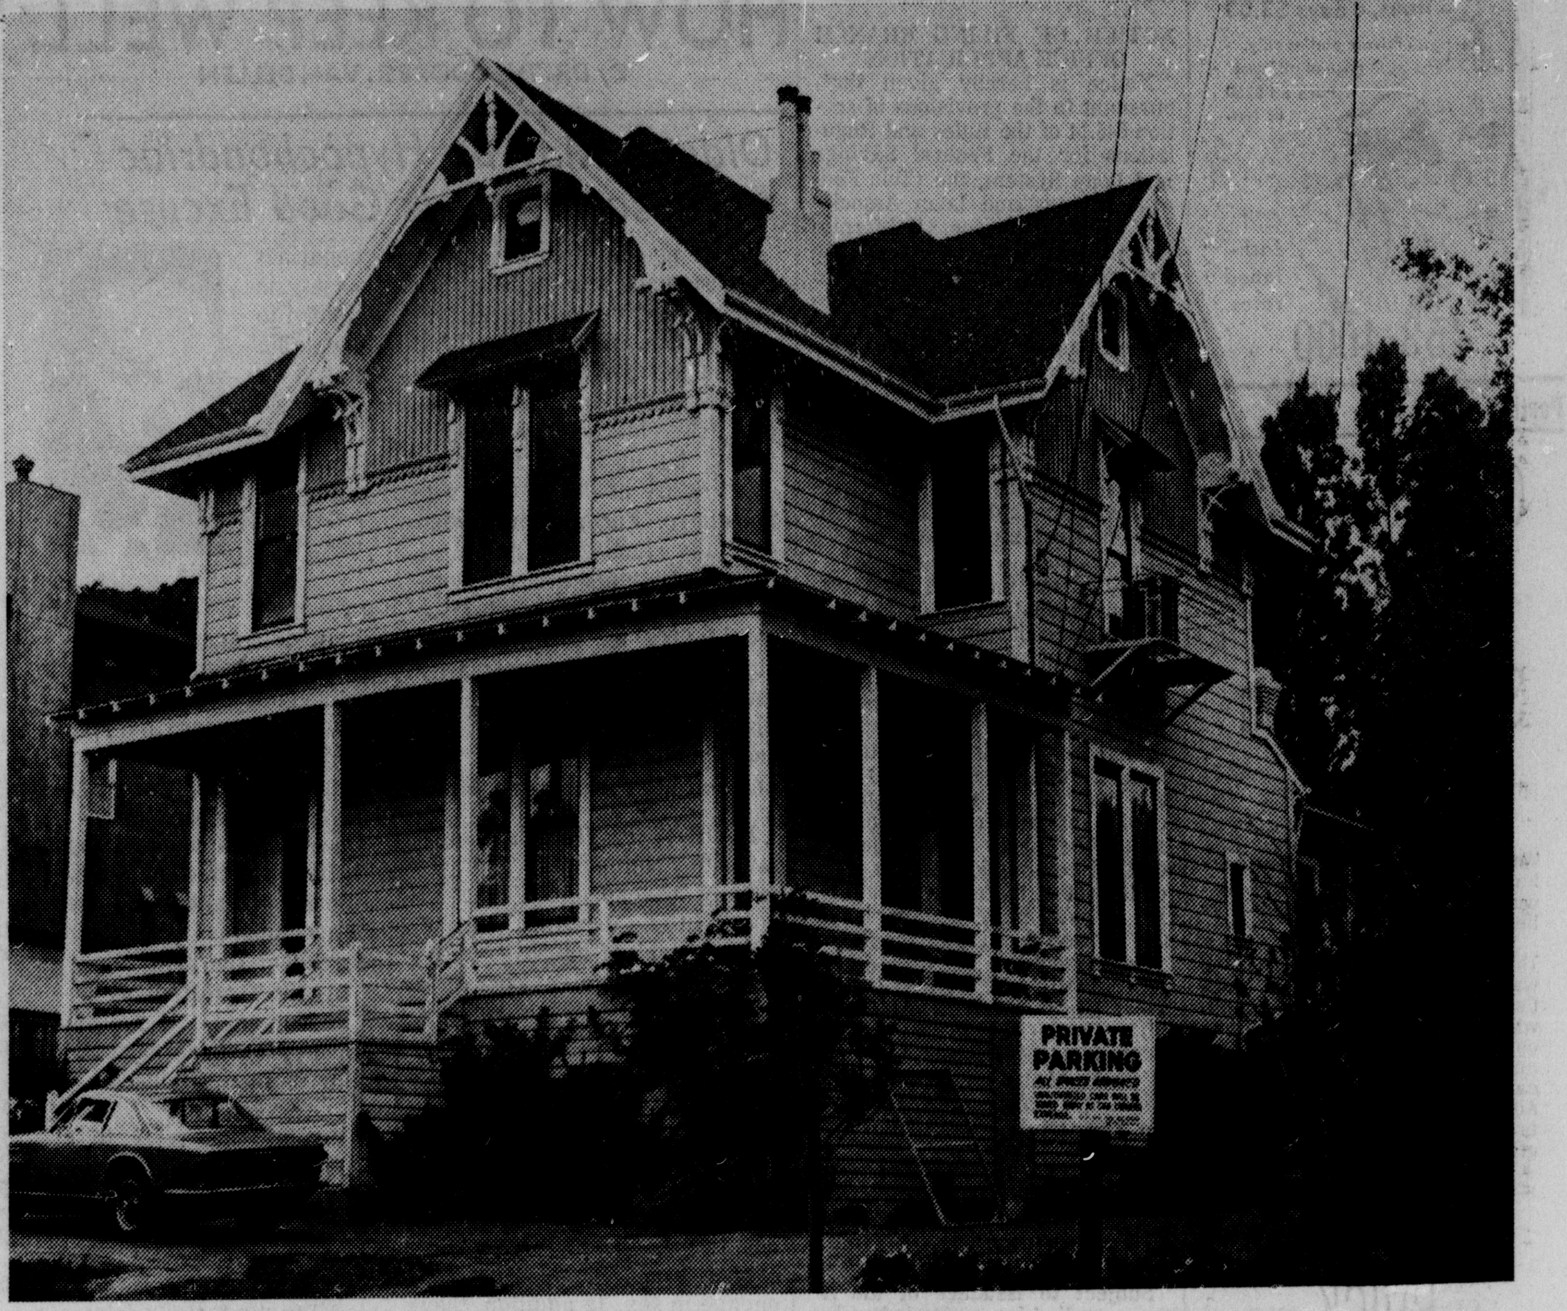
FIRST MAYOR'S HOME IN '90s — This picture of the home of Edward C. McCarthy appeared in a booklet published by the Marin Journal in 1894. McCarthy was the first to hold the title of mayor of the City of San Rafael after its elevation from the status of town.



AS IT LOOKS TODAY — The second floor of what once was the Mayor McCarthy home, restored to elegance by painter's brush, looks much as it did originally. New owner Betty Ford plans to restore the lower story also.

Woman Couldn't Destroy An Old Victorian Beauty

Because a San Francisco widow couldn't bear to destroy a vestige of Victorian architectural beauty, San Rafael will retain a landmark home with historical associations.

When Mrs. Betty Ford purchased the Wachsman Building at 914 Mission Avenue, she got with it a lot at 828 Mission on which was an old residence in use as a rooming house for single men. This came about because when the Wachsman Building was erected, the lot on which it stands lacked space to meet city parking requirements, so owner Edward K. Wachsman was required to provide parking elsewhere. He purchased the lot at 828 Mission and black-topped it for parking.

There was little about the rooming house to make it appear anything but just another old house that had been allowed to run down. Mrs. Ford considered razing it to provide more parking.

"Then I looked at it from across the street," she related, "and I could see that it had once been a beautiful home. The second story had been left in its original form, and hinted at what the house might have been."

That sent her to the Marin Historical Society's museum at Mission Avenue and B Street, where she found a book of pictures of Marin homes and views published by the Marin Journal in 1894. And among them was one of the house she had acquired, identified as the residence of Mayor Edward C. McCarthy.

Mrs. Ford, a native San Franciscan who says she has "a sentiment for the Bay Area," pursued her research from there. She learned the house had been built in 1880, and that the Mayor McCarthy who later owned it was the first to hold the title of mayor of the City of San Rafael.

San Rafael was incorporated as a town in 1874, with a town board of trustees as the governing body. In those days, California had six classes of cities, each with a little different amount of home rule — the class being based on population.

In the 1890 census, San Rafael's population went over the 3,000 mark, entitling it to become a city of the fifth class — no longer merely a town. It took the city fathers a couple of years to get around to doing anything about this, but the April 1893 election was set up to elect the first governing board for the City of San Rafael.

Henry C. Gieske, M. Herzog, McCarthy, William J. Muler and Stanley P. Moorhead were elected as the first board of trustees of the new city, and at the first meeting following the election, McCarthy was chosen as mayor.

However, attorney G. W. Monteith, who was chairman of the Republican Central Committee of Marin, challenged the election. San Rafael did not automatically become a fifth class city by virtue of the census, he contended.

E.B. Martinelli, appointed as city attorney by the new board, had as his first job defense against Monteith's suit. He won it, the superior court ruling the election was valid — and thus upholding McCarthy's right to the title of first mayor of San Rafael. As an aftermath of the suit, the Republican Central Committee ousted Monteith as chairman.

Among other things, the community's new status raised the limit on San Rafael's tax rate from 65 cents to $1 per $100 assessed valuation (which is still the limit except for some special purpose taxes, and is more than the city has levied in recent years). It also made teachers in the city schools employees of the city (which they ceased to be under legislation that came along some 40 years later).

Mrs. Ford felt this historical association of the old house was enough to merit its designation as a historical landmark. She has communicated with the California Historical Names and Sights Committee, and expects the McCarthy house to be designated a historical site when she completes its restoration.

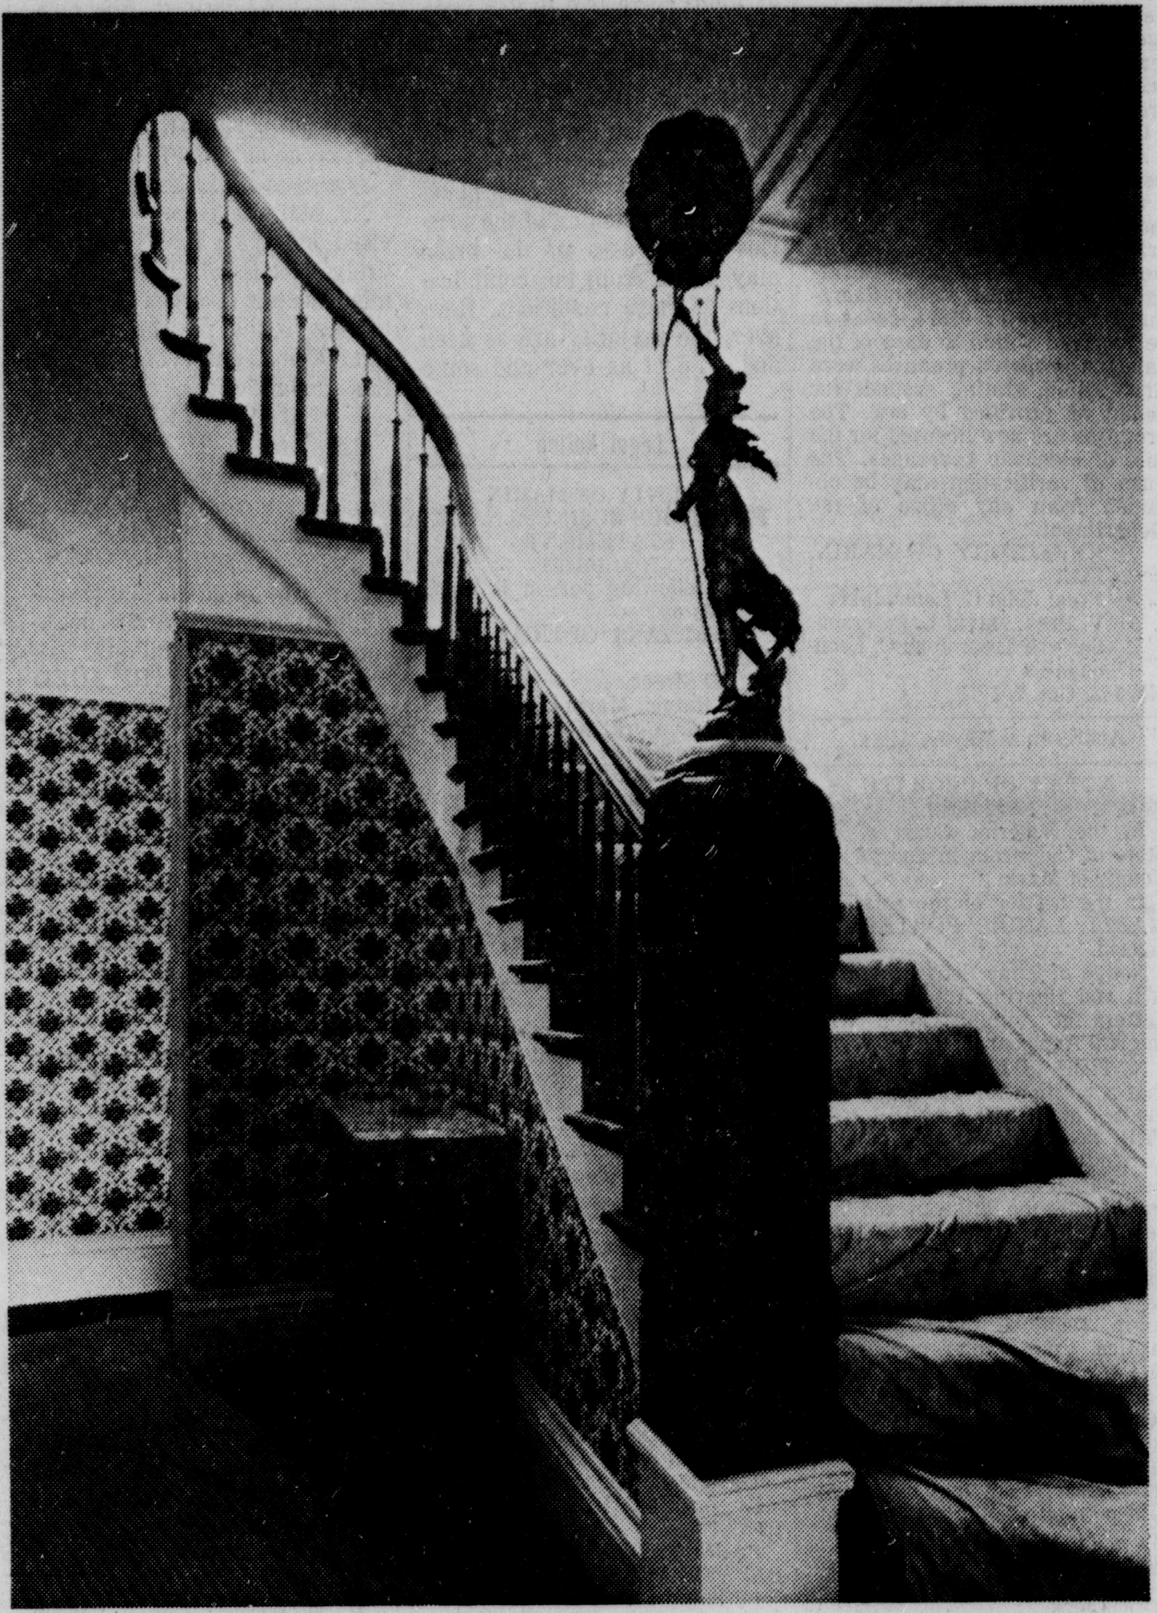
The restoration itself involves restoring a porch running around two sides of the house, with ornamental pillars. Inside, it involves restoring the rooms to resemblance of the way they must have appeared in the 1880s and '90s.

Mrs. Ford enlisted the aid of James Andrew Ring, a San Rafael architect, to oversee the restoration. The interior is mostly done — even to some furnishings and pictures on the walls. The hundreds of ornamental wood pieces for the big porch have been duplicated.

The new owner plans also to landscape the lot. The blacktop will have to go. Mrs. Ford is negotiating for parking for the Wachsman Building elsewhere.

She is not sure to what use the house will be put. But Dunnyhills has expressed interest in leasing it for a dining room-restaurant as a continuing means of raising money for its home for youngsters with personal and family problems.

VICTORIAN INTERIOR — In the interior of what was a run-down rooming house when she bought it, Betty Ford goes over plans for restoration of home at 828 Mission Avenue to make it a San Rafael landmark.



CURVING STAIRCASE — With its fine wood cleaned and refinished and a statue lamp atop its newel post, the curving stairway of the onetime mayor's mansion shows how Victorian elegance is being recaptured.

Stage Is Set In Vietnam For Second Oil Crisis Of Year

VIENNA (UPI)—The major oil-exporting nations announced today they want negotiations aimed at step-by-step control of oil companies' property and operations on their territory.

A statement issued by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) said an OPEC meeting in Beirut Sept. 22 decided on immediate steps toward ... effective participation in existing concessions. At present, the major Western oil companies lease these "concessions" from the countries.

The OPEC statement also approved a new increase in the price of oil by urging its members to "take necessary action" to offset the "de facto devaluation of the U.S. dollar" the currency on which all the countries' dealings with the companies is based.

Vienna is headquarters for the OPEC, which include Algeria, Libya, Iran, Iraq, Venezuela, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Abu Dhabi, Kuwait, Indonesia and Nigeria.

The members' share in oil company revenues through increases in taxes, rents and other income has risen over the years. But for the most part the oil-producing nations have never had a real share in the property or operations on the leases, which are due to expire between 1982 and 2026.

The countries say they want both a financial stake in the operations on their territory and—looking ahead to the day when the leases expire—some knowhow in running their own operations.

The OPEC statement said they wanted to get this through "participation"—OPEC's word for part or full ownership of the oil operations.

The statement said negotiations with the oil companies should be carried out "either individually or in groups." This meant OPEC foresaw no united front against the companies. Oil sources in the countries differed in the share of "participation" they wanted. Libya, for example, wants a 51 per cent share, or actual control, they said. Algeria already has this control.

Nigeria, they said, wants a 33 1-3 per cent participation. The other countries will ask for a 20 to 30 per cent share.

The sources stressed that the countries are willing to pay for these shares—preferably out of oil revenue. But they said the OPEC members will use the threat of nationalization as a means of getting their way.

All Indonesia's production is nationalized and Algeria recently took over control of the French leases on its territory.

Today's statement set the stage for the second world oil crisis in a year.

Last February, the threat of a world-wide oil famine ended when the companies agreed to demands by OPEC nations—acting in concert—that the Persian Gulf nations should get increases in taxes and royalties amounting to $1.2 billion this year alone.

Victim Of Accident Said Satisfactory

Denise Martell, 17, of Glen Ellen, was reported in satisfactory condition at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with a broken right arm and cuts suffered when her car overturned at 6:05 p.m. yesterday on Roberts Road west of Lichau Road, Penngrove.

The California Highway Patrol said the car ran off the roadway on a sharp curve and rolled over.

$200 Construction Bucket Is Pilfered

A $200 backhoe bucket — a piece of construction equipment — owned by Pacific Gas and Electric Co., has been reported stolen from the street improvement site at Doherty Drive and Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur, police said today.

The bucket was taken sometime between Friday night and Monday morning, officers said.

FBI Segment Of Film To Be Carried

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 12-minute segment alleging the FBI condoned acts of violence which was cut from a Public Broadcasting Service show aired in cities across the country Wednesday will be broadcast by a local station Friday.

WNET, the New York City educational station, scheduled a one-hour program for Friday night entitled "Behind the Lines—Special" which will include the FBI segment.

The film, compiled by Paul Jacobs of National Educational Television, was cut from Wednesday night's "The Great American Dream Machine" because PBS said it wanted additional documentation of certain allegations. In its place, a piano player appeared on Dream Machine.

Jacobs called the action censorship. Jerry Slater, general manager of PBS, said the cancellation had nothing to do with the controversial nature of the program and said it would be broadcast later with more documentation.

According to Jacobs, David Sannes and Jeff Desmond of Seattle and Charles Grimm of Tuscaloosa, Ala., acted as undercover informants within new left groups in 1969 and 1970. Jacobs said the FBI gave approval to acts of violence planned by the three.

Sannes' plan to booby trap a bomb so radicals would be killed was never carried out, Jacobs said, but Desmond's plan to bomb a Seattle post office and Grimm's plan to set fire to buildings at the University of Alabama were. Desmond and Grimm were arrested with others in those cases but both were released, Jacobs said.

Dr. Jean A. Young has been named coordinator of elementary educatioc at Sonoma State College.

As coordinator, Dr. Young will deal with curriculum and work with student teachers, school principals, master teachers and college supervisors.

Dr. Young has been a member of the Sonoma State education department for several years and has been chairman of the Admissions Committee for Education Students, the Academic Senate and athletic board. She received her bachelors degree at the State University of New York at Oswego and masters and doctoral degrees at the University of California at Berkeley.

Expanding Picnic Facilities Due Study

The Marinwood Volunteer Firemen's Association has formed a committee to study expanding the picnic facilities at the Marinwood Community Center.

The association at its meeting Tuesday appointed Irving Schwartz chairman of the committee which will also recommend to the Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission the association's proposals for use of the picnic grounds.

President Donald B. Stiver said the association recommended a centralized reservations system be set up within the park and recreation department; permission to use the picnic grounds and facilities must be granted from the Marinwood Fire Department; the service road should not be used except to bring in supplies and that garden hoses should be available when the area is used.

The association re-elected Peter G. Bianucci, vice president; Bert Balke, treasurer; Gerald A. Falbo, secretary, and Ton Marinoff, sergeant-at-arms.

Boas Will Address Club On Wednesday

Roger Boas, a San Francisco supervisor and candidate for the sixth Congressional District seat, will address Marin County Young Democrats for Change at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the College of Marin.

The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported Tuesday that the address would be last night.

Big Subdivision Is Voted Down

UKIAH (UPI)—A referendum election Tuesday turned down by a vote of about 7-to-2 a proposed subdivision of 8,100 lots.

The subdivision, called "My Ranch" by Oakland promoter Jeff Dennis, had been approved by a vote of 3-2 by the Mendocino County Board of Supervisors.

The referendum election was called after about 5,000 citizens signed a petition aimed at reversing the supervisors' vote.

With 31 out of 36 precincts counted Tuesday night, the vote was 6,585 against the subdivision and 1,848 in favor.

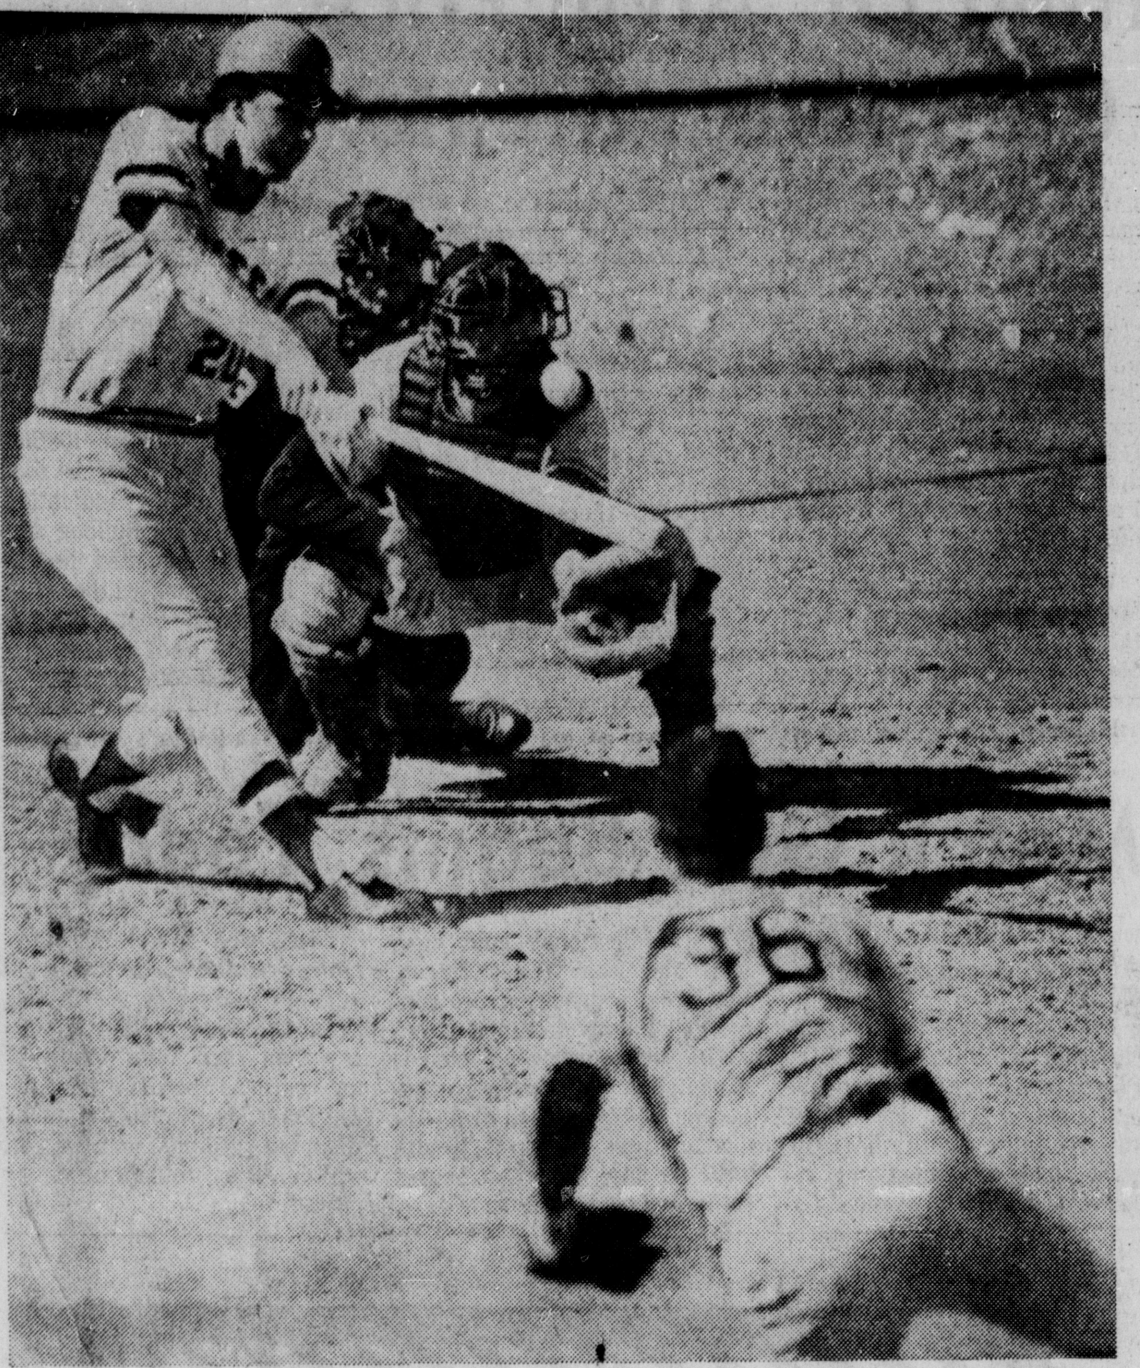
Pittsburgh Pirate Pitching On Spot Vs. Orioles



THERE IT GOES — Pittsburgh's Rich Hebner blasted this home run over the right field fence during the second inning of yesterday's close-out 9-5 victory over the San Francisco Giants. The homer, off Gaylord Perry, tied the score at 5-5. Catcher is Dick Dietz and umpire is Andy Olsen.

(UPI Telephoto)

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates, believing their pitching staff vindicated, headed for the World Series today worried more about an elbow and a thigh than about the Baltimore Orioles.

"We don't care if Paul Bunyon is pitching," said Willie Stargell. "We're going to beat them."

The elbow belongs to 19-game winner Dock Ellis and the thigh to Nelson Briles, but despite the injuries the Pirates are confident they will not suffer the same fate that Cincinnati's crippled pitching staff met in last year's World Series.

"My arm feels better," said Ellis, Pittsburgh's top winner, who created a storm when he labeled club officials "cheapskates" because of travel policies.

"We're ready for the World Series, and I'll be ready too," he said.

Only moments after the Pirates beat the San Francisco Giants 9-5 Wednesday to win the National League pennant, Manager Danny Murtaugh selected Ellis —if he is healthy — to pitch the Series opener Saturday at Baltimore.

It was one of the less-heralded members of the Pirates' pitching staff who did in San Francisco.

Bruce Kison, a fuzzy-cheeked 21-year-old righthander with only a half-season in the majors, picked up the biggest win of his career when he shut out the Giants on two hits in four and two-thirds innings of clutch relief.

When Kison came in the score was tied 5-5 only because Richie Hebner hit a three-run homer in the bottom of the second inning after Steve Blass, when Willie McCovey singled and Bobby Bonds walked.

Dave Giusti then came in, struck out Dick Dietz to end the inning and set the Giants down in the eighth and ninth innings without a hit to record his third successive playoff save.

"The job (Bob) Johnson and Kison did in the last two games shows we have depth," Briles said. "It shows that our pitching staff has been underrated."

"With the added rest of three or four days I think I'll be ready to pitch in the Series," Briles said.

Clemente drove in the runs Hebner and Oliver did not get with their homers Wednesday.

He singled to score Dave Cash, who had singled, and Hebner, who had doubled, in the first inning and give the Pirates a 2-1 lead. San Francisco got an unearned run in its half.

The Giants scored their final four runs in the second on Chris Speier's homer, singles by Ken Henderson and Tito Fuentes and a three-run homer by tmcCovey.

The Pirates were scheduled to fly to Baltimore today and work out Friday at Memorial Stadium.

"I knew I had to do the job," Kison said. "It was either today or never and I knew there was no reason to save it."

FOX SAYS

'Nothing To Be Ashamed Of; We Did All Right'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — San Francisco Giants manager Charlie Fox is an authority on the batting power of the Pittsburgh Pirates. He has seen enough of the evidence.

The Pirates collected 11 hits off the Giants Wednesday for a 9-5 victory in the fourth game of the National League playoffs that brought them the pennant.

But Fox still ponders one question: How will the Pirate pitching stand up against the Baltimore Orioles in the World Series?

"Pittsburgh better have good pitching in the Series," Fox said, in the visiting manager's office after the game Wednesday.

He sipped a Coke.

"They're savage with that bat, no doubt about that. And if they get any kind of pitching, they'll be tough," he said.

Beaten in three of four games in the playoffs, Fox naturally was disconsolate but his mood did not hide the pride he has for his players.

"We did well this year," he said. "Maybe we'll do better next year. We have nothing to be ashamed of. We played well."

Willie McCovey's three-run homer off starter Steve Blass gave the Giants a 5-2 lead in the second inning but the Pirates came back with an equalizer in the bottom of the inning when Richie Hebner hit a three-run homer.

"It was like a 0-0 game at that point until the sixth," Fox said, referring to Roberto Clemente's single which gave the Pirates a one-run edge and then Al Oliver's three run homer that put the game out of reach.

"When a team is hitting like the Pirates are, you must contain them," Fox said. "But then we had five runs and we should have won."

Juan Marichal pitched in the Giants last regular season game last Thursday when he beat San Diego to help his team win the Western Division title. He was the loser in Tuesday's playoff contest.

"If Juan only could have come back for another game in the playoffs..." Fox mused.

Romania Pair Key Tennis Upset Bid

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI)— Romania is relying on two members of its tennis team to snatch the coveted Davis Cup from the United States in the playoff beginning tomorrow.

Illie Natase and Ion Tiriac, two of the best clay court performers in the world, will play the doubles and two of the four singles matches on the clay courts of Julian J. Clark stadium.

It is possible for Natase and Tiriac to win for Romania regardless of the sucess of their teammates, Petre Marmureanu and Viorel Marcu.

Marmureanu and Marcu, ranked third and fourth in Romania, will play the other two singles.

The U. S. probably will play Stan Smith and Eric Van Dillen in the doubles, with Smith, Clark Graebner and Frank Froehling handling the singles matches. Dillen will play only doubles.

Broncos Get Colts Receiver

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — The Denver Broncos obtained wide receiver Gordon Bowdell from the Baltimore Colts via waivers Wednesday and also reactivated rookie offensive lineman Tom Beard, who was cut earlier in the season for the game with visiting Oakland Sunday.

Bowdell, 6-foot-2, 203-pounds, was the Colts' No. 7 draft choice from Michigan State. Beard, 6-6, 260 pounds, was the Broncos' No. 8 choice this year and was with Denver until the team made its final cut.

Head Coach Lou Saban said he would start working in more young players in the offensive platoon in hopes of correcting problems on the team.

However, Saban said he had no plans to do "a lot of wild things on offense and further put pressure on the defensive unit."

Saban said lineman George Goeddeke would be moved from guard to center, replacing the injured Larry Kaminski, who is out indefinitely, and that Sam Brunelli, who has been bothered by injuries, will be shifted to guard.

Saban said he also intended to continue with Don Horn as starting quarterback, despite the fact he has been intercepted 10 times in the last two games. Saban said the interceptions were not entirely Horn's fault.

The Bronco coach declined to elaborate on his decision cutting veteran tight end Jim Whalen. "We thought we could get along without Whalen," Saban said.

The Raiders indicated they would activate Hewritt Dixon and Charlie Smith for the Bronco game. Both are ostensibly first stringers although Marv Hubbard has been running so well at fullback that Dixon may

DEACON JONES HURT

49ers Better, Nolan Claims

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)— Coach Dick Nolan feels that his team is better right now than at the same time last year, but "so are the other teams."

The 49ers have given up just 3.0 yards per rush, an excellent figure, and Nolan Wednesday credited improved play by the defensive line and continued good performances by the linebackers and deep backs.

The Prospectors were eighth among 14 NFL National Conference teams in defense last year and are fourth this time around going into Sunday's battle with Los Angeles.

The 1971 defensive unit is actually almost identical to the 1970 one, but young defensive ends Tommy Hart and Cedrick Hardmann have profited from a year's experience and Earl Edwards starting at tackle for the departed Roland Lakes seems to cause a few more turnovers by the opposition.

Nolan also feels the offense is improved over last year's 10-3-1 team since the offensive line is spreading wider to help the running attack, but still seems to be able to protect quarterback John Brodie. The addition of Vic Washington to the starting backfield also has given the team a new threat.

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Rams may be without Deacon Jones, their All-Pro defensive end, when they meet the San Francisco Forty-Niners Sunday.

Jones is hobbled by a sprained arch on his left foot. He has been troubled before by the arch and reinjured it last Sunday in the Rams' victory over the Chicago Bears.

He was on crutches Wednesday at the Ram camp and took therapy on the foot.

Jones, in 11 years with the Rams, has never missed a regular season game.

City Tennis Tourney Set

The San Rafael City Doubles Championships begin with the women's doubles on the Albert Park courts.

Deadline for paying the $7 team entry fee is Monday at noon in the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department, City Hall; entries are available for all Marin County residents 19-years of age or older.

THOMAS REACTIVATED

Dallas Star On Bench

DALLAS (UPI) —Duane Thomas, the rampaging rookie of 1970, is back officially on the Dallas Cowboys' roster and available for duty, but it appears the man who ran for 803 yards a year ago may have to be content with a benchwarming role.

That is, barring crippling injuries to halfback Calvin Hill or fullback Walt Garrison, who have been performing excellently under the haphazard blocking conditions displayed by their teammates.

This is especially true of Hill, whose 3.7-yard average for 229 yards in 63 carries for three games is very misleading.

"Hill's running has been tremendous," Coach Tom Landry said. "He's been getting what he has without much blocking. If he gets the blocking, there's no telling what he might do."

Much the same is true in Garrison's case. Garrison also is averaging 3.7 yards on 29 carries, but he also is the club's leading pass receiver with 13 for 133 yards. Hill is No. 2 with 10 for 110 yards as Cowboy quarterbacks have favored the backs and tight ends over the wide receivers this year for the first time.

Thomas, who missed all of training camp and the preseason games because of a sometimes-vitriolic verbal battle with the club over renegotiation of his contract, has pleased Landry with both his physical and mental condition during the 10 days he's worked.

"Thomas is in good shape," Landry said. "It's amazing how much he has retained. We've been working him at both halfback and fullback and he's been running real well at both. And, his attitude is good —no different from last season.

"But, as for how much he will play —Monday night against the New York Giants, or later, just depends," Landry added.

Asked what the team's mental reaction might be in the wake of the 20-16 loss to Eastern Division challenger Washington last Sunday, Landry replied:

"Let's hope it shocks us into doing what we need to do. This Washington game wasn't as big as the next one against them."

Fired Eagle Coach Blasts Ex-Boss

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—For more than two years of the frustration of watching his Philadelphia Eagles lose game after game, head coach Jerry Williams never lost his composure. On Wednesday, he lost his job and his temper, in that order.

Eagles owner Leonard Tose, citing a lack of progress, fired the former Canadian league coach and replaced him with defensive line coach Eddie Khayat for the rest of the season.

After he was "relieved of his duties," Williams, who seldom raised his voice despite a 7-19-2 record the past two years and 0-3 this season, blasted Tose as a man "without courage and character" and said the club tried to "bribe" him into resigning.

Pete Retzlaff, Eagles general manager, denied that Williams, who was in the last year of a three-year contract, had been offered a bribe.

"It wasn't figured on a dollar value," Retzlaff said. "For Jerry's future and his family I said maybe it would be better to resign. I suggested that if he did, maybe I would be in a position to better help him."

Tose said he thought Williams was a good fundamental coach "and until the recent statement I thought he was a fine gentleman."

Tose said "It is the first time I have ever been accused of not having courage."

"I like to think I'm a compassionate man,", Tose added "and what I did was a goodwill gesture."

The grim Williams read from a prepared statement in which he said he was fired at a time when he and the team were looking forward to "turning the season around and winning the respect that hard work deserves."

"Unfortunately, I was working for a man who is without courage and character," Williams added. "I was offered a sizable sum of money to resign, but to accept a bribe of that nature is to lower myself to his depths."

He then walked out.

Tose said the decision to replace Williams with Khayat, both of whom were former Eagles players, was made Tuesday night after three days of deliberation "because of our record."

"Look at the score of our last four games," he said, referring to a pre-season rout by the Detroit Lions and then lopsided league losses to the Cincinnati Bengals, Dallas Cowboys and San Francisco 49'ers.

"I thought I could improve our position with Eddie Khayat," Tose said.

The team's player representative, linebacker Ron Porter, said it was a "grave injustice that one man must bear the brunt of an entire organization's shortcomings."

"We as players have failed Coach Williams in our performance on the field and must take responsibility for what has happened," he said.

Khayat, 35, a star defensive lineman for the Eagles in 1960 when the club last won a championship, said he planned no drastic changes but added there "may be some new starters this week."

The former Tulane star was an assistant coach with the New Orleans Saints last year and ironically has his old boss, Tom Fears, as an assistant now.

"This is the best talent the Eagles have had in a long, long time, overall," said Khayat of the team that faced three 1970 divisional champions in its first three games and plays two more, Minnesota and Oakland, the next two weeks.

ROSES ON LINE

Stanford Faces Sixkiller Saturday

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sonny Sixkiller-Don Bunce; Washington-Stanford; The subject is roses.

That's the story Saturday when the two giants of the Pacific Eight Conference, led by two of the nation's premiere quarterbacks converge in Seattle for what could prove to be a one-way ticket to the Rose Bowl.

Washington (4-0) has disposed of non league opponents California at Santa Barbara, Purdue, TCU, and Illinois as Sixkiller tossed eight touchdown passes and picked up 949 yards.

Stanford, led by Bunce's seven TD passes and 909 yards, lost its first game last week (93 to Duke) but previously rolled over Missouri, Army and Oregon. With Southern California the only other team rated a shot at the Pacific Eight crown, Sixkiller and Bunce may very well decide things even this early in the season.

In other key college games this weekend, Texas is a six-point favorite over Oklahoma, Michigan is rated 13 over Michigan State, Penn State 20 over Army, Georgia 10 over Mississippi, Ohio State 22 over Illinois, Colorado 17 over Iowa State, Kansas three over Kansas State, Southern California 12 over Oregon and Air Force 14 over SMU.

Top ranked Nebraska is a solid 21 points choice over Missouri while Notre Dame is 14 over Miami, Tennessee 10 over Georgia Tech, LSU 20 over Florida and North Carolina 10 over Tulane. The Washington-Stanford matchup is considered a toss-up.

"We have forgotten Duke and all that disappointment," Stanford coach John Ralston says. Right now we feel we'll be playing the best team in the Pacific Eight this Saturday in Seattle and that's all we're thinking about right now."

Last season, Stanford employed the arm of Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett to pull out a 29-22 win over the Huskies in the fourth period. Bunce has proven to be a worthy successor to Plunkett, but Sixkiller is a year older and wiser and will have a partisan crowd behind him this time.

The Texas-Oklahoma meeting matches up the No. 3 and No. 7 teams in a traditional grudge affair at neutral Dallas. The Sooners, with quarterback Jack Mildren complementing the running of Joe Wylie and Greg Pruitt, have won this grudge battle only once since 1958.

FINAL INNING OF 1971

A very dejected San Francisco Giants manager, Charlie Fox, and slugger Willie McCovey (right) watched the final inning of yesterday's 9-5 loss to the Pittsburgh Pirates. The victory by the Pirates put them in the World Series and ended the Giants' 1971 playing days.

Warriors Drop Tilt To Sonics

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—The Seattle Sonics used a hot third-quarter and then outlasted the Golden State Warriors for a 103-101 pre-season National Basketball Association victory here Wednesday night.

The two teams were deadlocked 49-49 at the half but the Sonics outscored the Warriors by a 32-21 margin in the third quarter and then weathered a Golden State surge.

The victory gave the Seattle club a 7-2 exhibition mark with one more pre-season game left prior to the start of the regular NBA season.

Golden State, which played without center Nate Thurmond, was led by Jeff Mullins with 23.

Redwood Back First I-J Prep Of Week

DARYL EDRALIN
Touchdown man

Redwood High School halfback Daryl Edralin has amassed 221 yards for a 7.8 yard average and has scored 50 points in only three games to date.

Two of his seven touchdowns of the year came last Saturday in Redwood's 37-13 triumph over Drake, earning him the Independent-Journal's first Prep of the Week award of the season.

The 5-foot-11, 170-pound junior came to California six years ago, spending his childhood days in an isolated area in Hawaii. "We were too far away to participate in any organized athletics," he said.

Edralin wanted to play for his uncle's grid team in Hawaii "but I wasn't big enough." Undaunted, he accompanied his brother Bill, also a starting Giant halfback, and parents, Frank and Annie Wolverton on a Pacific Ocean voyage to California.

"My father was transferred here by his company, so we moved" to Tiburon, Edralin added. With the distance factor now eliminated, Edralin set out to play football — "because I like the contact. I had seen a lot of football, and I wanted to play."

Prompted by great inner drive, Edralin joined the Redwood Junior Giants seventh-eighth grade Pop Warner football team, and he soon earned a starting right linebacker slot, then shifted to quarterback.

He performed admirably at quarterback for coach Phil Roark's Giants last year. When starter Bob Brown was injured, Edralin filled in, completing 45 per cent of his passes, good for four touchdowns.

Though Edralin's performance was impressive during his emergency stint against powerhouses like Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools, he welcomed the change to halfback this fall.

"We already had three quarterbacks," he continued, "and I prefer running back; so I was happy with the move." And so is Roark; his charges are 3-0 while averaging 31 points per game.

Edralin hopes to help the team maintain the team's sizzling pace — and ultimately attend the University of Southern California.

The soft spoken student with a 2.8 grade point average, roughly a B- clip, prefers the Los Angeles-based school "because it has an excellent football program. I'd like to take part in it."

Chances are, coach John MacKay would welcome this lithe youth with fine, broken-field moves and great, in-class drive. That combination is tough to top, thus it would surprise no one if Edralin reaches his goal of becoming a good high school football coach.

The strong-willed youth has ruled out junior college matriculation. "I promised my parents I would be going straight to a four year institution," he said quietly.

If Daryl gets to USC on a football scholarship, he may thank a good friend — his brother Bill. "My brother always kids me when he gets tackled. He says, 'You're lucky I'm in here getting hit; this way, you get the holes' " needed to compile yardage.

"We're quite close," Daryl smiled proudly.

The lanky, dark complexioned athlete enjoys other athletic endeavors besides football. Last year, he batted .308 as the Giants' starting second baseman. He is also an avid body surfer.

"This summer," he enthused, "I returned to Hawaii for the first time, and I hit some 13 foot waves."

Should Edralin encounter an equal number of touchdowns, he may make some saves at USC.

The game remained tied until the bottom of the sixth when Roberto Clemente singled home the tie-breaking run and, after the slumping Stargell was intentionally passed in a bit of questionable strategy, Al Oliver slammed a three-run homer.

San Marin Runners Win First Meet

San Marin High School earned its first cross country victory this year, defeating Drake 25-30 on the winner's 2.7 mile course Tuesday.

Gary Lathop led the victors with a 15:03 clocking.

PREP NOTEBOOK

Hard Hitting Of Alvin Price Prompts Conflicting Mentor Views

By RON LENT

The adage that "no two people see the same thing exactly alike" is valid when probing this year's Marin County Athletic League football exploits.

For example, Tamalpais High School defensive back Alvin Price slammed several Terra Linda High School ball carriers with great gusto last Friday at San Rafael High. The Trojan sideliners barked at Price for being "a hotdog."

Later, Price's coach Mike Davlin lauded his protege's play as "outstanding. He is a good , clean hitter."

In questioning the fans regarding Price's zealous play, the typical response was "who's he?"

MARIN CATHOLIC fans are all excited over the team's sudden turnabout after dropping the first two games. The Kentfield delegation promptly dumped two Santa Rosa teams, Piner and Cardinal Newman high schools.

With this sudden show of strength comes renewed talk of the Wildcat's re-entering the Marin County Athletic League football race.

If Banducci's squad rejoins the MCAL ranks, the list swells to eight and precludes the "byes" member team have this year.

A PICNIC atmosphere exists at Novato High School football games with numerous fans lying on the grass behind a roped off area in front of the stands.

Officials there voiced disapproval of the mass of bodies sprawled across the greens during the games, but no definite action has been taken to the eliminate this practice.

WHILE MOST MCAL observers marvel at the competitiveness of the varsity football competition, it might be wise they study over the soccer standings.

At present, Redwood, San Rafael high schools are tied for the lead with Tamalpais, Drake and San Marin closing in.

SAN RAFAEL High football fans are truly loyal, if road attendance is any indication. For example, the Bulldog supporters nearly equalled the Lincoln High throng gathered in San Francisco Sept. 18. The enthusiasm and crowd size awed the Lincoln fanatics — and so did the football team's play in San Rafael's 33-0 romp.

Picadilly Match Golf Begins Today

WENTWORTH, England (UPI)—Few professional golfers like match play events, in which one mediocre round can spell the end of the tournament. But if there's one the stars do look forward to it's the Piccadilly World match-play championship that began today.

The prize money of $60,000 of which the winner gets $20,400 is attractive, though not remarkable.

Even such stars as Jack Niklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player who are used to the best, get a kick out of the super-luxury treatment the eight invited competitors receive at this unique event.

It's professional golf in a style the late Walter Hagen, that great crusader of pro golfers rights, only dreamed about.

The Wentworth Club itself is in the center of London's stockbroker belt, an ultra-exclusive quarter that reeks of wealth with its big, detached houses set in secluded grounds.

There are more "private" notices on the roads that wind among the estates set in this heavily-wooded section of Surrey than road signs. Many of the gardens border the fairways of Wentworth's famous "Burma Road" course on which the tournament is played.

O's Pitching Questioned

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—It will take more than impressive statistics to convince the Pittsburgh Pirates that the Baltimore pitching staff is invincible.

Baltimore has four pitchers who won 20 games or more this season: Jim Palmer (20-9), Dave McNally (21-5), Pat Dobson (20-8) and Mike Cuellar (20-9).

"Those four pitchers are great," said Pirates batting coach Bill Virdon, who played centerfield for the Pirates when they won the World Series against the Yankees in 1960.

"But," Virdon said, "it remains to be seen how good they are against National League hitting this year."

In 1970, the Baltimore pitchers effectively throttled the Cincinnati Reds, who had won the National League team batting championship, by winning the Series in five games.

Pirates slugger Willie Stargell agrees with Virdon's "wait and see" attitude.

Stargell is also a little more positive about the outcome of the Series.

"We don't care if Paul Bunyon pitches for Baltimore. We're going to beat them."

That's tall talk from a man who went 0-for-14 during the playoffs for the National League pennant with the San Francisco Giants.

But Stargell, who led the majors with 48 home runs this season, is a big man (6-foot-2, 215 pounds) and if he says it's so you try to believe him.

"I'm not worried about them," Stargell said. "Wait 'till we get there."

The Pirates' batters may be anxious to get their licks against the Baltimore pitchers, but the Pirates' pitchers —two of them in particular —are thankful for a few days of rest before the Series starts in Baltimore Saturday.

Ellis, who was 19-9 this season, said Wednesday his elbow "feels better, but I'll find out for sure tomorrow."

Ellis has an appointment with team physician Dr. Joseph Finegold to have his elbow examined. However, the right-hander says: "We're ready, I'm ready too."

The other pitcher is Nelson Briles, who was supposed to pitch against the Giants Tuesday but pulled a hamstring muscle warming up for the game.

"It feels good," Briles said. "With the added rest of three or four days I think I can pitch in the Series."

Oklahoma-Texas Grid Clash Has Withbone-T Attack In Vogue

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

We're still more than a month away from Thanksgiving but football fans in the Cotton Bowl Saturday will be treated to plenty of wishbone when third-ranked Texas meets No. 7 Oklahoma.

Texas, which adopted the Wishbone-T offense under coach Darrell Royal several years back and proceeded to become one of the nation's most powerful teams, holds a commanding 42-21-2 advantage in the series between the two schools. Oklahoma has won only one game over Royal since 1958.

Oklahoma coach Chuck Fairbanks pulled a page out of Royal's playbook three years ago when he instituted the Wishbone in the Sooners' offense.

It took two years but the Sooners now appear to have mastered the formation that aligns the running backs in a T behind the center and have clobbered three opponents this season, scoring 118 points.

The key to the Wishbone is the quarterback, who must alternate between his straight ahead dive plays, his pitchouts and options around the end and his passing.

Oklahoma must be rated ahead of Texas in this department with Jack Mildren, the Sooners' second leading rusher with 7.5 yards per carry, going against substitute Donnie Wigginton. Wigginton is replacing Eddie Phillips, who is sidelined with a pulled muscle.

Despite Phillips' absence, Texas is rated a six point favorite over an Oklahoma team that features the running of Mildren, Joe Wylie and Greg Pruitt.

Pruitt rushed for 205 yards in 16 attempts last week as the Sooners buried Southern California, 33-20. He scored on runs of 42, seven and 75 yards against USC.

Wylie is the Sooners' third leading rusher, with 218 yards in 29 tries. He also is the team's punter and he returns kicks too.

Texas' big back is Jim Bertelsen, a power runner with good speed whom the Oklahoma defense will have to stop to win.

In other games No. 1 Nebraska is 21 over Missouri, No. 2 Michigan is 13 over Michigan State, fourth-ranked Alabama is 24 over Vanderbilt, No. 5 Notre Dame is 15 over Miami (Fla.) and sixth-ranked Auburn is 28 over Southern Mississippi.

Colorado, tied for the seventh spot with Oklahoma, is 17 over Iowa State, ninth-ranked Washington is pick 'em against Stanford, No. 10 Georgia is 10 over Mississippi.

Tennessee and Penn State, which are tied for the 11th position, are solid favorites. The Vols are a 10 point pick over Georgia Tech and the Nittany Lions are 20 over an upset-minded Army team.

No. 13 Ohio State is 21 over Illinois, 14th-ranked Arizona State is 14 over Colorado State, No. 15 Duke is 15 over Clemson, 16th-ranked Louisiana State is 20 over Florida, 17th-ranked North Carolina is 10 over Tulane and No. 18 Arkansas is 20 over Baylor.

Cal Alumni Group Sues In Curtis Case

BURLINGAME, Calif. (UPI) While athletic directors and faculty representatives of the Pacific Eight Conference discussed the Isaac Curtis case, a group of California alumni took the matter to court.

Curtis is the speedy University of California track and football star who was declared ineligible for NCAA events because he failed to take a 1.6 predictability test prior to enrolling at Cal. The NCAA took Cal's 1970 track title away and declared the Bears ineligible for the Rose Bowl.

Despite the NCAA ban, California officials decided to permit Curtis to play on grounds it was the school's fault and not the athlete's that he did not take the test.

The Pacific Eight met Wednesday to discuss the case, but spokesman John Harbugh of Stanford said that under no circumstances could he announce the conclusions reached at the meeting. It was presumed that conference presidents and chancellors will either meet or hold a telephone conference call to reach a decision.

In San Francisco meanwhile, the Golden Bear Athletic Foundation sued in U.S. District Court in San Francisco against the NCAA in behalf of Curtis and soph Larry Brumsey, another athlete who assertedly didn't take the test.

The suit attempting to lift the suspension asserted that the Aug. 21 NCAA action interfered with the foundation's activities.

Bay Area Title Tilts Aborted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco Bay Area sports fans who follow both football and baseball today knew for sure that history really can repeat itself.

Last December, the San Francisco 49ers got to the doorway of the Super Bowl before losing their division playoff to Dallas 17-10. The San Francisco Giants then won the National League West, but were eliminated by Pittsburgh in four games.

Defensive tackle Tom Keating, one of the quickest and wisest in the game, Wednesday was declared out of action for a month with a leg broken last Monday in the Raiders' 34-20 win at Cleveland.

Keating, a toughluck guy who missed the 1968 season with an achilles tendon tear, expressed some satisfaction that the break was a clean one without complications.

His injury leaves the Raiders with only six healthy defensive linemen. Carlton Oats is expected to start in place of Keating.

Ex-Denver End Irked By Cut

The 28-year-old Boston College graduate was released Tuesday in a surprise move by Bronco Head Coach Lou Saban. Even Whalen was stunned by the move.

"The thing that made me mad was that I was at practice and meetings all day Tuesday," he said. "They could have said something instead of calling me two minutes before it was on TV.

"I'd rather see them face to face and hear about it if I've done something wrong."

Whalen came under fire for his play in Sunday's 16-3 loss to Kansas City when he missed a block on linebacker Bobby Bell. Bell smashed into Bronco quarterback Don Horn, who lost the football in what led to the only touchdown of the day.

Whalen said he was willing to take full blame for the missed block on Bell, but said, "I don't want to be made the scapegoat and have my whole seven years based on that play. And that's what it looks like."

Whalen said the club had not given him any specific reason for being cut.

"The only thing I can base it on was that it was the one play, and Fred Gehrke (Personnel Director) indicated I might be getting old.

Fight Probe Set

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—A scheduled 10-round main event between Los Angeles middleweights Billy Hester and Clarence Geiggar was declared "no contest" Wednesday night when Referee Ferd Hernandez stopped the bout at 42 seconds of the sixth round because of "lack of action."

After five rounds, two judges had Geiggar, 162, ahead by one and two points and the other judge favored Hester, 163, by two.

In a scheduled 10-round co-main event, Marco Gerardo, 144, San Diego, Calif., scored a technical knockout when Tony Perez, also 144, Los Angeles, refused to answer the bell for the sixth round.

Gerardo was down in the second from a right to the jaw while Perez bled from a cut left eye from the fourth round on.

State officials at ringside announced the purses of Hester, Geiggar and Perez would be withheld pending a boxing commission hearing.

California Gets Goalie

OAKLAND (UPI)—The California Golden Seals ended their search for a goalie Wednesday by trading wing Tony Featherstone to the Montreal Canadiens in exchange for young Roy Martyniuk.

Martyniuk was Montreal's top draft choice a year ago and of all the Canadian players drafted that year he was the fifth pick.

Martyniuk has been training with the Seals, who open the National Hockey League season at home on Friday, for almost two weeks. He worked with the Seals on a loan basis until the club could make a trade for him.

Guaranteed 10-Point Brake Overhaul

$44.88 Drum-type Brakes

Fords, Chevys, Plymouths and American Compacts. Other models higher.

When we overhaul your brakes, we do a lot more than reline them!

1 We start by arcing your new linings to assure that they will make good contact with the drums for maximum braking.

2 Then we install your new bonded brake linings on all 4 wheels.

3 We then inspect all four wheel cylinders.

4 And turn and true brake drums.

5 Then we inspect the master cylinder for leaks.

6 Next, we clean and repack the outer front wheel bearings.

7 We inspect your brake fluid lines for leaks or weak points.

8 Then we inspect your brake shoe return springs for proper tension.

9 We add heavy duty brake fluid.

10 And finally we take your car out on the road to make sure your new brakes are functioning properly.

As you can see . . . when you bring your car to Firestone . . . you can drive out with the assurance that you got top quality service. Give us a try.

GUARANTEED 30,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS

GUARANTEE: We guarantee our 10-Point Brake Overhaul, including linings, for the specified number of miles or years from the date of installation, whichever comes first. The guarantee will be honored by the Firestone Store or Dealer performing the original Brake Overhaul in accordance with the terms of our printed guarantee, and adjustments will be prorated on mileage and based on prices of the 10-Point Brake Overhaul current at the time of adjustment. The guarantee excludes wear or damage due to improper maintenance, accidents, fire or willful abuse and is not applicable to vehicles used for commercial, racing, or off the road purposes.

FRONT END SERVICE

Includes precision front end alignment, both front wheels balanced, brake adjustment (drum type) and repack outer front wheel bearings.

GOLDEN STATE WARRIORS

A Better Year Expected

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Added depth, more speed and permanent home for the first time in their bay area history makes the Golden State, nee San Francisco, Warriors confident for an improvement in the 1971-72 National Basketball Association season.

"For the first time since 1967 we have a surplus of talent in our pre-season camp, so some good players won't survive the final cut," says player-coach Al Attles, who guided the Warriors to a 41-41 record last season.

The club also reached the playoffs for the fourth time in the last five years, but was eliminated in the first round by NBA champion Milwaukee. Attles optimistically envisions a divison title this season.

"We are a greatly improved club," the coach declares. "We have added depth, more team speed, a lot more quickness up front and greater shooting ability."

The acquisition of five-year NBA veterans Cazzie Russell and Jim Barnett through off-season trades has given the club added depth among front-line talent. Rookies Odis Allison, Greg Gary and Cyril Baptiste also are counted on for help and may push some veterans off the roster.

Nate Thurmond, voted the NBA's top defensive center last season when he averaged 20.1 points and 13.8 rebounds, is a fixture at the pivot and healthy again after playing a full season for the first time last year.

Barnett, an aggressive 6-4 guard who averaged 18 points per game at Portland last season, joins holdover starters Jeff Mullins and Fritz Williams to give the Warriors three back-court performers of first-string stature.

Mullins, a 6-4 sharpshooter on the brink of stardom the last few seasons, led the Warriors in scoring last season with a 20.8 average, firing 48 per cent from the field.

He and the 6-3 Williams were among the NBA's free throw percentage leaders at 84 per cent and Williams was the Warriors top playmaker, averaging five assists per game.

Attles has announced a wide open battle for the two forward spots, with Clyde Lee, Bob Portman and Joe Ellis getting a big push from newcomers Russell, Allison and Baptiste.

"Nobody has a lock on a job at forward," says Attles. "We have a lot of mobility up front because Ellis and Allison both are good ballhandlers at 6-6 and could serve as swingmen between forward and guard.

"Russell gives us a lot more quickness and Lee can also do a good job giving Nate a breather now and then," explains Attles.

The Warriors acquired Russell in a swap with New York for Jerry Lucas, who led the club in rebounds last season but was often regarded as a liability because of his slowness afoot.

With Lucas gone, the sturdy Lee figures to have a better crack at more playing time at forward, where his 6-10 size should offset Lucas' loss on the boards. Thurmond also is expected to increase his boardwork.

Allison, who starred at Nevada Las Vegas, has been the big surprise of the rookie camp and is likely to stick. The club also has high hopes for the 6-9 Baptiste, a hardship draftee from Creighton.

Gary, from St. Bonaventure, and veteran Nick Jones also are in the guard picture—and it's no secret Attles would like to find enough talent to retire as an active player.

The personable pilot also enthuses over the prospect of playing all 35 Bay area home games at the spacious Oakland Coliseum arena, with six other "home" dates scheduled for San Diego.

"Having our own court will be a big advantage," Attles reasons. "In the past, we've been a standing joke around the league and sometimes even our players had to check the schedule to find out where we were playing."

Redwood Harriers Win Meet

Redwood High School varsity and frosh-soph cross-country teams extended their 1971 records to 3-0 yesterday with victories in a non-league meet in Petaluma.

The Redwood varsity barely edged Petaluma, 27-28, in a three-way meet in which Vallejo was last with 69 points. Petaluma High School's John Sisler set a course record, 13:51 over a 2.5-mile tour. Redwood's Eric Moller was second.

National League's Attendance Mark

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—With the New York Mets showing the way, the National League set another attendance record in 1971 as 17,324,857 fans turned out for its games.

That beat last year's record by 662,659 and represented a 2,229,911 hike over the 1969 total, when the league expanded to its present 12 teams.

In figures released Wednesday by league president Charles S. (Chub) Feeney, the Mets topped everyone by attracting 2,266,680 fans while the Los Angeles Dodgers drew 2,064,594. That was the eight time the Dodgers had topped 2 million in 14 years on the coast.

Eleven of the 12 N.L. teams topped the one million mark, another record, while the only team to fall under that figure was San Diego, which attracted 530,000.

Behind the Mets and Dodgers in order were Chicago (1,653,007), St. Louis (1,604,671), Philadelphia (1,511,223), Pittsburgh (1,501,132), Cincinnati (1,501,122), Montreal (1,290,963), Houston (1,261,589), San Francisco (1,106,043) and Atlanta (1,006,320).

Golf

NEW YORK (UPI) —Four more two-man teams were named today to participate in the World Cup golf tournament, Nov. 10-14, at the PGA Golf Club in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.

Teams from Ireland, Scotland, Wales and England announced they had accepted invitations to participate in the 19th renewal of the classic.

Christy O'Connor and Hugh Jackson will participate for Ireland, Bernard Gallagher and Ronnie Shade will represent Scotland, Craig Defoy and Brian Huggett will play for Wales and Tony Jacklin and Pete Oosterhuis will represent England.

PGA champion Jack Nicklaus and U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino previously accepted invitations to represent the United States in the tournament. Australia is the defending champion.

Basketball

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Utilityman Keith Erickson will be lost to the Los Angeles Lakers from four to six weeks because of surgery on his right knee.

Erickson, 27, will be operated on next Thursday, Oct. 14, to remove a cyst from a tendon.

A six-year pro veteran, Erickson plays both forward and guard. He averaged 11.3 points a game last season.

Northgate Industrial Park Has New Tenant — Holosonics

New to Northgate Industrial Park is Holosonics, Inc., which has taken space at 124 Paul Drive until permanent offices are ready in the La Plaza office building now under construction by Johnny Ribeiro, Builder.

Holosonics, based in Richland, Wash., is the developer and marketer of new acoustical "imagining" equipment used in industry to determine the interior construction of various materials without damaging them. Materials are "scanned" by sound waves, enabling researchers to analyze pictures similar to photographs that are formed.

The Northgate office is the district office for the 13 western states and is under the management of Ronald C. Peterson of Cotati, who has been with the organization about two years.

Lease arrangements were made through William W. Hoey and Co.

BUSINESS HAS BEEN EXPANDING for the Polynesian Shops, and through Hoey, owner Richard Marcus has leased an additional 1,820 square feet at 32 Hamilton Drive, Hamilton Industrial Park, Novato. This doubles the warehouse and office space he has been occupying since last January.

IN THE EAST SAN RAFAEL AREA, Hoey leases include one by Gregory C. Greenwood, who is moving his sound, security, antenna and control installation business Electronic Installation to 36 Belvedere from 823 Fourth Street.

This does not affect Electronics Plus at 823 Fourth — the retail store selling sound, stereo, high fidelity and electronic components — which will remain.

And at 50 Belvedere Street, Custom Pools, Inc., now at 91 Circle Road, and Plastic Craft, now at 922-B Lindaro Street, have leased through Hoey. Both firms should take occupancy sometime this month.

TERRENCE H. HOWARD of Santa Venetia has joined with Joel S. Coppersmith of San Francisco in the formation of a partnership to operate a general securities business under the name of Coopersmith and Howard, located at 256 Montgomery Street, San Francisco. He was formerly director of research at Waldron and Co. and has been a stockbroker for more than 11 years.

Barrie

JOHN BARRIE JR. of Kentfield has been named manager of the newly opened Varner-Ward Leasing Co. financial district office in the Russ Building, San Francisco. He founded Western States Lease Corp. in 1958 after several years as western regional manager for Greyhound Leasing. When Western States was sold to Paragon in 1968 he stayed president of Paragon-Western Lease until Paragon was sold to Oxford First Corp. in Philadelphia.

RICHARD H. MALLOCH of Sebastopol, manager of Wells Fargo Bank's San Anselmo office, has been named an assistant vice president. He was previously assistant manager of the Sonoma office and then manager of the Novato office.

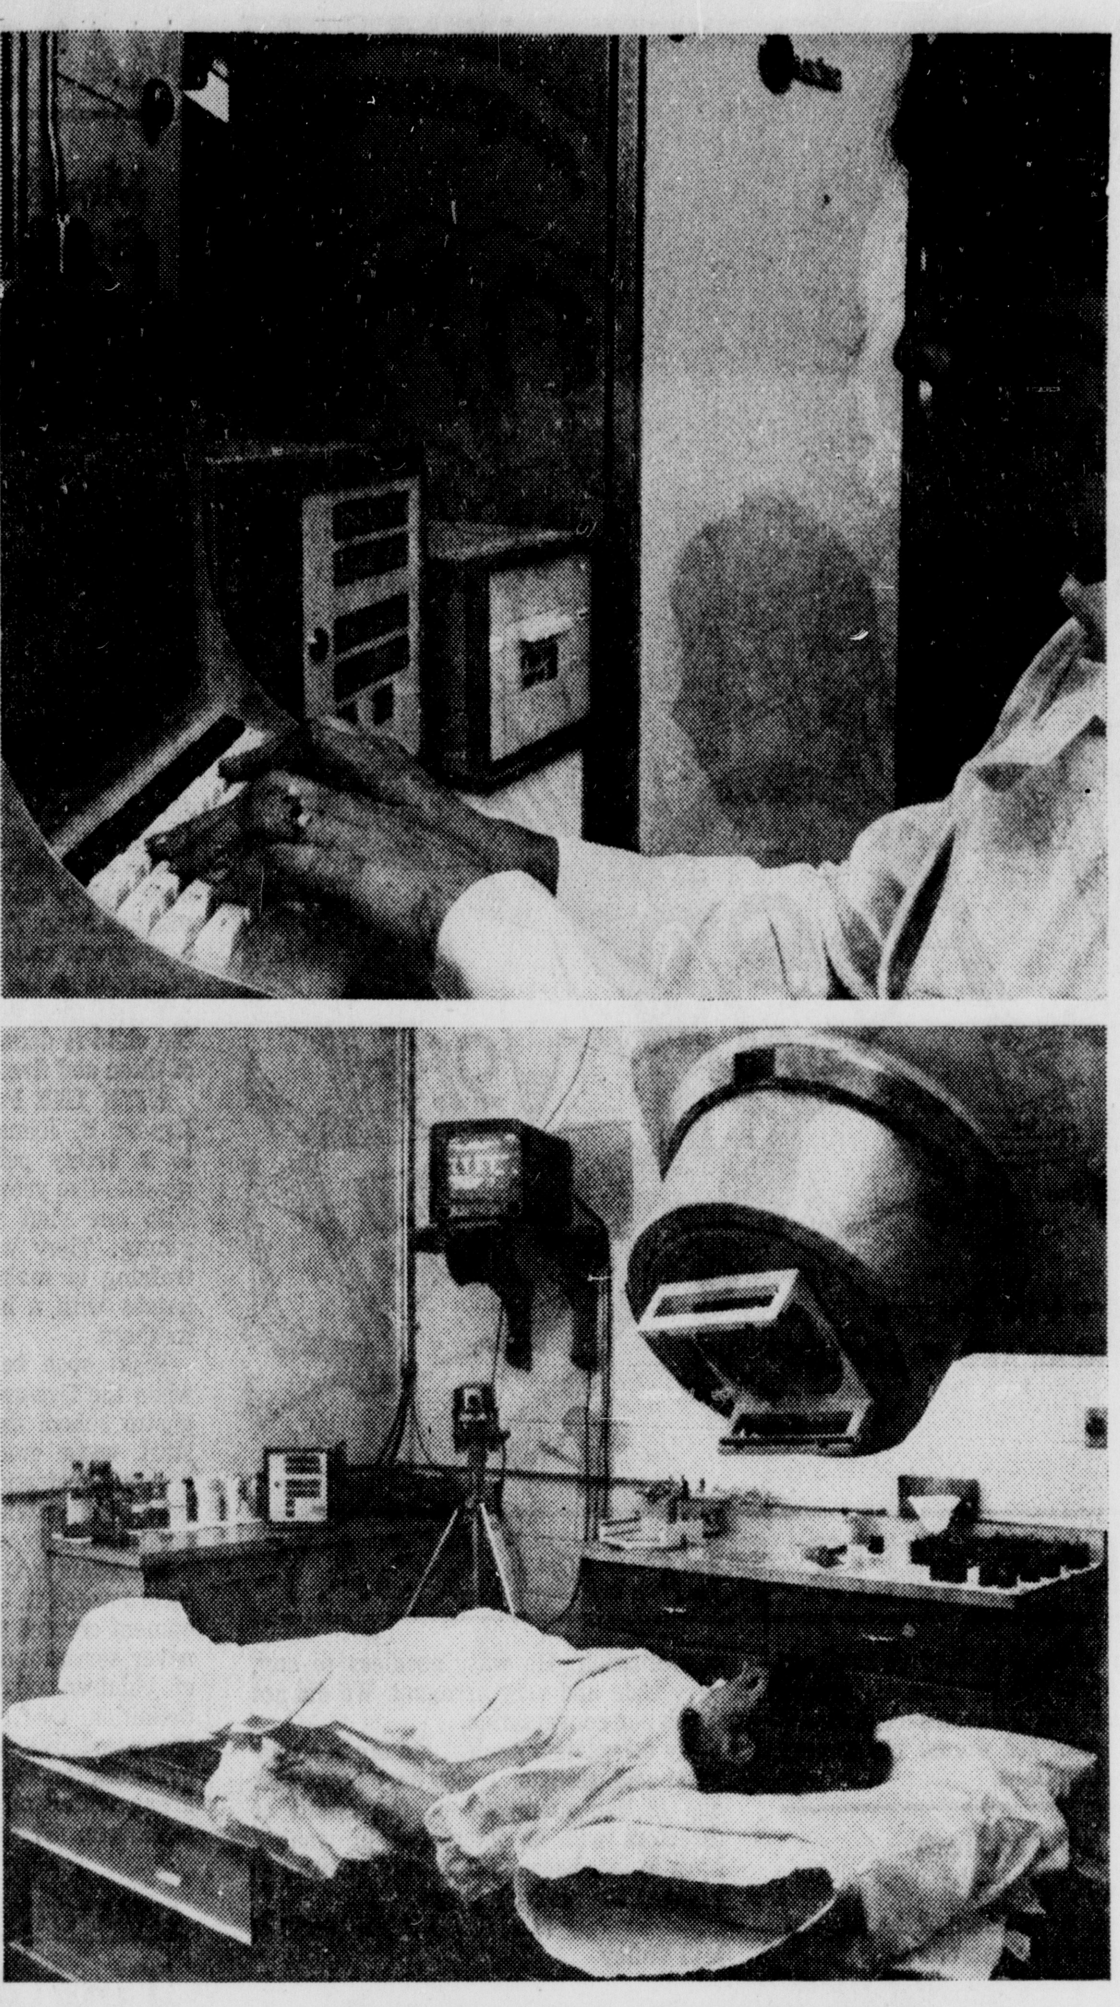
INSURANCE: James L. Placek of San Rafael has qualified for the 1972 President's Club of Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. This is his 11th consecutive year in the club.

Sales Are Down

GARDEN GROVE (BW) — Air Industries Corp. has reported sales of $7,233,052 and net income of $6,160 for the fiscal year ended June 30. This compares with sales of $8,438,749 and a net loss of $842,734 for the previous fiscal year.



HANDS-OFF CANCER TREATMENT

This unique cancer radiation therapy system, is now in use at University of Wisconsin hospitals. A minicomputer (top picture), acting on instructions contained on a personalized ⅛-inch-wide tape cassette, controls a huge linear accelerator (bottom picture). The completely hands-off system also allows personnel to review patient history instantly through a computerized printout.

Airline Figures Up Over 1970

LOS ANGELES (BW) — National Airlines flew 395,185 passengers 311,570,000 revenue passenger miles in September.

This was an increase of five per cent over the 375,393 passengers and eight per cent above the 287,879,000 revenue passenger miles flown in the same month last year.

The airline offered 803,803,000 available seat miles during the month, 5 per cent less than the 848,318,000 flown in September 1970, J. Dan Brock, vice-president of traffic and sales, said. The load factor was 39 per cent of available capacity, compared with 34 per cent last year.

Early Hour Averages Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) —Profit taking cut deeply into a sharp, early advance on Wall Street today, but market averages still pointed higher after about two hours of trading.

Prices were firm in moderately active trading on the American stock exchange.

On the Big Board, chemicals were mostly higher in fractions, while steels, motors, rails, airlines, and aircrafts traded in mixed fashion. Oils and electronics showed scattered strength.

Among the most active stocks were Glen Alden up 1-4, Planning Research 1-8 lower, Martin Marietta down 1-8, Standard Oil of California unchanged, and Ford up 3-4.

Rapid American warrants, the most active Amex issue, was about unchanged on a volume of around 60,000.

Another item spurring demand for stocks at the outset was a government report that wholesale prices decline 0.4 per cent in September, the first full month under Nixon's 90-day wage-price-rent freeze. the Bureau of Labor Statistics said the decline, adjusted for seasonal factors, was the first drop in wholesale prices in 10 months.

Board Evaluates Accrual Accounting

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. The Horizon Corp. (OTC) recently published earnings for the year ended May 31 at $5.38 a share. Subsequently articles appeared indicating that methods used by land development companies to determine earnings might not be in keeping with sound accounting principles. Please give your opinion. — R.A.

A. In April 1970 the Accounting Principles Board announced the formation of a review board to evaluate the accrual method of accounting being used by land developers to determine earnings. Although an opinion has been finalized by the APB, interpretation of the recommendations will take time. Discounting of receivables at a 9 per cent rate, with no discount applied to payables, has been suggested. If this method is adopted and is also applied to long-term contracts the effect on older established companies' earnings will not be serious. Since that portion of receivables which are discounted accrued to subsequent years, by the 11th year earnings are 96 per cent of those reported under current methods.

For a company such as Horizon Corp., which was established in 1959, and has a broad margin of profitability, restatement on the above method would reduce earnings for the 1971 fiscal year from $5.38 to around the $5 level. The uncertainty which has hung over land development issues as a result of possible accounting changes may soon be resolved. If rulings are as favorable as it now appears, shares may again be attractive for long-term growth.

Q. I would like to have some mutual fund shares made over to my grandchildren as a gift. How do I go about it? — F.F.

A. Your request should be directed to the mutual fund, itself, not the distributor or management company. The specified number of shares should be made out in each child's name with either parent or yourself as custodian, under the Uniform Gift to Minors Act. Since a child may earn up to $1,700 annually without incurring any federal income tax liability, make certain that you use the child's social security number and not that of the custodian or donor.

Record Car, Truck Sales For Dodge

DETROIT (BW) — Dodge division registered all-time records for both car and truck sales for the month of September, closing out the 1971 model year with 552,872 car sales, and an all-time model year for Dodge truck sales of 157,151.

Model-year car sales were the best in three years — since 1968, when a record 585,289 were sold.

The final 11-day spurt in September resulted in 25,722 car sales, nearly double the amount for the same period a year ago, and helped give the company its best September in its 57-year history. The 51,358 cars sold was up 63 per cent from the same month a year ago. The previous September record was in 1969 when 46,067 units were sold.

September truck sales of 13,117 were the best in 22 years. The previous high of 13,073 was set in 1949.

Dodge also set an all-time model year record for its compact Dart line with 228,760 sales compared to the previous high of 192,574 set a year ago.

In the Coronet/Charger and Polara/Monaco lines, sales rose 98 per cent and 122 per cent, respectively, in September compared to a year ago.

Third Quarter Earnings Increase

CHICAGO (BW) — Hart Schaffner & Marx has reported its third quarter earnings up 10 per cent.

Earnings for the quarter ended Aug. 31 were $2,525,000, or 29 cents a share, compared with $2,290,000, or 26 cents a share, in 1970. Sales for the quarter were $90,278,000, or 4 per cent higher than the $86,790,000 for the 1970 quarter.

Second Corte Madera Firehouse Mere Decoy

Corte Madera has a fire protection problem.

That is, of course, no news to some 100 residents of East Corte Madera who thronged to this week's town council meeting to protest the lack of protection — a lack made painfully evident when three homes on Constitution Drive burned last month.

The answer the protestors got from the council, however, was pretty much the usual one: We agree there should be more firemen, but we don't have the funds.

THERE IS A HOLLOW ring to this answer in the case of Corte Madera, for this reason: It has a fire station, built five years ago, in East Corte Madera. But there is nobody to man the station.

When the homes on Constitution Drive caught fire, two trucks were sent from the main fire station on Tamalpais Drive, across town and across Highway 101. Then it was necessary to send some of the men from those trucks to the East Corte Madera station to take its truck to the fire scene. Thus the equipment in East Corte Madera was considerably later reaching the fire than that which had to make the long drive across town.

It goes without saying that this left a shortage of skilled firefighters to contend with the blaze.

The situation has been this way ever since the second firehouse was built in 1966.

THE CORTE MADERA Fire Department, like those in other small cities in Marin, depends heavily on volunteers. It has only five paid firemen — including Chief Frank L. Nelson.

During the daytime, however, few volunteers respond to an alarm: they are mostly at work. A couple of years ago, Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher came up with an original "solution": deputizing other town hall employees as auxiliary firemen.

This puts a few more bodies on the trucks when they roll from the main fire station. But these public employee volunteers are not trained firefighters. Nor are they numerous enough to make up for the daytime lack of volunteers.

IT SHOULD BE OBVIOUS to anyone that there is little point in building and equipping a second fire station without manning it: There is no additional fire protection for East Corte Madera because of a fire truck sitting in an unattended station.

The town council's "no money" reply cannot be taken at full value in the light of the circumstances. The council had no business building a second firehouse if it did not plan to man it. And certainly in the five years since it was built, intelligent budgeting should have put that manning — with trained firemen — in high enough priority ot make sure it was funded.

Maybe the second firehouse was a kind of decoy. Maybe East Corte Madera residents imagined it gave them additional protection — until they found out the truth.

Bar Fails To Defend Its Reason For Being

SACRAMENTO — If I were an attorney with a love for my profession and a deep concern for justice, I'd be worried. Worried sick.

A small handful of deliberate wreckers — aided and abetted by incompetent practitioners and weak-kneed judges — is destroying the system. The legal profession is in disrepute; the courts are in a crisis.

In such a state, there is no justice and little esteem for the lawyer.

Take a look at what's happening, if you haven't already.

THE COURTROOMS of the state are being turned into circuses, sometimes seats of anarchy. Members of the bar curse the judges, and damn the courts. With calculated cunning they mock the process, then dare to demand it be stretched beyond its warp to protect their rights. And seldom any officer of the court lifts a hand to stop them, punish them, or disbar them.

Criminal trials are delayed by trickery; cases which should be tried in a month or two at the most become extended marathons, lasting more than a year. Justice becomes a sick joke.

Attorneys roam the campuses. When they leave, riots and vandalism burst forth. Others march the streets and mount the platform to incite violence and "death to the pigs." Still others crowd the visiting rooms of the prisons. When they leave — terror, rebellion and death.

Are there no ethics in your professions? Are such actions acceptable hallmarks of a once honored calling?

The public demands reform. Yet there is no reform. The State Bar does nothing and the State Supreme Court follows suit.

IT WAS ALL THIS, and more, that moved the state attorney general, Evelle Younger, to dispense with niceties when he address the 44th annual convention of the California Bar Association recently.

"The system is on the verge of collapse," Younger told the lawyers. "Lay people everythere are expressing an increased restless and dissatisfaction with the legal process and those who carry it out."

In plain and simple language he told them that when it came to reform "the organized bar was leading the march. . . from a position well in the rear." And he cited two examples to prove it.

First, the matter of professional proficiency. Hiring the very best attorney available; that was the way it used to be. But, not now. Today the trick is to hire an incompetent. Then, if the decision goes against the defendant, he can appeal on the grounds of inadequate representation.

During this session of the Legislature, Younger reminded the bar, it was asked to support a measure to limit legal representation in capital cases to attorneys judged to be competent. The board of governors of the bar opposed the bill.

YOUNGER'S SECOND example involved "the case of the attorney whose laziness, incompetence or hostility to the entire legal system leads him to behave in a manner deliberately dilatory, provocative, antagonistic and disruptive.

Such a lawyer can be held in contempt. But a fine or a few days in jail may only serve as welcome publicity for his cause.

"Yet, while an attorney can be disciplined by the State Bar and the Supreme Court for drunkenness, for drug addiction, and for stealing from his clients, he cannot be disciplined for striking at the very foundation of the law."

And, Younger reminded the Bar Association, a proposal to close this gap by legislation was greeted by "guardians of the bar" with "wary neutrality."

THERE ARE, without question, thousands of outstanding and reputable attorneys in California. They practice with professional skill and with a commitment to the highest code of ethics, dedicated to justice.

But they harbor within their ranks a small corps of attorneys who are frantic in their anarchy and shrewd in destructive cunning. They are killing the public's faith in the entire legal profession and the workings of criminal justice.

It is time the attorneys cleaned up their house. At this time silence is not golden, just yellow.

Shocked At Cancelling Of Dental Clinic

I read with shock your headlines "Orthodonture Clinic Cancelled," Page 9 in the Independent-Journal dated Oct. 5. I am appalled as an English woman living, I feel, in the most wealthy part of California, that these children, in fact all children, do not have the proper care and attention for their teeth. I feel that any orthodontist worth his salt could take one child free of charge. Maybe he would learn something to his advantage from this one case, if only to learn how to be a human being!

Plumbers' Union Inn Target Of Complaints

I am writing this letter in regards to the beautiful San Francisco Plumbers Union (Local 38) installation called Konocti Harbor Inn, located at Clear Lake, Calif.

My family and I have been frequent visitors to this lovely spot and unfortunately, this year, the first five days of our 19-day stay were very bad. A number of things occurred because of poor management. Enjoying this place as much as we do, I thought it best to contact Mr. Joseph Mazzola, president of the S.F. Plumbers Union, to tell him of these occurrences rather than write a lengthy letter which perhaps he might never see. I called his office some weeks ago to make an appointment and his secretary said that he most certainly would want to see me after she heard some of the complaints. He, unfortunately, did not feel as she did because when I called again five days ago to make a definite appointment, he got on the telephone and told me he was much too busy to make an appointment with me, that he had already sent my letter of complaints up to Konocti (a letter that has not yet been written, so what letter is he referring to?) he has 19 irons in the pot, was in and out of his office all day long and I would have to be satisfied with a telephone conversation. He was, needless to say, very rude and very arrogant. We did not finish our conversation.

My complaints against the inn are very valid and serious. I can only hope that one of the members of the board of directors will be interested in what I have to say because it is very obvious to me that Mr. Mazzola is not.

Letters On Desires For Seashore Urged

To all lovers of Point Reyes Seashore: there is still time to send a written statement to the National Park Service. Mail it on or before Oct. 23, and it will become part of the permanent wilderness hearing record.

If you are a hiker or biker, write how you feel about more automobiles, parking lots, and paved roads in the seashore. If you love birds, ask for wilderness protection of Drake's Estero, Limantour Spit, and the area adjacent to the Point Reyes Bird Observatory.

If you are a student, remind the park service that there will soon be no places left to study marine biology, botany, or zoology if destruction of wild, natural areas continues at its present rate. Wilderness designation would help to protect some of these areas.

We cannot do much about coastal land in private ownership, but we can affect what happens to public lands. Write a seashore letter tonight, and mail to: Supt. John L. Sansing, Point Reyes National Seashore, Point Reyes, Ca. 94956.

Do What God Wills, Not What You Want

I would like to add a supplement to Dr. Margaret Mead's basic speech to an audience of over 2,000 at the College of Marin last Wednesday evening. Also, I would like to make a rebuttal to her words, "Both men and women are going to be free to do what they want to do for the first time in the history of the world." This is apparently not what she wants to see, but nevertheless, it was put into print and it becomes a compulsion on the part of the writer to counter such a statement with one word, "nonsense."

Foolish statements like this should automatically bring out strong feelings in all of us of our responsibility to God to try and contribute to life instead of falling in with such beliefs as this which tend to set a trend of wrong thinking in young minds, as well as in old ones. They contribute to the already broken-down thinking which is destroying the spirit in humanity. . .

Life is of love, since the creator of it is love, and it is the only basis on which it can exist. True love between man and woman is the only basis on which life can continue to exist in this world of flesh. If man and woman took this wrong belief to heart and started disobeying the wants of the creator (freelancing with life, in other words, and putting aside all obligations to conform to God's ways) then true love would be completely destroyed. . .

Disoriented minds which pick up scattered sediments of intelligence that have veered off from the main course of mind, having become twisted and warped through ill interpretation, are the minds which destroy the true effects of mind entity. These minds take a piece of wisdom and run with it, and spread it, and never take cognizance of how they came by it, or whether it destroys the pattern of life or contributes to it. The want to promote a self-image of intelligence to the world is the main cause of this folly.

My apologies to Dr. Mead, but judging by the true content of her speech, I am sure she is seeking the same objective as I am seeking.

Mondale Child-Care Program Goes Far Beyond Head Start

WASHINGTON — In today's political vocabulary, busing has explosive connotations. You are either for busing and a liberal or against it and a conservative if not a yacist . Lost sight of in the emotion it arouses is what the net effect may be on the education of the young.

Breaking the frozen pattern of segregation in North and South is a goal hard to quarrel with. Whether the device of busing to achieve this goal exacts too heavy a penalty on both those bused long distances to another neighborhood and those schools that receive them is the doubtful factor. Here is another instance of a deep-seated social ill — the woeful deficiencies of public education — calling for a direct, large-scale attack, with busing hardly more than a poultice.

The child from a ghetto school enters a once nearly all-white school with a definite handicap. To overcome this handicap a program called Headstart was initiated, based on the findings of child specialists that the intellectual development of the child is determined between the ages of three and five.

WITH THE PARTICIPATION of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, the program got off to a highly publicized beginning. The three-to-five year olds would be in classes with one staff member for every five young. They would have specialized training to make up for deficiencies in homes with a high average of working mothers.

What soon became evident was that when the five-or-six-year-old entered the ghetto school the gains made in Headstart were quickly lost. This was a perfect illustration of the need for direct, massive assistance to public education. A poultice simply would not suffice.

Headstart is still a going program. It is incorporated in the Office of Child Development created two years ago. But it has never served more than a small fraction of children eligible under the poverty definition. One estimate is 10 per cent; Headstart officials put it higher. Forty per cent of the children are in rural areas, with each state getting a statutory minimum. The program is currently budgeted at $360 million, with a proposed increase to $377 million to take care of inflation.

BUT NOW a comprehensive child-care program has been adopted by an overwhelming vote in the Senate. Sponsored by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., it provides for care of the mother during pregnancy, a greatly expanded Headstart with children taken at age three, and after-school help up to 14. Rather than the poverty deadline, the cut-off is for family incomes at $6,900 or below.

Mondale, chairman of a subcommittee on child development, says an estimated six million preschool children are left with little or no care by working mothers. The phenomenon of the working mother has grown steadily in the past decade. Most of the children are simply locked up during the mother's absence and left to the mercy of older brothers and sisters.

Adopted as an amendment to the poverty bill by a vote of 46 to 17, the child-development program calls for an authorization of $2 billion. It will be another test of the Nixon veto, since it far exceeds the President's spending level.

As for busing, it continues to be a hot political issue. Mr. Nixon has given it the back of his hand, with the warning that it should be resorted to only in the narrowest prescribed limits. And he has made his secretary of health, education and welfare toe the mark whatever his private feelings on the subject may have been.

AS A TEMPORARY expedient to ease the tensions rising over the gap between white schools and black schools, busing may have been essential. But it is only expedient, and the end result in the education of the young is still to be assessed.

The need is for a broad attack on the deficiencies, the tragic lacks, in public education. The Mondale child-development program is a beginning. It recognizes that Headstart has to date been only a pilot project, too little and often too late. The neglected, the rejected child will be tomorrow's dropout or, worse, tomorrow's crime statistic.

Tiny Albania May Score U.N. Coup Over Mighty U.S.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the lobbies of the United Nations, the Albanians are known as amiable men, easy to talk to and friendly. They are family men who like to talk about life in their country.

Person-to-person their conduct bears little resemblance to their country's reputation as a grim hermit of Europe, by choice cut off from both the Communist East and the capitalistic West, its only real friend Communist China many thousands of miles away.

Last July, Ambassador Sami Baholli took special pains to place early on this General Assembly session's agenda, Albania's demand that Communist China be given China's U.N. seat.

After this step to insure a priority position for his resolution, he left to attend his daughter's wedding, leaving his opposition to scramble for a strategy it hoped would defeat him.

AND THEREIN lies an anomaly.

For the last 10 years, Albania, one of the U.N.'s smallest members, has been the chief sponsor of membership for mainland China whose nearly 800 million population make it the world's largest nation.

And this year its chances for success are rated better than at any time in the past.

The United States, in the midst of a policy change toward China, this year has abandoned efforts to keep Red China out of the U.N. Instead, it supports twin resolutions, one admitting Red China and giving it China's seat in the Security Council, and the other preserving a seat for Nationalist China in the General Assembly.

But even the United States admits the possibility of defeat for its proposal by the Albanian plan which simply would expel the Nationalists and turn over all U.N. seats held by them to Peking.

For Albania, a hard-lining Communist state of only about two million people, a victory on behalf of their Chinese friends over the United States would indeed be a coup. Since siding with the Chinese when the latter broke with the Soviet Union over the interpretation of communism, the Albanians have stood alone in Europe.

IN KEEPING with its size and moderate means, Albania maintains only a small delegation at the U.N., its numbers never going over seven or eight.

Economically, the Albanians used the 1950s and 1960s to lift themselves by their own bootstraps from prewar poverty. Real income has jumped ahead at an 8.6 per cent clip over the last five years. The gross national output is said to equal in one week the entire output for 1938.

Into Western Europe the country is shipping increasing quantities of fruits and vegetables. It is the world's fifth largest exporter of chromium ore.

And for the next five years it has ambitious plans to expand its metallurgical, chemical, fuel and electric industries as it further exploits its large oil and ore deposits.

Senators The First To Go, But Maybe There'll Be Others

WASHINGTON — The Washington Senators baseball team, after playing in the capital for 71 years, has left for Texas. The elation in Dallas and Fort Worth over this turn of events can only be ascribed to the fact that no one in that part of the country has ever seen the Senators play.

The reason for the exodus was poor attendance, which Mr. Robert Short, the owner of the team, said was costing him a fortune. What worries people here is that the Senators may be the first of many institutions that might decide to pull out. out.

Perhaps in the next few years we will be reading the following press releases:

WASHINGTON, D.C. — House Speaker Carl Albert announced today that he was moving Congress to Fort Wayne, Ind., at the end of the season. "The Washington fans just don't seem to want to support Congress," Albert said at a press conference. "At our last night session we had only five people in the gallery and our cafeteria has been running a deficit for two years. Fort Wayne is very excited about having a major branch of the U. S. government in its town, and we're looking foward to playing there for many years to come."

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The British Embassy has just made it official. It is moving from Washington, D.C. to Palm Beach, Fla. A spokesman for the embassy said the decision was made reluctantly by the ambassador but the turnouts at the queen's birthday party reception had been so poor that he had no choice. "It's obvious to us that Washington doesn't want a British Embassy, despite all the talk," the spokesman said. "We've had offers from all over the country to move our team and we've decided on Palm Beach because they've guaranteed a full turnout for every one of our receptions."

LAS VEGAS, NEV. — Mayor Byron Lovemaster has just confirmed that Las Vegas has finalized a deal to bring the U.S. Supreme Court to Las Vegas. The mayor told Hank Greenspun of the Las Vegas Sun that he considers the Supreme Court one of the best tourist attractions in the country, as it will bring in lawyers and defendants from all over the land.

"We sent a delegation to Washington, and we think we made the best presentation. Miami and San Juan, P.R., both made bids for the court, but we won out when we promised to build an all-weather Supreme Court building with Astroturf in each of the justices' chambers. We can get 50,000 people in the new court building at one time."

(Chief Justice Burger confirmed Mayor Lovemaster's announcement. "We're going to miss Washington," he said on the "Today" show. "But while most people here said they were behind the Supreme Court, they wouldn't come out for our decision. Las Vegas sounds like a great Supreme Court town.")

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A blue-ribbon delegation consisting of lawyer Edward Bennett Williams, Mayor Walter Washington and City Council Chairman Gilbert Hahn paid a visit to President Nixon this morning in a last-minute effort to persuade him not to move the White House to Lincoln, Neb. Mr. Nixon said he had no choice. The people in Washington did not appreciate a president in their town, and he blamed criticism by the news media for the lack of support for the present administration. Mr. Nixon said:

"It's always a tragedy when a city loses a White House, but there are other things that have to be taken into consideration. Nebraska has the No. 1 football team in the country, and I believe a president of the United States should always be in town with the No. 1 team."

Muskie Confronted Again On Race Issue

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has issued another explanation of his statement that a black candidate for vice president would be a handicap to the ticket.

Muskie was one of four persons mentioned as possibilities for the Democratic presidential nomination who were in town Wednesday. As has often been the case lately, the Maine senator again found himself discussing the black vice president statement.

At a news conferencen Muskie said his statement in Los Angeles was not intended to be a decision.

"In Los Angeles, I made the point that blacks are not in a position of equality, whether it's political opportunity, job opportunity, educational opportunity or any other areas to improve themselves," he said.

He was specifically asked about his statement that a black vice presidential candidate would be a handicap on the ticket.

"Oh yes, I was saying that," he said. "But that was not a decision, this was an opinion of the present status of blacks in terms of political opportunity in America."

Later he spoke to a Liberal Party banquet and said America's liberals have not responded correctly to such issues as taxes, poverty, hunger and particularly, crime.

"While some politicians pandered to people's fears with swift and easy answers, most liberals responded first by ignoring the issue of crime, and then by denouncing those who pointed to the problem," he said.

"Liberals let others create the impression that law and order was a black versus white issue. . . And so we forfeited the support we should have gained for the rule of law."

He said liberals must learn to "respond when an issue like rising crime threatenes the safety and confidence of our citizens."

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota said if he is elected president he would first end the war and second "grant general amnesty," to young men who fled the country or went to jail rather than fight in Southeast Asia.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, who until recently was a Republican, said Nixon administration programs catered to big business and the privileged classes, while excluding much of America.

Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma appeared with Muskie and McGovern at hearings of the New York State Democratic coalition. Harris called for decentralization of big city governments into smaller elected community boards.

Judge Sees No Evidence Of Attica Harassment

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)—A federal judge refused Wednesday to bar Attica state prison personnel from harassing inmates, on the grounds there was no evidence that such abuse is continuing.

U.S. District Judge John T. Curtin was to hold a hearing today on whether to grant an order directing state officials to permit newsmen-inmates interviews. Newsmen claim they have been denied interviews with the inmates since the Attica revolt in which 42 persons died ended Sept. 13.

In his decision Wednesday, Curtin dismissed a suit brought by the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) in behalf of all Attica inmates. The suit claimed violatiions of the convicts' constitutional rights.

Herman Schwartz of the ACLU said the attorneys had not decided whether to appeal the ruling or continue the suit in federal court in behalf of the inmates as individuals instead of as a class.

"There is no question that the beatings, running of the gauntlet, the racial slurs, nighttime harassment, threats of future injury and reprisal and the destruction of legal materials, books and other property should not have occurred and should not be permitted to occur in the future," Curtin said.

Man Arraigned On Assault Counts

A 47-year-old San Rafael man was arraigned Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court on two counts of assault with a deadly weapon and one count of theft.

Mary Pickford Films Scheduled

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the first time in 40 years, a series of Mary Pickford's finest films will be shown commercially in New York, it was announced Tuesday.

The decision to release the films, which will first be shown Oct. 15, was prompted by the interest in a recent series of Miss Pickford's movies shown on a noncommercial basis.

Among the films to be released are "My Best Girl," "Birth of a Legend," "Pollyanna," "Daddy Long Legs," "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," "Poor Little Rich Girl," and "Little Annie Rooney."

Campaign Spending Bill Clears Hurdle

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Commerce Committee has approved a campaign spending bill that Democrats claim will end the election of candidates by television blitzes.

But Republicans argued the measure is loaded with loopholes and should be vetoed by President Nixon.

The committee completed action on the bill Wednesday after weeks of bitter partisan feuding that could ultimately dash hopes of reforming campaign financing laws.

The committee voted 23 to 20 to set a 10 cent per voter limit on spending by federal candidates for broadcast advertising, not more than half of which an be spent for radio and television.

The committee's 18 Republicans had fought hard for a 10-cent limit within which a candidate could allocate sums as he wished for advertising in newspapers, magazines, or on radio and TV.

Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., who rounded up the Democratic votes to defeat the Republicans, said the 50 per cent provision will prevent tv blitzes and keep well-financed candidates from buying Senate and House seats.

But GOP members of the committee led by Rep. Louis Frey Jr. of Florida said the bill is grossly inadequate since the limit does not cover flyers, billboards, telephone, postage and other campaign expenses.

"It's a lousy bill," said Frey. "They (Democrats) wanted to do it badly enough so the president has to veto it and then they can say he doesn't want campaign reform."

Frey said that unless the bill is vastly improved through amendment on the House floor, "I assume the President would veto it."

The highest transcontinental railroad track in North America is 10,221 feet at Tennessee Pass, COLO.

Probe Of C5A Engine Failure Being Requested

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A congressman says the Pentagon delayed the news that an engine had fallen off a C5A cargo plane until after the Senate passed a bill containing $472 million for the controversial aircraft.

The Air Force said Wednesday it had grounded seven of the huge planes after an engine fell off a C5A as it was being taxied on the runway at Altus Air Force Base, Okla., a week ago.

Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., asserted the disclosure was delayed until a $21 billion weapons authorization bill was "safely through the Senate." He said he would ask the General Accounting Office to conduct a technical audit of the plane, which is the world's largest, and at $60 million each, the most expensive.

But Air Force officials denied the delay was due to the Senate debate, which ended Wednesday. They said the incident was publicized in Oklahoma when it happened and that they waited to put out a formal announcement at the Pentagon until they had some information.

ACRES OF FUN — Cars, trucks and workmen cluster in the new Marin County Fairgrounds at the Civic Center, putting on the finishing touches for the annual celebration which will open its four-day run at 10 a.m. tomorrow. The Veterans Memorial Auditorium (left rear) will house space-age exhibits, the first Marin Film Competition showing and ballet and dance troupe programs. In the foreground is the carnival midway; a circus will occupy the open area at the far left. The tent in the center background will house the floral arrangements and garden competitions; the larger tent at the right will contain the art and photography displays.

It's A Commercial Masquerade And Incompatible, Council Claims

The Renaissance Pleasure Faire — described as a commercial venture masquerading as a nonprofit cultural event — was branded the "wrong thing" for upper Lucas Valley last night.

Las Gallinas Valley Council members, by resolution, declared it would be "incompatible with the total environment" and would be "detrimental in its impact on the community."

They viewed it as a commercial encroachment into a residential valley that would violate the master plan, be a burden on residents, and bring massive traffic and parking problems that would disrupt the community.

The protests were highlighted with comments that the proposed fair and Renaissance Center on the Grady Ranch would take 1,000 acres off the tax rolls, that fair traffic could block police and fire emergency runs and create air and noise pollution.

The "annual invasion" of fair visitors "will not serve the best interests of thousands of families who reside in Las Gallinas Valley," but would only "serve to profit those who operate the Renaissance Center," the resolution said.

About 20 persons were present, representing home owner groups and governmental agencies in the Las Gallinas Valley, and the majority voted for the resolution which will be forwarded to member organizations for action.

Representatives voting for the resolution were from the Lucas Valley Home Owners Association, Santa Venetja County Service Area No. 6, Terra Linda Community Services District, Gallinas Village Improvement Association, Gallinas Village Community Services District and Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District.

Frank Solomon Jr., representing the Marinwood Community Services District and Las Gallinas Valley Community Services District, abstained, pending instruction from these boards.

Abset were San Rafael Meadows Flood Control Zone, Los Ranchitos, Rafael Meadows Improvement Association and San Rafael Park Civic Association.

The main thrust of the protest was that the Grady Ranch just isn't the place to have the proposed center and fair.

Council President Richard L. Less said it would be "the wrong thing in the wrong place" and would be "improper use of the land."

Martin Kaufman, president of Lucas Valley Home Owners Association, reported on a community meeting Monday night with Phyllis Patterson, head of the fair and Renaissance Center Foundation. The immediate response of residents was "negative," he said.

Mrs. Patterson and her husband, Ron gave inadequate and vague answers on major questions that were raised including zoning and proposed uses, he said.

Kaufman said he was opposed not only to the traffic but "zoning 1,000 acres commercially." The approach by the Pattersons has been "let us have the zoning and permits and we'll take care of the prob-

Marin Fair To Open Tomorrow

The gates to the 26th annual Marin County Fair will open tomorrow with the most sophisticated — and most wide-ranging — variety of attractions in the history of the fair.

For Marin fairgoers, it will be a new experience, right down to the ground, the first to be held at the new Civic Center fairgrounds after many years at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross. Even the time of year may prove a novelty, offering the more crisp airs of autumn in place of the hot Fourth of July weekends on which the fair was formerly held.

There will be the garden displays, art and photographic competition, and community organizations' booths that have been a tradition of Marin's unique annual fair. The four-day 1971 model also will leap into space with a set of live-action National Aeronautics and Space Administration exhibits, offer Marin's first film festival, ballets, have a larger carnival area than ever before, and feature an actual circus for the first time.

Tomorrow through Monday, the fair will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. each day.

The five-acre site between the Veterans Memorial Building and the Civic Center lagoon was transformed in less than two months from a place where neighborhood youngsters rode their horses daily, to a fairgrounds.

Two tents will house the main traditional attractions. The juried art and photography exhibits in the larger tent will be surrounded by lush tropical garden displays installed by commercial nurserymen. The other tent with row upon row of tables decorated with formal, white tablecloths, will be for the flower arrangements and fruit and vegetable entries that Marin's gardeners proudly began bringing to the fair this afternoon.

Outdoor booths ranked in concentric arcs link the two tents. They will feature the commercial exhibits, clubs' educational displays and food and drink concessions.

Surrounding the booth area will be other commercial garden displays. Sixteen volunteer organizations ranging from the Ross Valley Players to church and youth groups and the Marin Symphony Guild will hawk sandwiches, beverages, Christmas cards and novelties, assist in the parking lot and sell fair

Tiburon Moves To Condemn Cove Land

Rebuffed at the negotiating table, the City of Tiburon last night prepared to condemn land slated for development on Strawberry Cove.

The council asked its legal staff to prepare an ordinance authorizing filing of a condemnation suit against the landowner, Leonard B. Fleischman of Belvedere, for the disputed 6.7-acre parcel.

Asst. City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert said the council will consider the ordinance on first reading at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at city hall. The meeting will not be held Monday because of Columbus Day.

The council took the action after Fleischman Tuesday rejected a city offer to buy the land for $125,000. Fleischman said he wanted either $250,000 or title to a parcel in Southern Marin where he could build 72 apartments or 20 homes.

Development of the parcel has been snarled for more than two years, due chiefly to efforts of conservationists, who want the cove to remain open and undeveloped.

A plan for 72 apartments was to be considered today by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, which earlier this year turned down a plan for 96 apartments.

The 72-unit proposal has been approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Richard L. Breiner, assistant city attorney of Tiburon, said Section 5302 of the State Public Resources Code permits cities to condemn land outside their boundaries for park purposes.

The city is expected to proceed with the suit regardless of the outcome of the Oct. 19 annexation election.

Meyer In Survival Showdown

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Marin County Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer today fought for what he called "the political survival" of Marin County, in an appearance before the Senate Reapportionment Committee.

He lashed at the plan unveiled by the Senate Democratic majority yesterday to split Marin ultimately among three senators. Meyer declared the move would "jeopardize the political welfare of many of its people," and urged "an equal chance to the people of Marin County."

Meyer stressed that for the first time in 19 years, Marin switched to the Democratic column in voter registration last week. "Looking at the Senate reapportionment proposal today, we see that this youngest and therefore somewhat precious Democratic county is not given a political chance to survive," Meyer charged.

He explained that the proposal would put 90,000 Marin citizens into the revised Fourth Senatorial District stretching to Tehama County, making the Marin voters a 20 per cent minority of the district. "The remaining 116,000 Marin County citizens become a 10 per cent minority in a vast and combined district (with two at-large senate seats) to the south, including San Francisco, San Mateo and portions of the East Bay," he said.

"Please think of the consequences" of relegating politically active Marin to minority status in the different districts, Meyer pleaded.

The elections officer warned the Senate committee that the proposed redistricting would split "20 Marin County local governing districts: three cities, three supervisorial districts, four elementary, two high school and one college district, five sanitary districts, a water district and a fire district."

The redistricting also would divide "a community of interest" of Marin's citizens, he warned, throwing them in with other areas whose citizens have widely differing interests.

Meyer urged the Reapportionment Committee to avoid putting "any senatorial boundary line" through Marin, to as-

RETORTS FAST TO REAPPORTIONMENT

Marin County supervisors today reacted with dismay and horror at the proposed reapportionment of state senatorial districts that would parcel Marin out among four senators at the outset and three ultimately.

"What I want to say isn't printable," growled Supervisor Chairman Louis H. Baar. "I think it's a shame that they play games up there in Sacramento. They're looking out for their own personal interests with no regard for the people of the state. I don't think that type of people should be retained in Sacramento."

"I have to agree with Senator (Peter H.) Behr that it's a classic example of gerrymandering," said Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.,vice chairman of the board of supervisors. "It dilutes any effective representation that Marin would have in Sacramento. I don't question the integrity of Senator (George) Moscone and Senator (Milton) Marks, but they are not associated with voters in Marin in the sense that they have not been in close working relationship with local agencies."

The proposed reapportionment would lump a part of Marin with the San Francisco districts of Senators Moscone and Marks, and the rest in a huge district, running north to Redding.

"The concept that Marin has the same interest as Redding is beyond comprehension really," said Arrigoni.

"This would disenfranchise us as I see it," observerd John F. McInnis. "It appears to me that the new pattern of representation will end up with no effective representation for Marin whatsoever."

Because Marin would be a minority portion of a larger district, it would be difficult to get one senator, let alone all four, to take a real interest in Marin problems and effectively represent the county's interest in Sacramento said McInnis.

Wornum said his Southern Marin supervisorial district would be split among the three senators. "How can we have three senators responsible for Southern Marin? It would be a legislative nightmare."

"I think it is unfortunate to split Marin in such a way as to include a relatively urban area with an almost purely agricultural area," said Arnold M. Baptiste. "Marin has far closer ties with the bay region than with Redding for example."

Widow Vigorously Opposed Exhumation

By C. P. McCARTHY

The widow of Judge Harold J. Haley vigorously, but unsuccessfully, opposed a move to have the judge's body exhumed, it was revealed today.

Her opposition was contained in an affidavit filed during a closed court conference conference Sept. 22 when Judge Richard E. Arnason approved the exhumation sought by attorneys for Ruchell Magee. (For story on Magee's codefendant Angela Davis, see page 23)

The transcript also contained sharp criticism by the prosecution in the case of the public money being spent by Magee's defense team.

Gertrude Haley said in her affidavit that she had "no intention of seeking any special privilege for herself or family by preying on the sympathy of the court by making any detailed recitation of what the last year has been like since the shocking news was first received on Aug. 7, 1970.

"But it must be plainly evident that this is not a death where time heals the wounds suffered by the family of the deceased because there has surely not been a day since the horrible event occurred that vivid accounts have not been publicized over every means of public communication.

"The remains of my dear husband lie in peaceful repose in his last and final resting place," she said.

"To disturb his body over a

Wholesale Prices Decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices declined 0.4 per cent in September, the first full month under President Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the decline, adjusted for seasonal factors, was the first drop in wholesale prices in 10 months.

The decline appeared to be a plus for President Nixon's economic policies. An even more sensitive report bearing heavily on his program is due Friday— the September employment-unemployment report.

Nixon's program is designed both to stop inflation and to lower the rate of unemployment, which has hovered at the 6 per cent level for almost a year.

The good news on the wholesale price front came less than 10 hours before President Nixon addresses the nation on the "Phase II" economic controls to follow the wage-price freeze, which ends Nov. 13.

Underscoring the extent of the drop in wholesale prices was the first decline in the key industrial commodities price index in nearly 3 1-2 years —0.1 per cent.

Prices for farm products and processed foods and feeds fell 1.7 per cent, while consumer finished goods went down 0.9 per cent.

Wholesale price fluctuations are usually reflected in consumer prices in a matter of days or weeks. The September report on retail prices — commonly known as the cost of

Smog Board Holds Secret Meetings

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials held two unannounced, behind-closed-doors meetings yesterday, then refused to disclose the purpose of the secret sessions.

Yesterday was the regular monthly meeting of Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors, and the full board session traditionally begins at 10 a.m. — as indicated on notices sent to the public.

But when the Independent-Journal reporter arrived an hour early, a majority of the 18-member board was secreting itself in the district's small committee room behind the board room.

Board chairman Robert W. Hoyer, a Clayton city councilman, was advised that the state's anti-secret meeting law, — the Ralph M. Brown Act — required public notice when public officials meet. His response: "I didn't come in for a lecture."

The district's public information officer, Edward W. McHugh, said not even he had received notice of the special meeting.

The district's attorney, Mathew S. Walker, said the secret session was "news to me."

The district's secretary, Mabel Harder, said that she had been specifically instructed by the district's air pollution control officer, D. J. Callaghan, not to notify the public about the 9 a.m. session, and to send out public notice only for the regular 10 a.m. meeting.

Callaghan said that he had so instructed Mrs. Harder "because there is no need for notices under the Brown Act." He said the meeting would be closed to the public, that it was a meeting of the personnel committee, and that it dealt with "a personnel matter."

The Brown Act, which requires 24-hour written notice of any special meetings, allows closed meetings only to hire or fire or hear charges against an officer or employee.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

A New 'Our Gang'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new novel by Philip Roth about a U.S. president called Trick E. Dixon — a thinly disguised reference to Richard M. Nixon — will be published Nov. 2 by Random House, it was announced Wednesday.

The new book by Roth, 38, author of the best-seller, "Portnoy's Complaint," is called "Our Gang, Starring Tricky and His Friends."

According to the publishing firm, the central character of the book promises the complete withdrawal of Vietnamese from Vietnam in 1972, invades Denmark because of its "pro-pornography" stand, meets with advisers dressed in football uniforms in an underground locker room at the White House, condones the poison gasing of demonstrating Boy Scouts and institutes a program under which sentencing for crimes is immediate.

Chances Damaged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Russell Long, D-La., says the discovery of illegal aliens working in a food packing plant owned by U.S. Treasurer-designate Romana Banuelos has damaged her chances for confirmation.

Long is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which will hold hearings on Mrs. Banuelos' appointment.

Immigration agents raided Romana's Food Products Co. Tuesday and arrested 36 Mexicans for entering the United States illegally. They were returned to Mexico.

Agents said there were at least 100 illegal aliens working on another shift who were missed in the raid. It was the sixth raid on Mrs. Banuelos' plant in three years.

Nixon Would Rule World: Welch

BELMONT, Mass. (UPI) — Robert Welch, founder and leader of the John Birch Society, said in a newsletter that President Nixon is trying to use the presidency of the United States as a stepping stone to become the ruler of the world.

Welch

Welch, in a pamphlet mailed with the October bulletin of the John Birch Society, said Nixon could only achieve such a position with the approval and support of the Communist movement. "The record seems to me to indicate quite clearly that, since at least 1960, Richard Nixon has had the all-pervading ambition and the unshakable determination to use the presidency of the United States as a stepping stone from which to become the first ruler of the world," Welch said.

"This belief includes the further opinion that Nixon knows any such position can only be achieved with the approval and support of the Communist movement and of the insiders who control it. Also, I believe he realizes, expects and intends that this role . . . will and must rapidly evolve into an absolute Communist-style dictatorship . . ."

The statement was stronger than one Welch made in 1958 calling President Eisenhower an unwitting dupe of the Communist party.

Ireland Violence

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British troops fired across the Republic of Ireland border today to silence automatic weapon fire directed at them, an army spokesman said.

He said the army had asked the British embassy in Dublin to lodge an official complaint with Prime Minister Jack Lynch's government.

The incident, which a government source said would surely increase political friction between Dublin and Belfast, came as Northern Irish Premier Brian Faulkner was flying to London for more talks with British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

Thief's Conscience

HASSELT, Belgium (UPI) — Mario Roymans, 21, was so deeply disturbed by reports of suffering in East Pakistan that he stole a priceless 17th century masterpiece and demanded a $4 million ransom be paid for the relief of Bengali refugees.

He was overheard telephoning a ransom demand to a newspaper. He fled on a motorcycle but police later traced him to his hiding place.

The modern-day Robin Hood was caught Wednesday hiding in a cowshed. The painting, "The Love Letter" by Dutch master Johannes Vermeer, was recovered from under the mattress of Roymans' hotelroom bed.

Experts today faced months of difficult work to restore the masterpiece, clumsily cut from its frame Sept. 24 as it hung in the Brussels Fine Arts Palace.

Police Fired Upon

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI) — Police said a sniper's bullet shattered the spotlight on a police patrol car early today in a black district where five policemen were wounded by sniper fire earlier in the week.

The men in the patrol car were not hurt and joined 10 other police vehicles which rushed to the area in an unsuccessful search for the sniper, police said.

The incident broke two nights of quiet in the port city that has been plagued with violence since a high school football game erupted into racial fighting Friday night.

Israel Replies

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah says "Egypt must abandon its inflexible attitude" if progress if to be made in peace negotiations on the Middle East.

Reacting to Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad's policy speech in the U.N. General Assembly Wednesday, in which Riad blamed the current impasse in Israel and its staunch suport from the United States, Tekoah said:

"The statement by Mr. Riad makes it clear the Egypt's position remains as intransigent as ever."

New Beef Labeling System

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Safeway, the nation's second largest grocery chain, said today it will label ground beef according to relative fat content rather than the cut from which the meat came.

The switch, a sharp break with industry tradition, was in accord with a recent report by Consumers Union which said housewives get little or no quality, nutritional or taste advantage from buying ground chuck, round or sirloin despite their higher price.

A Safeway spokesman explained that grinding virtually eliminates taste and tenderness differences among beef cuts. he said labeling by cut also tended to be misleading, partly because stores may sometimes mix trimmings from other cuts with ground chuck, round or sirloin.

In addition, the Safeway spokesman said, "many consumers believe that when you buy ground sirloin you're buying a ground sirloin steak. You're not."

He said that while the ground meat is sirloin, it comes from "the tail and other trimmings off the beef loin." Ground round, the spokesman said, comes from "trimmings and the heel near the leg bone" — part of the beef's round but not that used for round steak.

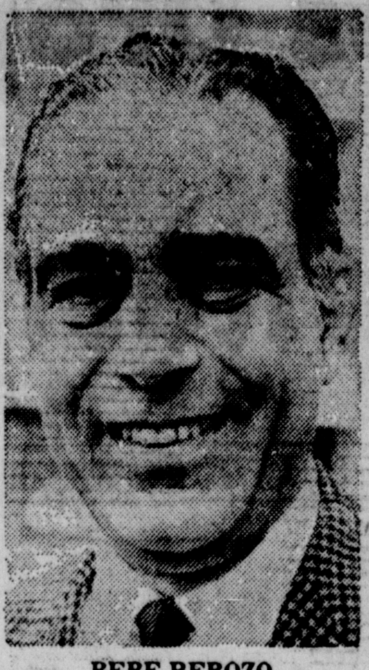
Safeway said its new system will label ground beef "regular" (25 to 28 per cent fat, 59 to 69 cents a pound): "lean" (22 to 25 per cent fat, 89 cents); "extra lean" (18 to 22 per cent fat, 99 cents); and "super lean" (15 to 18 per cent fat, $1.29). Safeway said the prices and fat ranges were approximate and might vary slightly from city to city.

George A. Pollak, head of Consumers Union's food department, praised the new system as "much more honest."

Pollak directed Consumers Union's ground beef study, the results of which were published in the August issue of "Consumer Reports". The report said taste testers couldn't tell the difference between hamburgers made from various cuts, that fat content sometimes was higher in round or sirloin than cheaper cuts, and that cheap ground beef was the best nutritional buy.

According to Consumers Union, Americans eat 11.3 billion pounds of ground beef yearly, 55 pounds per capita.

Safeway has 2,300 stores in 27 states and the District of Columbia, and reported 1970 sales of $4.8 billion. The firm ranks second to A&P among the nation's grocery chains.



BEBE REBOZO
Land Purchase

Denial Of Rebozo Deal Favoritism

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — A newspaper Wednesday quoted a National Park Service (NPS) adviser as saying he was told to handle a close friend of President Nixon's with "kid gloves" in buying land from him for a national monument. The adviser later denied he made such a statement.

A.E.N. Westcott, an attorney-adviser for the NPS, was quoted by the Long Island newspaper Newsday as saying that a 1969 deal to buy land from Bebe Rebozo for the Biscayne National Monument made him nervous because the NPS expected "the possibility of extremely delicate situations" since it was dealing with a close friend of the President.

But in an interview with Miami radio station WWOK Wedneeday night, Westcott said no extra considerations were given to Rebozo.

Rebozo, former Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and two other men owned Adams Key, which the NPS bought for $550,000 to include in the island chain national monument south of Miami, Newsday said. It said in its copyrighted story, the first of a series on the business dealings of Rebozo and Smathers entitled "The Making of a Millionaire," that Westcott said he first offered $500,000 for the land, but changed the offer to $550,000 after a "quick agreement." That was the sum for which the owners had been trying to sell the island for seven years, Newsday said. It was $5,000 above the appraised value.

The newspaper quoted Westcott as saying that Army Corps of Engineers officials gave him to understand that Rebozo should be "treated with kid gloves" because "We were supposed to be dealing with someone who was an intimate of people in high places."

Dock Strikers Return By Order

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Using the Taft-Hartley Act for the first time in his administration, President Nixon Wednesday night forced 15,000 West Coast longshoreman to end temporarily their 98-day strike.

Officials said it would take "a couple of days" to get dock operations back to normal.

U.S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams issued the temporary restraining order in San Francisco. Williams' order did not affect the Atlantic and Gulf Coast dockworkers strike. The White House said Nixon is hopeful federal mediators can negotiate a settlement to that week-old walkout.

Williams set a hearing for Friday on a permanent injunction which would impose the full 80-day Taft-Hartley cooling off period. "There is very persuasive evidence in that the national health and safety is threatened by continuance of the strike," Williams said.

One affidavit, filed by California Gov. Ronald Reagan, said more than $10 million a day was being lost to the state's business and labor because of the dispute.

The West Coast strike—which began July 1—equalled record for the longest dock strike in American history. It tied up 208 ships in 24 pacific coast ports.

It was the first time East and West Coast dockworkers were on strike at the same time.

The Nixon injunction also included grain elevator workers in Illinois, but did not affect 80,000 striking coal miners who have been off the job for a week.

In Chicago, Federal judge Frank J. McGarr issued a temporary restraining order forcing 225 Chicago area grain elevator workers back on their jobs for 10 days.

The grain strike — which began Sept. 1 — has crippled grain elevators in Illinois and northern Indiana. A hearing was set for Oct. 15 to determine if the full 80-day cooling-off period is necessary.

Coal negotiators in Washington met Wednesday, but reported no progress. Another session was set for today.

The White House said Nixon was sending a high-level mediator—believed to be Assistant Labor Secretary W. L. Usery—to New York to provide assistance in the dock strike.

Heavy Raids Carried Out On Hanoi Camps

SAIGON (UPI) — American B52s, fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships carried out heavy raids today against North Vietnamese positions along the Cambodian border but Communist artillery kept up a steady barrage against allied bases on both sides of the frontier.

In Saigon, 70 Buddhist students demonstrated today against the reelection of President Nguyen Van Thieu in last Sunday's one-candidate balloting. They were quickly dispersed by police.

The B52s flew four raids or twice the number in the same area on Wednesday and U.S. and Vietnamese fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships also hit NVA positions in the area, 80 miles northwest of Saigon.

The air attacks failed to halt North Vietnamese gunners who rained 91 rockets and mortar rounds on 10 allied bases on both sides of the border, compared to nearly 200 shells fired against a dozen allied bases the previous day.

U.S. Fire Base Pace was hit by 15 rounds of 82mm mortar from sunrise Tuesday to dawn Wednesday and another eight rounds in the 24 hours ending at dawn today. But no casualties were reported.

As the bombardments continued, the U.S. command reported that 21 Americans were killed in the war last week, down eight from the previous week. It brought to 45,564 the total Americans killed in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961. The wounded total jumped to 117, up 70 from the previous week and was attributed to the heavy roll of American GIs in the fighting along the Cambodian border in the vicinity of Tay Ninh and in support of the South Vietnamese forces around the Cambodian town of Krek just across the border.

The shellings of allied bases killed two South Vietnamese soldiers and wounded four others, military spokesmen said.

In ground action in the area two companies of ARVN paratroopers killed three North Vietnamese in an encounter Wednesday between Tay Ninh and the Cambodian border, the South Vietnamese command said. The Saigon command reported its troops killed 57 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m.

Sonoma Coalition Meets Next Week On Aqueduct

The Sonoma County Coalition, an organization formed to investigate the planned Sonoma-Marin aqueduct, will hold an informational meeting Wednesday, Oct. 13, at 8 p.m. at the cafeteria at Santa Rosa Junior College.

The newly formed coalition includes the League of Women Voters, American Association of University Women, Madrone Audubon Society, Sierra Club, Californians Organized to Acquire access to State Tidelands, Sonoma County Organization for a Planned Environment and other educational and environmental groups.

Coalition chairman Iva Warner said a panel including Sonoma County officials and coalition members will discuss several aspects of the project, including the environmental effects of the dam and the manner in which project plans were approved.

The impact of the new water system on taxes and water rates will be studied along with what population changes the aqueduct might bring to Sonoma and Marin counties.

Annual Horse Show Is Sunday

The San Geronimo Valley Horsemen's Association will hold its third annual horse show Sunday at the horsemen's grounds near the golf course off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The show will include maiden, novice and open for participants aged 17 and under, and hunter, jumper, pleasure and equitation for those 18 and over.

Maureen Casteel of Concord will judge the events and trophies and ribbons will be awarded to the winners.

Association Chairman Marian Atkins said the show has qualified for the California Horsemen's Association and the Offutts High Point Saddle Contest. She added spectators will be admitted free and refreshments will be served beginning at 6 a.m.

North Water Board Eyes New Service

The North Marin County Water District has authorized study of the feasibility of providing water and sewer service to the first phase development of Tomales Bay Farm, north of Marshall.

The cost, estimated at $3,400, will be paid by the property owner, Herbert H. Angress, reported Dist. Mgr. Eugene S. Churchill.

Directors Tuesday night approved the study covering service to a proposed meeting center, restaurant, pier and 60 lodging units, Churchill said.

Directors also approved installation of a $6,500 system to serve customers at higher elevations at June and H Lanes, where there has been low pressure.

The board adjourned until 8 p.m. Oct. 19 at the Bear Valley administration headquarters, Point Reyes National Seashore, to discuss the possibility of providing water to the Olema area.

Children's Films Will Be Presented

Experimental children's films will be shown at 10 a.m. and 1 and 3 p.m. Saturday at Brown's Hall, Mill Valley.

The show, entitled "Our Really Good Films for Kids," will be put on by two youths, Howard Ramer and Donald Limuti.

Marijuana Possession Charge Is Reduced

I-J Special Report

PACIFICA—A Marin County social worker, arrested Sept. 10 in Pacifica and originally charged with felonious possession of marijuana, has been fined $125 on a reduced misdemeanor charge of being in a place where narcotics were being used.

Elaine Goldman, 36, of 9 Hazel Court, San Rafael, pleaded guilty to the lesser charge Tuesday in San Mateo County Municipal Court, according to the court clerk.

Senate Upholds Nixon's Government Pay Freeze

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate today upheld President Nixon's order to freeze wages for four million government workers until July 1. Key senators promised to fight for a partial pay increase.

The Senate rejected a resolution which would have nullified Nixon's order postponing a 5.5 per cent raise for government employes due Jan. 1.

The House rejected a similar resolution Monday, 207 to 174.

But several senators, including Chairman Gale McGee, D-Wyo., of the Senate Civil Service Committee and the committee's ranking Republican, Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, promised to press for legislation giving federal workers a raise comparable to the average of the increases permitted private industry under Phase II of Nixon's program.

On Wednesday, the Senate adopted an amendment to the military procurement bill which would provide federal workers with this partial increase. But the amendment was not expected to get through the House.

Nixon postponed the pay increase to save the government $1.3 billion.

That saving was to offset a portion of the government's loss resulting from the three-year, $15.4 billion tax cut Nixon proposed to stimulate the economy. The tax cut was approved by the House Wednesday.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott bitterly fought against Wednesday's pay proposal and warned that he would hold responsible "day by day" those who voted for it and thus damaged Nixon's anti-inflationary program.

But when the role was called, 18 Republicans, ignoring Scott's warning, joined 42 Democrats in voting for the proposal. Four Southern Democrats and 23 Republicans opposed it.

The proposal, sponsored by Sens. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., in whose home state live 110,000 federal workers, and Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, was attached as an amendment to the Senate's $21 billion military procurement bill.

That bill, which passed 82-4, now goes to the House-Senate conference committee, which must iron out differences between the House and Senate measures.

The Mathias-Moss amendment, limiting the size of the federal pay raise, is not expected to survive in the conference if the Senate today fails to veto Nixon's action.

U.S. Urges Humane POWs Treatment

PARIS (UPI)—The United States urged North Vietnam and the Viet Cong today to give humane treatment to captured Americans. But it ignored a standing Communist effort to free the POWs in return for the setting of a firm deadline for withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

"Surely you can provide without harm to yourselves information concerning those of our men you know to be dead," Ambassador William J. Porter, the chief American negotiator, said at the 131st session of the deadlocked Paris Vietnam talks.

He cited last Monday's unanimous resolution of the House of Representatives urging North Vietnam to abide by the 1956 Geneva Convention on the humane treatment of prisoners of war.

The North Vietnamese representative, Nguyen Minh Vy, sitting in for delegation leader Xuan Thuy, responded to the American plea by repeating the Communists' latest seven-point peace program.

One of the points offers to release American prisoners as U.S. troops are withdrawn, once the United States names a deadline for withdrawal. The United States has reacted so far by asking the other side for clarifications which, it says, it has not got.

Four days after South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu won a claimed 94 per cent of the votes in a single candidate election, both sides traded accusations that the other was responsible for violence on election day.

Porter charged the Viet Cong "selected the city of Saigon and other cities as targets, and a number of civilians died as a result."

Dinh Ba Thi, standing in for chief Viet Cong negotiator, Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, said it was the United States and Saigon which caused the violence by suppressing anti-Thieu voters.

"Under the direction of the United States the Saigon government mobilized its entire military and administrative apparatus to repress the voters. At Saigon, Hue and Da Nang, the army and police opened fire on the populace without scruple," Thi said.

Viet Cong officials said Madame Binh has returned to "Vietnam" united States joined with the Thieu administration to rig the elections.

"The election has shattered the signboards of democracy and self determination that the Nixon administration has put up to justify its colonialist policy," Vy said.

Youth Booked In Probe Of Stolen Property

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday for investigation of concealing property stolen from a San Rafael auto body shop June 6.

San Rafael police said Robert Wesley Rosson of 136 Auburn Street was identified as one of three men who allegedly sold loot from S and S Auto Body, 180 Geary Place. Stolen were $4,500 in tools and a foreign-made van.

Police said the second man was being held in San Francisco on a stolen vehicle charge, while the third still was sought.

Rosson, for whom no bail was set, was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Approval On Prefabricated Duplexes Design

The Corte Madera Board of Design last night approved the design of three prefabricated duplexes proposed for the property at the southeast junction of Paradise and El Camino drives.

According to board secretary Elizabeth Long, approval came on a 2 to 1 vote with C. William Thomas dissenting. Design of the buildings will now go to the town's planning commission for final approval.

The quarter acre of property, which is a long narrow strip of land, is under study by the town staff as a possible park site.

The town council, at its last meeting, appropriated $600 for appraisal of the parcel, along with a second parcel nearby, before entering negotiations with landowners.

Libel Charged At McCloskey

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) —Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr.'s statements that U.S. bombs have wiped out Laotian villages and citizens "libel this nation," according to Rep. Jack F. Kemp, R-N.Y.

Appearing here to launch a campaign against McCloskey's candidacy for the presidency, Kemp said the U.S. has never taken greater pains "to assure that civilian casualties in a bloody war are kept to a minimum."

The statements "libel this nation, its military tradition and the effort to aid a tiny, belabored country in a far corner of the world," said Kemp, former quarterback for the Buffalo Bills football team.

Firemen Trapped 42 Stories Up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A power failure trapped 10 firemen in an elevator at the 42nd story of a building in which they had just completed extinguishing a blaze.

It took a half an hour before other firemen could climb stairs and free them from the elevator at 44 Montgomery St.

Damage from the fire was estimated at $10,000.

living index — probably will not be out for about two more weeks.

The BLS said most of the commodities measured in the wholesale price index were covered by the price freeze, and nearly all prices used in the September index were those in effect after the freeze began Aug. 15.

BLS officials said raw agricultural products, which are not covered by the freeze, accounted for a large share of the decrease, but they offered no explanation other than that agricultural products normally show large fluctuations. Another category not covered by the freeze—imported commodities —remained about steady.

The BLS said the September decline was the first since a 0.1 per cent drop last November and the largest decrease after seasonal adjustment since October, 1966.

Before seasonal adjustment, the drop last month was 0.3 per cent, largest since August of last year.

The 0.4 per cent decline in September compared with an average monthly increase of the same amount during the previous six months.

The BLS said higher rebates for 1971 model cars and trucks were chiefly responsible for the 0.1 per cent drop in the industrial commodities index, which had been rising 0.5 per cent per month for six months.

Lower prices also were listed for lumber and wood products, tires and tubes, crude natural rubber, some nonferrous metals, cotton and wool products and leather.

But prices were up for electric power and natural gas, metals and metal products, men's and boy's clothing and cattle hides.

Among farm products, prices for fruits and vegetables dropped 10.6 per cent, livestock was down 1.8 per cent, eggs fell 2.1 per cent and grains decreased 4.1 per cent. But live poultry prices went up 2 per cent.

sure "political survival. You, if you were sitting in our shoes, would want to be given such a chance," the Marinite said.

The Senate reapportionment proposal by the majority Democrats would carve away half the Marin County voters now represented by Fourth District Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, to give them to the two at-large seats in the Ninth and Tenth districts. In turn, Behr's present district which includes Solano and Napa counties, would be expanded to take in the farming and timber counties of Shasta, Tehama, Glenn, Sutter and Tehama plus a sliver of Sonoma County.

Much of Behr's proposed district now is served by Sen. Fred W. Marler, R-Redding. The reapportionment would shift Marler's Second District to a part of Los Angeles County predominantly occupied by Mexican-American residents. Behr and Marler ultimately would face each other in an election to see which would serve.

Warning On Pine Beetles

Novato Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps today warned owners of Monterey pine trees to be on the lookout for red turpentine beetles.

The beetles had infested a tree along Novato Boulevard which died recently, he said.

City crews are checking other trees along the boulevard and on other public property in Novato, and spraying where necessary, Temps said.

The signs of red turpentine beetles are borings in the bark between ground level and from six to eight feet above ground level, with reddish colored sap and sawdust building up around the holes.

Tree owners consult nurserymen for instruction about how to combat the beetles and sprays to use, he advised.

Aqueduct Debate Scheduled Tonight

Arguments for and against passage of Measure B — which authorizes Marin Municipal Water District participation in the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct project — will be presented at today's meeting of Marin's City-County Planning Council at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Joan Seminario of the committee against the measure said an announcement in yesterday's Independent-Journal erred in reporting the arguments would not be offered. Eugene A. Miller, water district director, will speak for the measure, and Thomas H. Thorner, chairman of Marin Alternative, will oppose it, she said.

year later would seem to me to require a situation of momentous judicial emergency and so urgent and important that the wheels of justice would grind to a halt unless the exhumation were ordered."

She said she didn't think that situation existed and she questioned the expense of a new autopsy.

"The taxpayers of Marin County should certainly not be saddled with such a staggering expense."

"I wish it to be recorded," she wrote, "That I and my children object to any exhumation of Judge Haley's body and this objection is made without qualification of any kind."

Mrs. Haley was represented by Attorney John G. Buresh at the Sept. 22 session held in Arnason's chambers.

The transcript of the session was filed yesterday and its release to the public authorized today by Judge Arnason.

Magee's attorney, Ernest L. Graves, had asked during the session that the transcript not be made public, saying he didn't think the contents of Mrs. Haley's affidavit are "desirable for public release."

In the transcript, Graves terms Mrs. Haley's remarks "irrelevant, immaterial and argumentative," as well as "perjorative and inflammatory."

Magee is charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy along with Angela Davis in connection with the Aug. 7, 1970, shoot-out at the Hall of Justice in which Judge Haley, two San Quentin inmates and 17-year-old Jonathan Jackson were killed.

Through the new autopsy, Graves seeks to show that the judge was dead before the firing of a shotgun Magee is accused of shooting.

Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson last week approved less than half the money Graves requested for travel and services of three doctors — one from Vienna, Austria — and a medical photographer for the new autopsy.

Wilson refused to authorize county funds for air travel, but approved a total of $2,350 for the services of the doctors and photographer.

Graves answered Mrs. Haley's questioning of the cost of the new autopsy by saying she should perhaps take up her quarrel with the United States Constitution or Supreme Court which have provided that Magee be provided counsel.

The question of costs, however, was picked up by Asst. State Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris Jr., who said that unless defense costs are checked the Magee case may be the most expensive defense in judicial history.

Harris said Marin judges, who have removed themselves from the case because of their association with Judge Haley, are not able to take a "cold, hard look" at bills being submitted by Graves.

The Marin judges "say they can't hear matters relating to this case, any contested matters, and yet they persist in handling these housekeeping chores."

Harris said that Judge Wilson, who has been reviewing Graves's bills, is in an "incredibly embarrassing predicament" and he suggested that Judge Arnason, or the Marin County counsel or somebody else supervise defense costs.

Magee's defense has now cost $15,000, Harris said. At the rate the case is proceeding, "I wouldn't be surprised to see those attorneys fees get up in the area of a couple hundred thousand dollars."

Harris said "the fact that (Magee) needs an attorney does not mean that this case should end up costing a quarter of a million dollars."

Somebody has to take responsibility for the costs or "this case is not only going to be a monument in terms of delay, but in terms of extravagance of defense expense that is, to my knowledge, unparalleled."

Graves attacked Harris's remarks as "irrelevant, intrusive, bumptious and presumptious" and none of Harris's business.

He turned the coin around and questioned the costs to the state and county for prosecution of the case.

Troop Cut Call

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) —The leadership of Britain's opposition Labor Party called today for substantial East-West troop cuts in Europe within the next 12 months and early convening of a European security conference.

nel committee, Pleasanton City Councilman Bernard T. Gerton, when asked which of the three reasons warranted the closed-door session, said, "Who knows?"

The meeting lasted 57 minutes, and Gerton said afterward that there would be no report made by the committee to the full board "because we're not through yet."

The second unannounced session of the committee came after the board adjourned its regular meeting shortly after noon. Newsmen again found the committee secreted in the committee room, and were told it was closed to the public.

Told by Walker that an unannounced closed meeting would not violate the Brown Act if less than a quorum of the full board were present, three directors not on the nine-member committee left the early morning session. Seven attended the early afternoon session.

The closed sessions were attended by the committee's vice-chairman, Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

(Walker's interpretation of the Brown Act apparently misconstrued an exemption from its provisions applying only to advisory committees composed of citizens.)

The Brown Act also became an issue in the regular meeting as plans were announced for a tour Oct. 15 of East Bay oil refineries. The tour will be preceded by an hour-long orientation at the Holiday Inn in Concord at 10:45 a.m., but the industrial hosts of the orientation had not invited the public to either.

Directors of the district said the public will be welcome at the orientation, but the tour would be limited to directors and the press.

The hosts, the Bay Area League of Industrial Associations, advised the board that tour facilities were too limited to accommodate the public along with district officials and press. A spokesman for the league said that the Brown Act never had been an issue when district directors went on league tours in past years.

Hoyer told her that "it certainly is not in my power to invite anyone."

Yesterday was the first time in memory that notices of a committee meeting had not been mailed in advance to the public.

(Callaghan, confronting complaining newsmen after the board meeting, assured them that it would not happen again, and that notices would be sent even for meetings to be closed to the public.)

Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors also:

VIOLATION — Received report that a violation notice was issued by a district inspector Sept. 23 against the Co-Op in Corte Madera.

AIRPLANE — Agreed to test the effectiveness of aerial surveillance of polluters, using offers of free airplane time instead of an extensive test relying on rental of aircraft.

JETS — Urged the federal government to impose the toughest possible limits on smoke emissions from jet aircraft.

TEST — Voted to convert four district vehicles to liquid petroleum gas in a year-long test of the fuel's ability to cut emission of contaminants, although state estimates indicate it cannot attain 1975 limits. Conversion will cost about $400 apiece.

DIRTY — Received staff report that Tuesday's visibly dirty air was "nowhere near" the level calling for a smog alert.

OBITUARIES

Charles S. Giannini Dies At 68

Charles S. Giannini, vice president of Construction Workers Union Local 29 of San Rafael, died yesterday at a local hospital after a brief illness. He was 68.

Giannini was born in San Francisco and had lived in California all his life. He had resided in Marin for 44 years and had worked as a foreman for his union for 35 years.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian E., of Mill Valley; two sons, Victor and Donald Athais, and a daughter, Miriam Jandura, all of Mill Valley; and five grandchildren.

Mass of the Resurrection will be at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church, Mill Valley, with burial at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley.

MRS. PARENTE

Private funeral for Theresa Parente, mother of Mrs. Kathryn Franchi of Terra Linda, was held today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. Entombment was in Holy Cross Mausoleum, Colma.

Mrs. Parente died Wednesday at a local convalescent hospital following a long illness. She was 88.

Born in Pittsburg, Contra Costa County, Mrs. Parente moved with her family to San Francisco as a small child. She lived there until 1951 when she moved to Marin to make her home with her daughter.

Her husband, Joseph, died in 1950.

She was a member of St. Isabella's Church, Terra Linda.

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by three sons, Gaeton Parente of San Francisco, Joseph Parente of Sonoma and Louis Parente of Los Altos, 10 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The family prefers contributions to St. Isabella's Church or a favorite charity.

MRS. KAZI-GIREY

Rose Kazi-Girey, 60, of 116 Highland Lane, Mill Valley, died yesterday following a fall at her home.

The Marin County Coroner's Office said Mrs. Kazi-Girey was talking to a friend on the telephone at about 2:30 p.m. when she fell and hit her head. She was rushed to Marin General Hospital and pronounced dead on arrival.

A native of Fort Worth, Tex., Mrs. Kazi-Girey had been a resident of Marin for three years. Prior to that she had lived in Redwood City for about 25 years. She had been a resident of California since 1934.

She is survived by a daughter, Jeanine Van Planck, also of 116 Highland Lane, Mill Valley; another daughter, Rose M. Trombley, of Redwood City; two sons, Alim, of Eugene, Ore., and Alexander, of Redwood City; her mother, Eugenia Carver, and a brother, John Woods, both of Stratford, Tex.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley.

DOMENICO FERRARESE

Recitation of the Rosary for Domenico Ferrarese of San Rafael, retired machinist of 20 years, will be tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Ferrarese died yesterday after an illness in a local hospital. He was 84.

He was born in Cavasso, Italy. He had lived in Marin for 37 years, most recently at 1875 Second Street.

Ferrarese was a machinist for 20 years, last with the H. C. Little Burner Co. of San Francisco.

He was a member of San Rafael Aerie No. 256, Fraternal Order of Eagles; Marvelous Marin Lodge; Order Sons of Italy in America and Club Italia of Marin County.

He is survived by his wife, Kathleen Ferrarese; a son, Peter J. Ferrarese, manager of Crocker-Citizens Bank in Novato and a former Novato Fire commissioner; a brother, Anthony Ferrarese of San Francisco; a sister, Emma Ferrarese of Italy; and three grandchildren.

Burial will be private.

lem," he said. "I think some of them may be insoluble."

Lucas Valley started out as agricultural land, then became residential and the Marin County plan is for lower density residential with upper Lucas Valley "pretty much green space," he said.

"Now, suddenly, there is a request to make it commercial," Kaufman said.

Calvin B. Colt of the Lucas Valley Home Owners Association, said: "We're being asked to buy a pig in a poke, with no details forthcoming. We've got to oppose it."

James L. McNulty, president of the Gallinas Village Improvement Association, said the fair has been "sold" as a cultural asset to Marin, but is a "commercial enterprise."

"We have to start stripping away this image of nonprofit," said Ronald H. Mainoff of the Lucas Valley Home Owners Association.

Less told of the potential traffic tieups that would hamper police, fire and emergency vehicles and said: "I have a mental picture of a mess no one can tolerate."

Solomon commented that there are many Marin residents who enjoy the fair and would support it, and members replied the issue wasn't whether anyone enjoyed the fair."

Marinoff said it wasn't the fair itself, but the traffic, "whether the Olympic Games or the Renaissance Faire."

No one has proposed a circus for the Grady Ranch, but they are proposing the "Renaissance Faire with a cloak of respectability . . . but the results are the same." Marinoff said.

Phoned Bomb Threat Leads To Pot Arrest

A telephoned bomb threat to the Petaluma City Hall yesterday led to the arrest of an Orange County man on suspicion of possession of marijuana and possession of stolen property.

Officers were routinely checking the building after the bomb threat at 2:45 p.m. when they reported seeing a suspicious man carrying a suitcase. No bomb device was found in the suitcase, but officers said they did find a two-pound brick of marijuana, a half-pound of loose marijuana and a revolver reported stolen from a home in Long Beach.

Booked into Sonoma County Jail was Jack Milton Milucky, 30, of Sunset Beach. He was scheduled for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Pizza's Popularity

NEW YORK (UPI)—The origin of pizza really is Italian. In Rome, in the days before the thermometer, a thin layer of bread was placed in the baking ovens to determine the correct heat. When these were cooked, they were removed and given to the poor people who then added tomato sauce and cheese for flavor.

Dennis Marnell Is Said Hospitalized

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — White Panther Dennis Marnell, of Corte Madera, has been hospitalized in San Francisco, it was disclosed today.

Doctors at the San Francisco Veterans Hospital said Marnell was undergoing evaluation and treatment of war wounds suffered in Vietnam and also "possible medical complications."

Marnell was to have gone on trial at Fort Worth, Tex., yesterday on charges of assault with intent to murder a police undercover agent and illegal possession of a pistol.

He is free on $4,500 bond.

When he failed to appear his case was passed until Monday, but Chief Prosecutor John Brady said he received a telegram from Dr. Jeffrey Anderson of the San Francisco VA hospital saying Marnell was admitted Wednesday.

Brady said he would have Marnell's trial date reset as soon as he learns when Marnell will be available.

Anderson, a staff physician on the hospital's ambulatory health care services, told UPI Marnell suffered extensive gunshot and shrapnel wounds in Vietnam in 1965 and still has shrapnel fragments throughout his body.

"The evaluation is to see whether it will be possible to take some more of the shrapnel out, and also to check into possible medical complications," the physician said.

He said Marnell also had been losing weight and suffering night sweats, and there was a possibility he had contracted tuberculosis.

After the evaluation, Marnell will be discharged if it is determined no treatment is feasible, Anderson said.

Fire Prevention Week Breakfast

The Kentfield Fire Department will stage its second annual Fire Prevention Week Breakfast Sunday from 6:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the fire house.

According to Chief Kenneth T. Kemp, the non-profit breakfast also will include a tour for the firehouse.

Ruling Due On Magee Challenge

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Tulare County judge has been named to rule on Ruchell Magee's attempt to have his original armed robbery conviction reversed, the State Judicial Council announced yesterday.

Superior Court Judge Leonard M. Ginsburg was chosen after Magee filed a challenge against Contra Costa County Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason, who is hearing pretrial motions in Magee's and Angela Davis's cases.

Magee faces murder, kidnap and conspiracy charges stemming from the Aug. 1970 shootout at the Civic Center. He has claimed the charges will not hold up because he was illegally sent to prison from Los Angeles County.

It is not known yet whether Judge Ginsburg will hold evidentiary hearings on Magee's attempt to get his conviction reversed. No court date has yet been set in this matter.

Annexation Opponents Reject City Meeting

Opponents of Tiburon's Annexation attempts on the Strawberry Peninsula last night turned down a city offer to discuss one of the issues facing voters in the Oct. 19 annexation election.

Trudy De La Fontaine, co-chairman of the antiannexation committee, said about 20 committee members voted unanimously not to meet with city representatives to discuss the effect the proposed merger would have on planning in Strawberry, Bel Aire, Eagle Rock and Bayview Heights.

"The committee felt it would be biased and misleading to voters to discuss only planning, omitting such important issues as taxes, police protection and other city services," said Mrs. De La Fontaine.

The city had proposed the meeting for next Thursday.

Mrs. De La Fontaine said persons interested in joining the committee or contributing to its expenses should notify her, Lois Bohn of Bel Aire or Pat Jeremiah of Strawberry.

The committee has issued a bumper sticker showing two strawberries and bearing the legend, Let Us Be — Vote No On Annexation.

Sewage Plant Expansion Approved In San Rafael

The San Rafael Sanitation District board yesterday gave its blessing to a sewage treatment plant expansion which will make it possible for 1,000 dwellings to be built on the west side of the Peacock Gap golf course.

Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, said that the sewerage facilities also must be approved by the Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control Board.

He said that developers of the building project will pay for expansion of the Marin Bay-Peacock Treatment Plant as well as a new pumping station. He estimated the project will cost at least $250,000.

In other action yesterday, the board accepted a low bid of $111,108 from McGuire and Hester for a force main and gravity line on Francisco Boulevard as part of a sewer reconstruction project.

The board also approved sewer connections for the McNear Beach Park.

Police Retrieve Stolen Rifles

OAKLAND (UPI)—Five AR15 automatic rifles and two machine guns, believed stolen from an Army post in Georgia, were found by police Wednesday in a hotel room.

The room had been rented Tuesday by a blonde woman who disappeared after giving a fictitious address when she registered, police said.

An intensified search for weapons from Ft. Benning started last week when four automatic rifles and four boxes of dynamite from the post were found in an Oakland park.

Police said they had reports that guns were being sold on city streets here.

Youth Asks Synanon Director As Guardian

Testimony in a legal battle between a 15-year-old boy who wants to live at the Synanon community in Marshall and his mother, who wants him to live in Beverly Hills with her, began yesterday at the Marin Hall of Justice.

Court Commissioner E. Logan Nininger heard testimony in behalf of a motion by 15-year-old Thomas P. Sturges to have Dorothy G. Salant, a Synanon director, named his legal guardian.

The hearing resumed today with testimony in behalf of Anne M. Sturges, who is fighting the guardianship appointment and has filed her own petition in superior court saying the boy is being "forcibly and wrongfully" restrained at Synanon.

Thomas, however, testified yesterday that he was not in any way restrained from leaving the Marshall Community.

He said he sought appointment of Mrs. Salant as his guardian "because I live in one place and the guardian I now have (his mother) lives in another."

If anything ever happened to him, he said, he would want his guardian nearby.

He said he hasn't wanted to talk to his mother since the legal proceedings began last month, because he didn't want her to influence him to leave Synanon.

Until the court matter is settled, he said, he wants to say no more than "hello, how are you, goobye" to his mother.

The husky, blond son of movie writer and director Preston Sturges, said he knew his mother had given all her assets and property to Synanon when she joined the community last year, but he made a scoffing expression and said he didn't want to talk about it when her attorney, Walter Colby of Sherman Oaks, suggested that the reason he didn't want to return to his mother might be that she is "impoverished."

Mrs. Sturges, who lived at the Marshall settlement for about 18 months before leaving this summer, has already filed suit in Los Angeles in connection with her donation of a Los Angeles home to Synanon. Synanon directors sold the home for $40,000 and she is now seeking that money, charging the home was actually worth $90,000.

In brief testimony yesterday, she said she didn't want Thomas living at Synanon, that she wanted him home with her and another son, adding that "I can care for Thomas as well as any other mother."

A thin, blonde woman, dressed in a fashionable midi-length coat, Mrs. Sturges said she didn't know Mrs. Salant well and could not object to her personally as the boy's potential guardian.

Mrs. Salant, a wealthy Radcliffe graduate and educational consultant at Synanon, testified that if she were named guardian Mrs. Sturges could visit with Thomas "any time she chose."

She said she has been legal guardian to her three sons and has administered their estates — estimated at about $20,000 per child — since the death of her husband in 1966.

She explained the course of study Thomas is pursuing at the Synanon High School and said that if she were named guardian, he would live — as he does now — in a cabin on Synanon's ranch with other youngsters his age.

Mrs. Salant, who said she has given more than half a million dollars to Synanon, said she was "interested in Thomas because he indicated an interest in Synanon and a desire to stay in Synanon."

Following the end of testimony in the case, expected to come today, Nininger will prepare a report and recommendation for Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson, who will settle it.

Panel Picked To Interview

The Marin Aviation Commission has selected a screening committee to interview consultants for a $15,000 master plan study of Gnoss Field, the county airport north of Novato.

Named to the committee Tuesday were chairman Herbert M. Hanson and commissioners William W. Schwarzer and Melville Dickson. Others who will join the committee are Ray W. Foreaker, county director of public works; a member of the county planning staff, a representative from the city of Novato, and airport manager Francis E. Torr.

The study will determine ultimate design and facilities at the county airport. Federal funds will pay for two-thirds of the study's cost.

Weekend Films To Be Discontinued

The Board of the Sausalito Arts Association has agreed to discontinue a weekend cinema which has been held at the Sausalito Art Center for the past several months, Shelagh Considine, center director reported.

Mrs. Considine said the Havana Tampa Cintopicon will close Nov. 1 because of a lack of attendance.

Hub School District To Maintain Present Staff

The San Anselmo School District board has voted to retain the present teaching staff and district programs.

Trustees voted 4-1, Mary Helen Olive dissenting, to keep 86 teaching positions and several district programs it had been asked to consider eliminating because of a tight budget, according to Valerie Rogers, secretary.

In other action, the board asked Supt. William Kenneth Lowry to draft a letter of agreement between the district and the Sleepy Hollow Horsemen's Association which wants to use a portion of Hidden Valley School for horse training and showing events.

Lawrence Husband, chairman of the San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Commission, complained to the board that the Sleepy Hollow Tennis Club did not include San Anselmo children in its junior tennis tournament to be held Oct. 16 and 17 at Hidden Valley School.

The board informed the tennis club that an event on school property should be open to other children in the district and it encouraged the club to include as many San Anselmo children in the tournament as possible, Mrs. Rogers said.

Husband said he had contacted the tennis club before going to the board and members of the club said that plans including only Sleepy Hollow children had already been completed for the tournament, according to the secretary.

Scouts Plant Trees

MANILA (UPI) — About 600,000 Scouts and Scouters armed with seedlings, cuttings and saplings participated in the celebration of Arbor Day by planting trees in the Philippines' denuded watersheds. Their goal is 5 million trees, 2 million more than the number planted in 1970.

College Bond Is Meeting Motive

Marin Community College District trustees will move their meeting place to Novato on Oct. 20, for the first time.

The session will begin at 8 p.m. in the lecture room of Novato High School. It will include a presentation of Indian Valley Colleges plans by Dale A. Fleming, district planning director.

Board trustees candidly stated that one reason for the shift to Novato was to drum up area support for the district's $16.7 million bond issue on the county's Nov. 2 election ballot. Much of the Novato area campus's timetable rests on success or failure of the bond proposal.

Trustees voiced some worries about backlash over the meeting venture, but unanimously approved the resolution necessary to legalize the session outside the Kentfield campus.

Trustee Charles R. Best said it was the first time in the district's 47-year history that a regular board session would be held away from the Kentfield campus. Special meetings designated as workshop sessions, at which no action was voted, have taken place in the Novato area and in West Marin, according to John A. Grasham, district superintendent--president.

Trustee Francis Compton urged that Marin citizens attend college board meetings wherever they are held, to discuss matters of interest to them.

Board President Donald K. Felt pointed out that not a single citizen other than his own wife, Mrs. Compton's husband, a reporter and several college teachers and students were in last night's audience.

Drake Widening Plan Delay Over Sketch

After wrestling for more than an hour with county plans to widen Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at the College Avenue intersection, Marin Community College District trustees last night asked County Public Works Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. to come back with "at least a sketch" tieing the project to overall plans for the Drake thoroughfare.

Board President Donald K. Felt voiced fears that proposals for two left-turn lanes from Drake onto College Avenue would result in a torrent of traffic that would "create a physical education ghetto" on the east side of College, opposite the main Kentfield campus.

Foreaker agreed to prepare more plans in time for the college board's next meeting. He warned that unless the widening job can go to bid before Jan. 1, the county may lose some state and federal funds for the $1.5 million project.

Trustees objected to the widening nibbling into the campus sidewalks and trees bordering on Drake, the alignment of traffic islands, and the lack of an overall picture of the course of future widening through Kentfield and Ross to San Anselmo.

Trustee Francis Compton objected to "great, straight crackerboxes" in the traffic island design; other trustees questioned the necessity and expense of demolishing the students' bus shelter for the widening.

Marin Community College Board Also:

FUNDS — Allocated the district's federal funds for the handicapped to the Marin County Workshop, other federal funds totaling $16,078 to the cooperative work experience program, and approved a maximum of $22,607 for the Marin County adult self-improvement program.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION — Approved preliminary plans for additional outdoor physical education areas, after Dale A. Fleming, director of planning reported that care of the grounds would cost $10,000 to $11,000 the first year.

RESIGNED — Accepted the resignation of Wayne Tolliver, groundsman.

HIRINGS — Again retained Dr. Edward W. Cook as college physician for athletic events, for a total cost of $3,600; named Keith Dwyer as cooperative work experience coordinator at a salary of $11,989 for the remainder of the year; hired Johnette Jensen as typist clerk II at $553 per month; Esther Lenley as typist clerk II at $442 a month; Michele Thunes as secretary I, $518 a month; Ingrid Lortz, secretary I, $581; Eugenie Yaryan, typist clerk II, $553; Rhonda Williams, parking control officer, $581; Helen Hermann, library clerk I, $316.80 a month; Mary Sindelar, financial aids clerk, $640 a month.

TRIBUTE — Adopted a memorial resolution eulogizing the late James E. Raynes, faculty senate officer and business department head at the Kentfield campus before his death Sept. 15.

VETERANS — Received word that the Indian Valley Colleges has been approved for GI Bill training of veterans.

WORKSHOP — Set a special meeting for 8 p.m. Oct. 27 in the Kentfield campus board room, for a workshop on the district's 10-year capital improvement program. Felt warned that the board might need another workshop session to review building priorities if the district's $16.7 bond issue fails at the polls Nov. 2.

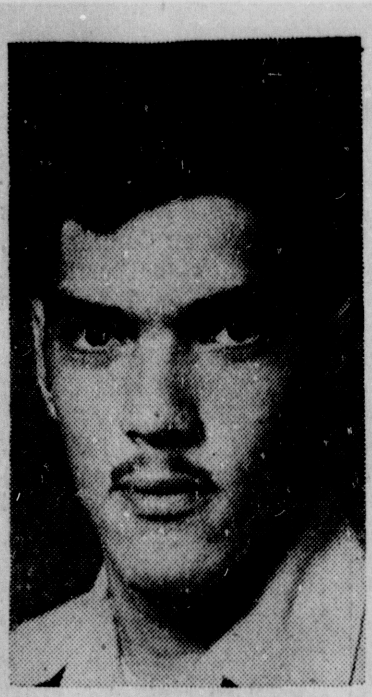
NORTH CAMPUS — Postponed action to the Oct. 20 meeting on naming the individual inner colleges of the Indian Valley campus. Recommended names are Novato, Ignacio and Pacheco colleges.

VOTE — Heard a report from associated students spokesman Greg Fearon that a total of 726 under-21 voters had registered on the campus to become eligible to vote in the Nov. 2 bond election.



TOP NCO — Sgt. Jose L. Mendoza, an air traffic controller in the Radar Approach Control facility, recently was named noncommissioned officer of the quarter in the 1902 Communications Squadron at Hamilton Air Fore Base.

Lie-Detect Test Claim By Newhall

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Scott Newhall, former newspaper and magazine editor who is running for mayor, declared Wednesday that a polygraph test had proved he was telling the truth when he said he had been offered a major city position to drop out of the race.

Newhall made his declaration at a news conference.

David Nelson, a publicist named by Newhall as the intermediary who offered the job, has denied that contention. Nelson has said he was speaking only for himself when he tried to talk Newhall out of running. He noted they had been friends for a quarter century.

25 Crewmen Rescued Off Sinking Freighter

MANILA (UPI)—U.S. Air Force helicopters today rescued 25 Chinese crewmen of a Panamanian freighter sinking off the Philippine coast in the South China Sea.

The crewmen were airlifted to Manila after a one-hour and 20-minute flight from the disaster scene, 270 miles west of here. The captain of the 1,690-ton ship, caught in Typhoon Elaine earlier this week, told newsmen all his men were accounted for.

'Trial Of Catonsville Nine' Has No Contemporary Equal

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

"TRIAL OF THE CATONSVILLE NINE" — By Daniel Berrigan, S. J. Produced by Rudi Golyn and directed by Lee D. Sankowich. The cast (in order of appearance): Ray Reinhardt, Father Daniel Berrigan; Jack Schmidt, judge; Phillip Pruneau, defense; Joyce O'Neal, witness; John Cochran, prosecutor; Joe Clarke, David Darst; Shirley Slater, Mary Moylan; Dudley Knight, Thomas Melville; Roberta Callahan, Marjorie Melville; Richard Poe, John Hogan; Johnny G., George Mische; Michael Cavanaugh, Tom Lewis; Thomas McNallan, Father Philip Berrigan; Michael Collins, Sally Douglass and Roger Hardy, bailiffs.

SAN FRANCISCO — "The Trial of the Catonsville Nine," which opened last night at the New Committee Theater, is documentary theater of such towering proportions it has no present-day equal.

The play is a recorded account by Father Daniel Berrigan, S.J., of the burning of draft files in the Baltimore suburb on May 17, 1968, the subsequent trial and conviction which resulted in the sentencing of himself , his brother, Father Philip Berrigan, and seven others to federal prison terms.

Their cases are anti-Vietnam war history, with the story still continuing.

However, what Father Daniel has attempted to tell, vividly presented by producer Rudi Golyn and director Lee Sankowich, are the case histories of the nine during the five-day United States District Court trial in Baltimore.

Reduced to a spellbinding 90-minute one-act production, viewpoints of each of the accused are introduced in the courtroom. It is done in cinematic fashion with fade-outs and spotlight changes. The dramatic effect is overpowering. There is simply not a minute of wasted time.

Ray Reinhardt as Father Daniel gives one of the most compelling performances in my Bay Area theatrical memory. It is honestly etched and gives a deep insight into the author's humble convictions.

Likewise, Thomas McNallan as Father Phil ip has waxed his portrait in similar fashion. While the Berrigan brothers' words may intone revolution to many, it is a cause steeped within their religious training and conscience.

Reinhardt and McNallan do not carry the documentary drama alone. The play's strength is in the uniformity of the rest of the cast composed of Bay Area veterans. Notable are Richard Poe as John Hogan; Johnny G. as George Mische; Joe Clarke as David Darst; Shirley Slater as Mary Moylan, and Roberta Callahan as Marjorie Melville — all members of the Catonville Nine; Phillip Pruneau as the defense attorney, and Jack Schmidt as the judge.

The set design executed by Jackson DeGovia lends ideally to the action with its thrust stage and the judicial bench towering at one side. The mahogany hues give an authentic courtroom touch. There is even a jury box at the foot of the stage (filled with playgoers) to which the cast can direct its remarks.

"Catonsville" should not only appeal to those with strong anti-Vietnam war feelings, but to a broader segment of soceity because of the complexity of the moral issues involved.

It is to be hoped that this play can be judged on its high-theatrical quality. The major question: Is it too soon to rekindle such burning issues? In this reviewer's opinion it is not and "Catonsville" deserves the attention of all serious Bay Area theatrical patrons.

WIND-SWEPT BLAZE

— Firemen, backing their equipment into the driveway, saved this evacuated home in Summerland, Calif. But a raging, ranging brush fire continued to burn today, eating up nearly 3,000 acres and burning out of control in several directions. (UPI Telephoto)

Foothill Brush Fire Rages In Southland

SUMMERLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A wind-whipped brush fire raged out of control today in the foothills east of Santa Barbara, leveling several expensive homes and forcing hundreds of residents to flee.

The blaze broke out late Wednesday afternoon and had chewed up nearly 3,000 acres of brushland, destroying seven $40,000 to $100,000 homes and damaging many others in the Hidden Hills Lane tract in the hills above Montecito, seven miles east of Santa Barbara.

Some 600 firefighters were on the lines at daybreak, with 400 other city, county and U.S. Forest Service firemen called in from as far away as Los Angeles, 55 miles away.

There was a break in the weather during the night, slowing the pace of the flames, but termperatures today were in the 90s with humidity at eight to 12 per cent and winds were gusting up to 15 miles per hour.

Fire officials reported several injuries, mostly burns, to firemen.

Most of the destroyed acreage was in Los Padres National Forest, site of a series of brush fires in recent days which authorities have attributed to arsonists. The cause of the Summerland blaze was under investigation.

To the east in Ventura County, a blaze near the farming community of Fillmore was contained Wednesday after charring 2,120 acres. Investigators said the Fillmore fire was one of seven intentionally set in the same area since Saturday. Fire-starting devices with time fuses were found in the area, detectives said.

Mansfield Failed In Visit Attempt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says he tried twice to visit Mainland China between 1969 and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger's secret visit last summer.

Mansfield said Wednesday the Chinese turned down his first request and did not respond to the second made last March, only four months before Kissinger's visit.

Mansfield said President Nixon had encouraged him both times to make the trip, if possible.

Enrollment Hikes Will Be Studied

The Old Adobe School District board will hear a report on enrollment increases expected before January and alternatives available to cope with more students at its meeting at 7:45 p.m. at the Petaluma Schools Administration Building, Fifth and B streets.

The meeting location, normally the library at La Tercera School, was changed because the library has been converted into a classroom. Estimates on the number of new homes that will be occupied before the end of the year will be presented.

Prince Marries Biscuit Heiress

TEHRAN (UPI) — Crown Prince Victor Emmanuel of Savoy, son of the last king of Italy, today married Marina Doria, 36, the Swiss biscuit heiress and former world water ski champion. They had been engaged for 11 years.

The prince, 34, and Miss Doria said "I do" in the Roman Catholic chapel of Tehran's Andisheh School, which is run by Italian priests. Victor Emmanuel, who works in Switzerland as a bank official and helicopter salesman, chose Tehran as the site of their wedding because he is a friend of the Shah of Iran.

Former King Umberto II, who has lived in exile in Portugal since Italy voted out the monarchy in 1946, did not attend and indicated he did not approve of his son's wedding to a commoner.

Testimony On Fee To Alioto

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) —An attorney for the city of Seattle has testified if he had been told Joseph Alioto would share fees "my duty would have been to recommend against" hiring Alioto as an antitrust attorney.

The statement was made by Gordon Crandall, assistant corporation counsel for the city of Seattle and first witness in the trial of a $2.3 million civil lawsuit against Alioto, now mayor of San Francisco.

He testified Wednesday that he had recommended that Seattle accept a proposal that Alioto be retained to represent the state of Washington and a group of publicly owned utilities in antitrust suits against manufacturers of electrical equipment. Alioto was hired and the state and utilities are seeking, in the suit being tried here, to have the legal fees they paid Alioto refunded.

They claim they were not told Alioto would share the fees with John J. O'Connell, then attorney general of Washington, and George K. Faler, an assistant attorney general.

O'Connell and Faler are codefendants in the suit.

Crandall, who returns to the stand today, testified about a number of meetings, memos and letters relating to early work on the antitrust suits and to the retaining of Alioto to represent the Washington utilities. Seattle was among the antitrust plaintiffs and is among the plaintiffs in the current suit.

Among the meetings Crandall discussed was a session July 16, 1962, in the Seattle office of the attorney general. Crandall said Alioto, O'Connell and Faler were there along with representatives of several utilities.

"Mr. O'Connell introduced Mr. Alioto and recommended that we look favorably on the proposal" to retain him, Crandall said.

Crandall said he made such a recommendation to his superiors in the Seattle city legal office.

After a 45-minute argument between attorneys with the jury present, Crandall was permitted to answer a question from plaintiffs' attorney Thomas Huber about his actions if he had been told then that Alioto planned to share his legal fees.

"I feel my duty would have been to recommend against hiring Mr. Alioto," Crandall replied.

Inmates' Personal Files Ordered Returned By Judge

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday ordered San Quentin authorities to return personal legal files and documents to six inmates charged in connection with the violence at the prison Aug. 21.

The order was one of several issued yesterday by Judge E. Warren McGuire in connection with the case.

The files and documents and other personal property had been taken from the inmates following the violence in which three guards and three inmates were killed.

Judge McGuire exempted from his order any materials being held by the district attorney's office as evidence in the case.

His orders yesterday were in response to a series of requests made by the inmates — Hugo A. Pinell, John Larry Spain, Louis N. Talamantes, Fleeta Drumgo, David Johnson and Willie Tate — during a court session Tuesday.

He ordered that attorneys of record be allowed to confer with the inmates, subject to "reasonable restrictions" relating to prison security. Any of the six who do not have attorneys of record shall be provided forms to designate attorneys with whom they would like to confer and prison officials were ordered to mail the forms to the attorneys.

Prison officials were directed to return Tate's eyeglasses if they are not being held as evidence, to examine Pinell to see if he needs medical or dental treatment and provide it if needed and to allow Pinell access to a telephone for him to contact an attorney.

McGuire specifically authorized consultation between attorney Leonard W. Holt and Tate; attorney Ralph Bencengey and Pinell; attorney Douglas Vaughn with Talamantes and attorney Richard Silver with Drumgo.

Those attorneys were in court Tuesday and said they had either represented the named inmates in other cases or had been contacted in their behalf in connection with the pending case.

The six are to return to McGuire's court for further arraignment Oct. 15.

Lobbyists Must Wear Red Card

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)— Under a new law, any registered lobbyist to the New Jersey Legislature must wear a bright-red identification card containing his picture and his registration number.

The lobbyists, according to a law which took effect Aug. 2, must wear their registration cards at all times while they are in the State House.

Lobbyists who spend less than 20 hours at seeking to influence legislation, appear only once in the State House, or only interest themselves in one piece of legislation in each two year legislative session, need not register.

Attorneys Will Lecture On 'Equal Justice'

Three San Francisco attorneys will lecture on "Is Equal Justice Possible in Our Court System Today" at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo in a series of lectures beginning next week.

First to speak at the free lectures will be Willis D. Hannawalt of the Pillsbury, Madison and Sutro law firm who will speak at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

At 8 p.m., Oct. 20, Charles R. Garry, attorney for the Black Panthers, representing the law firm of Garry, Dreyfus, McTernan and Brotsky, will be the lecturer.

Closing the series at 8 p.m. Oct. 27, will be Chief Criminal Deputy Arlo Smith of the state attorney general's office in San Francisco.

Former Marin Judge Alvin Goldstein will moderate the question and answer sessions following each lecture.

Jury Finds Marin City Man Guilty Of Felony Battery Case

A Marin City man was found guilty yesterday of felony battery on a sheriff's deputy and three misdemeanor charges stemming from a ruckus at a Marin City restaurant July 23.

A superior court jury of three men and nine women deliberated about three hours before finding Frederick Washington, 25, guilty of the charges.

He was found innocent of an additional felony charge of resisting deputies and a misdemeanor charge of battery.

In addition to kicking a deputy, the jury found him guilty of battery on a Marin City woman, exhibiting a deadly weapon and disturbing the peace.

Judge Thomas F. Keating set sentencing for Nov. 18.

The charges against Washington began piling up July 23 after a report to sheriff's deputies that he had struck three women at Smitty's restaurant on Drake Avenue.

Deputies found Washington at a nearby pool hall, but when they attempted to arrest him, a crowd of about 50 persons gathered and Washington escaped.

He was seen again a short time later in the 200 block of Drake Avenue, but again a crowd gathered when deputies approached.

Deputies said Washington resisted and was aided by members of the crowd who threw rocks and bottles and shouted obscenities.

Deputy Thomas McMains was struck on the head with a bottle during the scuffle and was treated for a cut scalp at Marin General Hospital.

(Two Marin City brothers arrested during the scuffle pleaded guilty in August to resisting arrest and were sentenced to Marin County Jail.)

Washington was finally subdued with chemical mace, but he pulled out a knife on the way to jail. At the Hall of Justice, the knife was knocked from his hands, but he continued to struggle with deputies, kicking deputy Joseph Curley as deputies took him out of the elevator on the jail floor of the building.

Mae E. Lewis, 39, the woman Washington was found guilty of striking at Smitty's, had told deputies that he hit and kicked her and knocked her to the floor.

Correct Birth Date

A son was born in San Francisco to the wife of Joseph Ascierto of San Rafael on Sept. 21, not on Sept. 20 as reported in Monday's Independent-Journal.

Ecology Course Is Being Planned

The course, scheduled to begin Oct. 26, also will give students information on how to find jobs in environmental fields.

Additional information may be obtained by phoning the college's adult education department.

Poet Gary Snyder To Present Reading

Poems will be drawn from his books, "Myths and Texts," "Riprap" and "Regarding Wave." They deal with the wilderness of the Sierra Nevada and the Pacific Northwest and with Zen Buddism. The event is sponsored by the Rhymers Club.

SPACE DRIVER'S SEAT — Workers today assembled a ramp so visitors to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration exhibit at the Marin County Fair can peer inside the full-scale command module. The fair, opening tomorrow at the Civic Center, will exhibit the space capsule in the NASA display in the exhibition hall of the Veterans Memorial Building.

programs to raise funds for their cause.

Eight other volunteer groups will man informational booths to tell the fairgoers about their programs; three other groups will help the fair staff as cashiers, bus boys and theater hostesses.

Twenty-eight commercial exhibitors have reserved booths to show the public their jewelry, crafts, waterbeds, encyclopedias, and other wares.

Refreshment stand customers will be able to sit at tables around a circular outdoor stage where square and folk dancing and other entertainment will hold forth.

The massive new auditorium will be a major asset to the fair, holding both the NASA exhibit and the film festival and ballet events.

Inside the spacious exhibit hall is a dazzling series of space age exhibits — many inviting the spectator to try his skill at flying a lunar lander model, handle a miniature helicopter, or see how supersonic shock waves are created.

Sitting in mute, unmoving glory in the center of the hall will be a moon rock brought back by Apollo 11. Astronaut Vance DeVoe Brand will be on hand to talk about the national space program.

In the theater section of the auditorium, the Marin Film Competition will display the winners, with showings at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. tomorrow for four of the five different programs put together for the festival.

Cinema buffs will have to visit the fair on two days to see the entire cycle of five programs presenting a total of 29 films ranging from two minutes to 33 minutes each, submitted by student and independent movie-makers.

At 8 p.m. each day, the new auditorium's stage will be taken over by dancers and orchestras. The Oakland Ballet Company will perform tomorrow, the Sacramento Civic Ballet Saturday, the Marin Civic Ballet on Sunday and the Theater Flamenco of San Francisco on Monday.

The Happytime Circus, under its own big top, will present three performances daily. Other attractions for the youngsters will be clown performances and a Punch and Judy show on the outdoor stage, plus all the various carnival rides and pedal-boat rides on the lagoon.

The Commander Cody Rock Band, the famed sour-note Guckenheimer Sauerkraut Band, and the Terra Linda and San Rafael high school bands also will perform during the fair.

The color slide competition entries for the fair will be given continuous showings each day in the north foyer of the new auditorium, with free admission.

Admission to the fairgrounds will be one dollar per person, with children under 6 years old admitted free. There will be additional admission charges for the film festival and the ballet performances.

Parking will be available both on the auditorium grounds and at the armory parking lot on the east side of the Civic Center grounds; free shuttle buses will take fairgoers to and from the grounds. There will be only one public gate for entrance to the fairgrounds itself, Mrs. McCoy stressed, at the southerly side of the auditorium.

The entertainment schedule for the opening day will include:

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Trial By Jury Fundamental

JURY ROOM
DOCTORS OFFICES
Jm.

Trial by jury is one of the most fundamental elements of our system of justice. To guarantee fairness, the jury must be impartial. Selection procedures provide for questioning of prospective jurors to check impartiality. Jurors are sworn to act impartially and to decide the case on the basis of the evidence produced in court and the law as instructed by the judge.

It is an error for jurors to look up evidence on their own during the trial, to discuss the case with others, or to disregard the law instructed by the judge. An expression of prejudgment before all the evidence is submitted is also an error. For any substantial or material deviation from these requirements the judge will declare a mistrial.

Occasionally these errors are discovered after the case has been tried and the verdict entered. An attorney may discover errors by talking to jurors after the case is closed. He may then have grounds for a new trial or an appeal.

In a recent case a former patient sued a community hospital for negligent treatment. The jury voted nine to three in favor of the hospital. After the trial several jurors talked to the plaintiff's attorney. He learned that one juror had called his own doctor and got his opinion about the plaintiff's claimed injury, then told his fellow jurors of the opinion.

Another juror mentioned the plaintiff's race and said that where he came from members of that race were not even allowed in court. Still another juror said that a judgment against the community hospital would result in increased rates. When this was disclosed, the appellate court ordered a new trial.

Each juror must decide the case for himself, not by majority vote or by chance. The jury must deliberate to reach a verdict, but the verdict must express the opinion of each juror. Intimidation or coercion of jurors results in a mistrial.

The right to a fair and impartial jury extends to grand juries, which have power to indict, or charge a person with a crime. Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

Property Rezoning Hearing On Nov. 1

The Independent-Journal on Tuesday incorrectly reported that the Corte Madera Town Council had scheduled a public hearing Oct. 18 on rezoning the Vail property on Tamal Vista Boulevard to some other zone than high density residential.

The hearing will actually be held during the council's regular meeting Nov. 1.

Fascist Laws Still On Books In Italy

By A.R. McELWAIN
Toronto Telegram News Service

ROME — A woman talking affectionately to a young man in a parked car was pounced on by police, arrested and charged, in preposterous legal phraseology, with "being in amorous colloquy with a youth." This, under an archaic Italian law, is tantamount to committing an obscene act in a public place.

A man was jailed for 16 months after his lighted cigar burst a red, white and green balloon. Red, white and green are Italy's national colors and he was charged with insulting them.

Anyone who lets off steam about taxes in a bar or other public place runs the risk of imprisonment. So does anyone who joins an international organization, including the Rotary Club, without government permission.

An Italian soldier who found army life degrading (and was honest enough to say) was convicted of slandering the armed forces.

Fascist laws, still operating in Italy 26 years after Mussolini's death, can brand a citizen a "criminal" for offenses that in any other civilized country would be rejected as absurd.

Over the years, parliamentary committees have been set up to revise these outdated penal and civil laws, but nothing very practical ahs resulted. However, last December, Premier Emilio Colombo's coalition government decided to sponsor a bill to overhaul controversial laws in Italy's 1930 penal code, drawn up by Alfredo Rocco, known as "the lawmaker of Fascism." The bill now is up for debate.

The proposed new legislation covers an astonishing variety of repressive measures which, lawyers say, could land most of Italy's 54 million citizens in jail, or under some form of police supervision, if they were enforced.

Reform-minded lawyers and politicians have also pointed out that Fascist measures still operating in a democracy with a Constitution guaranteeing the right of all people to fair and unimpeded justice makes a mockery not only of justice generally, but of many new laws passed since World War II.

One of the worst laws is that which makes it possible for accused persons — hypocritically "deemed to be innocent until proved to be guilty" — to be held in jail for years without trial.

Linked to this is another typically totalitarian law which forbids the granting of bail, pending trial, to any accused person.

Until last year, a Fascist law also barred a defence lawyer from being present at pre-trial interrogations of his client — a privilege restricted to the public prosecutor, who had things his way all along the line.

Italy's highest legal tribunal, the Constitutional Court, finally ruled that excluding defence lawyers in the preliminary stages of a case violated a section of the Italian Constitution guaranteeing persons the universal right to legal defence.

The evil hangover of harsh laws from Blackshirt days was emphasized recently by the cases of two foreigners charged on drug offenses.

One, a 43-year-old American actor, William Berger, spent almost eight months in jail after a small amount of marijuana was found in his house. Once he did get before a court, he was promptly acquitted.

The other was a New Zealand singer, 29-year-old Lynette June Williamson, who was held in jail for seven months on a charge of possessing one-quarter of an ounce of hashish. A Naples court took less than half-an-hour to acquit her, saying there had been no sound reason for indicting her in the first place.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS

By Ken Reichard

Instant Replays

One of the most popular devices used on television sports programs these days is the "instant replay." It enables spectators at home to watch that U.S. Open golfer's swing repeated in slow motion, so it can be analyzed by a professional.

The same technique is employed for other sports, from the World Series to pro football games. We not only get to see the "big play" over again, but we watch the athlete's footwork and championship action at a speed that enables us to see things we would normally miss.

If you have a camera with adjustable speed settings, so that you can slow down from 18 frames per second to 24, 32 or even 64, you can use your camera to the same effect, to "analyze" your golf swing, your halfback son's passing technique, and so on, just as the TV specialists do.

Even if your camera lacks slow motion settings, you can get the same effects with a motion picture projector that permits slow motion . . . as well as backing up for those "instant replays"!

Action cries out for a movie camera . . . and we have the line of cameras and projectors you want, priced to get "action." Still or movie, let us put you in the picture now!

Here's something extra special . . . on October 20, that's a Wednesday, between 6 and 9 in the evening you are invited to a UNICOLOR demonstration. Gerry Pole from UNICOLOR will process pre-exposed color prints in the Unidrum in our store to show you how easy the UNICOLOR system is. Remember, Wednesday evening October 20.

Hospital Proposal Is Aired

A proposal for a new 150-bed hospital for Petaluma has been announced by a private hospital chain.

Cohen said his corporation has assets of $48 million and is interested in acquiring a minimum of 15 acres on which to build a fullservice, $4.5 million hospital and adjoining medical offices.

Cohen said the firm planned to begin first by buying the aging Petaluma General Hospital. All plans must first, however, receive approval from the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Facilities Planning Council and must have support from the local medical community.

Cohen said his firm currently owns hospitals in Modesto, Lodi, Los Altos, Long Beach, Monterey Park, San Diego, San Bernadino and has a 176-bed hospital under construction in Lakewood.

The Petaluma Hospital District board, which operates Hillcrest Hospital, has said it plans to build a second hospital in Petaluma and has opposed construction of a private hospital, saying a nonprofit organization can provide medical care at lower cost.

Qantas Development Corp. last year announced plans to build a hospital and medical complex in Petaluma, but never carried through.

The health facilities planning council has gone on record as supporting the concept of one major and centralized hospital for Southern Sonoma rather than several smaller facilities on the basis that medical services would be improved and costs lowered.

With A Month To Go, Auto Is Still Intact

ADELAIDE, Australia (UPI)—Greek strongman Leop Samson apparently has bitten off more than he can chew.

In November 1967, Samson, 34, offered to bet $22,400 he could, in four years eat an automobile.

Darwin businessman John Katapodis took the bet.

The car still is in one piece, with only a month left.

"I haven't seen him since we made the bet," Katapodis said today.

"But, if you can find him, tell him I've got my hand out waiting for him."

Kennedy's Crush: 'Nothing To It'

HYANNIS, Mass. (UPI)—Hyannis Port friends of the Kennedy family have given a big yawn to a published report that Robert F. Kennedy Jr., second son of the assassinated Senator, plans to marry a local bartender's 15-year-old daughter.

"It's nothing more than a high school crush," observed an intimate of Kennedy, 17, and Kim Kelly, blonde daughter of Frank Kelly.

Kelly was quoted in the current issue of National Enquirer, a weekly, as saying: "Kim idolizes him (Kennedy). Bobby told me he wants to marry my daughter, but I brushed it aside."

"They're just kids," Mrs. Peg Kelly, the girl's mother, told the Enquirer.

No Schools Stance On Unification

The Dixie School District board and the San Rafael Board of Education at a joint meeting last night decided not to take official stands on the question of unification of the two districts.

The matter is due for a state-required election in June 1972. A similar unification election in 1966 failed.

The San Rafael board currently governs both the San Rafael Elementary School District and the San Rafael High School District. Dixie students go to high school in the San Rafael High School District but have their own elementary system.

Dr. Clifford W. Campbell, Dixie district superintendent, said that last night's meeting was a low-key affair with trustees from both boards refraining from expressing opinions on unification.

The boards decided to distribute fact sheets to the electorate but not to form a joint citizens group because "the matter has been studied to death," Dr. Campbell said.

He said the situation remains much the same as in 1966, with Dixie having a higher tax rate and San Rafael spending more money for each child.

Purse Stolen From Office

A purse containing $25 and other valuables has been stolen from the office at Interior Fashions in Larkspur, police reported today.

Officers said the purse, owned by a store clerk, was found missing Tuesday shortly after two men had departed the store.

Stafford Won't Be Sure Nixon Man

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House arranged to have an Air Force jet pick up Robert T. Stafford and whisk him to Washington from Vermont last month to be sworn in as the newest U.S. senator — and give President Nixon a certain, key vote.

Stafford, Vermont's sole House member for 10 years, delivered the vote as expected the next day in supporting a bill to revive the temporarily dormant military draft.

But that doesn't mean the administration can always count on Stafford for a "sure" vote. Stafford, who will serve in the seat of the late Sen. Winston Prouty until Jan. 7 unless he wins a special election that day for the five years remaining of the Prouty term, is seeking to make clear he is of independent mind.

The White House dispatched a Tri-Star to Montpelier to pick up Stafford on the eve of the crucial draft vote in the Senate —but first, presidential aide Charles Colson asked Stafford for assurance that he would support the draft bill as he had in a previous House vote. Future Stafford votes will not be so sure apparently.

In an interview with UPI, the handsome, 58-year-old former governor underscored his self-styled independence from administration programs: "I make up my own mind and vote as I see best."

An opponent of the Vietnam War, Stafford, when in the House, supported Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's move to establish as national policy a nine-month troop withdrawal deadline when it came before that body.

Last week he again supported the Mansfield amendment, this time voting to tack a six-month withdrawal policy onto the $21 billion military procurement, bill.

Meanwhile, Stafford is eagerly awaiting announcement of Nixon's new withdrawal schedule.

Stafford explains, "If the President gets us out of there by next summer, the Vietnam issue will be evaporated, a deadline of July 1 would be acceptable to me."

The President is expected to make a new announcement on troop withdrawals later in the fall.

On the question of Supreme Court nominees Stafford is not nearly as interested in a Justice with "strict constructionist" views of the Constitution as is Nixon. "The Court needs good able lawyers, first and foremost," said Stafford.

He opposes administration plans for further expansion of the antiballistic missile system. However, he does not believe the defense budget should be cut by more than a couple billion dollars, at most, he said.

Stafford supports the President's wage-price freeze as well as the tax-cut phases of the economic recovery plan.

But he believes the wage-price controls "should be extended and expanded to include interest rates and dividends." Stafford says he has "an open mind" on whether there should be restraints on corporate profits as demanded by organized labor.

Stafford supports the administration's two-China policy in the United Nations as well as Nixon's planned trip to Peking. "We can't ignore the fact that 700 million Chinese exist and that someday they can become a great nuclear power," he said.

Stafford won both the Republican and Democratic nominations to his House seat in 1968 but is cautious about the outlook for the special election Jan. 7, even though at this point he looks like a sure winner. "Politics is a life of surprises," he observed, and said he plans to return home often to campaign.

A yachting enthusiast as well as a licensed pilot, Stafford frequently flies to Vermont and back in a Congressional Flying Club Cherokee.

Tall and lean with streaks of silver in his hair, Stafford's style is deceptively low-key and relaxed, his replies to questions terse and to the point.

When sworn in to the Senate, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott termed Stafford "definitely a known moderate liberal."

"You're whatever the people assessing you say you are," Stafford said later. "I suppose I'm liberal on some issues and conservative on others."

Food For Needy

In celebrating the week-long Jewish holiday, Succoth (Thanksgiving). the Congregation Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, will collect nonperishable foods until Sunday evening at the temple, according to Walter Hotzner, temple secretary. He said the food will be distributed next week to Saint Anthony's Dining Room, a Catholic maintained food center for the poor in San Francisco.

Honor Ellsberg, Says Ex-Senator Gruening

BOSTON (UPI)—Former Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, says Daniel Ellsberg "should be honored" for leaking the Pentagon Papers to the press.

However, Leo Cherne, executive director of the Research Institute of America, likened the MIT senior research associate to the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

Gruening said Tuesday Ellsberg "has exposed the deception, the betrayal of the elected public servants of their responsibility to the American people.

Ellsberg "should be honored for the inestimable valuable service that he has rendered the people of this country," the former Democratic senator said.

Cherne, who is also chairman of the Executive Committee of Freedom House, said Ellsberg, like Sen. McCarthy 20 years ago, felt "he had a uniquely patriotic right to secure information in the interest of the nation and without regard for what that information did either to the government or the individuals involved."

The comments were made on The Advocates, a weekly television program on the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS). The question debated was: "Should the charges against Daniel Ellsberg he dropped?"

"Ellsberg should have the equivalent of a Congressional Medal of Honor," said Gruening, one of only two senators who voted against the Gulf of Tonkin resolution in 1964. "He has exposed how the leading officials, starting with the President and all his surrounding advisors, lied the American people into this war..."

Cherne said, "I think the central question inescapably is: Is application of the law to be selective, arbitrary, subjective, political, or is it to be certain? Now if it's to be selective, make no mistake about it, however much we may agree with the non-application of the law in a particular case, we have either tyranny or anarchy."

John Siegenthaler, editor of the Nashville Tennessean and an aide to the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, argued in support of Gruening.

Marin Women

SAVVY IN THE SADDLE

Jockey Likes Being Big Fish In The Smaller Track Circles

MARY BACON of Toledo, Ohio, is a jockey and a tough one to boot. At 97 pounds she is considered one of the hardest riding women in the business. Her husband, Johnny, is also a jockey, but unwritten track rules bar them from riding at the same tracks, which Mary says is discriminatory.

(UPI Telephoto)

By GREG GALLO

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mary Bacon, a pint-sized blonde from Toledo, Ohio, was admitted to Deaconess Hospital in Evansville, Ind., at 5:45 p.m. on Aug. 27. She was semiconscious, had a broken left collarbone, contusions of the lung, bruised ribs, a concussion and was bleeding internally.

No, Mary was not run down by a car. She was trampled under the pounding hooves of thoroughbreds at Ellis Park in Owensboro, Ky.

Mary Bacon is a jockey — and a tough one to boot. Thirteen days after the spill, Mrs. Bacon packed her bags —tack and all — and reported for work at nearby Latonia Race Course in Florence, Ky.

"I would have ridden the first day of the meet but they scratched my horse," Mary recalled in an interview with UPI. "My collarbone is still sticking out but the doctor strapped me up with a brace so I can ride."

DESPITE ATTEMPTS by male jockeys to boycott races in which women were scheduled to ride, Diane Crump became the first girl to race against the boys at a major track in February of 1969 at Hialeah, Fla. Later that spring, Miss Crump became the first member of her sex to ride in the prestigious Kentucky Derby.

While there still are male chauvinists in racing who contend that women are too fragile to participate in such a dangerous sport, the girls have begun to make definite inroads in the "Sport of Kings."

At 97 pounds, Mary Bacon is one of the hardest riding women in the business and her record over the past two years bears out her aggressiveness and savvy in the saddle. She won 55 races and was the leading apprentice rider at Finger Lakes in upper New York State in 1969. She rode and won in three times as many races as any female jockey in the nation last year, winning on 63 of her 697 mounts.

WHILE MARY mostly rides at the smaller tracks in the southeast and midwest — she says she'd "rather be a big fish in a small pond than a small fish in a big pond" — Robyn Smith, a onetime Hollywood starlet, is doing well as an apprentice on the most competitive circuit of all — New York's Belmont-Aqueduct-Saratoga wheel.

Last August Miss Smith rode Beaukins, a 6-year-old gelding, to a record time in a seven furlong dash at Saratoga. That didn't impress Mrs. Bacon, however. Mary feels that most woman jockeys are "weaklings" and that includes Miss Smith.

"I wouldn't want to be on the inside of her coming home if she had a horse lugging in," Mary said. "She's got a gimmick. I'm no model or a movie star. I'm a jockey and a good one. I'd like to see Robyn Smith ride seven, eight and nine horses on the smaller tracks."

AT WATERFORD Park in Chester, W. Va., Patricia Barton West has emerged as the top woman rider this season with 112 career victories by mid-September. She recently was joined there by Cheryl White, the first and only Negro woman jockey.

Among other women getting riding assignments are Mary Crump, Irene Osterlund, Sandy Schleiffers, Barbara Brown, Lois Meals and Kathy Kusner.

While there remains some question as to who is the best female jockey riding today, none is more outspoken nor has had a more controversial career than Mary Bacon.

Nothing seems to stop Mrs. Bacon from getting up on a horse —not the accidents she's involved in, not her pregnancies, not even the time she was kidnaped or the time she was threatened with a gun.

"Look, I've broken my back and I road in three races the same day I had my baby," said the 21-year-old who has been married to jockey Johnny Bacon since she was 16. "If you want to ride, you go out there and do it. Go out and win. It's a business. One girl in a million will make it in this business. I want it to be me. Spills aren't going to stop me."

PERHAPS MARY'S most remarkable feat was riding while she was pregnant. Although many people doubt the story, she insists it's true.

"The day my daughter was born I rode at Raceway Park in Toledo," Mary recalled. "I was on this old mare and we were dead last. I just started laughing right in the middle of the race because the mare was pregnant, too, and her people didn't even know. She dropped her foal three days after I had my baby."

Mrs. Bacon has also survived two nightmarish experiences off the track. In 1969 she was abducted near Wilkes Barre, Pa., by a parttime groom who reportedly had a "crush" on her. She was taken at knife point into a wooded area, but managed to break away and outrun her assailant.

Last May at Shively, Ky., a man police identify as her kidnaper broke into a motel room Mrs. Bacon shared with her agent, Judy Wilson. During a struggle he shot Miss Wilson in the hand and the neck before escaping. He was later arrested and is under indictment.

DESPITE ALL this, Mary Bacon is enjoying life as a jockey, although she admits she'd like a chance to ride at the same tracks as her husband.

"We see each other only on weekends, because we're always at different tracks. They say we can't ride at the same meeting. They say a husband and wife are one and the same. That's against the Constitution and it's discriminatory. The owners of these racetracks have their own unwritten laws.

"Johnny and I rode against each other in the bushes in Oklahoma and he taught me a few things. He can ride circles around me. He's the best. But if I get a chance again, well, he'd just be another jock. When I get up on a horse, I forget everything else. All I can think about is winning.

"If I was riding against President Nixon and he was in my way, then shame on him. He's just another boy."

Child Psychotherapist Puts Down Some Parent-Child Myths

By JOAN LISETOR

Can you imagine a 5-year-old saying to himself, "My mommy is tired today, so I think I will be extra quiet?"

Neither can Dr. Haim Ginott, who told an audience last night in the Fine Arts Building Theater at the College of Marin that most mothers go wrong because they think of small children as their friends.

During his years as a child psychotherapist, Dr. Ginott said, when he had a new, young patient, he looked at the child as his enemy.

"DID YOU ever wonder why grandparents and children get along so well?" he asked, "They have a common enemy. Parents."

Children are our enemies because they are dependent on us, he said. Dependency engenders hostility, so if we diminish dependency, hostility will decrease.

To increase autonomy in a small child, the psychologist suggested, give him choices in areas that affect his life.

"Ask a 2-year-old, 'George do you want your eggs hard or very hard?' A 3-year old you ask, 'Do you want a glass of milk or a half a glass of milk?' and for you mothers who worry that your child won't get enough milk, start with a larger glass," he said. "By the time he is four he can make decisions like whether he wants orange or tomato juice. Let him know that you know he is a person with tastes."

WHAT YOU truly can't give a child in reality, you can grant as a wish in fantasy, Dr. Ginott said.

"If a child doesn't want to get up to go to school, say to him, 'Don't you wish it were a holiday?' Go through several holidays and while you are talking he will be waking up and he will realize that he has to go to school without it raising any of his hostilities."

Respond to a child in a way that tells him, "I know you are intelligent," Dr. Ginott suggested.

"Parents think it is their built-in role to criticize," said Dr. Ginott. "We should treat a child the way we treat guests. If a guest in your home forgot her umbrella, would you run after her and yell, 'Everytime you come here you forget something.' 'I am not your slave' or 'Why can't you be like your little sister?'

"No, we say, here is your umbrella, Mrs. Smith."

WHEN THINGS go wrong, say nothing about the person, he said. Instead deal with the situation.

"Define the problem; define the solution," he advised. "If a child spills milk you don't say, 'You're an idiot' or 'You're a klutz' you say, 'You need a sponge.' "

When we have a problem what we need are solutions, he said.

"We must convey to children that we are there to help them with the present, not teach lessons for the future," he said. "Labeling with adjectives is dangerous. In fact, you should say labeling is disabling because a child often lives up to the negative predictions and becomes what he is labeled."

Another thing to remember when dealing with children is that they cannot deal with sarcasm, the psychologist said.

"NEVER MAKE statements that deflate a child's self esteem," he advised.

"Children are like wet cement, what ever falls on them makes an impact," he said.

"Remember also not to argue with a child's experience.

If a child says his knee hurts, and his father says it doesn't this sets up a conflict in the child. He gets two messages. One message is from his knee saying it hurts and the other is from his father saying it doesn't.

"Instead of arguing with a child, acknowledge what he has said. If he says his milk is too cold, don't tell him it couldn't possibly be because it has been out of the refrigerator for so long waiting for him to come into the house to drink it. All he is trying to do is let you know he is drinking his milk.

"It is difficult to convey to a mother not to say something after she has said something. I try to tell them, 'Don't just say something — stand there!

DON'T TRY to explain to a child the plight of a person with whom he is angry, the psychologist advised, or he thinks you are taking the other person's side, and he will transfer his anger to you.

"If a child is afraid, don't tell him there is nothing to be afraid of or you will increase his fear threefold. He will become afraid to be afraid," said Dr. Ginott. "Acknowledge his fear openly and with respect.

"Hasty solutions make a child feel stupid. If he has a problem reflect and define it and ask him for options.

"Learn economical methods of dealing with minor mishaps, and remember that nagging does not motivate a child."

Among the questions Dr. Ginott said he is asked most when he lectures throughout the country is, "What about spanking?"

"Spanking as a lesson demonstrates when we are frustrated we don't look for solutions, we hit. Spanking teaches violence."

DR. GINOTT offered what he called an unorthodox solution to children's fighting.

"Don't be tempted to ask what happened or you become the judge, and don't say I'll get to the bottom of this if it kills me or it probably will.

"Tell the children you want it all in writing — a report, and if they start to tell the story say, 'Oh, that deserves a full paragraph' and 'Don't leave that important part out of the report. It serves two purposes — probably the children will disappear — or you will know who the victim is because he will want to write."

For children who are too young to write, he suggested asking one a question then repeating the answer to the other.

"ONE CHILD will soon say, 'Why don't we talk to each other?' and you say, 'That's a good idea' and walk away." he said.

The warmth in Dr. Ginott's solutions to problems with children makes one wonder if all the parents in the world had his sense of humor, what a happy place it would be for children.

Thousands May Have Active TB

Public health experts estimate that 300,000 Americans may unknowingly have active tuberculosis.

According to Dr. Robert Anderson, managing director of the National TB and Respiratory Disease Association, the eradication of tuberculosis has not taken place because of public indifference to the disease. Mass chest X-ray programs and skin testing are the methods commonly used for uncovering new tuberculosis cases.

Years ago, the person who was diagnosed as having tuberculosis was likely to be shipped off to a sanitarium for complete rest, special diets, and perhaps to have the infected lung collapsed or even removed.

Dr. Anderson reports that modern drug therapy for TB permits patients to return to their usual activities and occupations early in the course of treatment.

Most patients are now admitted to hospitals for short periods to start drug therapy, and are then discharged to outpatient clinics. This method has proved very effective — but only when the patient takes his medicine regularly and returns to the hospital for checkups, according to Dr. Anderson.

Poverty Level Strikes Hardest At Women

Women who head families have a much greater likelihood of living below the poverty level than do men who head families in the U.S.

Figures just released by the U.S. Department of Labor Women's Bureau show that 37 per cent of all poor families are headed by women. Thus, one of three families headed by women lives in poverty, compared with one out of 14 families headed by men.

While there are nearly three times as many poor white families as poor black families, and more white women head poor families than do black women, the black woman family head is more likely to live in poverty. Black women head 56.7 per cent of poor black families, while white women head 29.6 per cent of poor white families.

100 Attend Couple's 65th Anniversary

By MOLLY MARIN

One hundred guests attended the dinner party Sunday at Sabella's restaurant in Mill Valley honoring Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Vireno of Daly City and Santa Rosa, who celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary.

Hosts were the couple's children, Esther Vireno of Daly City and Santa Rosa, Mrs. Richard Cheda of Greenbrae, Dr. Lawrence Vireno of San Rafael and Andrew Vireno Jr. of Corte Madera. The couple's granddaughters, Linda, Vicki and Teri Vireno, all attended the party.

The honorees were married Sept. 30, 1906 in San Francisco.

MR. AND MRS. Walter Johnson of Mill Valley will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with a small family reception at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson of Marinwood on Saturday.

THE RICHARD Maddens are being honored at a dinner dance Saturday night at the Villa Taverna in San Francisco to be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. George Frederick Jewett of Ross.

A GROUP of Marin residents will attend the 15th annual League for Service Antiques Show and Sale, which is being held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Episcopal Church of St. Matthew in San Mateo.

Mrs. Theodore Martin of San Rafael, a sponsor of the event, and guests, Mmes. Jefferson J. Graves Jr. of Ross, James Reese of Kentfield and Edwin Thomas and John La Noue of San Rafael, have made reservations for the luncheon on Tuesday, which will be served in the courtyard of the church.

ANN MARIE Smith, infant daughter of the Brian A.Smiths, was christened Sunday at St. Isabella's Catholic Church in San Rafael. The Smiths visited in Marin before returning to Grand Forks, N.D., where Sergeant Smith is stationed with the Air Force.

Attending a reception which followed the ceremony and was hosted by the baby's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sil Petrini, at their home in San Rafael, were her parernal grandparents, Lt. Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Gregg A. Smith of San Rafael; great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Filippetti of San Rafael, Mr. and Mrs. Eugenio Petrini of South San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Smith of Alpine; her great great grandmother, Mrs. Annie Gelardi of Novato; and her aunts and uncle, Debbie Petrini and Craig and Julie Smith, all of San Rafael.

MRS. EUGENE W. Smith of San Rafael, who had her 95th birthday Sept. 27, was honored at two luncheons last week, hosted by members of her family.

Class Series For Expectant Parents

A nine-week series of classes for expectant parents will be held by the Education for Childbirth program beginning tomorrow. Classes will be held weekly from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. by Gunhild H. Brown, registered physical therapist, at her office, 1300 South Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae.

Expectant parents must have written permission of their physician to enroll. The series includes techniques for relaxing, breathing, posture control and post-natal recovery. Husbands are invited to all classes.

THE GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Tell Your Parents Everything? No, Save It For Later Years

DEAR SUE AND HELEN:

My mother expects a complete report every time I go out. She even wants to know what I think and what my friends are doing. These re-runs are boring: after all, I'm not wild. And if I answer her questions about my friends, she might get the wrong impression, as it's easy for her to do.

If I clam up, she's all hurt and suspects the worst.

Should a teen tell her parents everything? — QUIZZED

SUE'S VIEWS

DEAR QUIZZED:

Definitely not, never, no way, no how, and uh-uh!!!

If you told your parents everything, you'd have no personal thoughts and secrets which are your private possessions, and only to be shared (if at all) with a best girl friend.

Mothers who demand minute-by-minute total recall are the worrying type who are happier not knowing you kissed your boy friend 10 times instead of once at the door, and that several of your acquaintances have tried weed. They'd only get uptight and start lecturing, which doesn't solve anything.

Also, parents shouldn't ever expect their kids to "spy" on the younger generation, or turn informer.

Even if you have cool parents, telling them everything now ruins hilarious dinner talk later on. You should hear the escapades my brothers reminisce about at family get-togethers — a dozen years after they can't get grounded for them! — SUE

HELEN'S TURN

DEAR QUIZZED:

A mother shouldn't insist her teenager tell her everything any more than she should "tell all" to her child. Everyone needs his or her private world.

But if the teen sees her mother as an understanding ear, not a flapping mouth, the important things seldom go unaired.

A word to your mother, "Quizzed": The woman who brags that her daughter always tells her everything is either raising a dull robot, or she's fooling herself. — HELEN

DEAR SUE:

I'm writing you 'cause you're a teen-age girl and might know what I'm doing wrong.

I'm an average guy. Not bad looking. I letter in sports and am popular around school. What's my problem? I can't get a girl. I know a lot of girls, but they only want to be "friends." I'm not pushy with them, and they are good pals, but I'd like to have a real girl, not a buddy. What am I doing wrong? — CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED:

A girl can sense when a guy is after her only to say he has a girl friend. So she'll turn you down, not wanting to be a boy's status symbol. And so will the next, and the next. Pretty soon other girls start thinking, "If nobody wants him, neither do I." And the word gets around, "He's a buddy, not a date," without anyone remembering how it started.

Why not stop worrying and wait until you find a girl who really turns you on. Then show her she's the greatest. In other words, make your move for one special girl, not just any. — SUE

Chinese Peasant Fashing Coming Strong On Scene

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Chinese peasant influence, strong on the American fashion scene since President Nixon announced he's going to Peking, has reached fashion's plushest ranks.

It was seen in the Maxmilian fur show in New York Monday, one of the top ones. Maxmilian prices for the new fur season go up to $35,000 for one floor-length suede coat lined in international Russian crown sable.

Tunic-length Chinese coolie coats, dyed in all the Chinese porcelain colors, were shown with wide-legged black satin pants and black satin skull caps. They were done in many kinds of furs. A red broadtail one was priced at $2,750.

There were Mandarin and Kimono silhouettes also. The Chinese influence already has hit the streets. Among avant garde types wearing the "worker's uniform" black jacket and black pants was a photographer at the Maxmilian show.

Tips On Wearing Pants To The Office

Carpet Tile Boom

NEW YORK (UPI) — Carpet tiles are tremendously popular. More than 70 million of the handy foam rubber backed-tiles were sold last year. Most carpet tiles today are pre-pasted with an adhesive that lets you pick the tile up over and over again. If the adhesive gets coated with dust and loses its grip, you can rejuvenate the tile with an aerosol spray adhesive sold in carpet stores.

MARRIED IN TOMALES

Loretta Mazzucchi of Valley Ford and Jean Baptiste Bidauretta of San Anselmo exchanged marriage vows in a ceremony at the Church of the Assumption in Tomales. The bridegroom is a landscape architect in Marin. The newlyweds are living in San Anselmo. (Faulkner photo)

TO LIVE IN CARMICHAEL

Donna Louis Thomas of Sacramento became the bride of Joe Thomas Hegseth of Carmichael at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. Thomas of Novato. The couple will reside in Carmichael on their return from a trip to Canada.

Art Curator Will Give Museum Lecture

A lecture on three colorful women in English portraiture will be presented in the Arts of Britain series by the American Institute of Interior Designers Monday at the De Young Museum in San Francisco. Dr. Robert P. Wark, art curator of the Huntington Library and Art Gallery in San Marino, will speak on the three, Penelope, Lady Ligoner; Georgiana, Duchess of Devonshire; and Emma, Lady Hamilton. He will describe them as painted by the English portrait painters Thomas Gainsborough, Sir Joshua Reynolds and George Romney.

Tickets will be available at the door for the 7 p.m. program. Design students will have a special entry rate.

Hillcrest Auxiliary Names New Officers

Now serving as president of the Hillcrest Hospital Auxiliary is Mrs. Arthur W. Mortensen. Marjorie Mortensen, during her four year membership, has served as coffee cart chairman and vice president.

To add the plus value and give aid to Hillcrest Hospital and its patients is the ultimate purpose of our organization, says the president. Membership is open to any woman willing to serve after a brief orientation period.

Activities planned for the coming year include the annual fall luncheon, a holiday boutique in November at the woman's club, a fund raising card party in February and a tea in April to celebrate the auxiliary's 10th anniversary.

Mrs. Mortensen and her husband, an oil company distributor, are the parents of three married sons, Steven, James and Daniel. She is a native of Utah but has lived in California most of her life and is a graduate of Glendale High School.

The new president enjoys sewing, gardening and painting. Beachcombing is another favorite pastime.

Other officers are Mmes. William Schneider, vice president; C. P. Chalker, secretary; Ralph Pelton, treasurer; Rodney Perrigo, Milton Whitt and Elmer Krulevitch, executive board members.

Mrs. Mahoney To Lead Petaluma P-TA Council

Mrs. Herold Mahoney says of her organization, "the council is composed of 24 units and will continue its work for children in the areas of health, welfare and standards."

Connie Mahoney and her husband, a petroleum distributor, are the parents of Colleen, 14 and Kerry, 13. She is a native of England and received the masters degree in education from the University of California at Los Angeles. A Sonoma County resident for 17 years, she is a past president of the Petaluma Woman's Club, neighborhood chairman of the Girl Scouts and president of the Wilmar Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary.

Special interests of the new president include horseback riding, swimming, gardening and cooking.

Use Baking Soda

A pinch of baking soda added to the water while cooking beans or other greens has long been thought to make them more tender and maintain good color. While this may be true, baking soda may also destroy important B vitamins, according to General Foods Kitchen nutritionists. Tenderize foods properly by cooking them at a lower temperature for a longer time, they suggest.

How To Save On Laundry Money

Surprisingly, a lot of people waste time and money whenever they do their laundry.

To be a smart consumer in the laundry room, begin by planning your laundry. Even if you have your own washer and dryer, don't use it more than necessary just because it's handy. It's a waste of fuel and water dollars.

Try to wash a full load of clothes each time you use the washer, but, of course, don't overload the machine or your clothes won't get clean. Usually, whatever you wash together can be dried together.

Avoid overloading the dryer and overdrying your clothes. Unless your clothes can move freely, wrinkling will result.

No Oven Stains

How do you prevent pie from bubbling over onto the oven? Just cut a sheet of kitchen foil slightly larger than the pie plate and put it on the second oven rack below the pie plate. Don't put foil directly under the pie plate itself or the bottom crust may not cook thoroughly.

From An Orchid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vanilla comes from the fruit or bean of a tropical orchid which thrives in the Madagascar area's hot, humid climate. It is a temperamental plant whose blossoms last only a day and must be pollinated by hand if they are to bear fruit. So say the Vanilla Growers of Madagascar, Reunion and the Comores.

Ballet Guild Elects New President

Mrs. Daniel T. O'Brien has been elected president of the Petaluma Ballet Guild. Kathy O'Brien formerly served as secretary.

"To promote and support ballet in the Petaluma area is our purpose," she stated. The guild plans several projects, raising funds and encouraging booking the company for performances. The company will perform "Les Sylphides" in Rohnert Park and for the Petaluma Woman's Club this month.

Kathy O'Brien and her husband are part owners of the three Lions Restaurant in Santa Rosa and the A and W Drive In in Petaluma. Their children are Colleen, 15, Bonnie, 14, Patrick, 12, Timaree, 10, and Jamie, 6.

An 11-year resident of Sonoma County, the new president is a native of Minneapolis, Minn. She is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles and is an active member of the book section of Petaluma Branch, American Association of University Women. Her special interests include skiing and cooking for friends.

Other officers are Mmes. Vincent Marsicano, Vice-president; Bernard Kirsh, treasurer; Alice Trayle, corresponding secretary; Harold Britt and Charles Keith, ways and means, John Magnelli, publicity; and Francis Paula, director.

Family 'Fun Flights' Fund-Raising Event

Family "fun flights" — 20-minute scenic tours of the Bay Area — will be offered as a fund-raising event for the Children's Hospital Medical Center of Oakland for the next three Saturdays.

The 727 jet scenic cruises will depart from Oakland International Airport at 1 p.m. Oct. 9, 2 p.m. Oct. 16, and 2:30 p.m. Oct. 23. Reservations are taken weekdays through the hospital's auxiliary branch office. The auxiliary announced that the event will be set up for birthday groups of children. Light refreshments will be served aloft.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON GREB

Guests who were born today, Oct. 7, and became:

1. A U.S. Vice President and Cabinet Officer? He was an Iowa farmer who became Secretary of Agriculture in Franklin D. Roosevelt's "New Deal" and probably would have become President had not Harry S. Truman replaced him as Vice President in 1945: (A) John Nance Garner; (B) Henry A. Wallace; (C) Clinton P. Anderson.

2. A famous American conductor? Say "Happy Birthday" (his 73rd) to the first native born, home-trained American musician to become the leader of a major symphony orchestra, a man who spent 13 years with the Los Angeles Philharmonic and others with great orchestras in Chicago, Seattle, and Cleveland: (A) Alfred Wallenstein; (B) Antol Dorati; (C) Dean Dixon.

3. A heavy-set Hollywood cowboy? Educated at the University of Santa Clara and Arizona State, this gravel-voiced actor has put his familiar voice into radio skits with Jack "Buck" Benny, on television in the "Wild Bill Hickok" series, and in dozens of western movies: (A) Larry Storch; (B) Chill Wills; (C) Andy Devine.

4. A celebrated American educator? This Georgia-born woman opened a school for mountain children in a log cabin and was so successful in bringing education to the backcountry that she devoted her life to it: (A) Oveta Culp Hobby; (B) Martha McChesney Berry; (C) Hannah Adams.

Answers:

1- (Henry A. Wallace); 2- (Alfred Wallenstein); 3- (Andy Devine); 4- (Martha McChesney Berry).

If You Don't Know The Culprit, At Least Know Where To Look

"If you know that a murder was committed by the center of a basketball team," said Sherlock Holmes, "you don't start to look for midgets." Dr. Watson coughed carefully, and the detective explained himself: "Even if you don't know the precise identity of the culprit, it may be enough if you know just where to look for him." Watson nodded his head wearily and thought of the hand they had just seen played.

SOUTH'S TRICK

South won the first trick with the king of diamonds and found a way to go down without delay. He cashed the king of spades and then led a low spade to dummy's ace. East discarded a diamond, and South could take only his 12 top tricks.

"I could have made it by taking the second spade in my own hand" South confessed. "But then I'd go down if the four spades were at my right. There was no way to know who might have four spades."

NONSENSE

This was, of course, sheer nonsense. Sherlock Holmes pointed out that South should take the king of diamonds and then three top hearts. If hearts broke well, dummy's last heart would provide the 13th trick.

When the bad heart shows up, South should take three clubs and then the ace and jack of diamonds. South discards a heart from dummy on the third diamond and then waits for East's play.

SOUTH AND SPADES

By this time East is known to have started with four hearts and at least three clubs. If East follows to a third round of diamonds, as he would, it is clear that East can have only three spades at most. Since East might have only one spade, South takes the king and then the queen of spades, discovering how to play the spades.

South may not get an exact count on the spades, but he will find out enough to know where to look for the opponent who may have four spades.

Novato Board Selects Panel To Study Teacher Dissatisfactions

The Novato Unified School District board has formed a committee to study teacher dissatisfactions as revealed in a survey last spring.

The opinion survey indicated teachers generally were satisfied with conditions, but the greatest dissatisfaction was over salaries.

Teachers also reported they were concerned about lack of community support for education, and high school teachers indicated a lack of rapport with principals.

Board president Ronald D. Schenck, trustee Liz Mertel and Supt. James G. Bunker were appointed by the board Tuesday night to meet with teachers on the survey findings.

Trustees also took action toward standardization and continuity in learning, which had been given priority in a recent session on district objectives.

The board authorized preparation of guidelines in reading, language arts and mathematics by staff members at a cost of $9,000.

The Novato Unified School District Board also:

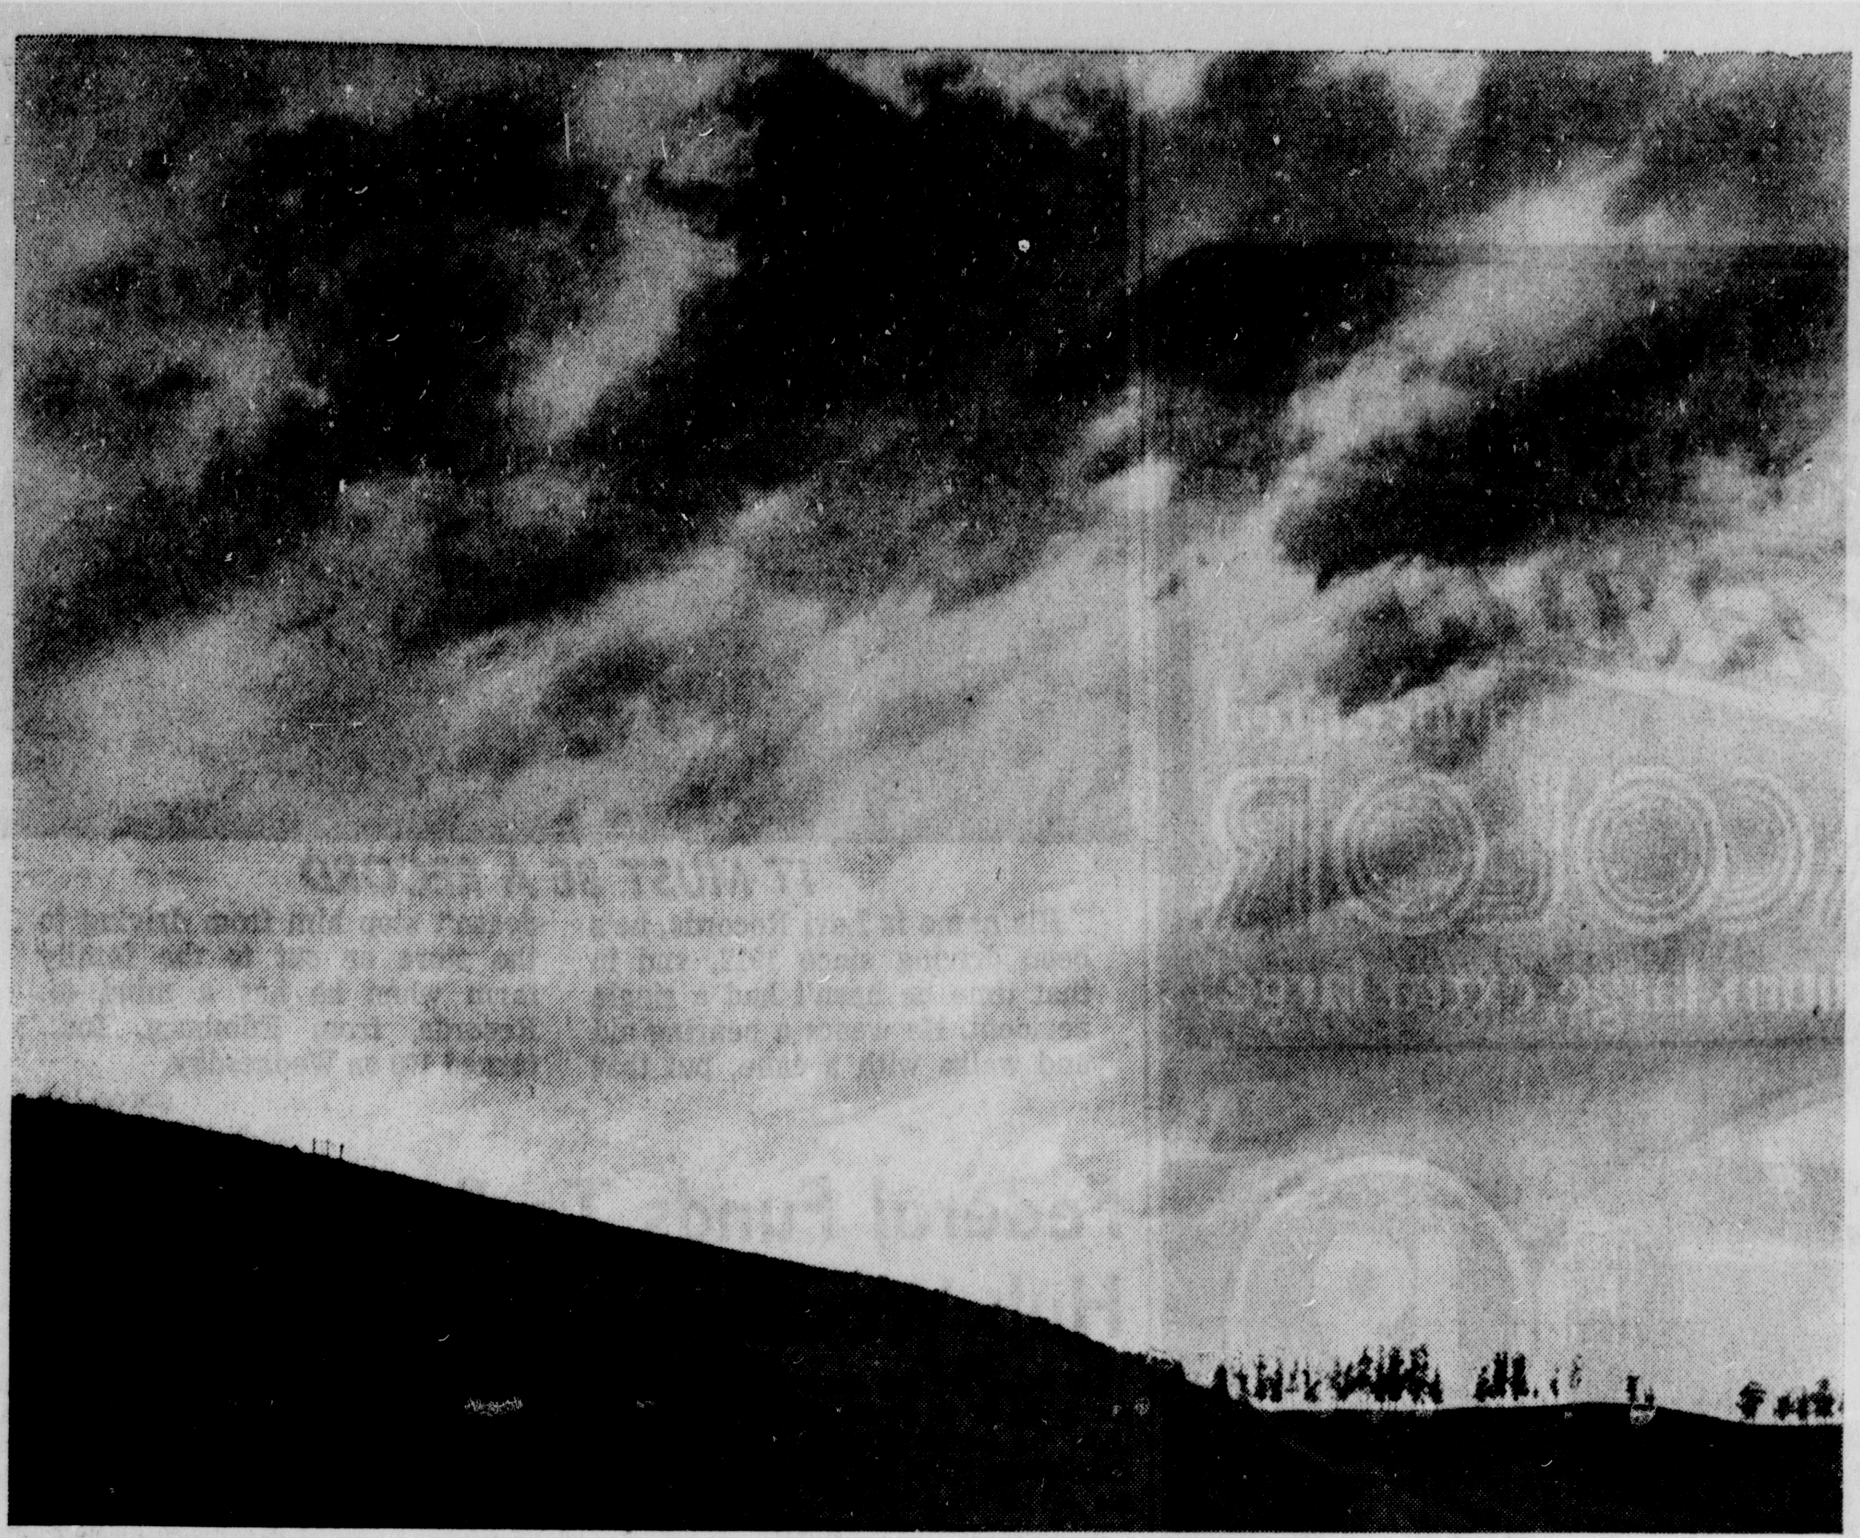
TESTS — Received results of tests given during the past school year that showed the mean intelligence quotient of sixth and 12th grade students was slightly above the statewide mean, and that the achievement of ninth through 12th grades was slightly above the state median.

LITTLE LEAGUE — Authorized studying the possibility of using the Olive School site for Little League baseball.

RETARDED — Approved a program for educably mentally retarded pupils, who have intelligence quotients between 72 and 80, at a cost of $12,115, in state funds.

READING PROGRAM — Allocated $7,456 from reserve funds toward a special reading project, which will be matched by federal funds.

GIFT — Accepted a gift of $300 from the San Jose School Parent-Teacher Association.



CALIFORNIA LANDSCAPE — Textured clouds and flashing darts of light dramatize this low-horizon landscape in a photograph by Pirkle Jones, who displays photographs of Gate Five residents, and his "Portfolio Two".

ART REVIEW

Pirkle Jones' Work Displayed

By ADA GARFINKEL

Situated on the picturesque Promenade in Tiburon, the Tintype Gallery in its fourth month of operation, is a new concept in photography exhibition formats — that is, it's the only gallery in Marin devoted exclusively to showing photography.

The current exhibit is devoted to two main aspects of the work of Mill Valley photographer Pirkle Jones: "Gate Five," which documents and highlights the subculture that exists there (and which will be published as a photo essay early in 1972, with Jac Campbell as principle collaborator), and "Portfolio Two," comprising 12 photographic studies that are special favorites of the artist. The 24 photos in the Gate Five series deal with the feelings and encounters of the inhabitants of a Sausalito outpost. The photos are factual without being judgmental — nor is there an implied voyeurism — whether he focuses on couples engaged in animated horseplay or in lovemaking, or on a group of anxious faces tensed over a spaced-out figure.

This is their life, and they are real, and he invests their human-ness with just as much dignity as in the portraits of some of the other residents of Gate Five — the gray-haired writer, the artist, the poet, the dancer.

Nature and man, and contrasting aspects of nature are what it's all about in the 12 photographs in Portfolio Two on the opposite gallery wall. In these, Jones deals with his elements as would a painter: textures, tonalities, tensions, and contrasts interspersed with sharp, dramatic accents such as the wedge of black horizon which intersects the high foreground of contrasting rock and tree textures in Black Hawk Ranch.

Weather and time also are significant factors. Rain and night create a special drama or mood as, for example, the faceless group of figures huddled under umbrellas, or the striking impact of a threatening sky and crowded architecture as coequal forces in View of San Francisco.

Another time and wide open spaces are suggested by Cowboy, Arizona, seen through a distance lens and a curtain of light snow.

But Garden Detail, an intemate vignette, is a puzzler. Is it light from within that lights the window and falls so lovingly upon the shrubbery — or is it strong, white moonlight bouncing off the bushes and lighting up the house?

Not to be overlooked are four lacy, early-morning scenes of waterfalls at Yosemite with shadowy traces of figures barely visible, and a stunning portrait of Dorothea Lange taken on location when she and Jones were working on the early photographic and very well known essay "Death of a Valley."

The Jones exhibit will continue through Oct. 31. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 11 p.m., Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and noon to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Federal Funds To San Rafael, Hub Would Create 10 Job Slots

San Rafael and San Anselmo are in line for an $80,000 grant under the federal Emergency Employment Act of 1971 to create jobs for 10 unemployed persons, it was reported yesterday.

The grant is in addition to $252,000 allocated to the county last month for creation of 29 jobs under the same act.

John C. Obenhuber, program coordinator, said that the grants require each city to make permanent positions of at least one-half of the newly created jobs. He said the city managers of both San Rafael and San Anselmo expressed interest in the grants, but final approval from the city councils will not come until contracts are drawn up for signature.

Obenhuber said the new grants to San Rafael and San Anselmo came about because the department of labor designated the two cities as having unemployment rates in excess of 6 per cent. The Department of Labor allocated $48,400 for San Rafael and $31,600 for San Anselmo.

As required by law, Marin County sent to the Manpower Administration this week a tentative application for funds on behalf of the two cities.

"It is expected that six jobs will be created in San Rafael and four jobs in San Anselmo," Obenhuber said.

The proposed jobs will include clerical, semi-skilled, technical and professional.

Funding under the Emergency Employment Act is 90 per cent federal and 10 per cent local.

Garbage Burying Reception Cool

By DAVID DIETZ

A young woman wearing a long, robust pigtail went before the Larkspur City Council last night for permission to continue burying garbage in her backyard — for ecology's sake, of course.

The response was a chilly one.

Amid assurances the practice caused no smell, attracted no rodents and was not objectionable to neighbors, Hallie Rabb of 326 Madrone Avenue asked the council for exemption from city health ordinances to enable what she called "recycling" of "organic garbage."

Not only did the council look dimly on Mrs. Rabb's garden project but it noted it couldn't act because no formal variance request had been submitted. Still, the council said it was open to future consideration of issuing use permits for such a practice, provided stiff fees and regular inspections are included.

Mrs. Rabb's project first came to the attention of city officials in August when her landlady, Joyce C. Chiles of San Francisco, wrote her a letter saying she found the disposal method "completely unacceptable" and threatening to end her lease if it did not cease. A copy of the letter, which also demanded $27.15 in unpaid garbage bills, was sent to city officials.

Councilman Neil Brixon acknowledged Mrs. Rabb might be experienced in garbage composting but worried that "many who know nothing about it will try it."

And Mayor Earl J. Grady had agonizing visions of "a mass of 11,000 people throwing garbage in their backyard . . ."

Mrs. Rabb vowed a fight. "I'll state right here and now that I'm going to continue to do it. You're going to have to press charges against a lot of people in Larkspur who are doing this."

She was told to expect inspections of her backyard by city officials.

"You gentlemen are unaware what happens in the ground," Mrs. Rabb said. "It does not remain refuse, it turns into dirt."

Aside from her backyard project, Mrs. Rabb said she disposed of nonrecyclable materials, such as plastic containers, through regular refuse pickups and took cans and bottles to recycling depots.

"I have no intent of putting anything in the ground that won't recycle," she said.

Molly Willard of Kentfield, a Marin Ecology Center spokesman, said she, too, has been recycling garbage without ill effect. It can be done, she said, "even if you do it as simply as digging a hole and covering it with dirt."

Larkspur Will Seek End To Fine Crews

The Larkspur City Council said last night it would ask a Marin Municipal Court judge to stop assigning convicted drunken drivers and juvenile offenders who are unable to pay fines to work in city parks.

The council agreed the project had exceeded original guidelines set by Mayor Earl J. O'Grady and Judge Robert A. Smallman and was causing a burden on city forces with little evidence of return.

Councilman Neil Brixon, who noted up to 20 drunken drivers recently had been assigned to the city for up to 30 days, also objected that the practice was depriving the community of fine revenue it should be receiving.

O'Grady said it wasn't the intent of his agreement with Smallman this summer to send drunken drivers, but only juveniles living in the community who could be put to work on weekdays. Since Brixon noted many of the newly assigned offenders were from out of town, even residents of other counties, this meant special weekend duty for city supervisorial personnel, he said.

Although unanimous on ending the assignment of drunken drivers, the council at first could not agree on whether to discontinue taking juveniles as well. But a consensus was reached after Brixon remarked, "We're not in the correctional business."

The Larkspur City Council Also:

PLANNING — Agreed to a $12,500 contract under which the San Francisco firm of Mocine and Williams will help update the city master plan.

DOUGHBOY — Asked the county board of supervisors to reconsider its stand on placement of the Doughboy statue near the Veterans Memorial Building at the Civic Center. The Marin County United Veterans Council wrote the city council to complain that the terrain at the proposed site was unsuitable for veterans' observances.

HOUSING — Said it would meet Nov. 3 with Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority, to discuss city residency requirements.

SETTLEMENT — Said it would accept $3,875 from the Marin County Flood Control District and contractors as settlement for a city sewer line that was punctured in connection with the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project.

FIRE ALARM — Voted to require permits for newly installed fire alarm systems in homes and businesses.

DEANNEX — Postponed until Oct. 20 proposed deannexation from Larkspur into Corte Madera of the John Oglesby property across from the corporation yard. While acknowledging Corte Madera provided essential services to the property, the council, with Brixon dissenting, said it wanted to make sure development plans are compatible with Larkspur zoning in the area.

SEWER — Adopted an ordinance changing sewer connection and street opening fees, effective upon lifting of the federal wage-price freeze.

ENCROACHMENT — Introduced an ordinance setting a new fee for encroachment permits, also subject to freeze guidelines.

BRIDGE — Adopted an ordinance setting a 25-mile-per-hour speed limit and new truck load limits on the Bon Air Bridge, reconstructed because of damage inflicted during work on the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project.

RESIGNS — Accepted with regret the resignation of Phillip J. Abrams as Larkspur's representative on the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council and began a search for a replacement. Abrams is moving to Chicago.

PRISON — Asked Gov. Ronald Reagan to begin a study aimed at moving San Quentin Prison from Marin.

SIGN — Approved a green-and-white color scheme for a revised directional sign to be erected near Highway 101 by developer Niels Schultz Jr.

MEETINGS — Adjourned to an Oct. 14 session with Mill Valley and Corte Madera councils at Mill Valley City Hall on North Ridge planning and said it would meet with the city planning commission Oct. 20.

Veterans' Advisers Sought For Colleges

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., today planned to reintroduce legislation aimed at placing on college campuses special advisers for armed forces veterans. The Senate in June adopted Chiles' original measure as an amendment to the draft extension bill but it was deleted by the House.

Chiles said his bill would provide funds to enable colleges and universities to hire advisers who help veterans plan their studies, get needed financial help and get jobs after they graduate.

Environment Push Called Determined

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Concern over the environment has turned the nation "away from careless indifference and toward concrete remedial action," the administrator of the federal Environmental Protection Agency said yesterday.

William D. Ruckelshaus told the annual conference of the Water Pollution Control Federation that the government's orientation toward pollution has changed in the past two years.

"Not punitive action, surely not criticism for its own sake, but a determined effort to buckle down and restore our heritage of clean, fresh, free-flowing waterways," was how Ruckelhaus described it.

He told pollution experts attending the conference that new laws and additional billions of dollars won't be enough unless the best technology, efficient manpower and management innovations are applied.

Ruckelshaus said a huge expenditure of funds on new water treatment plans will help bring the day—in the distant but foreseeable future—when "children will swim again in streams and rivers that have been forgotten by an entire generation of Americans."

Lt. Col. John H. Cousins of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers told a session on waste water discharge that the corps' permit program for private industry promises to be the government's most effective tool.

Plea Of Guilty To Grand Theft

Craig, originally charged with felony robbery, was arrested Sept. 23 on a warrant charging he knocked down a 14-year-old boy and took his walkie-talkie Sept. 9 in front of the Mill Valley bus depot.

EASY RIDER — Korinne Kothoff of Tiburon negotiates the newly completed Richardson Bay pathway linking the east and west ends of Tiburon. Miss Kothoff said she formerly was forced to walk her bike along the unpaved right-of-way in order to get from her house to downtown Tiburon. Now she zips there in minutes. "I could drive, I suppose," she said, "but I'd rather ride my bike now that the path's in."

The path will be dedicated formally Saturday.

TIBURON CEREMONIES SATURDAY

A Bike Path's Road To Fruition

By GEORGE NEVIN

A simple ceremony Saturday will mark the fulfillment of a years-old dream — safe bicycle path linking both ends of Tiburon.

The dedication at 11 a.m. at Blackie's Pasture, western terminus of the two-mile Richardson Bay pathway, will bring together Tiburon civic leaders and residents responsible for the uphill struggle for the bike path.

As with other county bike trails, however, Marin cyclists haven't waited for the formal opening. They've been using the path daily, and in great numbers, since the 10-foot-wide strip of asphalt was laid by construction workers two weeks ago.

Because of the path, for the first time children attending two of the schools in Reed School District — Del Mar and Reed — as well as St. Hilary's School, won't have to bicycle or walk along the shoulders of busy Tiburon Boulevard.

For the first time, too, Marin's thousands of leisure-time bike enthusiasts won't have to brave auto traffic, fumes and rocks thrown up by passing vehicles in order to ride from one end of Tiburon to the other.

The dream of a path for cyclists, pedestrians and horses along the former Northwestern Pacific railroad right-of-way was born many years ago, but the campaign didn't pick up steam until late 1966, when the railroad ceased service to Tiburon.

Railroad officials at first resisted an effort by the City of Tiburon to purchase the valuable bayfront property, insisting the land was worth about $400,000, far more than the city was prepared to pay.

It was only after Tiburon filed a condemnation suit last year the the railroad finally agreed on a compromise.

Under the arrangement, the city bought 100,000 square feet of the 60-foot-wide right-of-way — about a third of a mile — in the Blackie's Pasture area. In return, Northwestern Pacific donated the remainder of the right-of-way to the city.

The complicated gift-purchase deal enabled the railroad to claim that the entire parcel was worth $1 a square foot and write off the gift portion as a tax loss. Both the city and Northwestern Pacific came out ahead.

Tiburon subsequently collected $50,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for the purchase.

Ironically, it was the lure of a similar grant from HUD to pay for half the cost of paving a pathway that delayed construction of an asphalt bikeway.

Although the city took title of the land in January, paving did not begin until August. In between, the city council hesitated to order the work done at the city's expense for fear a matching federal grant for that purpose would be jeopardized.

Only councilman Branwell D. Fanning consistently urged that the paving be done regardless of the effect on a possible grant. He was overridden by other councilmen, who said chances of federal money were remote if Tiburon did the work itself, thereby demonstrating it was not a needy city.

After repeated delays, a $34,785 contract for paving was awarded in July, and actual construction began — more than six months after the city acquired title.

Thirty-one per cent of the cost of paving was paid by the City of Belvedere on the theory that residents of that city will use it extensively.

The list of persons who worked to make the path a reality is long, but at its head is Bonnie T. Raisin, a Tiburon mother of four.

Mrs. Raisin led a petition drive to encourage Northwestern Pacific to sell the land, attended almost every council hearing on the matter and at one time offered to mobilize a troop of Girl Scouts in a fund-raising drive to help buy the land.

The path is 10 feet wide and has access points at Tiburon Boulevard near Stewart Drive, Avenida Miraflores (Del Mar), Rock Hill Drive, San Rafael Avenue, Lagoon Road and Lyford Drive as well as either end.

In addition, several informal access points — paths beaten through trailside weeds — allow cyclists to reach the path.

Saturday's brief ribbon-cutting ceremony at Blackie's Pasture will be attended by Denis T. Rice and Thomas S. Price, mayors of Tiburon and Belvedere, respectively. Also expected to attend is Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, other Southern Marin political leaders and a representative of Southern Pacific railroad, parent company of Northwestern Pacific.

Music will be provided by the Los Trancos Woods community marching band of Palo Alto. Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commissioner Donald S. Tayer said the band will begin a march from downtown Tiburon at 10:30 a.m. and arrive at the opposite end of the path in time for the 11 a.m. ceremony.

Although the Richardson Bay pathway now dead-ends on both the east and west, ultimate plans are for the trail to connect to a system of such paths enabling cyclists to ride to San Francisco via the Golden Gate Bridge, to Sonoma County and to Point Reyes National Seashore.

Despite Saturday's ceremony, the Richardson Bay pathway is not finished. The city hopes to turn the entire two-mile length into a linear park, with landscaping, small open areas and benches along the way. Federal funds will be sought for this project.

Miss Ellinwood has circulated a 15-point, two-page memo to other councilmen pointing out hazards of the trail as it now exists.

For one thing, she said, the entrance to the path at Rock Hill Drive is dangerous, forcing cyclists to negotiate a narrow, steap shoulder of Tiburon Boulevard in order to reach the access trail.

She also criticized lack of guardrails at three culverts where it is possible for riders to plunge into water-filled gullies, and no barrier prevents cyclists from riding straight into Greenwood Beach Road at the terminus of the pathway in Blackie's Pasture.

Signs asking cyclists to sound their horns when overtaking pedestrians and to ride on the right hand side of the path should be installed as well, and a sheriff's deputy on a bicycle should patrol the path on weekends to discourage violations, she said.

No council action has been taken on her suggestions.

Despite these apparent failings of the path, however, bicycle riders for the first time have a quick way of getting from one end of Tiburon to the other.

As 18-year-old Korinne Kothoff of Tiburon summed it up: "It's great. I used to walk my bike (along the railroad right-of-way) and it took 45 minutes to get to town. Now I can get there much faster and without having to worry about cars, too."

Apartment Units Auction Put Off

Auction of Western Oaks, a 70-unit townhouse development in Novato, scheduled for yesterday has been postponed until 10 a.m. Oct. 15 at the office of Convis, Kennedy and Shaw, attorneys, 35 Mitchell Boulevard, San Rafael.

Western Hosts, developers of the townhouse project, has been adjudged bankrupt and construction has halted.

The townhouses are west of Highway 101 in the Scottsdale area. The exteriors are completed, but interiors are not.

Newsman Death Is Investigated

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Ugandan diplomat has assured Secretary of State William P. Rogers that his government will do all possible to determine the fate of Washington Star correspondent Nicholas W. Stroh, who is missing and presumed dead in the East African nation.

In a 40-minute meeting at the Waldorf Towers Wednesday, Uganda's Foreign Minister Wanume Kibedi told Rogers his country will set up a special tribunal to make a further, exhaustive investigation into Stroh's disappearance earlier this year while on assignment.

Agent Tells FBI Trail To Angela

By MARY LEYDECKER

A Federal Bureau of Investigation agent yesterday retraced a trail of phone calls linking Angela Davis with David Poindexter after she fled California following the Aug. 7, 1970, shoot-out in Marin.

It was also suggested in court by the prosecutor, Albert W. Harris Jr., that Miss Davis planned at one time to flee to Cuba and went so far as to buy a textbook in elementary Spanish. Other evidence, however, indicated she may have planned flight to Canada.

The trail that led to Miss Davis's arrest on Oct. 13, 1970, in a New York motel where she was staying with Poindexter, wealthy Chicago resident, was detailed by FBI agent Lawrence J. Monroe.

(Monroe was testifying at a pretrial hearing in which Miss Davis's attorneys sought to suppress certain evidence in the case, calling it illegally obtained.)

Monroe said that Miss Davis was first linked to Poindexter by phone calls. He said agents learned through phone company records that a call had been placed three days after the shoot-out to a Chicago apartment from the home of Franklin Alexander in Los Angeles.

(Alexander is a longtime friend of Miss Davis and is currently co-chairman of her defense committee. Her car was found abandoned near his home.)

The Chicago apartment, Monroe said, was rented to a "David Day," who, the agent said, turned out to be Poindexter.

Then on Aug. 14, 1970, Monroe said, a call was made from the Poindexter apartment to a phone booth near Alexander's home.

Harris noted in court that the first call was made before a warrant had been issued for Miss Davis.

After agents linked Miss Davis with Poindexter, they traced the pair to Florida through information gleaned from Poindexter's mother. Although they missed the couple there, on Oct. 9 they searched a Miami apartment in which they had been staying.

In the apartment Monroe said was not only the Spanish book but also a roll of film containing about 50 pictures of Miss Davis taken by Poindexter.

Agents also found "writing" by Miss Davis in which she said she "was not guilty and that she would be forced into exile," Monroe said.

Copies of the pictures, showing several hair styles, were later given to agents in New York, Monroe said. He insisted, however, that it was a check of about 13 motel parking lots and garages that led to the arrest of Miss Davis. In one, agents finally found the Toyota purchased for Poindexter by his mother in Florida.

Monroe also described the circumstances of Miss Davis's arrest in a hallway of the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge in New York City, where she was grabbed by agents and a wig "snatched" from her head.

Miss Davis's attorney, Howard Moore Jr., called the arrest a "lucky guess" and the result of a "dragnet approach" but Monroe insisted he was sure the woman he arrested was Miss Davis.

It was also revealed yesterday in a document filed as evidence in the pretrial hearing that a search of Miss Davis's car, found after the shoot-out abandoned in Los Angeles, turned up a variety of articles.

In addition to a letter from Ruchell Magee, written in July 1970 and forwarded by Miss Davis's attorney, were notes that might have pertained to a planned flight to Canada, a switchblade knife, two rounds of ammunition and some birth control pills.

A sheet of paper was found which bore legible impressions of the words "Canada" and "underground," according to the affidavit.

Although the car, a 1959 Rambler, did not look operational, it was in running condition, according to agents who conducted the search. Alexander had told investigators that the car was left near his house "because the damned thing doesn't run."

Judge Richard E. Arnason, Contra Costa County jurist who is sitting in Marin Superior Court, yesterday recessed the hearing to Oct. 26 on the suppression of evidence motion. It was expected, however, that arguments on whether Miss Davis's case will remain in Marin or be transferred to San Francisco, as she has requested, will begin late next week.

She is due to go to trial Nov. 1 but court observers do not expect the trial to start that soon.

"The trains now run on time" was one of the proudest boasts of Italian fascism.

Bond Plea Slated On Radio

Marin's Community College District officials and citizen volunteers will explain the need for the district's $16.7 million bond issue on two radio programs this week, according to John A. Grasham, superintendent-president of the district.

Citizens' committee co-chairman Grace Mitchell and Trustee Charles R. Best will appear on the Bennett's Boardwalk program on Radio KTIM at 8:35 a.m. tomorrow.

At 8 a.m. Sunday, Grasham will moderate a panel on the University Forum program over station KABL AM/FM. His guests will be Trustees Donald K. Felt, Theodore C. Wellman and Best, Mrs. Mitchell and co-chairman Hadden Roth, and Donald M. Van Dyke, director of the Marin County Taxpayers Association.

Grasham also told the trustees that Channel 7, KGO-TV, would be broadcasting editorials in support of the college bonds two or three times daily tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday.

Waste Recovery Plant Due Soon

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nation's first "total" waste recovery plant will soon be extracting crushed bottle glass from this city's refuse for recycling.

A glass recovery subsystem, developed by the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, is being added to the Franklin, Ohio plant, which is already retrieving paper pulp and ferrous metals from Franklin's daily garbage accumulation and selling these materials to indsutry.

It is expected that the recovered glass will be used in manufacture of new jars and bottles and also for housing and roadpaving.

$170 Worth Of Lumber Is Stolen

Lumber valued at $270 has been reported stolen from the old Indian Valley Lumber Co. site in Corte Madera, police said today.

Officers said the theft, reported by Gerald R.Jake of 24 Canyon Road, San Anselmo, occurred between Friday and Monday at the company's main building which Jake is razing.

Gala Deficit Is Set At $9,000; Attendance Off

The grand opening of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building on Sept. 25 drew a paid audience of only 1,476, who dished out a total of $22,140 for the concert and buffet supper.

This was considerably less than the 1,700 or more paid customers anticipated by Executive Director Leon G. Kalimos. On the eve of the opening, Kalimos had estimated that 85 per cent of the 2,000 seats had been sold.

With the addition of 181 courtesy tickets issued free of charge to the press, critics and other invited guests including supervisors from the Bay Area and mayors of Marin, the total attendance came to 1,657.

Kalimos estimated that the total cost of the grand opening would be within the $31,500 estimate he made in September, which would leave a deficit of about $9,000.

Kalimos said he cannot give the exact deficit as yet because all the bills have not been mailed to him. "We'll have all the costs compiled after Oct. 15 when the mid-month bills are mailed," said Kalimos.

Among the known costs for opening night are the following:

Orchestra, music, staging, and guest singer — $12,450; hors d'oeuvres and supper by Thomasser and Associates of San Francisco — bid price of $6,000; cost of champagne to be billed by Thomasser on the basis of the amount consumed.

Kalimos said he had not received the Thomasser bill as of yesterday. Other costs still to be computed are newspaper advertisements, printing of tickets and other publicity material, cost of parking guides, and the official pre-concert reception held at Holiday Inn.

Kalimos said he had difficulty estimating the actual number of tickets sold because some customers were still buying them on the day of the opening, while others who had bought tickets in blocks of six or 10 were returning unused tickets and getting rebates.

Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, who audited the tickets sold and the cash receipts, confirmed that only 1,476 were actually sold.

Tickets on opening night were not collected at the door because they were meant to be souvenirs to be retained by the patrons, said Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator. He said there was little chance that the uncollected tickets were used for entry by non-paying outsiders because each ticket has a seat number.

He said that theoretically, a few could have slipped in after the intermission and sat in the back where several rows of seats were unoccupied, but this was unlikely.

The capacity of the building is 2,088, but only 2,003 were available on opening night because 85 removable seats are in the orchestra pit. On opening night, the orchestra pit was raised to stage level to increase the stage depth.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Unemployment Bill To Governor

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly has given final legislative approval to a bill extending unemployment benefits to 256,000 persons, including University of California and state college employes.

The bill by Assemblyman Robert Beverly, R-Manhattan Beach, was sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan Wednesday after the Assembly voted 64-0 to accept Senate amendments.

Tom Griffin, chief of the legal section of the Department of Human Resources Development, said the legislation would cost the state $2.5 million annually to cover 106,000 employes of the university state colleges and California state hospitals.

Another 105,000 employes of nonprofit organizations such as hospitals and community chests would also be eligible for unemployment benefits. He said the $11 million annual cost of that provisions would be borne by the employers.

Beverly's bill would bring the state into compliance with current federal law, according to Griffin. It would go into effect at the beginning of the year but no benefits were expected to be paid out until next August.

Gov. Ronald Reagan already has signed legislation providing unemployment benefits to 115,000 other state employes if they lose their jobs.

In a related action Tuesday, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee approved a bill by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, making unemployment benefits available to state college and university employes retroactive to March 1.

The committee also sent to the lower house floor a bill by Assemblyman John F. Dunlap, D-Napa, making county employes eligible for unemployment coverage.

Another measure approved increases from $65 to $75 a week unemployment benefits to state employes. It is authored by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello.

SALARIES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation giving conditional approval to a 7 1-2 per cent salary increase for University of California and state college faculty members has been approved by an Assembly committee.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee Wednesday approved the bill by Sen. Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, on a voice vote and sent it to the floor of the lower House.

Rodda's bill was amended by the committee so that the salary increases would take effect only if "excess" funds were available.

A proposed 10 per cent salary increase for university and college faculty members was vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

PRISON STUDY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A measure calling for a legislative study of the violence plagued California prison system has been unanimously adopted by the Senate.

The resolution by Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, passed the Senate without debate Wednesday and was sent to the Assembly on a 30-0 vote.

The resolution would create a 10-member joint committee of legislators to conduct an "in-depth" investigation into the administration and operation of the prisons.

The committee would report back to the legislature with recommendations for improvement.

Nejedly said the prison situation demands an investigation "quickly, effectively and intelligently." He said the committee should be able to report its preliminary findings by mid-February.

2 Hurt As Car Forced Off Road

Two 20-year-old San Rafael youths suffered minor injuries yesterday at 4 p.m. when their car was forced off Fairfax-Bolinas Road one-half mile east of Shoreline Highway.

James W. Kennedy, 303 Belle Avenue, was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts of the scalp and both arms. James Crovo, 20 Blossom Drive, was treated for multiple bruises.

The California Highway Patrol said Kennedy, the driver, told officers he was westbound on Fairfax-Bolinas Road when he was forced off the right side of the road by a passing car. He could give no description of the other car.

Man, 82, Hurt After Curb-Trip

An 82-year-old San Anselmo man was admitted yesterday to Marin General Hospital for face cuts and a possible concussion sustained when he tripped over a curb in San Anselmo.

The hospital said today Phillip Poda of 46 Woodland Avenue was in satisfactory condition.

San Anselmo police said the man apparently tripped over a curb at the intersection of San Anselmo and Woodland avenues smashing his glasses in the fall. The accident occurred at about noon.

Parkway Proposal Attacked

Residents of Southern Marin declared last night they oppose a national parkway from Golden Gate Bridge to Point Reyes National Parkway.

The National Parkway is proposed in the preliminary countywide plan which is undergoing a series of public hearings. Last night's hearing at Tamalpais High School drew an audience of about 70. Marin County planning commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo presided.

Several speakers criticized the parkway plan as damaging to environment but suggested no alternate route to the seashore except over existing roads.

County planning director Werner Von Gundell said public acquisition would be one method, and open space zoning another.

The next public hearing on the preliminary countywide plan will be held at Novato Community House at 8 p.m. next Wednesday.

Driver Tries To Save Hay, Starts A Fire

In an effort to save a truck loaded with 25 tons of hay which caught on fire yesterday, the driver dumped the burning hay along four-tenths of a mile on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard and started a two-acre grass fire.

Novato firemen reported that Andrew Myles of Santa Rosa spotted a hay fire in the back of his rig at about 3:40 p.m. and tried to save the truck by dumping the hay from the Coca Cola plant to Los Robles mobile home park.

The burning hay ignited grass along the road and scorched about two acres of grass, firemen said.

The hay completely burned at a loss of $825 and damage to the back of the truck was estimated at $1,500, according to fire officials.

Novato Fire Chief Jack Kidder said the fire started either by heat from the exhaust or by carbon particles from the exhaust which was butted up against the hay.

He said firemen used about 15,000 gallons of water in their three hour effort to quench the fire. Kidder added the bales had to be split open to make sure the fire was completely extinguished.

The truck and hay belonged to Hunt and Berens of Petaluma.

Thieves Chased, But Get Away

Macy's security officers gave chase through downtown San Rafael yesterday after a man and woman shoplifted $360 in pants suits from the department store.

The officers told police the thieves abandoned their loot near Burn's Florists on Fifth Avenue and escaped in separate cars.

The culprits were described as about 25 years of age.

2 New Kentfield Fire Lieutenants

The Kentfield Fire Protection District board last night approved the promotions of two firemen to lieutenant.

According to Chief Kenneth T. Kamp, the two men to fill the new positions are Robert Bettencourt and Ronald Darrington. Both will be paid $958 per month.

Bettencourt, 26, lives at 921 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, and has been with the department about three years.

Darrington, 31, lives at 27 Stetson Avenue, Kentfield, and is a 10-year department veteran.

In other action, the board continued discussion of its fire contracts with public facilities such as Marin General Hospital to its next meeting, Oct. 13.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Oldster May Be Hypochondriac Because Illness Is Good Excuse

Older people often become hypochondriacs because unconsciously they know society is quick to forgive any misbehavior attributed to poor health. Illness is a socially acceptable excuse for not being gainfully employed or achieving and maintaining status and prestige. The elderly may believe that they are failing but it is not necessarily true. Most oldsters are healthier than we have been led to believe. Furthermore, when carefully analyzed, many of their complaints are not serious. "I'm short of breath after walking up two flights of stairs" does not necessarily mean that the person has heart disease or emphysema. I've seen younger individuals huff and puff after walking upstairs.

POOR APPETITE is also a favorite complaint. This is usually psychological, due to poorly-fitted dentures, eating alone or lack of interest in preparing tasty meals. "Boy, do I ache when I get up in the morning" may be due to a little rheumatism and is not the harbinger of crippling arthritis.

Statistics show that most senior citizens are not bedridden or in nursing homes or psychiatric institutions. The majority do not tire so quickly that they cannot work, shop, travel or engage in sex. In addition, they are not more susceptible to colds and, if anything, have only 1.3 acute illnesses (per person) per year — half the average for the entire population. Even though some spend twice as many days sick in bed after 65, than before, this amounts to less than 14 days a year.

INFIRMITIES SLOW down the oldster but he is not bothered toomuch if he is not hurried. Those with high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries or diseases of the brain may suffer from the complications of these conditions. However, the majority are as keen and alert as ever and some have more on the ball than many middle-agers.

Perhaps the time has come to let our elders grow old in their own way. They are doing a good job if it and if let alone, perhaps they will have no need to develop hypochondriasis.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

OVA TIMETABLE

A reader writes: Do 30 menstrual periods have to pass before ovaries are produced?

REPLY

I assume you refer to ova since it is difficult to menstruate without ovaries. The ova are produced by the ovaries midway between the menstrual cycle. There is a good possibility that the adolescent girl menstruates for some time before ova are produced. To my knowledge, there is no set time, such as after the 10th, 20th or 30th period.

SCHIZOID TENDENCIES

Mrs. V.A. writes: My husband is schizo and our young son is showing these tendencies. Is there a blood test that shows schizo properties that normal persons do not have?

REPLY

No. Many tests have been devised but none have been entirely successful. Diagnosis of this mental disorder involves talking to the patient and his family and observing his actions and reactions.

SLOW TALKER

P.S. writes: To the best of our knowledge, our 2½-year-old grandson never has spoken a word. Isn't this unusual?

REPLY

Yes. The child should be examined thoroughly to determine why he is not talking.

NIGHTMARES IN THE AGED

Mrs. O. writes: Are the elderly unusually susceptible to nightmares? My 83-year-old mother seems to be getting worse along this line.

REPLY

Nightmares are commoner in children. But they occur in the aged, particularly those who are apprehensive. Certain medicines, such as sedatives, may cause bad dreams. This could be responsible in your mother's case if she is being treated for anxiety or high blood pressure.

FUNGAL INFECTION

E. W. T. writes: A friend of mine just learned he has actinomycosis of the chest. How did he catch it?

REPLY

This fungal infection usually develops in the mouth, gums, pharynx or larynx and spreads to the lungs. The causative fungi come originally from cattle. The disease responds to penicillin and the tetracyclines. Your friend should get well before too long.

LIVER—NOT ESSENTIAL

N. K. writes: Can a person avoid liver without jeopardizing his health? P.S. It is served once a week and he can't stand the stuff.

REPLY

Yes, and neither can I. Liver is an excellent source of protein and iron but other meats are equally nourishing. It is not an essential food and many years ago, butchers used to give it away for the cat.

MIRROR WRITING

R. E. writes: What causes mirror writing in a child?

REPLY

Some authorities believe that writing from right to left is natural for left-handers. These youngsters must be trained to acquire skill in writing opposite to that which is easiest for them. But when a right-hander goes in for mirror writing, a physician should be consulted because there may be some disturbance in the functioning of the language areas of the brain.

MOTTLED SKIN

J. B. writes: What can you tell me about poikiloderma of the face and neck?

REPLY

In this condition, the skin is pigmented and atrophied in a network of patches on both sides of the face and neck. It is most common in women of menopausal age. Sensitivity to chemicals, cosmetics or rays of the sun may also play a role. Poikiloderma is descriptive of the appearance of the skin rather than a definite disease.

Today's Health Hint — It is better to institutionalize a senile parent than to have him disrupt the home life of his children and grandchildren.

Death Meted Out In Aborted Skyjack

AMMAN (UPI)—The Jordanian government has approved a death sentence imposed on a Palestinian guerrilla convicted by a military court last month of attempting to hijack a Royal Jordanian jetliner, the Middle East News Agency said today.

The man, Hilal Abdel Kader Hassan, 20, was overpowered by a guard minutes after producing a hand-grenade and threatening to detonate it unless the plane flew to Baghdad.

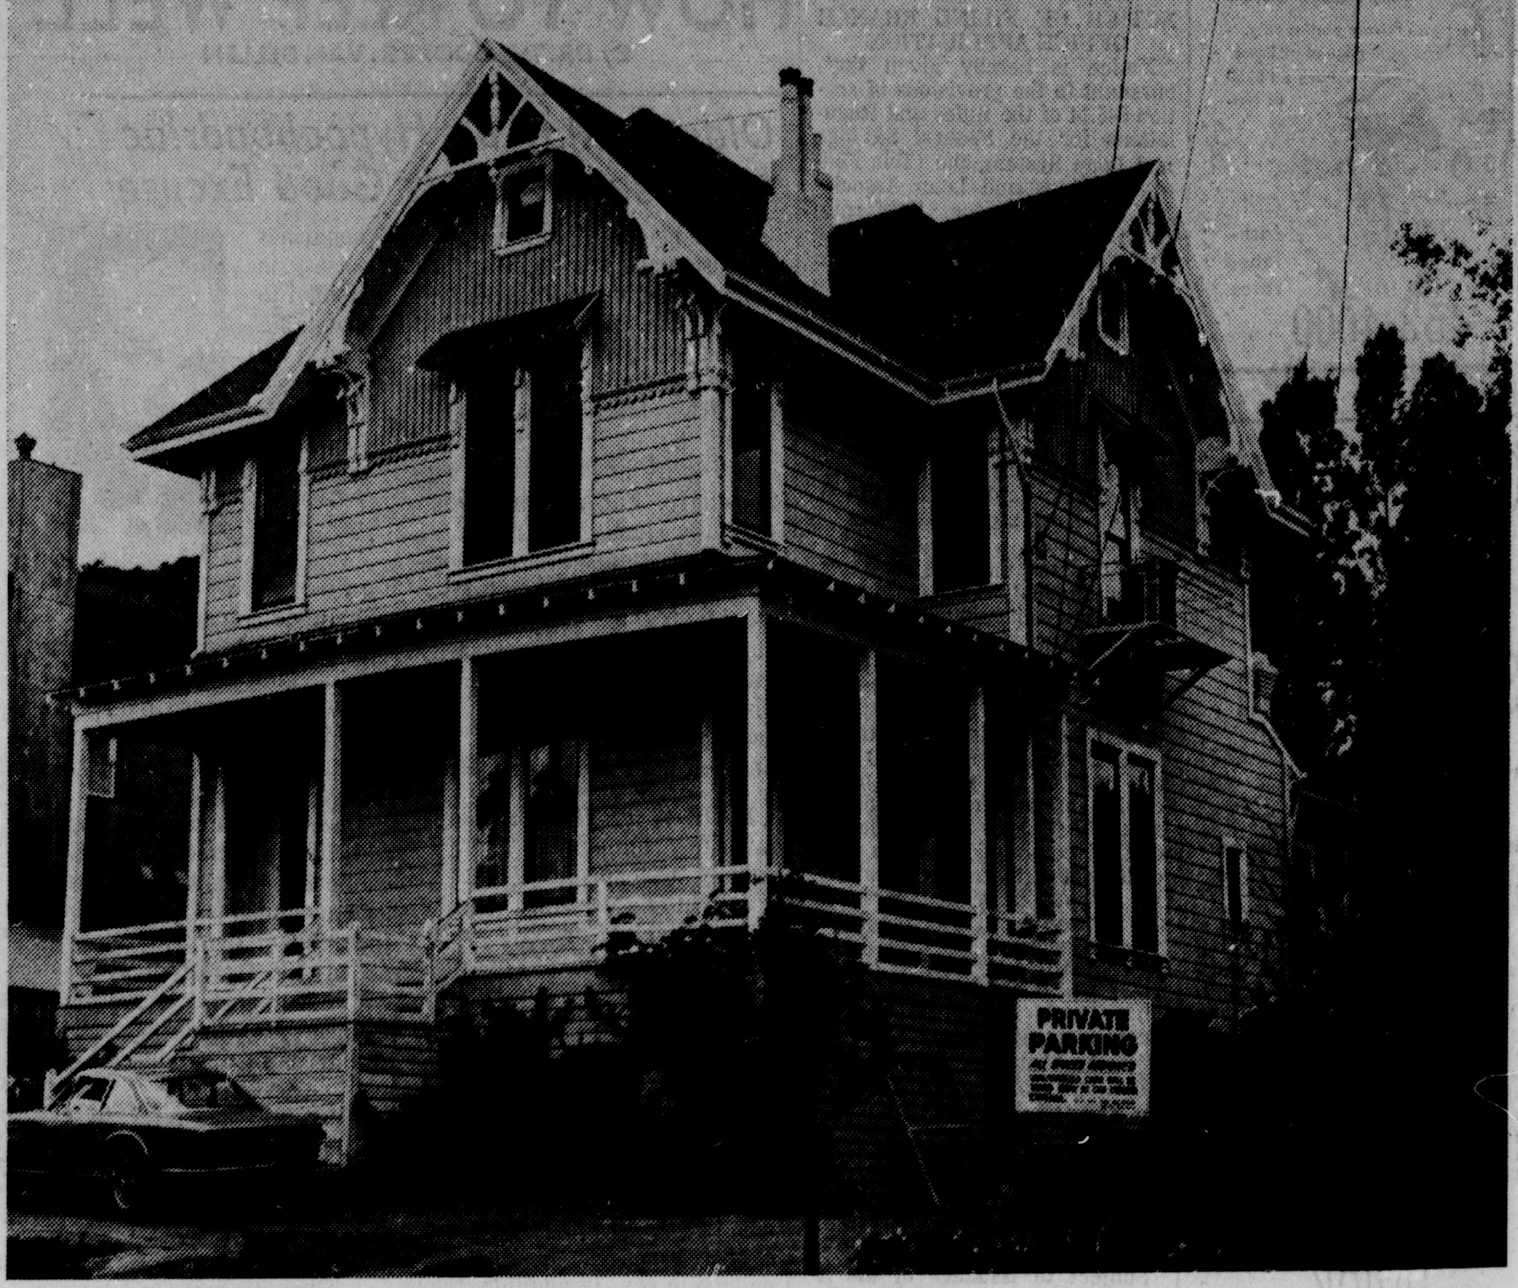
FIRST MAYOR'S HOME IN '90s — This picture of the home of Edward C. McCarthy appeared in a booklet published by the Marin Journal in 1894. McCarthy was the first to hold the title of mayor of the City of San Rafael after its elevation from the status of town.



AS IT LOOKS TODAY — The second floor of what once was the Mayor McCarthy home, restored to elegance by painter's brush, looks much as it did originally. New owner Betty Ford plans to restore the lower story also.

Woman Couldn't Destroy An Old Victorian Beauty

Because a San Francisco widow couldn't bear to destroy a vestige of Victorian architectural beauty, San Rafael will retain a landmark home with historical associations.

When Mrs. Betty Ford purchased the Wachsman Building at 914 Mission Avenue, she got with it a lot at 828 Mission on which was an old residence in use as a rooming house for single men. This came about because when the Wachsman Building was erected, the lot on which it stands lacked space to meet city parking requirements, so owner Edward K. Wachsman was required to provide parking elsewhere. He purchased the lot at 828 Mission and black-topped it for parking.

There was little about the rooming house to make it appear anything but just another old house that had been allowed to run down. Mrs. Ford considered razing it to provide more parking.

"Then I looked at it from across the street," she related, "and I could see that it had once been a beautiful home. The second story had been left in its original form, and hinted at what the house might have been."

That sent her to the Marin Historical Society's museum at Mission Avenue and B Street, where she found a book of pictures of Marin homes and views published by the Marin Journal in 1894. And among them was one of the house she had acquired, identified as the residence of Mayor Edward C. McCarthy.

Mrs. Ford, a native San Franciscan who says she has "a sentiment for the Bay Area," pursued her research from there. She learned the house had been built in 1880, and that the Mayor McCarthy who later owned it was the first to hold the title of mayor of the City of San Rafael.

San Rafael was incorporated as a town in 1874, with a town board of trustees as the governing body. In those days, California had six classes of cities, each with a little different amount of home rule — the class being based on population.

In the 1890 census, San Rafael's population went over the 3,000 mark, entitling it to become a city of the fifth class — no longer merely a town. It took the city fathers a couple of years to get around to doing anything about this, but the April 1893 election was set up to elect the first governing board for the City of San Rafael.

Henry C. Gieske, M. Herzog, McCarthy, William J. Muler and Stanley P. Moorhead were elected as the first board of trustees of the new city, and at the first meeting following the election, McCarthy was chosen as mayor.

However, attorney G. W. Monteith, who was chairman of the Republican Central Committee of Marin, challenged the election. San Rafael did not automatically become a fifth class city by virtue of the census, he contended.

E.B. Martinelli, appointed as city attorney by the new board, had as his first job defense against Monteith's suit. He won it, the superior court ruling the election was valid — and thus upholding McCarthy's right to the title of first mayor of San Rafael. As an aftermath of the suit, the Republican Central Committee ousted Monteith as chairman.

Among other things, the community's new status raised the limit on San Rafael's tax rate from 65 cents to $1 per $100 assessed valuation (which is still the limit except for some special purpose taxes, and is more than the city has levied in recent years). It also made teachers in the city schools employees of the city (which they ceased to be under legislation that came along some 40 years later).

Mrs. Ford felt this historical association of the old house was enough to merit its designation as a historical landmark. She has communicated with the California Historical Names and Sights Committee, and expects the McCarthy house to be designated a historical site when she completes its restoration.

The restoration itself involves restoring a porch running around two sides of the house, with ornamental pillars. Inside, it involves restoring the rooms to resemblance of the way they must have appeared in the 1880s and '90s.

Mrs. Ford enlisted the aid of James Andrew Ring, a San Rafael architect, to oversee the restoration. The interior is mostly done — even to some furnishings and pictures on the walls. The hundreds of ornamental wood pieces for the big porch have been duplicated.

The new owner plans also to landscape the lot. The blacktop will have to go. Mrs. Ford is negotiating for parking for the Wachsman Building elsewhere.

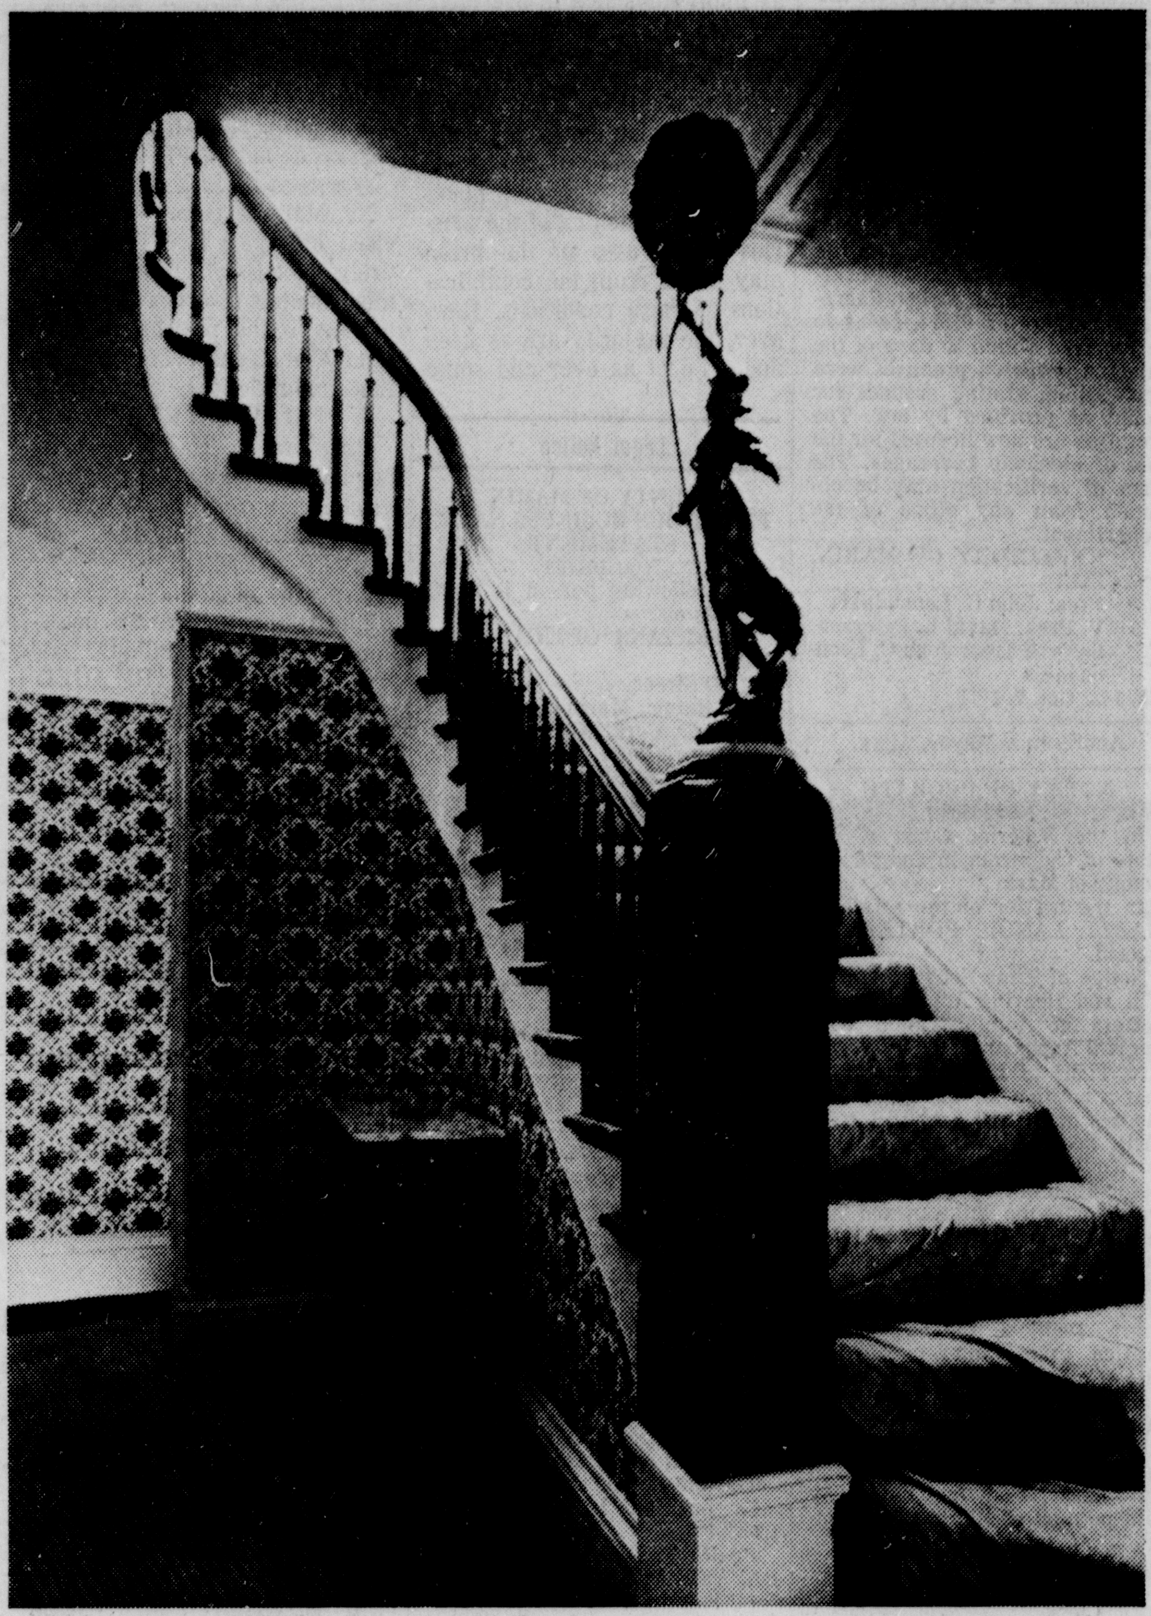
She is not sure to what use the house will be put. But Dunnyhills has expressed interest in leasing it for a dining room-restaurant as a continuing means of raising money for its home for youngsters with personal and family problems.

VICTORIAN INTERIOR — In the interior of what was a run-down rooming house when she bought it, Betty Ford goes over plans for restoration of home at 828 Mission Avenue to make it a San Rafael landmark.

$200 Construction Bucket Is Pilfered

A $200 backhoe bucket — a piece of construction equipment — owned by Pacific Gas and Electric Co., has been reported stolen from the street improvement site at Doherty Drive and Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur, police said today.

The bucket was taken sometime between Friday night and Monday morning, officers said.



CURVING STAIRCASE — With its fine wood cleaned and refinished and a statue lamp atop its newel post, the curving stairway of the onetime mayor's mansion shows how Victorian elegance is being recaptured.

Stage Is Set In Vietnam For Second Oil Crisis Of Year

VIENNA (UPI)—The major oil-exporting nations announced today they want negotiations aimed at step-by-step control of oil companies' property and operations on their territory.

A statement issued by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) said an OPEC meeting in Beirut Sept. 22 decided on immediate steps toward ... effective participation in existing concessions. At present, the major Western oil companies lease these "concessions" from the countries.

The OPEC statement also approved a new increase in the price of oil by urging its members to "take necessary action" to offset the "de facto devaluation of the U.S. dollar" the currency on which all the countries' dealings with the companies is based.

Vienna is headquarters for the OPEC, which include Algeria, Libya, Iran, Iraq, Venezuela, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Abu Dhabi, Kuwait, Indonesia and Nigeria.

The members' share in oil company revenues through increases in taxes, rents and other income has risen over the years. But for the most part the oil-producing nations have never had a real share in the property or operations on the leases, which are due to expire between 1982 and 2026.

The countries say they want both a financial stake in the operations on their territory and—looking ahead to the day when the leases expire—some knowhow in running their own operations.

The OPEC statement said they wanted to get this through "participation"—OPEC's word for part or full ownership of the oil operations.

The statement said negotiations with the oil companies should be carried out "either individually or in groups." This meant OPEC foresaw no united front against the companies. Oil sources in the countries differed in the share of "participation" they wanted. Libya, for example, wants a 51 per cent share, or actual control, they said. Algeria already has this control.

Nigeria, they said, wants a 33 1-3 per cent participation. The other countries will ask for a 20 to 30 per cent share.

The sources stressed that the countries are willing to pay for these shares—preferably out of oil revenue. But they said the OPEC members will use the threat of nationalization as a means of getting their way.

All Indonesia's production is nationalized and Algeria recently took over control of the French leases on its territory.

Today's statement set the stage for the second world oil crisis in a year.

Last February, the threat of a world-wide oil famine ended when the companies agreed to demands by OPEC nations—acting in concert—that the Persian Gulf nations should get increases in taxes and royalties amounting to $1.2 billion this year alone.

Victim Of Accident Said Satisfactory

Denise Martell, 17, of Glen Ellen, was reported in satisfactory condition at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with a broken right arm and cuts suffered when her car overturned at 6:05 p.m. yesterday on Roberts Road west of Lichau Road, Penngrove.

The California Highway Patrol said the car ran off the roadway on a sharp curve and rolled over.

FBI Segment Of Film To Be Carried

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 12-minute segment alleging the FBI condoned acts of violence which was cut from a Public Broadcasting Service show aired in cities across the country Wednesday will be broadcast by a local station Friday.

WNET, the New York City educational station, scheduled a one-hour program for Friday night entitled "Behind the Lines—Special" which will include the FBI segment.

The film, compiled by Paul Jacobs of National Educational Television, was cut from Wednesday night's "The Great American Dream Machine" because PBS said it wanted additional documentation of certain allegations. In its place, a piano player appeared on Dream Machine.

Jacobs called the action censorship. Jerry Slater, general manager of PBS, said the cancellation had nothing to do with the controversial nature of the program and said it would be broadcast later with more documentation.

According to Jacobs, David Sannes and Jeff Desmond of Seattle and Charles Grimm of Tuscaloosa, Ala., acted as undercover informants within new left groups in 1969 and 1970. Jacobs said the FBI gave approval to acts of violence planned by the three.

Sannes' plan to booby trap a bomb so radicals would be killed was never carried out, Jacobs said, but Desmond's plan to bomb a Seattle post office and Grimm's plan to set fire to buildings at the University of Alabama were. Desmond and Grimm were arrested with others in those cases but both were released, Jacobs said.

Expanding Picnic Facilities Due Study

The Marinwood Volunteer Firemen's Association has formed a committee to study expanding the picnic facilities at the Marinwood Community Center.

The association at its meeting Tuesday appointed Irving Schwartz chairman of the committee which will also recommend to the Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission the association's proposals for use of the picnic grounds.

President Donald B. Stiver said the association recommended a centralized reservations system be set up within the park and recreation department; permission to use the picnic grounds and facilities must be granted from the Marinwood Fire Department; the service road should not be used except to bring in supplies and that garden hoses should be available when the area is used.

The association re-elected Peter G. Bianucci, vice president; Bert Balke, treasurer; Gerald A. Falbo, secretary, and Ton Marinoff, sergeant-at-arms.

Boas Will Address Club On Wednesday

Roger Boas, a San Francisco supervisor and candidate for the sixth Congressional District seat, will address Marin County Young Democrats for Change at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the College of Marin.

The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported Tuesday that the address would be last night.

Big Subdivision Is Voted Down

UKIAH (UPI)—A referendum election Tuesday turned down by a vote of about 7-to-2 a proposed subdivision of 8,100 lots.

The subdivision, called "My Ranch" by Oakland promoter Jeff Dennis, had been approved by a vote of 3-2 by the Mendocino County Board of Supervisors.

The referendum election was called after about 5,000 citizens signed a petition aimed at reversing the supervisors' vote.

With 31 out of 36 precincts counted Tuesday night, the vote was 6,585 against the subdivision and 1,848 in favor.

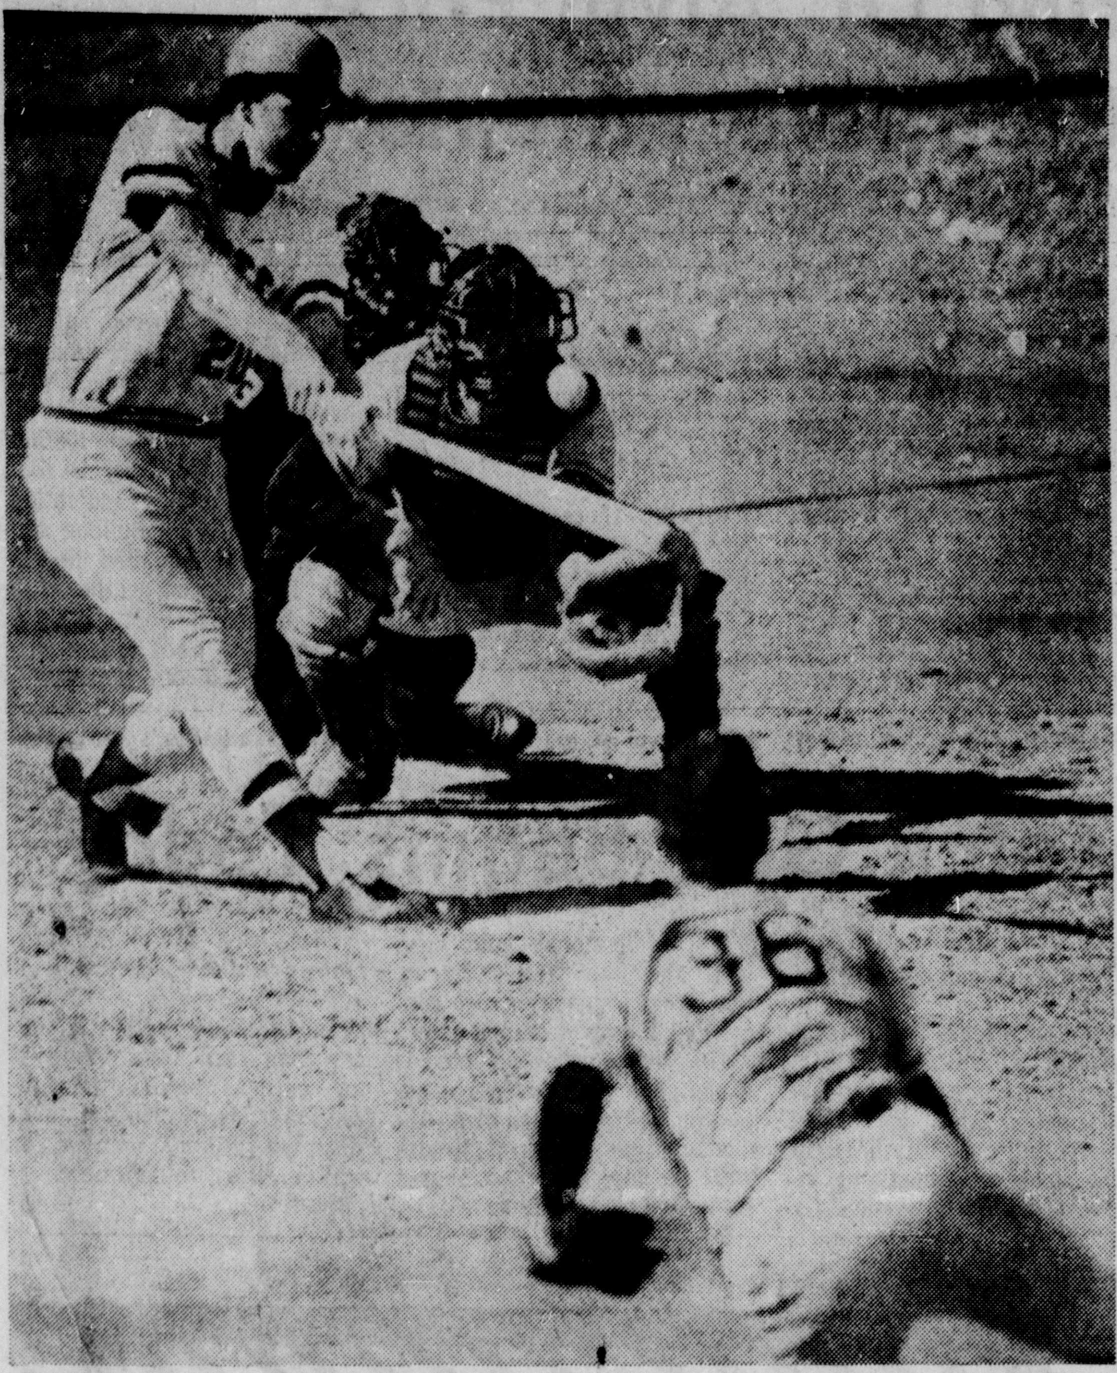
Pittsburgh Pirate Pitching On Spot Vs. Orioles



THERE IT GOES — Pittsburgh's Rich Hebner blasted this home run over the right field fence during the second inning of yesterday's close-out 9-5 victory over the San Francisco Giants. The homer, off Gaylord Perry, tied the score at 5-5. Catcher is Dick Dietz and umpire is Andy Olsen.

(UPI Telephoto)

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates, believing their pitching staff vindicated, headed for the World Series today worried more about an elbow and a thigh than about the Baltimore Orioles.

"We don't care if Paul Bunyon is pitching," said Willie Stargell. "We're going to beat them."

The elbow belongs to 19-game winner Dock Ellis and the thigh to Nelson Briles, but despite the injuries the Pirates are confident they will not suffer the same fate that Cincinnati's crippled pitching staff met in last year's World Series.

"My arm feels better," said Ellis, Pittsburgh's top winner, who created a storm when he labeled club officials "cheapskates" because of travel policies.

"We're ready for the World Series, and I'll be ready too," he said.

Only moments after the Pirates beat the San Francisco Giants 9-5 Wednesday to win the National League pennant, Manager Danny Murtaugh selected Ellis —if he is healthy — to pitch the Series opener Saturday at Baltimore.

It was one of the less-heralded members of the Pirates' pitching staff who did in San Francisco.

Bruce Kison, a fuzzy-cheeked 21-year-old righthander with only a half-season in the majors, picked up the biggest win of his career when he shut out the Giants on two hits in four and two-thirds innings of clutch relief.

Kison came in the game in the third inning when Willie McCovey singled and Bobby Bonds walked.

Dave Giusti then came in, struck out Dick Dietz to end the inning and set the Giants down in the eighth and ninth innings without a hit to record his third successive playoff save.

"The job (Bob) Johnson and Kison did in the last two games shows we have depth," Briles said. "It shows that our pitching staff has been underrated."

"With the added rest of three or four days I think I'll be ready to pitch in the Series," Briles said.

Clemente drove in the runs Hebner and Oliver did not get with their homers Wednesday.

He singled to score Dave Cash, who had singled, and Hebner, who had doubled, in the first inning and give the Pirates a 2-1 lead. San Francisco got an unearned run in its half.

The Giants scored their final four runs in the second on Chris Speier's homer, singles by Ken Henderson and Tito Fuentes and a three-run homer by tmc-Covey.

The Pirates were scheduled to fly to Baltimore today and work out Friday at Memorial Stadium.

"I knew I had to do the job," Kison said. "It was either today or never and I knew there was no reason to save it."

When Kison came in the score was tied 5-5 only because Richie Hebner hit a three-run homer in the bottom of the second inning after Steve Blass,

FOX SAYS

'Nothing To Be Ashamed Of; We Did All Right'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — San Francisco Giants manager Charlie Fox is an authority on the batting power of the Pittsburgh Pirates. He has seen enough of the evidence.

The Pirates collected 11 hits off the Giants Wednesday for a 9-5 victory in the fourth game of the National League playoffs that brought them the pennant.

But Fox still ponders one question: How will the Pirate pitching stand up against the Baltimore Orioles in the World Series?

"Pittsburgh better have good pitching in the Series," Fox said, in the visiting manager's office after the game Wednesday.

He sipped a Coke.

"They're savage with that bat, no doubt about that. And if they get any kind of pitching, they'll be tough," he said.

Beaten in three of four games in the playoffs, Fox naturally was disconsolate but his mood did not hide the pride he has for his players.

"We did well this year," he said. "Maybe we'll do better next year. We have nothing to be ashamed of. We played well."

Willie McCovey's three-run homer off starter Steve Blass gave the Giants a 5-2 lead in the second inning but the Pirates came back with an equalizer in the bottom of the inning when Richie Hebner hit a three-run homer.

"It was like a 0-0 game at that point until the sixth," Fox said, referring to Roberto Clemente's single which gave the Pirates a one-run edge and then Al Oliver's three run homer that put the game out of reach.

"When a team is hitting like the Pirates are, you must contain them," Fox said. "But then we had five runs and we should have won."

Juan Marichal pitched in the Giants last regular season game last Thursday when he beat San Diego to help his team win the Western Division title. He was the loser in Tuesday's playoff contest.

"If Juan only could have come back for another game in the playoffs..." Fox mused.

Romania Pair Key Tennis Upset Bid

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI)— Romania is relying on two members of its tennis team to snatch the coveted Davis Cup from the United States in the playoff beginning tomorrow.

Illie Natase and Ion Tiriac, two of the best clay court performers in the world, will play the doubles and two of the four singles matches on the clay courts of Julian J. Clark stadium.

It is possible for Natase and Tiriac to win for Romania regardless of the sucess of their teammates, Petre Marmureanu and Viorel Marcu.

Marmureanu and Marcu, ranked third and fourth in Romania, will play the other two singles.

The U. S. probably will play Stan Smith and Eric Van Dillen in the doubles, with Smith, Clark Graebner and Frank Froehling handling the singles matches. Dillen will play only doubles.

Broncos Get Colts Receiver

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — The Denver Broncos obtained wide receiver Gordon Bowdell from the Baltimore Colts via waivers Wednesday and also reactivated rookie offensive lineman Tom Beard, who was cut earlier in the season for the game with visiting Oakland Sunday.

Bowdell, 6-foot-2, 203-pounds, was the Colts' No. 7 draft choice from Michigan State. Beard, 6-6, 260 pounds, was the Broncos' No. 8 choice this year and was with Denver until the team made its final cut.

Head Coach Lou Saban said he would start working in more young players in the offensive platoon in hopes of correcting problems on the team.

However, Saban said he had no plans to do "a lot of wild things on offense and further put pressure on the defensive unit."

Saban said lineman George Goeddeke would be moved from guard to center, replacing the injured Larry Kaminski, who is out indefinitely, and that Sam Brunelli, who has been bothered by injuries, will be shifted to guard.

Saban said he also intended to continue with Don Horn as starting quarterback, despite the fact he has been intercepted 10 times in the last two games. Saban said the interceptions were not entirely Horn's fault.

The Bronco coach declined to elaborate on his decision cutting veteran tight end Jim Whalen. "We thought we could get along without Whalen," Saban said.

The Raiders indicated they would activate Hewritt Dixon and Charlie Smith for the Bronco game. Both are ostensibly first stringers although Marv Hubbard has been running so well at fullback that Dixon may

Fired Eagle Coach Blasts Ex-Boss

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—For more than two years of the frustration of watching his Philadelphia Eagles lose game after game, head coach Jerry Williams never lost his composure. On Wednesday, he lost his job and his temper, in that order.

Eagles owner Leonard Tose, citing a lack of progress, fired the former Canadian league coach and replaced him with defensive line coach Eddie Khayat for the rest of the season.

After he was "relieved of his duties," Williams, who seldom raised his voice despite a 7-19-2 record the past two years and 0-3 this season, blasted Tose as a man "without courage and character" and said the club tried to "bribe" him into resigning.

Pete Retzlaff, Eagles general manager, denied that Williams, who was in the last year of a three-year contract, had been offered a bribe.

"It wasn't figured on a dollar value," Retzlaff said. "For Jerry's future and his family I said maybe it would be better to resign. I suggested that if he did, maybe I would be in a position to better help him."

Tose said he thought Williams was a good fundamental coach "and until the recent statement I thought he was a fine gentleman."

Tose said "It is the first time I have ever been accused of not having courage."

"I like to think I'm a compassionate man,", Tose added "and what I did was a goodwill gesture."

The grim Williams read from a prepared statement in which he said he was fired at a time when he and the team were looking forward to "turning the season around and winning the respect that hard work deserves."

"Unfortunately, I was working for a man who is without courage and character," Williams added. "I was offered a sizable sum of money to resign, but to accept a bribe of that nature is to lower myself to his depths."

He then walked out.

Tose said the decision to replace Williams with Khayat, both of whom were former Eagles players, was made Tuesday night after three days of deliberation "because of our record."

"Look at the score of our last four games," he said, referring to a pre-season rout by the Detroit Lions and then lopsided league losses to the Cincinnati Bengals, Dallas Cowboys and San Francisco 49'ers.

"I thought I could improve our position with Eddie Khayat," Tose said.

The team's player representative, linebacker Ron Porter, said it was a "grave injustice that one man must bear the brunt of an entire organization's shortcomings."

"We as players have failed Coach Williams in our performance on the field and must take responsibility for what has happened," he said.

Khayat, 35, a star defensive lineman for the Eagles in 1960 when the club last won a championship, said he planned no drastic changes but added there "may be some new starters this week."

The former Tulane star was an assistant coach with the New Orleans Saints last year and ironically has his old boss, Tom Fears, as an assistant now.

"This is the best talent the Eagles have had in a long, long time, overall," said Khayat of the team that faced three 1970 divisional champions in its first three games and plays two more, Minnesota and Oakland, the next two weeks.

DEACON JONES HURT

49ers Better, Nolan Claims

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)— Coach Dick Nolan feels that his team is better right now than at the same time last year, but "so are the other teams."

The 49ers have given up just 3.0 yards per rush, an excellent figure, and Nolan Wednesday credited improved play by the defensive line and continued good performances by the linebackers and deep backs.

The Prospectors were eighth among 14 NFL National Conference teams in defense last year and are fourth this time around going into Sunday's battle with Los Angeles.

The 1971 defensive unit is actually almost identical to the 1970 one, but young defensive ends Tommy Hart and Cedrick Hardmann have profited from a year's experience and Earl Edwards starting at tackle for the departed Roland Lakes seems to cause a few more turnovers by the opposition.

Nolan also feels the offense is improved over last year's 10-3-1 team since the offensive line is spreading wider to help the running attack, but still seems to be able to protect quarterback John Brodie. The addition of Vic Washington to the starting backfield also has given the team a new threat.

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Rams may be without Deacon Jones, their All-Pro defensive end, when they meet the San Francisco Forty-Niners Sunday.

Jones is hobbled by a sprained arch on his left foot. He has been troubled before by the arch and reinjured it last Sunday in the Rams' victory over the Chicago Bears.

He was on crutches Wednesday at the Ram camp and took therapy on the foot.

Officially he was listed as questionable for the game at Candlestick Park.

Jones, in 11 years with the Rams, has never missed a regular season game.

Stanford Faces Sixkiller Saturday

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sonny Sixkiller-Don Bunce; Washington-Stanford; The subject is roses.

That's the story Saturday when the two giants of the Pacific Eight Conference, led by two of the nation's premiere quarterbacks converge in Seattle for what could prove to be a one-way ticket to the Rose Bowl.

Washington (4-0) has disposed of non league opponents California at Santa Barbara, Purdue, TCU, and Illinois as Sixkiller tossed eight touchdown passes and picked up 949 yards.

Stanford, led by Bunce's seven TD passes and 909 yards, lost its first game last week (93 to Duke) but previously rolled over Missouri, Army and Oregon. With Southern California the only other team rated a shot at the Pacific Eight crown, Sixkiller and Bunce may very well decide things even this early in the season.

In other key college games this weekend, Texas is a six-point favorite over Oklahoma, Michigan is rated 13 over Michigan State, Penn State 20 over Army, Georgia 10 over Mississippi, Ohio State 22 over Illinois, Colorado 17 over Iowa State, Kansas three over Kansas State, Southern California 12 over Oregon and Air Force 14 over SMU.

Top ranked Nebraska is a solid 21 points choice over Missouri while Notre Dame is 14 over Miami, Tennessee 10 over Georgia Tech, LSU 20 over Florida and North Carolina 10 over Tulane. The Washington-Stanford matchup is considered a toss-up.

"We have forgotten Duke and all that disappointment," Stanford coach John Ralston says. Right now we feel we'll be playing the best team in the Pacific Eight this Saturday in Seattle and that's all we're thinking about right now."

Last season, Stanford employed the arm of Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett to pull out a 29-22 win over the Huskies in the fourth period. Bunce has proven to be a worthy successor to Plunkett, but Sixkiller is a year older and wiser and will have a partisan crowd behind him this time.

The Texas-Oklahoma meeting matches up the No. 3 and No. 7 teams in a traditional grudge affair at neutral Dallas. The Sooners, with quarterback Jack Mildren complementing the running of Joe Wylie and Greg Pruitt, have won this grudge battle only once since 1958.

Warriors Drop Tilt To Sonics

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—The Seattle Sonics used a hot third-quarter and then outlasted the Golden State Warriors for a 103-101 pre-season National Basketball Association victory here Wednesday night.

The two teams were deadlocked 49-49 at the half but the Sonics outscored the Warriors by a 32-21 margin in the third quarter and then weathered a Golden State surge.

The victory gave the Seattle club a 7-2 exhibition mark with one more pre-season game left prior to the start of the regular NBA season.

FINAL INNING OF 1971

A very dejected San Francisco Giants manager, Charlie Fox, and slugger Willie McCovey (right) watched the final inning of yesterday's 9-5 loss to the Pittsburgh Pirates. The victory by the Pirates put them in the World Series and ended the Giants' 1971 playing days.

THOMAS REACTIVATED

Dallas Star On Bench

DALLAS (UPI) —Duane Thomas, the rampaging rookie of 1970, is back officially on the Dallas Cowboys' roster and available for duty, but it appears the man who ran for 803 yards a year ago may have to be content with a benchwarming role.

That is, barring crippling injuries to halfback Calvin Hill or fullback Walt Garrison, who have been performing excellently under the haphazard blocking conditions displayed by their teammates.

This is especially true of Hill, whose 3.7-yard average for 229 yards in 63 carries for three games is very misleading.

"Hill's running has been tremendous," Coach Tom Landry said. "He's been getting what he has without much blocking. If he gets the blocking, there's no telling what he might do."

Much the same is true in Garrison's case. Garrison also is averaging 3.7 yards on 29 carries, but he also is the club's leading pass receiver with 13 for 133 yards. Hill is No. 2 with 10 for 110 yards as Cowboy quarterbacks have favored the backs and tight ends over the wide receivers this year for the first time.

Thomas, who missed all of training camp and the preseason games because of a sometimes-vitriolic verbal battle with the club over renegotiation of his contract, has pleased Landry with both his physical and mental condition during the 10 days he's worked.

"Thomas is in good shape," Landry said. "It's amazing how much he has retained. We've been working him at both halfback and fullback and he's been running real well at both. And, his attitude is good —no different from last season.

"But, as for how much he will play —Monday night against the New York Giants, or later, just depends," Landry added.

Asked what the team's mental reaction might be in the wake of the 20-16 loss to Eastern Division challenger Washington last Sunday, Landry replied:

"Let's hope it shocks us into doing what we need to do. This Washington game wasn't as big as the next one against them."

Redwood Back First I-J Prep Of Week

DARYL EDRALIN
Touchdown man

Redwood High School halfback Daryl Edralin has amassed 221 yards for a 7.8 yard average and has scored 50 points in only three games to date.

Two of his seven touchdowns of the year came last Saturday in Redwood's 37-13 triumph over Drake, earning him the Independent-Journal's first Prep of the Week award of the season.

The 5-foot-11, 170-pound junior came to California six years ago, spending his childhood days in an isolated area in Hawaii. "We were too far away to participate in any organized athletics," he said.

Edralin wanted to play for his uncle's grid team in Hawaii "but I wasn't big enough." Undaunted, he accompanied his brother Bill, also a starting Giant halfback, and parents, Frank and Annie Wolverton on a Pacific Ocean voyage to California.

"My father was transferred here by his company, so we moved" to Tiburon, Edralin added. With the distance factor now eliminated, Edralin set out to play football — "because I like the contact. I had seen a lot of football, and I wanted to play."

Prompted by great inner drive, Edralin joined the Redwood Junior Giants seventh-eighth grade Pop Warner football team, and he soon earned a starting right linebacker slot, then shifted to quarterback.

He performed admirably at quarterback for coach Phil Roark's Giants last year. When starter Bob Brown was injured, Edralin filled in, completing 45 per cent of his passes, good for four touchdowns.

Though Edralin's performance was impressive during his emergency stint against powerhouses like Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools, he welcomed the change to halfback this fall.

"We already had three quarterbacks," he continued, "and I prefer running back; so I was happy with the move." And so is Roark; his charges are 3-0 while averaging 31 points per game.

Edralin hopes to help the team maintain the team's sizzling pace — and ultimately attend the University of Southern California.

The soft spoken student with a 2.8 grade point average, roughly a B- clip, prefers the Los Angeles-based school "because it has an excellent football program. I'd like to take part in it."

Chances are, coach John MacKay would welcome this lithe youth with fine, broken-field moves and great, in-class drive. That combination is tough to top, thus it would surprise no one if Edralin reaches his goal of becoming a good high school football coach.

The strong-willed youth has ruled out junior college matriculation. "I promised my parents I would be going straight to a four year institution," he said quietly.

If Daryl gets to USC on a football scholarship, he may thank a good friend — his brother Bill. "My brother always kids me when he gets tackled. He says, 'You're lucky I'm in here getting hit; this way, you get the holes' " needed to compile yardage.

"We're quite close," Daryl smiled proudly.

The lanky, dark complexioned athlete enjoys other athletic endeavors besides football. Last year, he batted .308 as the Giants' starting second baseman. He is also an avid body surfer.

"This summer," he enthused, "I returned to Hawaii for the first time, and I hit some 13 foot waves."

Should Edralin encounter an equal number of touchdowns, he may make some saves at USC.

PREP NOTEBOOK

Hard Hitting Of Alvin Price Prompts Conflicting Mentor Views

By RON LENT

The adage that "no two people see the same thing exactly alike" is valid when probing this year's Marin County Athletic League football exploits.

For example, Tamalpais High School defensive back Alvin Price slammed several Terra Linda High School ball carriers with great gusto last Friday at San Rafael High. The Trojan sideliners barked at Price for being "a hotdog."

Later, Price's coach Mike Davlin lauded his protege's play as "outstanding. He is a good , clean hitter."

In questioning the fans regarding Price's zealous play, the typical response was "who's he?"

MARIN CATHOLIC fans are all excited over the team's sudden turnabout after dropping the first two games. The Kentfield delegation promptly dumped two Santa Rosa teams, Piner and Cardinal Newman high schools.

With this sudden show of strength comes renewed talk of the Wildcat's re-entering the Marin County Athletic League football race.

If Banducci's squad rejoins the MCAL ranks, the list swells to eight and precludes the "byes" member team have this year.

A PICNIC atmosphere exists at Novato High School football games with numerous fans lying on the grass behind a roped off area in front of the stands.

Officials there voiced disapproval of the mass of bodies sprawled across the greens during the games, but no definite action has been taken to the eliminate this practice.

WHILE MOST MCAL observers marvel at the competitiveness of the varsity football competition, it might be wise they study over the soccer standings.

At present, Redwood, San Rafael high schools are tied for the lead with Tamalpais, Drake and San Marin closing in.

SAN RAFAEL High football fans are truly loyal, if road attendance is any indication. For example, the Bulldog supporters nearly equalled the Lincoln High throng gathered in San Francisco Sept. 18. The enthusiasm and crowd size awed the Lincoln fanatics — and so did the football team's play in San Rafael's 33-0 romp.

San Marin Runners Win First Meet

San Marin High School earned its first cross country victory this year, defeating Drake 25-30 on the winner's 2.7 mile course Tuesday.

Gary Lathop led the victors with a 15:03 clocking.

Picadilly Match Golf Begins Today

WENTWORTH, England (UPI)—Few professional golfers like match play events, in which one mediocre round can spell the end of the tournament. But if there's one the stars do look forward to it's the Piccadilly World match-play championship that began today.

The prize money of $60,000 of which the winner gets $20,400 is attractive, though not remarkable.

Even such stars as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player who are used to the best, get a kick out of the super-luxury treatment the eight invited competitors receive at this unique event.

It's professional golf in a style the late Walter Hagen, that great crusader of pro golfers rights, only dreamed about.

The Wentworth Club itself is in the center of London's stockbroker belt, an ultra-exclusive quarter that reeks of wealth with its big, detached houses set in secluded grounds.

There are more "private" notices on the roads that wind among the estates set in this heavily-wooded section of Surrey than road signs. Many of the gardens border the fairways of Wentworth's famous "Burma Road" course on which the tournament is played.

O's Pitching Questioned

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—It will take more than impressive statistics to convince the Pittsburgh Pirates that the Baltimore pitching staff is invincible.

Baltimore has four pitchers who won 20 games or more this season: Jim Palmer (20-9), Dave McNally (21-5), Pat Dobson (20-8) and Mike Cuellar (20-9).

"Those four pitchers are great," said Pirates batting coach Bill Virdon, who played centerfield for the Pirates when they won the World Series against the Yankees in 1960.

"But," Virdon said, "it remains to be seen how good they are against National League hitting this year."

In 1970, the Baltimore pitchers effectively throttled the Cincinnati Reds, who had won the National League team batting championship, by winning the Series in five games.

Pirates slugger Willie Stargell agrees with Virdon's "wait and see" attitude.

Stargell is also a little more positive about the outcome of the Series.

"We don't care if Paul Bunyon pitches for Baltimore. We're going to beat them."

That's tall talk from a man who went 0-for-14 during the playoffs for the National League pennant with the San Francisco Giants.

But Stargell, who led the majors with 48 home runs this season, is a big man (6-foot-2, 215 pounds) and if he says it's so you try to believe him.

"I'm not worried about them," Stargell said. "Wait 'till we get there."

The Pirates' batters may be anxious to get their licks against the Baltimore pitchers, but the Pirates' pitchers —two of them in particular —are thankful for a few days of rest before the Series starts in Baltimore Saturday.

Ellis, who was 19-9 this season, said Wednesday his elbow "feels better, but I'll find out for sure tomorrow."

Ellis has an appointment with team physician Dr. Joseph Finegold to have his elbow examined. However, the right-hander says: "We're ready, I'm ready too."

The other pitcher is Nelson Briles, who was supposed to pitch against the Giants Tuesday but pulled a hamstring muscle warming up for the game.

"It feels good," Briles said. "With the added rest of three or four days I think I can pitch in the Series."

Oklahoma-Texas Grid Clash Has Withbone-T Attack In Vogue

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

We're still more than a month away from Thanksgiving but football fans in the Cotton Bowl Saturday will be treated to plenty of wishbone when third-ranked Texas meets No. 7 Oklahoma.

Texas, which adopted the Wishbone-T offense under coach Darrell Royal several years back and proceeded to become one of the nation's most powerful teams, holds a commanding 42-21-2 advantage in the series between the two schools. Oklahoma has won only one game over Royal since 1958.

Oklahoma coach Chuck Fairbanks pulled a page out of Royal's playbook three years ago when he instituted the Wishbone in the Sooners' offense.

It took two years but the Sooners now appear to have mastered the formation that aligns the running backs in a T behind the center and have clobbered three opponents this season, scoring 118 points.

The key to the Wishbone is the quarterback, who must alternate between his straight ahead dive plays, his pitchouts and options around the end and his passing.

Oklahoma must be rated ahead of Texas in this department with Jack Mildren, the Sooners' second leading rusher with 7.5 yards per carry, going against substitute Donnie Wigginton. Wigginton is replacing Eddie Phillips, who is sidelined with a pulled muscle.

Despite Phillips' absence, Texas is rated a six point favorite over an Oklahoma team that features the running of Mildren, Joe Wylie and Greg Pruitt.

Pruitt rushed for 205 yards in 16 attempts last week as the Sooners buried Southern California, 33-20. He scored on runs of 42, seven and 75 yards against USC.

Wylie is the Sooners' third leading rusher, with 218 yards in 29 tries. He also is the team's punter and he returns kicks too.

Texas' big back is Jim Bertelsen, a power runner with good speed whom the Oklahoma defense will have to stop to win.

In other games No. 1 Nebraska is 21 over Missouri, No. 2 Michigan is 13 over Michigan State, fourth-ranked Alabama is 24 over Vanderbilt, No. 5 Notre Dame is 15 over Miami (Fla.) and sixth-ranked Auburn is 28 over Southern Mississippi.

Colorado, tied for the seventh spot with Oklahoma, is 17 over Iowa State, ninth-ranked Washington is pick 'em against Stanford, No. 10 Georgia is 10 over Mississippi.

Tennessee and Penn State, which are tied for the 11th position, are solid favorites. The Vols are a 10 point pick over Georgia Tech and the Nittany Lions are 20 over an upset-minded Army team.

No. 13 Ohio State is 21 over Illinois, 14th-ranked Arizona State is 14 over Colorado State, No. 15 Duke is 15 over Clemson, 16th-ranked Louisiana State is 20 over Florida, 17th-ranked North Carolina is 10 over Tulane and No. 18 Arkansas is 20 over Baylor.

Cal Alumni Group Sues In Curtis Case

BURLINGAME, Calif. (UPI) While athletic directors and faculty representatives of the Pacific Eight Conference discussed the Isaac Curtis case, a group of California alumni took the matter to court.

Curtis is the speedy University of California track and football star who was declared ineligible for NCAA events because he failed to take a 1.6 predictability test prior to enrolling at Cal. The NCAA took Cal's 1970 track title away and declared the Bears ineligible for the Rose Bowl.

Despite the NCAA ban, California officials decided to permit Curtis to play on grounds it was the school's fault and not the athlete's that he did not take the test.

The Pacific Eight met Wednesday to discuss the case, but spokesman John Harbugh of Stanford said that under no circumstances could he announce the conclusions reached at the meeting. It was presumed that conference presidents and chancellors will either meet or hold a telephone conference call to reach a decision.

In San Francisco meanwhile, the Golden Bear Athletic Foundation sued in U.S. District Court in San Francisco against the NCAA in behalf of Curtis and soph Larry Brumsey, another athlete who assertedly didn't take the test.

The suit attempting to lift the suspension asserted that the Aug. 21 NCAA action interfered with the foundation's activities.

RAIDERS

have problems getting his job back.

Defensive tackle Tom Keating, one of the quickest and wisest in the game, Wednesday was declared out of action for a month with a leg broken last Monday in the Raiders' 34-20 win at Cleveland.

Keating, a toughluck guy who missed the 1968 season with an achilles tendon tear, expressed some satisfaction that the break was a clean one without complications.

His injury leaves the Raiders with only six healthy defensive linemen. Carlton Oats is expected to start in place of Keating.

Bay Area Title Tilts Aborted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco Bay Area sports fans who follow both football and baseball today knew for sure that history really can repeat itself.

Last December, the San Francisco 49ers got to the doorway of the Super Bowl before losing their division playoff to Dallas 17-10. The San Francisco Giants then won the National League West, but were eliminated by Pittsburgh in four games.

Texas Western Tops

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) —The last team to win a NCAA basketball championship besides UCLA was Texas Western in 1966-67.

Ex-Denver End Irked By Cut

The 28-year-old Boston College graduate was released Tuesday in a surprise move by Bronco Head Coach Lou Saban. Even Whalen was stunned by the move.

"The thing that made me mad was that I was at practice and meetings all day Tuesday," he said. "They could have said something instead of calling me two minutes before it was on TV.

"I'd rather see them face to face and hear about it if I've done something wrong."

Whalen came under fire for his play in Sunday's 16-3 loss to Kansas City when he missed a block on linebacker Bobby Bell. Bell smashed into Bronco quarterback Don Horn, who lost the football in what led to the only touchdown of the day.

Whalen said he was willing to take full blame for the missed block on Bell, but said, "I don't want to be made the scapegoat and have my whole seven years based on that play. And that's what it looks like."

Whalen said the club had not given him any specific reason for being cut.

"The only thing I can base it on was that it was the one play, and Fred Gehrke (Personnel Director) indicated I might be getting old.

Fight Probe Set

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—A scheduled 10-round main event between Los Angeles middleweights Billy Hester and Clarence Geiggar was declared "no contest" Wednesday night when Referee Ferd Hernandez stopped the bout at 42 seconds of the sixth round because of "lack of action."

After five rounds, two judges had Geiggar, 162, ahead by one and two points and the other judge favored Hester, 163, by two.

In a scheduled 10-round co-main event, Marco Gerardo, 144, San Diego, Calif., scored a technical knockout when Tony Perez, also 144, Los Angeles, refused to answer the bell for the sixth round.

Gerardo was down in the second from a right to the jaw while Perez bled from a cut left eye from the fourth round on.

State officials at ringside announced the purses of Hester, Geiggar and Perez would be withheld pending a boxing commission hearing.

California Gets Goalie

OAKLAND (UPI)—The California Golden Seals ended their search for a goalie Wednesday by trading wing Tony Featherstone to the Montreal Canadiens in exchange for young Roy Martyniuk.

Martyniuk was Montreal's top draft choice a year ago and of all the Canadian players drafted that year he was the fifth pick.

Martyniuk has been training with the Seals, who open the National Hockey League season at home on Friday, for almost two weeks. He worked with the Seals on a loan basis until the club could make a trade for him.

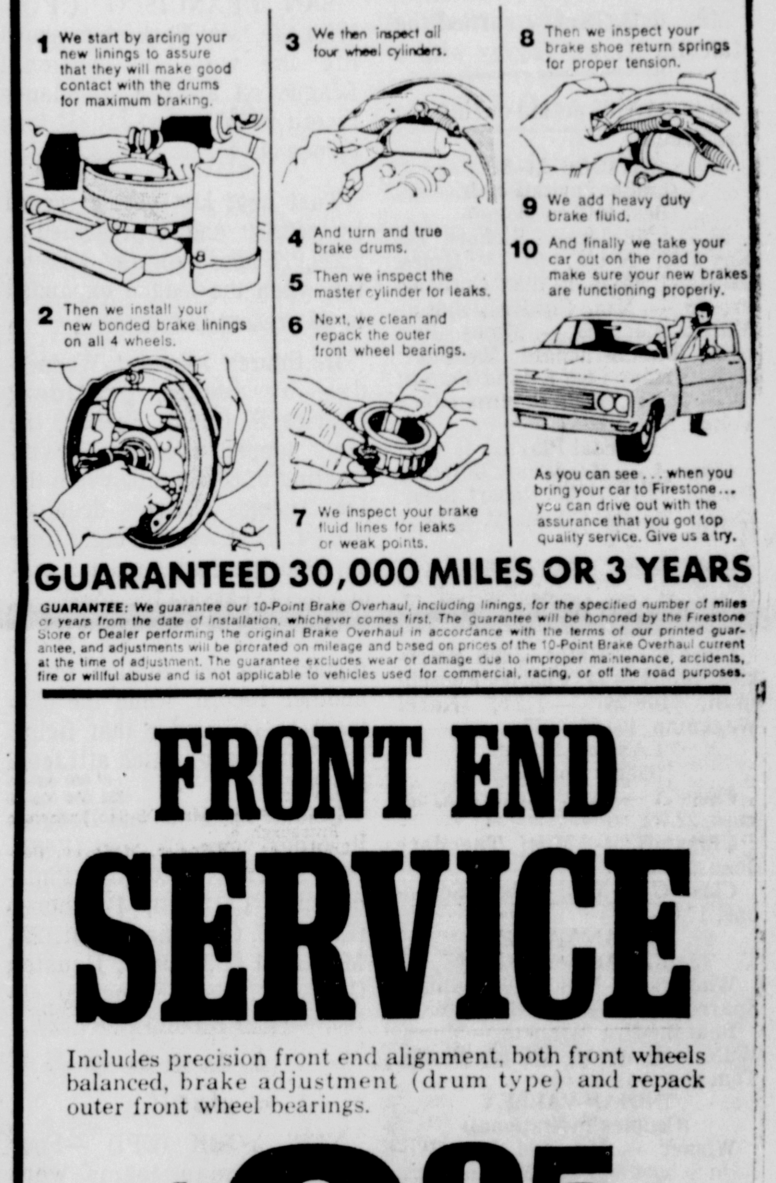
Guaranteed 10-Point Brake Overhaul

$44.88 Drum-type Brakes

Fords, Chevys, Plymouths and American Compacts. Other models higher.

When we overhaul your brakes, we do a lot more than reline them!



1 We start by arcing your new linings to assure that they will make good contact with the drums for maximum braking.
2 Then we install your new bonded brake linings on all 4 wheels.
3 We then inspect all four wheel cylinders.
4 And turn and true brake drums.
5 Then we inspect the master cylinder for leaks.
6 Next, we clean and repack the outer front wheel bearings.
7 We inspect your brake fluid lines for leaks or weak points.
8 Then we inspect your brake shoe return springs for proper tension.
9 We add heavy duty brake fluid.
10 And finally we take your car out on the road to make sure your new brakes are functioning properly.

As you can see . . . when you bring your car to Firestone . . . you can drive out with the assurance that you got top quality service. Give us a try.

GUARANTEED 30,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS

GUARANTEE: We guarantee our 10-Point Brake Overhaul, including linings, for the specified number of miles or years from the date of installation, whichever comes first. The guarantee will be honored by the Firestone Store or Dealer performing the original Brake Overhaul in accordance with the terms of our printed guarantee, and adjustments will be prorated on mileage and based on prices of the 10-Point Brake Overhaul current at the time of adjustment. The guarantee excludes wear or damage due to improper maintenance, accidents, fire or willful abuse and is not applicable to vehicles used for commercial, racing, or off the road purposes.

GOLDEN STATE WARRIORS

A Better Year Expected

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Added depth, more speed and permanent home for the first time in their bay area history makes the Golden State, nee San Francisco, Warriors confident for an improvement in the 1971-72 National Basketball Association season.

"For the first time since 1967 we have a surplus of talent in our pre-season camp, so some good players won't survive the final cut," says player-coach Al Attles, who guided the Warriors to a 41-41 record last season.

The club also reached the playoffs for the fourth time in the last five years, but was eliminated in the first round by NBA champion Milwaukee. Attles optimistically envisions a divison title this season.

"We are a greatly improved club," the coach declares. "We have added depth, more team speed, a lot more quickness up front and greater shooting ability."

The acquisition of five-year NBA veterans Cazzie Russell and Jim Barnett through off-season trades has given the club added depth among front-line talent. Rookies Odis Allison, Greg Gary and Cyril Baptiste also are counted on for help and may push some veterans off the roster.

Nate Thurmond, voted the NBA's top defensive center last season when he averaged 20.1 points and 13.8 rebounds, is a fixture at the pivot and healthy again after playing a full season for the first time last year.

Barnett, an aggressive 6-4 guard who averaged 18 points per game at Portland last season, joins holdover starters Jeff Mullins and Fritz Williams to give the Warriors three back-court performers of first-string stature.

Mullins, a 6-4 sharpshooter on the brink of stardom the last few seasons, led the Warriors in scoring last season with a 20.8 average, firing 48 per cent from the field.

He and the 6-3 Williams were among the NBA's free throw percentage leaders at 84 per cent and Williams was the Warriors top playmaker, averaging five assists per game.

Attles has announced a wide open battle for the two forward spots, with Clyde Lee, Bob Portman and Joe Ellis getting a big push from newcomers Russell, Allison and Baptiste.

"Nobody has a lock on a job at forward," says Attles. "We have a lot of mobility up front because Ellis and Allison both are good ballhandlers at 6-6 and could serve as swingmen between forward and guard.

"Russell gives us a lot more quickness and Lee can also do a good job giving Nate a breather now and then," explains Attles.

The Warriors acquired Russell in a swap with New York for Jerry Lucas, who led the club in rebounds last season but was often regarded as a liability because of his slowness afoot.

With Lucas gone, the sturdy Lee figures to have a better crack at more playing time at forward, where his 6-10 size should offset Lucas' loss on the boards. Thurmond also is expected to increase his boardwork.

Allison, who starred at Nevada Las Vegas, has been the big surprise of the rookie camp and is likely to stick. The club also has high hopes for the 6-9 Baptiste, a hardship draftee from Creighton.

Gary, from St. Bonaventure, and veteran Nick Jones also are in the guard picture—and it's no secret Attles would like to find enough talent to retire as an active player.

The personable pilot also enthuses over the prospect of playing all 35 Bay area home games at the spacious Oakland Coliseum arena, with six other "home" dates scheduled for San Diego.

"Having our own court will be a big advantage," Attles reasons. "In the past, we've been a standing joke around the league and sometimes even our players had to check the schedule to find out where we were playing."

National League's Attendance Mark

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—With the New York Mets showing the way, the National League set another attendance record in 1971 as 17,324,857 fans turned out for its games.

That beat last year's record by 662,659 and represented a 2,229,911 hike over the 1969 total, when the league expanded to its present 12 teams.

In figures released Wednesday by league president Charles S. (Chub) Feeney, the Mets topped everyone by attracting 2,266,680 fans while the Los Angeles Dodgers drew 2,064,594. That was the eight time the Dodgers had topped 2 million in 14 years on the coast.

Eleven of the 12 N.L. teams topped the one million mark, another record, while the only team to fall under that figure was San Diego, which attracted 530,000.

Behind the Mets and Dodgers in order were Chicago (1,653,007), St. Louis (1,604,671), Philadelphia (1,511,223), Pittsburgh (1,501,132), Cincinnati (1,501,122), Montreal (1,290,963), Houston (1,261,589), San Francisco (1,106,043) and Atlanta (1,006,320).

Golf

NEW YORK (UPI) —Four more two-man teams were named today to participate in the World Cup golf tournament, Nov. 10-14, at the PGA Golf Club in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.

Teams from Ireland, Scotland, Wales and England announced they had accepted invitations to participate in the 19th renewal of the classic.

Christy O'Connor and Hugh Jackson will participate for Ireland, Bernard Gallagher and Ronnie Shade will represent Scotland, Craig Defoy and Brian Huggett will play for Wales and Tony Jacklin and Pete Oosterhuis will represent England.

PGA champion Jack Nicklaus and U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino previously accepted invitations to represent the United States in the tournament. Australia is the defending champion.

Basketball

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Utilityman Keith Erickson will be lost to the Los Angeles Lakers from four to six weeks because of surgery on his right knee.

Erickson, 27, will be operated on next Thursday, Oct. 14, to remove a cyst from a tendon.

A six-year pro veteran, Erickson plays both forward and guard. He averaged 11.3 points a game last season.

Redwood Harriers Win Meet

Redwood High School varsity and frosh-soph cross-country teams extended their 1971 records to 3-0 yesterday with victories in a non-league meet in Petaluma.

The Redwood varsity barely edged Petaluma, 27-28, in a three-way meet in which Vallejo was last with 69 points. Petaluma High School's John Sisler set a course record, 13:51 over a 2.5-mile tour. Redwood's Eric Moller was second.

Spartans Set Mark

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan State University's 1971 baseball team won 36 games, more than any other club in Spartan history.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Northgate Industrial Park Has New Tenant — Holosonics

New to Northgate Industrial Park is Holosonics, Inc., which has taken space at 124 Paul Drive until permanent offices are ready in the La Plaza office building now under construction by Johnny Ribeiro, Builder.

Holosonics, based in Richland, Wash., is the developer and marketer of new acoustical "imagining" equipment used in industry to determine the interior construction of various materials without damaging them. Materials are "scanned" by sound waves, enabling researchers to analyze pictures similar to photographs that are formed.

The Northgate office is the district office for the 13 western states and is under the management of Ronald C. Peterson of Cotati, who has been with the organization about two years.

Lease arrangements were made through William W. Hoey and Co.

BUSINESS HAS BEEN EXPANDING for the Polynesian Shops, and through Hoey, owner Richard Marcus has leased an additional 1,820 square feet at 32 Hamilton Drive, Hamilton Industrial Park, Novato. This doubles the warehouse and office space he has been occupying since last January.

IN THE EAST SAN RAFAEL AREA, Hoey leases include one by Gregory C. Greenwood, who is moving his sound, security, antenna and control installation business Electronic Installation to 36 Belvedere from 823 Fourth Street.

This does not affect Electronics Plus at 823 Fourth — the retail store selling sound, stereo, high fidelity and electronic components — which will remain.

And at 50 Belvedere Street, Custom Pools, Inc., now at 91 Circle Road, and Plastic Craft, now at 922-B Lindaro Street, have leased through Hoey. Both firms should take occupancy sometime this month.

TERRENCE H. HOWARD of Santa Venetia has joined with Joel S. Coppersmith of San Francisco in the formation of a partnership to operate a general securities business under the name of Coppersmith and Howard, located at 256 Montgomery Street, San Francisco. He was formerly director of research at Waldron and Co. and has been a stockbroker for more than 11 years.

JOHN BARRIE JR. of Kentfield has been named manager of the newly opened Varner-Ward Leasing Co. financial district office in the Russ Building, San Francisco. He founded Western States Lease Corp. in 1958 after several years as western regional manager for Greyhound Leasing. When Western States was sold to Paragon in 1968 he stayed president of Paragon-Western Lease until Paragon was sold to Oxford First Corp. in Philadelphia.

RICHARD H. MALLOCH of Sebastopol, manager of Wells Fargo Bank's San Anselmo office, has been named an assistant vice president. He was previously assistant manager of the Sonoma office and then manager of the Novato office.

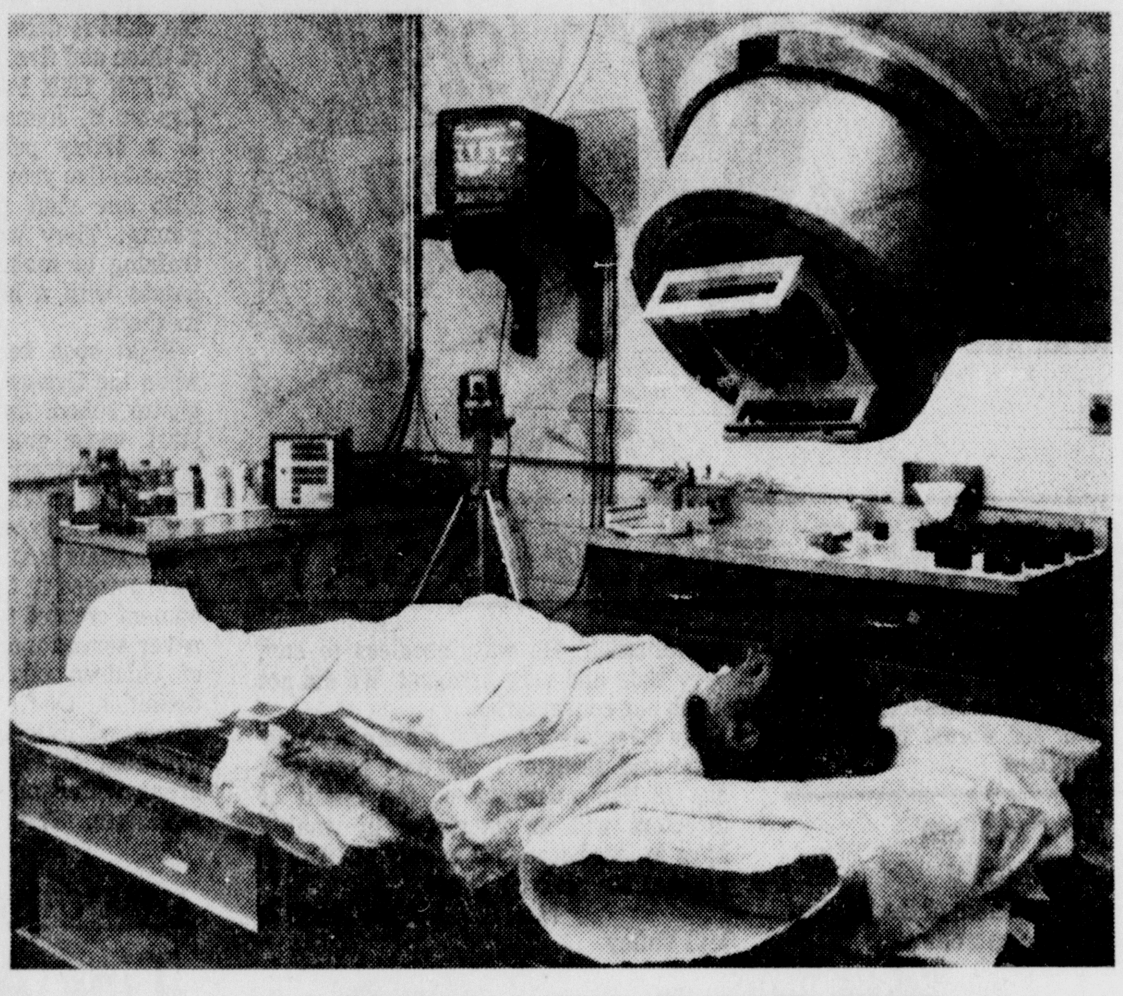
INSURANCE: James L. Placek of San Rafael has qualified for the 1972 President's Club of Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. This is his 11th consecutive year in the club.

Sales Are Down

GARDEN GROVE (BW) — Air Industries Corp. has reported sales of $7,233,052 and net income of $6,160 for the fiscal year ended June 30. This compares with sales of $8,438,749 and a net loss of $842,734 for the previous fiscal year.



HANDS-OFF CANCER TREATMENT

This unique cancer radiation therapy system, is now in use at University of Wisconsin hospitals. A minicomputer (top picture), acting on instructions contained on a personalized ⅛-inch-wide tape cassette, controls a huge linear accelerator (bottom picture). The completely hands-off system also allows personnel to review patient history instantly through a computerized printout.

Airline Figures Up Over 1970

This was an increase of five per cent over the 375,393 passengers and eight per cent above the 287,879,000 revenue passenger miles flown in the same month last year.

The airline offered 803,803,000 available seat miles during the month, 5 per cent less than the 848,318,000 flown in September 1970, J. Dan Brock, vice-president of traffic and sales, said. The load factor was 39 per cent of available capacity, compared with 34 per cent last year.

Early Hour Averages Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) —Profit taking cut deeply into a sharp, early advance on Wall Street today, but market averages still pointed higher after about two hours of trading.

Prices were firm in moderately active trading on the American stock exchange.

On the Big Board, chemicals were mostly higher in fractions, while steels, motors, rails, airlines, and aircrafts traded in mixed fashion. Oils and electronics showed scattered strength.

Among the most active stocks were Glen Alden up 1-4, Planning Research 1-8 lower, Martin Marietta down 1-8, Standard Oil of California unchanged, and Ford up 3-4.

Rapid American warrants, the most active Amex issue, was about unchanged on a volume of around 60,000.

Another item spurring demand for stocks at the outset was a government report that wholesale prices decline 0.4 per cent in September, the first full month under Nixon's 90-day wage-price-rent freeze. the Bureau of Labor Statistics said the decline, adjusted for seasonal factors, was the first drop in wholesale prices in 10 months.

Board Evaluates Accrual Accounting

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. The Horizon Corp. (OTC) recently published earnings for the year ended May 31 at $5.38 a share. Subsequently articles appeared indicating that methods used by land development companies to determine earnings might not be in keeping with sound accounting principles. Please give your opinion. — R.A.

A. In April 1970 the Accounting Principles Board announced the formation of a review board to evaluate the accrual method of accounting being used by land developers to determine earnings. Although an opinion has been finalized by the APB, interpretation of the recommendations will take time. Discounting of receivables at a 9 per cent rate, with no discount applied to payables, has been suggested. If this method is adopted and is also applied to long-term contracts the effect on older established companies' earnings will not be serious. Since that portion of receivables which are discounted accrued to subsequent years, by the 11th year earnings are 96 per cent of those reported under current methods.

For a company such as Horizon Corp., which was established in 1959, and has a broad margin of profitability, restatement on the above method would reduce earnings for the 1971 fiscal year from $5.38 to around the $5 level. The uncertainty which has hung over land development issues as a result of possible accounting changes may soon be resolved. If rulings are as favorable as it now appears, shares may again be attractive for long-term growth.

Q. I would like to have some mutual fund shares made over to my grandchildren as a gift. How do I go about it? — F.F.

A. Your request should be directed to the mutual fund, itself, not the distributor or management company. The specified number of shares should be made out in each child's name with either parent or yourself as custodian, under the Uniform Gift to Minors Act. Since a child may earn up to $1,700 annually without incurring any federal income tax liability, make certain that you use the child's social security number and not that of the custodian or donor.

Record Car, Truck Sales For Dodge

DETROIT (BW) — Dodge division registered all-time records for both car and truck sales for the month of September, closing out the 1971 model year with 552,872 car sales, and an all-time model year for Dodge truck sales of 157,151.

Model-year car sales were the best in three years — since 1968, when a record 585,289 were sold.

The final 11-day spurt in September resulted in 25,722 car sales, nearly double the amount for the same period a year ago, and helped give the company its best September in its 57-year history. The 51,358 cars sold was up 63 per cent from the same month a year ago. The previous September record was in 1969 when 46,067 units were sold.

September truck sales of 13,117 were the best in 22 years. The previous high of 13,073 was set in 1949.

Dodge also set an all-time model year record for its compact Dart line with 228,760 sales compared to the previous high of 192,574 set a year ago.

In the Coronet/Charger and Polara/Monaco lines, sales rose 98 per cent and 122 per cent, respectively, in September compared to a year ago.

Third Quarter Earnings Increase

CHICAGO (BW) — Hart Schaffner & Marx has reported its third quarter earnings up 10 per cent.

Earnings for the quarter ended Aug. 31 were $2,525,000, or 29 cents a share, compared with $2,290,000, or 26 cents a share, in 1970. Sales for the quarter were $90,278,000, or 4 per cent higher than the $86,790,000 for the 1970 quarter.

Second Corte Madera Firehouse Mere Decoy

Corte Madera has a fire protection problem.

That is, of course, no news to some 100 residents of East Corte Madera who thronged to this week's town council meeting to protest the lack of protection — a lack made painfully evident when three homes on Constitution Drive burned last month.

The answer the protestors got from the council, however, was pretty much the usual one: We agree there should be more firemen, but we don't have the funds.

THERE IS A HOLLOW ring to this answer in the case of Corte Madera, for this reason: It has a fire station, built five years ago, in East Corte Madera. But there is nobody to man the station.

When the homes on Constitution Drive caught fire, two trucks were sent from the main fire station on Tamalpais Drive, across town and across Highway 101. Then it was necessary to send some of the men from those trucks to the East Corte Madera station to take its truck to the fire scene. Thus the equipment in East Corte Madera was considerably later reaching the fire than that which had to make the long drive across town.

It goes without saying that this left a shortage of skilled firefighters to contend with the blaze.

The situation has been this way ever since the second firehouse was built in 1966.

THE CORTE MADERA Fire Department, like those in other small cities in Marin, depends heavily on volunteers. It has only five paid firemen — including Chief Frank L. Nelson.

During the daytime, however, few volunteers respond to an alarm: they are mostly at work. A couple of years ago, Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher came up with an original "solution": deputizing other town hall employees as auxiliary firemen.

This puts a few more bodies on the trucks when they roll from the main fire station. But these public employee volunteers are not trained firefighters. Nor are they numerous enough to make up for the daytime lack of volunteers.

IT SHOULD BE OBVIOUS to anyone that there is little point in building and equipping a second fire station without manning it: There is no additional fire protection for East Corte Madera because of a fire truck sitting in an unattended station.

The town council's "no money" reply cannot be taken at full value in the light of the circumstances. The council had no business building a second firehouse if it did not plan to man it. And certainly in the five years since it was built, intelligent budgeting should have put that manning — with trained firemen — in high enough priority ot make sure it was funded.

Maybe the second firehouse was a kind of decoy. Maybe East Corte Madera residents imagined it gave them additional protection — until they found out the truth.

Bar Fails To Defend Its Reason For Being

SACRAMENTO — If I were an attorney with a love for my profession and a deep concern for justice, I'd be worried. Worried sick.

A small handful of deliberate wreckers — aided and abetted by incompetent practitioners and weak-kneed judges — is destroying the system. The legal profession is in disrepute; the courts are in a crisis.

In such a state, there is no justice and little esteem for the lawyer.

Take a look at what's happening, if you haven't already.

THE COURTROOMS of the state are being turned into circuses, sometimes seats of anarchy. Members of the bar curse the judges, and damn the courts. With calculated cunning they mock the process, then dare to demand it be stretched beyond its warp to protect their rights. And seldom any officer of the court lifts a hand to stop them, punish them, or disbar them.

Criminal trials are delayed by trickery; cases which should be tried in a month or two at the most become extended marathons, lasting more than a year. Justice becomes a sick joke.

Attorneys roam the campuses. When they leave, riots and vandalism burst forth. Others march the streets and mount the platform to incite violence and "death to the pigs." Still others crowd the visiting rooms of the prisons. When they leave — terror, rebellion and death.

Are there no ethics in your professions? Are such actions acceptable hallmarks of a once honored calling?

The public demands reform. Yet there is no reform. The State Bar does nothing and the State Supreme Court follows suit.

IT WAS ALL THIS, and more, that moved the state attorney general, Evelle Younger, to dispense with niceties when he address the 44th annual convention of the California Bar Association recently.

"The system is on the verge of collapse," Younger told the lawyers. "Lay people everythere are expressing an increased restless and dissatisfaction with the legal process and those who carry it out."

In plain and simple language he told them that when it came to reform "the organized bar was leading the march. . . from a position well in the rear." And he cited two examples to prove it.

First, the matter of professional proficiency. Hiring the very best attorney available; that was the way it used to be. But, not now. Today the trick is to hire an incompetent. Then, if the decision goes against the defendant, he can appeal on the grounds of inadequate representation.

During this session of the Legislature, Younger reminded the bar, it was asked to support a measure to limit legal representation in capital cases to attorneys judged to be competent. The board of governors of the bar opposed the bill.

YOUNGER'S SECOND example involved "the case of the attorney whose laziness, incompetence or hostility to the entire legal system leads him to behave in a manner deliberately dilatory, provocative, antagonistic and disruptive.

Such a lawyer can be held in contempt. But a fine or a few days in jail may only serve as welcome publicity for his cause.

"Yet, while an attorney can be disciplined by the State Bar and the Supreme Court for drunkenness, for drug addiction, and for stealing from his clients, he cannot be disciplined for striking at the very foundation of the law."

And, Younger reminded the Bar Association, a proposal to close this gap by legislation was greeted by "guardians of the bar" with "wary neutrality."

THERE ARE, without question, thousands of outstanding and reputable attorneys in California. They practice with professional skill and with a commitment to the highest code of ethics, dedicated to justice.

But they harbor within their ranks a small corps of attorneys who are frantic in their anarchy and shrewd in destructive cunning. They are killing the public's faith in the entire legal profession and the workings of criminal justice.

It is time the attorneys cleaned up their house. At this time silence is not golden, just yellow.

Shocked At Cancelling Of Dental Clinic

I read with shock your headlines "Orthodonture Clinic Cancelled," Page 9 in the Independent-Journal dated Oct. 5. I am appalled as an English woman living, I feel, in the most wealthy part of California, that these children, in fact all children, do not have the proper care and attention for their teeth. I feel that any orthodontist worth his salt could take one child free of charge. Maybe he would learn something to his advantage from this one case, if only to learn how to be a human being!

Plumbers' Union Inn Target Of Complaints

I am writing this letter in regards to the beautiful San Francisco Plumbers Union (Local 38) installation called Konocti Harbor Inn, located at Clear Lake, Calif.

My family and I have been frequent visitors to this lovely spot and unfortunately, this year, the first five days of our 19-day stay were very bad. A number of things occurred because of poor management. Enjoying this place as much as we do, I thought it best to contact Mr. Joseph Mazzola, president of the S.F. Plumbers Union, to tell him of these occurrences rather than write a lengthy letter which perhaps he might never see. I called his office some weeks ago to make an appointment and his secretary said that he most certainly would want to see me after she heard some of the complaints. He, unfortunately, did not feel as she did because when I called again five days ago to make a definite appointment, he got on the telephone and told me he was much too busy to make an appointment with me, that he had already sent my letter of complaints up to Konocti (a letter that has not yet been written, so what letter is he referring to?) he has 19 irons in the pot, was in and out of his office all day long and I would have to be satisfied with a telephone conversation. He was, needless to say, very rude and very arrogant. We did not finish our conversation.

My complaints against the inn are very valid and serious. I can only hope that one of the members of the board of directors will be interested in what I have to say because it is very obvious to me that Mr. Mazzola is not.

Letters On Desires For Seashore Urged

To all lovers of Point Reyes Seashore: there is still time to send a written statement to the National Park Service. Mail it on or before Oct. 23, and it will become part of the permanent wilderness hearing record.

If you are a hiker or biker, write how you feel about more automobiles, parking lots, and paved roads in the seashore. If you love birds, ask for wilderness protection of Drake's Estero, Limantour Spit, and the area adjacent to the Point Reyes Bird Observatory.

If you are a student, remind the park service that there will soon be no places left to study marine biology, botany, or zoology if destruction of wild, natural areas continues at its present rate. Wilderness designation would help to protect some of these areas.

We cannot do much about coastal land in private ownership, but we can affect what happens to public lands. Write a seashore letter tonight, and mail to: Supt. John L. Sansing, Point Reyes National Seashore, Point Reyes, Ca. 94956.

Do What God Wills, Not What You Want

I would like to add a supplement to Dr. Margaret Mead's basic speech to an audience of over 2,000 at the College of Marin last Wednesday evening. Also, I would like to make a rebuttal to her words, "Both men and women are going to be free to do what they want to do for the first time in the history of the world." This is apparently not what she wants to see, but nevertheless, it was put into print and it becomes a compulsion on the part of the writer to counter such a statement with one word, "nonsense."

Foolish statements like this should automatically bring out strong feelings in all of us of our responsibility to God to try and contribute to life instead of falling in with such beliefs as this which tend to set a trend of wrong thinking in young minds, as well as in old ones. They contribute to the already broken-down thinking which is destroying the spirit in humanity. . .

Life is of love, since the creator of it is love, and it is the only basis on which it can exist. True love between man and woman is the only basis on which life can continue to exist in this world of flesh. If man and woman took this wrong belief to heart and started disobeying the wants of the creator (freelancing with life, in other words, and putting aside all obligations to conform to God's ways) then true love would be completely destroyed. . .

Disoriented minds which pick up scattered sediments of intelligence that have veered off from the main course of mind, having become twisted and warped through ill interpretation, are the minds which destroy the true effects of mind entity. These minds take a piece of wisdom and run with it, and spread it, and never take cognizance of how they came by it, or whether it destroys the pattern of life or contributes to it. The want to promote a self-image of intelligence to the world is the main cause of this folly.

My apologies to Dr. Mead, but judging by the true content of her speech, I am sure she is seeking the same objective as I am seeking.

Mondale Child-Care Program Goes Far Beyond Head Start

WASHINGTON — In today's political vocabulary, busing has explosive connotations. You are either for busing and a liberal or against it and a conservative if not a yacist . Lost sight of in the emotion it arouses is what the net effect may be on the education of the young.

Breaking the frozen pattern of segregation in North and South is a goal hard to quarrel with. Whether the device of busing to achieve this goal exacts too heavy a penalty on both those bused long distances to another neighborhood and those schools that receive them is the doubtful factor. Here is another instance of a deep-seated social ill — the woeful deficiencies of public education — calling for a direct, large-scale attack, with busing hardly more than a poultice.

The child from a ghetto school enters a once nearly all-white school with a definite handicap. To overcome this handicap a program called Headstart was initiated, based on the findings of child specialists that the intellectual development of the child is determined between the ages of three and five.

WITH THE PARTICIPATION of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, the program got off to a highly publicized beginning. The three-to-five year olds would be in classes with one staff member for every five young. They would have specialized training to make up for deficiencies in homes with a high average of working mothers.

What soon became evident was that when the five-or-six-year-old entered the ghetto school the gains made in Headstart were quickly lost. This was a perfect illustration of the need for direct, massive assistance to public education. A poultice simply would not suffice.

Headstart is still a going program. It is incorporated in the Office of Child Development created two years ago. But it has never served more than a small fraction of children eligible under the poverty definition. One estimate is 10 per cent; Headstart officials put it higher. Forty per cent of the children are in rural areas, with each state getting a statutory minimum. The program is currently budgeted at $360 million, with a proposed increase to $377 million to take care of inflation.

BUT NOW a comprehensive child-care program has been adopted by an overwhelming vote in the Senate. Sponsored by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., it provides for care of the mother during pregnancy, a greatly expanded Headstart with children taken at age three, and after-school help up to 14. Rather than the poverty deadline, the cut-off is for family incomes at $6,900 or below.

Mondale, chairman of a subcommittee on child development, says an estimated six million preschool children are left with little or no care by working mothers. The phenomenon of the working mother has grown steadily in the past decade. Most of the children are simply locked up during the mother's absence and left to the mercy of older brothers and sisters.

Adopted as an amendment to the poverty bill by a vote of 46 to 17, the child-development program calls for an authorization of $2 billion. It will be another test of the Nixon veto, since it far exceeds the President's spending level.

As for busing, it continues to be a hot political issue. Mr. Nixon has given it the back of his hand, with the warning that it should be resorted to only in the narrowest prescribed limits. And he has made his secretary of health, education and welfare toe the mark whatever his private feelings on the subject may have been.

AS A TEMPORARY expedient to ease the tensions rising over the gap between white schools and black schools, busing may have been essential. But it is only expedient, and the end result in the education of the young is still to be assessed.

The need is for a broad attack on the deficiencies, the tragic lacks, in public education. The Mondale child-development program is a beginning. It recognizes that Headstart has to date been only a pilot project, too little and often too late. The neglected, the rejected child will be tomorrow's dropout or, worse, tomorrow's crime statistic.

Tiny Albania May Score U.N. Coup Over Mighty U.S.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the lobbies of the United Nations, the Albanians are known as amiable men, easy to talk to and friendly. They are family men who like to talk about life in their country.

Person-to-person their conduct bears little resemblance to their country's reputation as a grim hermit of Europe, by choice cut off from both the Communist East and the capitalistic West, its only real friend Communist China many thousands of miles away.

Last July, Ambassador Sami Baholli took special pains to place early on this General Assembly session's agenda, Albania's demand that Communist China be given China's U.N. seat.

After this step to insure a priority position for his resolution, he left to attend his daughter's wedding, leaving his opposition to scramble for a strategy it hoped would defeat him.

AND THEREIN lies an anomaly.

For the last 10 years, Albania, one of the U.N.'s smallest members, has been the chief sponsor of membership for mainland China whose nearly 800 million population make it the world's largest nation.

And this year its chances for success are rated better than at any time in the past.

The United States, in the midst of a policy change toward China, this year has abandoned efforts to keep Red China out of the U.N. Instead, it supports twin resolutions, one admitting Red China and giving it China's seat in the Security Council, and the other preserving a seat for Nationalist China in the General Assembly.

But even the United States admits the possibility of defeat for its proposal by the Albanian plan which simply would expel the Nationalists and turn over all U.N. seats held by them to Peking.

For Albania, a hard-lining Communist state of only about two million people, a victory on behalf of their Chinese friends over the United States would indeed be a coup. Since siding with the Chinese when the latter broke with the Soviet Union over the interpretation of communism, the Albanians have stood alone in Europe.

IN KEEPING with its size and moderate means, Albania maintains only a small delegation at the U.N., its numbers never going over seven or eight.

Economically, the Albanians used the 1950s and 1960s to lift themselves by their own bootstraps from prewar poverty. Real income has jumped ahead at an 8.6 per cent clip over the last five years. The gross national output is said to equal in one week the entire output for 1938.

Into Western Europe the country is shipping increasing quantities of fruits and vegetables. It is the world's fifth largest exporter of chromium ore.

And for the next five years it has ambitious plans to expand its metallurgical, chemical, fuel and electric industries as it further exploits its large oil and ore deposits.

Senators The First To Go, But Maybe There'll Be Others

WASHINGTON — The Washington Senators baseball team, after playing in the capital for 71 years, has left for Texas. The elation in Dallas and Fort Worth over this turn of events can only be ascribed to the fact that no one in that part of the country has ever seen the Senators play.

The reason for the exodus was poor attendance, which Mr. Robert Short, the owner of the team, said was costing him a fortune. What worries people here is that the Senators may be the first of many institutions that might decide to pull out. out.

Perhaps in the next few years we will be reading the following press releases:

WASHINGTON, D.C. — House Speaker Carl Albert announced today that he was moving Congress to Fort Wayne, Ind., at the end of the season. "The Washington fans just don't seem to want to support Congress," Albert said at a press conference. "At our last night session we had only five people in the gallery and our cafeteria has been running a deficit for two years. Fort Wayne is very excited about having a major branch of the U. S. government in its town, and we're looking foward to playing there for many years to come."

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The British Embassy has just made it official. It is moving from Washington, D.C. to Palm Beach, Fla. A spokesman for the embassy said the decision was made reluctantly by the ambassador but the turnouts at the queen's birthday party reception had been so poor that he had no choice. "It's obvious to us that Washington doesn't want a British Embassy, despite all the talk," the spokesman said. "We've had offers from all over the country to move our team and we've decided on Palm Beach because they've guaranteed a full turnout for every one of our receptions."

LAS VEGAS, NEV. — Mayor Byron Lovemaster has just confirmed that Las Vegas has finalized a deal to bring the U.S. Supreme Court to Las Vegas. The mayor told Hank Greenspun of the Las Vegas Sun that he considers the Supreme Court one of the best tourist attractions in the country, as it will bring in lawyers and defendants from all over the land.

"We sent a delegation to Washington, and we think we made the best presentation. Miami and San Juan, P.R., both made bids for the court, but we won out when we promised to build an all-weather Supreme Court building with Astroturf in each of the justices' chambers. We can get 50,000 people in the new court building at one time."

(Chief Justice Burger confirmed Mayor Lovemaster's announcement. "We're going to miss Washington," he said on the "Today" show. "But while most people here said they were behind the Supreme Court, they wouldn't come out for our decision. Las Vegas sounds like a great Supreme Court town.")

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A blue-ribbon delegation consisting of lawyer Edward Bennett Williams, Mayor Walter Washington and City Council Chairman Gilbert Hahn paid a visit to President Nixon this morning in a last-minute effort to persuade him not to move the White House to Lincoln, Neb. Mr. Nixon said he had no choice. The people in Washington did not appreciate a president in their town, and he blamed criticism by the news media for the lack of support for the present administration. Mr. Nixon said:

"It's always a tragedy when a city loses a White House, but there are other things that have to be taken into consideration. Nebraska has the No. 1 football team in the country, and I believe a president of the United States should always be in town with the No. 1 team."

Muskie Confronted Again On Race Issue

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has issued another explanation of his statement that a black candidate for vice president would be a handicap to the ticket.

Muskie was one of four persons mentioned as possibilities for the Democratic presidential nomination who were in town Wednesday. As has often been the case lately, the Maine senator again found himself discussing the black vice president statement.

At a news conferencen Muskie said his statement in Los Angeles was not intended to be a decision.

"In Los Angeles, I made the point that blacks are not in a position of equality, whether it's political opportunity, job opportunity, educational opportunity or any other areas to improve themselves," he said.

He was specifically asked about his statement that a black vice presidential candidate would be a handicap on the ticket.

"Oh yes, I was saying that," he said. "But that was not a decision, this was an opinion of the present status of blacks in terms of political opportunity in America."

Later he spoke to a Liberal Party banquet and said America's liberals have not responded correctly to such issues as taxes, poverty, hunger and particularly, crime.

"While some politicians pandered to people's fears with swift and easy answers, most liberals responded first by ignoring the issue of crime, and then by denouncing those who pointed to the problem," he said.

"Liberals let others create the impression that law and order was a black versus white issue. . . And so we forfeited the support we should have gained for the rule of law."

He said liberals must learn to "respond when an issue like rising crime threatenes the safety and confidence of our citizens."

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota said if he is elected president he would first end the war and second "grant general amnesty," to young men who fled the country or went to jail rather than fight in Southeast Asia.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, who until recently was a Republican, said Nixon administration programs catered to big business and the privileged classes, while excluding much of America.

Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma appeared with Muskie and McGovern at hearings of the New York State Democratic coalition. Harris called for decentralization of big city governments into smaller elected community boards.

Judge Sees No Evidence Of Attica Harassment

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)—A federal judge refused Wednesday to bar Attica state prison personnel from harassing inmates, on the grounds there was no evidence that such abuse is continuing.

U.S. District Judge John T. Curtin was to hold a hearing today on whether to grant an order directing state officials to permit newsmen-inmates interviews. Newsmen claim they have been denied interviews with the inmates since the Attica revolt in which 42 persons died ended Sept. 13.

In his decision Wednesday, Curtin dismissed a suit brought by the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) in behalf of all Attica inmates. The suit claimed violatiions of the convicts' constitutional rights.

Herman Schwartz of the ACLU said the attorneys had not decided whether to appeal the ruling or continue the suit in federal court in behalf of the inmates as individuals instead of as a class.

"There is no question that the beatings, running of the gauntlet, the racial slurs, nighttime harassment, threats of future injury and reprisal and the destruction of legal materials, books and other property should not have occurred and should not be permitted to occur in the future," Curtin said.

Man Arraigned On Assault Counts

A 47-year-old San Rafael man was arraigned Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court on two counts of assault with a deadly weapon and one count of theft.

Richard Louis Fowler, 509 Canal Street, will enter a plea on Oct. 18 to the charges he beat up a 44-year-old San Rafael woman and stole $100 from her on Sept. 18.

Mary Pickford Films Scheduled

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the first time in 40 years, a series of Mary Pickford's finest films will be shown commercially in New York, it was announced Tuesday.

The decision to release the films, which will first be shown Oct. 15, was prompted by the interest in a recent series of Miss Pickford's movies shown on a noncommercial basis.

Among the films to be released are "My Best Girl," "Birth of a Legend," "Pollyanna," "Daddy Long Legs," "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," "Poor Little Rich Girl," and "Little Annie Rooney."

Border Clash

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Indian border security forces and Pakistani army troops clashed Monday near Muktapur village on the border between the Indian Meghalaya state and East Pakistan, the Press Trust of India news agency reported today.

Campaign Spending Bill Clears Hurdle

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Commerce Committee has approved a campaign spending bill that Democrats claim will end the election of candidates by television blitzes.

But Republicans argued the measure is loaded with loopholes and should be vetoed by President Nixon.

The committee completed action on the bill Wednesday after weeks of bitter partisan feuding that could ultimately dash hopes of reforming campaign financing laws.

The committee voted 23 to 20 to set a 10 cent per voter limit on spending by federal candidates for broadcast advertising, not more than half of which an be spent for radio and television.

The committee's 18 Republicans had fought hard for a 10-cent limit within which a candidate could allocate sums as he wished for advertising in newspapers, magazines, or on radio and TV.

Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., who rounded up the Democratic votes to defeat the Republicans, said the 50 per cent provision will prevent tv blitzes and keep well-financed candidates from buying Senate and House seats.

But GOP members of the committee led by Rep. Louis Frey Jr. of Florida said the bill is grossly inadequate since the limit does not cover flyers, billboards, telephone, postage and other campaign expenses.

"It's a lousy bill," said Frey. "They (Democrats) wanted to do it badly enough so the president has to veto it and then they can say he doesn't want campaign reform."

Frey said that unless the bill is vastly improved through amendment on the House floor, "I assume the President would veto it."

The highest transcontinental railroad track in North America is 10,221 feet at Tennessee Pass, COLO.

Probe Of C5A Engine Failure Being Requested

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A congressman says the Pentagon delayed the news that an engine had fallen off a C5A cargo plane until after the Senate passed a bill containing $472 million for the controversial aircraft.

The Air Force said Wednesday it had grounded seven of the huge planes after an engine fell off a C5A as it was being taxied on the runway at Altus Air Force Base, Okla., a week ago.

Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., asserted the disclosure was delayed until a $21 billion weapons authorization bill was "safely through the Senate." He said he would ask the General Accounting Office to conduct a technical audit of the plane, which is the world's largest, and at $60 million each, the most expensive.

But Air Force officials denied the delay was due to the Senate debate, which ended Wednesday. They said the incident was publicized in Oklahoma when it happened and that they waited to put out a formal announcement at the Pentagon until they had some information.
